A battle-royal in the second period enlivened the game. Mimico's Johnny Hewitt and Toronto's Pat Depippo drew major penalties and Chuck Simpson of the Mounties got a match misconduct when the trouble ended.

Hastings Triumphs

HASTINGS, June 8—(ENS)—Hastings Legion made it two games to none in Hastings in their exhibition series with Norwood Combines, taking them 10-8. West started on the mound for Hastings and after giving up two runs held them scoreless for the next three innings, when he was replaced by Crawley.

Crawley pitched fine ball being touched for only three hits, but some loose playing behind him kept Norwood in the game.

Fife was top batter with four for four, one of them a homer, while Richardson was next with three for five.

Payne started for Norwood but he was taken out for Richardson in the seventh.

They got four in the first on two goals by Jay and one each by Ketcheson and Robertson, an assist apiece going to Anthony and Ketcheson. The latter added one in the second, with Jay, Ferguson and Kelly counting, Davis and Ketcheson each aiding on one. Jay and Kelly scored again in the third with Pace and Roberts assisting. Petes got three then by Ferguson, Barrie and Kent, Hawthorne helping once. Ferguson got their fourth next heat from Davis, as Pace tallied for the winners from Jay and Anthony scored on a solo effort. Nine penalties were handed out. Teams:

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Dusky Charlie Justice blazes in a pitch that few batters can touch and only a capable catcher can hold. The big twirler for Tip Tops threw 33 scoreless innings in the tournament last fall when his team won the world's senior softball title deep in the southern States. They're a tip top outfit, alright, as fans will see at 8.30 tonight in the Bowl when they play Russelle's all-star local squad. Proceeds to aid minor ball in the city. Russelle will have Justice and catcher Lennie Gaull on his team, we're told, to make for more of an even exhibition. Given good weather, the park ought to be packed for this attraction.

The PMBA-ers also get a break this season by having a paid full-time coach to teach 'em baseball daily through July and August. Danny Brown, smart shortstop for the Petes—a Buffalo product—is paid by the senior club for the job, and he'll be on duty from 10 a.m. to noon and 2.00 p.m. to 4.00 each day, except Saturday and Sunday, to teach the infielders mornings and the pitchers and outfielders afternoons. Peewees on Monday, bantams next day, midgets on Wednesday and juveniles Thursday. Games or rained-out drills on Fridays. Senior club is doing this to help minor ball as well as to keep faith with the Recreation Commission as part of the bargain in getting floodlights.

Try To Trump Aces

Incidentally, the Toronto Aces play the Petes at three this afternoon—weather being okay—in a Viaduct Major League encounter. Ought to be a nifty tilt as this loop is serving up some first-class baseball now, and fans are seeing a lot of new players, most of them quite good at their job. A far better setup than the COBL of recent years, a circuit that has deteriorated terribly. Oshawa and the Petes were wise in pulling out, and they're both doing well so far in the Toronto loop. Locals are at home next Wednesday, away on Friday and back here 'gainst Oshawa next Saturday again.

An item in the Ottawa Journal concerns the wearing of trade names on sweaters and ball blouses. It's got to be quite a habit, with softball particularly going in for that sort of thing. You're liable to see "Harrison's Used Cars" or "The Dutchman's Hamburgers" emblazoned on the front of some skinny guy's shirt as he steps up to the plate, with the ad-inclined sponsor wishing the manager would pick players with chests like a pro grappler. Naturally, we prefer a short name—the proper team name—and the player's number on the back. Hence, when an ump mumbles: "Jahalahremedial batting for Henochalty" or some such, you can look at the number and jot down: "Jamieson in for Hennessy."

But It's Only Money

The London, Ont., columnist says: "These are days of booming sport salaries and bankrupt promoters. So we got quite a bang out of a story from Troon, Scotland, which said that Johnny Bulla, the fine Pittsburg pro, collected the grand total of 15 pounds ($46.50) for leading the qualifying round in the British Open. These Scots are canny folk. They pay their pro soccer players $30 a week, even if they do pack in crowds of from 20,000 to 100,000 every Saturday. Before any native Scots write in objecting to these comments, we should caution them to save the postage. We were born their ourself." He adds that the jockey who won the big Japanese Derby got less than $30, so it seems they don't pamper paid athletes everywhere as they do on this continent.

First a famine, then a feast, that was the score for Marines in the girls' softball double-header at the Bowl yester gloaming. One Ruth Boyce of CGE was stingy with hits in the opener to down the Outboards with an 8-2 plunk. But the Mariners came roaring back in the nightcap to shrink the Woollens with a 13-5 rub. Not bad ball most of the way at all, but the fans haven't been turning out for these tussles in any great numbers. How do they expect the lasses to pay for the upkeep of the floodlights? Two more frays on Monday—and the schedule is nearly over—with CGE meeting Woollens, followed by Ashby's vs. Marines.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Batting—Ralph Kiner, Pirates, drove in three runs with single and 23rd homer as Pirates stopped St. Louis' seven-game win streak, 9-1.

Pitching—Ted Gray, Tigers, joined 10-win club with four-hit job against Cleveland, 5-2.

Weslock Edges Gerry Kesselring

TORONTO, July 8 —(CP)— A steady shotmaker from Windsor is the last man who has to be convinced of Kitchener's amateur golf supremacy in Ontario.

But Nick Weslock will take a lot of convincing, off his performance in Friday's semi-finals.

The only non-Kitchener golfer to reach the semi-finals in this year's Ontario amateur at the Toronto Golf Club, Weslock picked on the kingpin of the Kitchener Rockway Club—defending champion Gerry Kesselring, and knocked him off 4 and 3.

In the second bracket, Tony Matlock disposed of clubmate Moe Norman by the same score, to qualify for the second final berth.

Kesselring, over par for the first three holes against Weslock, never had a chance to recover. An eagle three gave Nick a four-stroke lead at the turn and the Windsor golfer matched Kesselring's one-under-par game for the remaining six holes.

Grant & Loucks Win

Grant and Loucks took a 4-2 civic softball win over the Foresters last night, though outhit 10 to 7, in a fine fixture. They scored three in the first inning and added one in the sixth. The losers counted one in the fourth and another in the seventh. Chenier and Thompson had two hits each for the victors, while Walling, Doughty and Collins collected two apiece for the other squad. Teams:

Foresters: Parnell, Collins, Doughty, Tyndall, Reid, Walling, Humphries, Daniels, Hobson.

Grant and Loucks: Chenier, Craig, Thompson, Dracup, Smith, Brown, Holland, Gauthier, Birch.

Gray Leads Detroit Tigers To Important 5-2 Victory

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Remember when Curt Simmons was "the $65,000 bonus bust"? and Ted Gray was just Art Houtteman's roomie? Now they're the surprise pitchers of baseball.

Where would the Phillies be without Simmons' 10 wins? or Detroit with Gray's 10?

Simmons got his big chance when manager Eddie Sawyer searched for another starter. He gave the young lefthander a turn. The bonus baby, only 21, still was wild but he made up for that with a whizzing strikeout pitch.

With Ken Heintzelman still groping for his second victory and Russ Meyer just beginning to hit his stride; the Phils would be bumping around in the second division of the National League if Simmons hadn't made good. Now, after Simmons win over Brooklyn, they're tied for the lead with St. Louis.

Same story with Gray. For years the Tigers waited for the southpaw to tame his wildness. He came up with Houtteman but Art zoomed ahead while Ted struggled for control.

Makes Grade

Gray's role became all-important to manager Red Rolfe when Virgil Trucks, his strikout ace, came up with a sore arm in mid-May. A heavy burden fell on Gray and he responded like a champion. Four of his 10 wins were scored against the powerful Boston Red Sox.

Cleveland became his 10th victim Friday night when he let down the Indians with four hits, 5-2. It was an important victory in the opener of a big American League series with the onrushing Tribe.

A crowd of 55,145 saw Gray whip Bobby Feller to keep the Tigers 3½ games ahead of New York, which downed Boston, 5-2.

Gray made manager Lou Boudreau, pinch hitting for Feller, hit into a double play with the bases loaded in the seventh. He struck out Al Rosen and forced Ike Boone to hit into a game-ending double play in the ninth.

Washington shelled Bob Hooper, who had beaten them three straight, for 16 hits en route to a 7-5 win over Philadelphia A's.

Chicago and St. Louis split a twilight - night doubleheader. Dave Philley's two-run homer in the seventh gave the White Sox a 5-2 decision in the first game. Owen Friend's 10th-inning single won the 4-3 second game for St. Louis. The split moved the Browns into a seventh-place tie with the A's.

Tie For Lead

With Simmons notching his 10th success, the Phils knotted the National League race. They whipped Brooklyn 7-2 and Pittsburgh snapped St. Louis' seven-game win streak, 9-1. As a result the Phils and Cardinals are tied for the lead.

Pittsburgh flattened Jerry Staley with a six-run blast in the first inning while 20-year-old Vernon Law went the route for his first big league victory. Ralph Kiner touched up reliefer Fred Martin for his 23rd homer with a man on in the second.

Johnny Sain, overlooked in the all-star picking, became the first big leaguer to hit the 12-win mark as Boston Braves subdued New York, 8-2.

Connie Ryan stole home on Johnny Vandermeer in the 11th inning for Cincinnati's 5-4 edge over Chicago. It was the only day game.

—Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Boston Red Sox paid a reported $2,900 to the minor-league Providence club for rookie pitcher George Herman Ruth 36 years ago today. Five years later, the Red Sox sold the Babe to New York Yankees for $125,000. The Yankees shifted him to the outfield, where he became the greatest home-run hitter of all times.

Mimico Gains OLA Win Over Juniors

Mimico and Peterborough squared off in a spirited junior lacrosse match at Miller Bowl last evening before the season's largest crowd, and though the locals absorbed an 18-11 defeat, many fans were satisfied the boys are steadily improving and will be a potent factor in their OLA group. It was a clean, exciting game throughout.

Mountaineers took an early lead of four goals within 10 minutes of the first quarter before Peterborough clicked. The margin proved good insurance later as the locals made it a slam-bang battle in the final 45 minutes, and with a few breaks might have scored several more tallies than the summary shows. Though Mounties led 5-1 in the first session, Lou Vitarelli's boys really fought hard to outplay and outscore them in the second. Mimico came strong again in the third quarter, with the fourth about even. Their passing plays were clicking nicely.

Both goalies turned in some good work, despite the score. Sandford was outstanding with five goals and an assist, closely followed by McNeil and Hodson with three apiece. Whitnell led the locals with five, while Heffernan, G. Robinson and Batley each added three to their season's total, with every man trying hard.

The teams:

Mimico—Goal, Mitchell; defence, Baragar, Lubbock; centre, Knox; wings, Hodson, Meeke; rover, Sandford; alternates, McNeil, Miller, Riley, McKay, Major, Rock, Callow, Lowe.

Red Wings Edge Maple Leafs 7-4 In Ninth

By The Associated Press.

Don Bollweg, rookie first baseman with Rochester Red Wings is handling a difficult assignment more than adequately.

Bollweg, up from Houston of the Texas League, opened the season at first base for Rochester but when husky Steve Bilko was returned by the parent St. Louis Cardinals Bollweg was sidetracked.

When Bilko suffered a severe bruise on his left forearm recently, Bollweg was reinstated and he is making the most of his second opportunity.

Bollweg, flailing away at a .355 clip, has driven in 22 runs on 27 hits. He never hit as much as .300 in any of his previous five seasons in the Cardinal organization.

The strapping six-footer pounded out a homer, double and single and drove in three runs Friday night to help the pace-setting Wings down Toronto Maple Leafs 7-4.

Dick Cole also homered for the Wings and Bud Heslet and Billy Glynn for Toronto.

Score Tied

The Wings entered the ninth with the score tied 4-4. Del Wilber tripled to open the frame and Jocko Thompson relieved Buzz Bowers. Thompson fanned pinch-hitters Bilko and Larry Caiffone. He then walked Don Richmond. Hal Rice topped a slow bounder toward first in foul territory with catcher Vince Plumbo and Thompson after it. Suddenly the ball bounced and landed in Plumbo's glove in fair ground. Wilber scored and Rice was safe as Glynn who also ran in, left first base unprotected. Bollweg followed with his game-clinching double.

Baltimore Orioles outslugged Jersey City Giants 11-10 to take over second place in the International League from the Giants. The Orioles trail the Wings by three games.

Baltimore pulled the game out [illegible] a two-run rally in the ninth [illegible]ng.

Ge.s Two Homers

Ben Guintini smacked two homers for the Orioles and Chet Laabs and Stan Jok one each for the Giants.

Springfield Cubs broke a four-game losing streak by taking two games from Syracuse Chiefs, 4-3 and 13-1. The triumphs enabled the Cubs to regain fifth place from the Chiefs.

Springfield won the opener with a three run rally in the sixth inning and breezed home in the nightcap. Ransom Jackson drove home five runs in the second game, four on a grand slam homer.

The last place Buffalo Bisons edged the Montreal Royals 2-1 in an 11-inning thriller. Al Stringer doubled home Hank Biasatti with two down to break up the game.

Charmion King Heads Cast In Third Play

No Time For Comedy by S. N. Behrman, opening Monday night in the Queen Mary School auditorium will be the Peterborough Summer Theatre's third production of the season.

Although a comedy like Harvey and this week's Dream Girl, it will be more satirical. It deals with the problems of a young playwright and his actress wife.

Heading the cast will be Charmion King, a newcomer to the Peterborough stage and William Hutt, Dr. Chumley the psychiatrist in Harvey.

Miss King was a star in John Pratt's show There Goes Yesterday, a revue which had a smash run in Toronto last winter. She was also a star with the Strawhat Players in Gravenhurst last summer.

Old friends of Peterborough audiences, Gerry Sarracini and Frank Perry, will take supporting roles. Barbara Hamilton and Betty Lee who were both in Harvey, round out the cast.

No Time For Comedy is a sophisticated satire which gets its humor from biting phrases and sparkling dialogue.

The plot revolves around the attempts of a married woman to take over the education of the young playwright. She has decided only she is capable of developing his talents to the fullest.

Dramatic Club Gives $200 For Ball Lights

WARKWORTH, July 8 (ENS) The Warkworth Dramatic Club which was organized last December presented the play "Closed Lips" in Warkworth, Colborne, Roseneath and Norwood. The play was well received and out of the proceeds of these presentations the sum of $200 was given to the Warkworth Business Men's Association to aid in the installation of the lights on the ball park.

The club also sent a donation of $35 to the Campbellford Hospital Fund and have received their official receipt.

The members and guests held a banquet at Woodlawn, Campbellford followed by a theatre party, which brought the activities of the club to a close for the season.

Weather Offices Provide Broad Variety of Services

By CAMERON JAMES

TORONTO, July 8 —(CP)— Calgary police phoned the forecast office there recently to find out if the weather was going to warm up.

"The prisoners are complaining about the cold and we want to know whether we should light a fire or not," the policeman explained.

Every day in the year forecast offices of the Dominion Transport Department's meteorological division are called upon to perform many such special services in addition to their forecasts every six hours for use in the newspapers and over the radio.

Some of these services are of vital importance to many persons —others have a restricted usefulness.

Montreal's Dorval weather office supplies humidity data to a manufacturer of shop-window mannequins who has found that high humidity adversely affects the retention of the liquid wax sprayed on the dummy frames.

Builder's Problem

A builder at Owen Sound, phoned the Toronto weather last winter and asked to be notified whenever the weatherman could assure a 36-hour period of above-freezing temperatures. He wanted to pour concrete.

Commercial gas producing concerns, chain groceterias, steel companies, shipbuilders, flour mills and bakeries, banks, travel agencies, dairies, hosiery mills and breakfast cereal producers ask and receive special forecasts and climatic data.

In addition to the short-term, special and unscheduled requests —which are the categories into which all of the foregoing fall— some 450 marine and inland forecasts are issued each day by public weather offices in Canada.

Aid Fire Rangers

During the summer season, 70 fire-hazard forecasts are issued daily in connection with forest fire prevention. In winter, transportation forecasts—both road and rail—replace the fire hazard forecasts.

Through telegraph companies a regular bulletin is provided to shippers of perishable commodities. These people are primarily interested in a 48-hour forecast—a request well within the scope of the weather service. They want to know the forecast temperatures for a large number of rail and road points in Canada and the United States. With the help of this information heating, icing or ventilation of cars can be ordered from the railway in advance.

Marine forecasts are issued each day on both coasts and on the Great Lakes. Essentially similar to inland forecasts, they give particular attention to winds and visibility.

Complex Work

The aviation weather service is a complex business. It includes routine aviation forecasts, operational forecasts, pilot briefing, dispatcher service, airway traffic control officers and other special forecasts. In addition federal meteorologists are assigned for special duties with all three branches of the armed services.

Another climatological service makes use of weather records collected over a period of years to forecast future weather. For instance, would-be settlers in the northern areas are keenly interested in information on rainfall, duration of frost and so on, in order to tell them what crops to plant, when to plant them and what yields to expect.

Some of these records have been collected over a period of anywhere from 40 to 100 years. Data derived from these will tell what is "normal" weather to be expected during a specific length of time.

Post Card Mail Very Heavy; Open Offices

Post cards destined for American cities have dominated the mail at the local post office for the past week. Postmaster Harold White said today that over the holiday weekend the American and some Canadian tourists in the Kawartha area "loaded down" the office with cards.

The steady flow of cards continues throughout the summer he added. On the July 1 and July 4 holidays the post card at the local office reaches its peak. Over the Labor day weekend the cards once more rise slightly in number but the numbers drop off rapidly

Several summer post offices have been opened to handle the mail throughout the lake area The mail posted at the McCracken's Landing, Kawartha Park and Juniper Island offices is handled through the Peterborough office Mail at Katchacoma goes through the Lakefield office. A new post office was opened this summer at Jack's Lake to look after the increasing amount of mail. These cards and letters are dispatched through Apsley. Eventually all the lake mail reaches the Peterborough office.

Cards destined for cities in Ohio by far lead the way. Other States, New York, Michigan, and Pennsylvania are next in line.

Moses Gives Up Life Of Ease To Lead People To Freedom

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Moses stands as the typical liberator and leader, not only of Israel, but of all history. And as liberator and leader, though he shares this particular fame with others, he stands as a law-giver, establishing codes and principles for the orderly life and welfare of men in society.

That is greatness enough, but upon what factors of incident and character was such greatness established?

The first incident is the one dear to every child, the babe in the little basket of bulrushes and tar, discoverd by Pharoah's daughter, the child of affection and the palace, though nursed covertly upon his own mother's milk (Exodus 2:7-10).

Who knows what divine machinery may have been in that mother's milk? In any case the child, grown man, refused to be called the son of Pharoah's daughter, choosing rather to suffer the affliction of his own people (Hebrews 11::23-25).

Here was the first indication of true greatness, and the first step toward a great career—the setting of principle, and devotion to a people and a cause, above self-interest and the alluring life of ease and power in a palace. A selfish man may become powerful, but he can never be truly great.

The next step was the promptness with which Moses put this devotion to his people into action. His choice was not one of theory or aloofness, but of definite commitment to a cause. His first action, in siding with a fellow Israelite, and killing an Egyptian in what might have been a private quarrel, may have been an act of impulsivenss and of poor strategy, for it compelled him to escape for his life. He discovered, too, that all Jews were not as loyal to their own people as himself.

But that action in killing the Egyptian, however doubtful in itself, left no doubt regarding Moses' capacity for action, and the completeness of his devotion to the cause of his distressed and enslaved people.

An element in Moses, not always associated with greatness in men, was his modesty, his distrust in himself and in his own abilities, that led him to lean upon God, and that gave him strength only in the assurance that God was sending him to his task.

What it all led to is well known —the achievement of Moses in freeing his people from bondage, and leading them through the troubled years of the wilderness. Those troubles were due mainly to the lack of faith, vision, and courage on the part of so many of the people. What might be possible for a people, if all had the faith, vision, and courage of their greatest leaders!

The Inside Dope

What Mosquito Planning This Summer

By JIM ENGLISH

The department of health notwithstanding, mosquitos of Peterborough and district have planned a large summer for themselves. Without breaking a confidence, it may be said that this information comes from a seldom reliable but usually interesting source.

A skeleton outline of their plans would go something like this, according to our information.

1—Lie doggo in late spring and early summer;

2—partake of healthy diet;

3—having conserved energy by spring hibernation swoop down on unsuspecting citizens in middle of summer.

How this information came along is like this..

How it Happened

We were walking past a dark alley one evening this week, when a gentle "hisst" like a locomotive blowing off steam halted us in mid-step.

An old fellow with a black cigar and a straw hat peered out of the alleyway.

"Anybody around?" He glared up and down the street like a movie serial villain and beckoned us into the alleyway with a grimy finger. Game to the end, we stepped in and he grabbed an arm, leading the way into the darkest part of the alley.

"Have I got a story for you!" he crowed, coughing gently as he choked on the fumes of his cigar, the breeze of his cough wafting toward us the savor of one of Ontario's better quality shaving lotions.

On a pile of broken bottles (alcohol, for external application) he sat, rubbing his hands and smiling. Afraid he would burst with pleasure before he told his story, we asked him how he enjoyed his trip down the Otonabee.

"Oh, that. Got a little helmet I pulled on. Secret, though. Can't tell a soul." His nose glowed trustingly as he spoke. "Got a terrific story. Shake this town right apart. I got an inside line on what the mosquitoes are planning this summer. You're m'only friend. Can't trust another soul."

He turned a flashlight on his arm, and we could see perhaps a hundred nestlings there. They were quiet, and had none of the qualities common in other mosquitoes from this district. They didn't seem hungry at all.

He hissed between his teeth, and pulled a bottle out of his pocket. We said no thanks, but he poured a little on the ground, hissed again, and the mosquitoes all took off and landed in the fluid, which they sucked on happily.

"Insect repellent," he said, smiling.

Can Trust a Mosquito

"They tell me things," he said. "You can trust a mosquito. They don't fool like people. Told me they're just waiting a good chance to knock off a boxcar loaded with this repellent. Then they'll have enough strength to carry on until the middle of summer. That's when they're going to pull their big stunt.

"Gonna come out of hibernation and bite everybody in sight. Won't be a place to hide. Gonna bite everybody." He chuckled nastily.

Then he hissed again and the mosquitoes returned to his arm. He took our arm again and led us out into the evening street. The moon was bright, and the street lights were on.

He bid us a fond goodbye and with his cigar gripped jauntily between his teeth, started to cross the road. A truck, about five ton, veered across the road and punted him cleanly through a drugstore window.

We figured it was one of his friends.

SOME SNAPPY NUMBERS have been gathered in the Otonabee River this week by a party of Ohio turtle hunters. Coming to the same spot near Wallace's Point for the past four years, they already have 15 turtles, and will take them back home to fatten and eat. Some of the ugly brutes are shown in UPPER LEFT, while a 25-pounder, UPPER RIGHT, leers into the camera. Three of the hunters with prize specimens, LOWER, LEFT to RIGHT, are William Longanecker of Washingtonville, O., his son Billy and Charles Ingledue of Letonia.

County Rebuilds Four Bridges Cost Be $171,000

By late fall four bridges will have been rebuilt in Peterborough county at a total cost of about $17,000.

One of them, the Jack Stewart bridge on the 11th concession of Otonabee, is about half finished. Work will soon begin on the other three—one in Otonabee, another in Smith, and th third in Galway.

The Jack Stewart bridge of reinforced concrete will cost about $2,000. Already the footings have been poured and the walls are partly finished. Another two weeks and the bridge will probably be open for traffic.

Actually it is a township project being done by county workmen under the supervision of Jack Kean, county engineer and road superintendent. Otonabee will be billed for the cost of reconstruction.

The second Otonabee bridge is a county project costing about $4,500. It is known as the Base Line bridge and runs through a swamp on concession 8. The construction will be of culverts and fill.

The most expensive of the four is the rebuilding of the McManus bridge on the 3rd concession of Smith. This is also of culvert and fill construction and will run through a swamp. The cost will be about $6,000.

Similar to the Jack Stewart bridge in Otonabee the Molyneaux bridge in Galway township will be of reinforced concrete. It is located on concession 11 and will cost $4,600 to be rebuilt.

Report Good Catches Of Pickerel, Lunge

CAMPBELLFORD, July 8 — (ENS)—Good catches of pickerel and 'lunge are reported from many of the resorts in the Campbellford area. Quite a few 'lunge have been taken both in Bradley Bay, below the town, and in Crowe River north of the town. No extra large 'lunge are reported but a few have weighed in at 18 to 20 pounds. Pickerel seem to be more plentiful this year, and American tourists are quite happy with their luck.

Of 18 automobiles parked in a single block in the business section on Friday afternoon, 11 bore American licence plates.

Given Decoration

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman Friday invested Martin Quigley, originator of the motion picture production code regulating the moral and social content of films, with the insignia of the Order of St. Gregory the Great. The decoration recently was conferred upon Quigley by the Pope.

Day's Extension Level Houses City Hall Site

Contract for wrecking houses on the site of the new city hall was extended one day, and will expire today, it was learned Friday. The contract was set to expire Friday at noon, but Murney Howe, Picton contractor, gained a day's grace for his men.

The agreement called for Mr. Howe to have all buildings down and all foundations filled to ground level within a month after evacuation of the last house.

Wreckers have almost completed the work, and are now dismantling the last of the houses — the old MacPherson house on the northwest corner of Water and Murray street.

Bricks and wood from the houses are being sold at varying rates to hopeful builders, who have gathered in crowds around the site every evening.

Mr. Howe said he wasn't charging any set price for the bricks and wood — "It depends on the quality," he said.

Garage Footings Poured

Footing for the garage of the new city hall have been poured—the first part of the new buildings. Premier Leslie Frost is supposed to lay the foundation stone, but it is not known when he will be able to do it.

"That all depends on the progress," city clerk E. A. Outram said Friday.

Parking Meters Placed In Additional Blocks

Peterborough isn't going to lose any money by taking parking meters out from around downtown corners.

The 35 legalized bandits were simply moved to a new stand on two blocks of George St. between King St. and Dalhousie St. and are still doing a roaring business.

Turtle Hunting on Otonabee Real Sport for Ohio Men

By NICK NICKELS

Not all American tourists come to the Peterborough district to hunt, fish and sight-see. Four from Ohio, William and Billy Langanecker and Larry and Charles Ingledue find sport in turtle hunting. They have been coming to Wallace's Point on the Otonabee River for the past four years and during that time have taken out more than 40 of these ugly critters to the great satisfaction of Herb. Cardwell. "They are death on ducks and small sport fish, said he, "and they should be cleaned out entirely from our waters."

On Thursday afternoon the Ohio hunters had 15 specimens either in their stake truck crate or tethered to the shoreline with lengths of strong wire pierced through their shells. They caught them by baited hook but in their home State, they feel along under the banks of streams for them with their bare hands. And they have a few scars to prove it.

Once Put in Swill Barrel

The largest snapper they have taken weighed more than 25 pounds. Last year they snagged a 52-pounder, the largest that has been reported in the area. People in southern Ohio, they say, are very fond of turtle meat and soup. The rivers and brackish lakes down there have been hunted so industriously, that six-pounders are considered large. Naturally, they are delighted with the large Otonabee variety and the quantity of them that are there for the taking.

Snappers they have caught will be taken alive to their home town where they will be killed, dressed and the meat fast frozen. A turtle produces half its weight in good flesh. It is easier to prepare than chicken, the experts say. Head and strong claws are cut off and the scaly skin severed from the upper shell-carapace and the lower shell, or plastron, with a sharp knife. The shells are joined by a bony cartilage or bridge which has to be disjoined with a heavy knife or hacksaw. There are two strips of tenderloin meat in the roof of the carapace which is considered a great delicacy. Meat is boiled until it falls from the bones and the stock is basis for delicious soup. It sells in some American restaurants for 50 cents a bowl; it is estimated that a 25-pound turtle has a soup-sale value of $37.50, or $1.50 per pound.

Longanecker and Ingledue do not sell turtle meat but use some themselves and give away quantities of it to fish and game clubs for banquet delicacies.

Preparing them for food is unchanged but before the day of quick-freezing meat, turtles were kept alive for months in farm swill barrels. It was said that "they kept the flies down" and that in the process of eating swill and flies, became as fat as "hawgs." Perish the thought. After several months of this feeding, flesh was considered at the best for eating.

The easy manner in which they handle these vicious critters is wonderful and creepy, to behold. With bare hands and arms darting into a crate one expects at any moment for them to cry out and withdraw an arm with a snapper fastened to it.

The general opinion of onlookers who watched them was, "Turtles may be delicious, and all that, but they can have it. We'll stick to fishing, for fish."

Gas Truck Upset In Cavan

CAVAN, July 8—(ENS)—A quick-thinking driver shut off the ignition of his overturned gasoline truck Friday afternoon and so avoided a possible explosion.

Keith White, of Aylmer St., was driving a Cities Service Oil Co. truck west through the village when he met an eastbound Quaker Oats truck. As the Department of Highways is resurfacing that road, only a narrow lane is open for through traffic. Gravel is piled along the roadside.

White was crowded over to the soft shoulder and his heavy vehicle rolled over on its side in the ditch.

Immediately gasoline began to pour from the overturned truck, but White shut off his ignition and thus avoided a possible serious fire or explosion.

Neither driver was hurt and there was little damage to the truck.

MONTREAL, July 8 —(CP)— Senator Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard, sailed Friday aboard the Empress of France to make final arrangements in Britain to assume office early in 1951 as high sheriff of Montgomeryshire. Senator Davies said his name had been on a list for the office for some time but he had been unable to make arrangements before now.

Refreshments booths will be on the grounds and meals will be served in several places. In the evening a dance will be held in the town hall.

Shorts, Halters And Sun Dresses Appear Revealing Vast Areas Of Bare Skin

By BOB HATTON

Vast areas of bare skin have turned sober Peterborough's streets into a scene more like the old swimming hole, where bathing suits were unknown, than a city.

Shorts, halters and sun dresses blossom with the sun. And not many of the wearers look much like magazine fashion ads.

Men and women, scrawny and bulging, without hesitation climb into shorts and swagger about unconcerned as a three-year-old youngster who has lost his bathing suit.

Girls and matronly women walk about wearing skimpy clothes, which a few years ago would only have been seen in a burlesque theatre. And no one is scandalized.

But it looks as if the "off with the clothes movement" is something more than a fad. When the mercury starts climbing, people begin to get practical. Becoming or not, skimpy clothing is cool.

Sight Doubtful

"We can't say just yet whether she will retain the sight of the eye." That is the comment of a Hospital for Sick Children staff member of Carolyn Yeo, 5, New Romaine st., struck in the eye by a rock Thursday night. She was playing in her aunt's backyard in Oshawa when struck by the rock hurled by another child some distance away. Last week her 10-year-old sister Dianne, returned from the Toronto hospital after a plastic surgery operation on her face. Dianne was struck by a car when 18 months old.

Indian, 30, Gets Six Months On 34 Charges

LINDSAY, July 8.—A 30-year-old Indian was sentenced to six months definite and two months indefinite by Magistrate Philp on Friday, after pleading guilty to 34 separate charges of breaking, entry and in many cases theft in summer cottages in the Lindsay district.

Cottages at Sturgeon Lake, Lake Scugog and the Beaverton district had been entered and numerous articles taken since last January. The accused was arrested by P. C. McCartney of Lindsay and turned over to the OPP, while the charges were investigated. Yesterday, the charges were laid in a total of five informations, each information covering one or more cases Arrest followed the discovery of a canoe reported stolen from Mr. Hancock of Lindsay. The canoe was located south of Lindsay on Lake Scugog. J. Armstrong, who lives on the Scugog river, reported to the police that he had seen an Indian in the canoe on the river and that he was very drunk when he pulled up at his place.

Admitted Thefts

The accused admitted the thefts and told police the hiding place of the stolen articles. Included in the stolen articles were a camera, portable radio, flashlight, 19 bottles of beer, fishing tackle, candy, shirts, shoes, cigarettes, razor, shaving cream, canned milk binoculars, swimming trunks, shoes, fishing plugs, rubber boots and ammunition.

CUTS WRIST

Cranking his car Friday night, Patrick Griffin, 376 Dublin St., cut his wrist badly and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where several stitches were taken to close the wound.

Pt. Hope To Build $100,000 Filtration Plant

PORT HOPE, July 8—A new $100,000 water filtration plant will be built in Port Hope following the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board of the new plant on June 29.

This information was not given out officially. But yesterday Commissioner Bisset confirmed the rumour that approval of the new plant had been received from the Municipal Board.

Neither the local Water Commission nor the town council had taken the trouble to give out the news although approval was given about 10 days ago.

The decision of whether the town's water-users will have to spend $100,000 for the new unit is now up to the council. However the town's residents are already paying a 26 per cent. raise in the water costs. The day after the approval was given by the Municipal Board, bills with this increased rate dating back to April 1, were mailed out to Port Hope homes.

Study Calm Lives Of British Women

LONDON —(CP)— Representatives of eight countries are trying to find out how British housewives keep calm while running their homes.

Officials and social workers from the eight countries are putting the London suburb of Bethnal Green under the microscope at the invitation of the British Council.

To get to know the housewives, visitors will visit persons who know them already; accompany th milkman on his round; "work" in neighborhood stores and assist town clerks. Wherever they go, they will ask questions.

Every evening the investigators will return to their headquarters to compare notes.

The eight countries involved are Denmark, Egypt, Finland, France, Northern Rhodesia, The Philippines, Sweden and the United States.

Unwed Mothers Shameless—Vicar

KIDDERMINSTER, Worcestershire, England —(CP)— Things are being made too easy for unmarried mothers, says Canon R. B. Jolly, Vicar of Kidderminster.

"The state has made it easier for an unmarried mother to have her child, but it does not touch the all-important matter of the girl's redemption," said the vicar.

"Illegitimate children, once an encumbrance to the mother, now get 36s. ($5.57) a week maternity allowance," he said.

The vicar is especially interested in unmarried mothers of 15 and 16. In his opinion, these girls have no sense of shame.

A welfare worker told a moral welfare committee that one unmarried mother had said to her:

"'Why should we be blamed for producing babies for those who can't'"

"This sense of pride in having produced a beautiful baby is not making our work of redemption any easier," said the canon.

Cardinal Opposes Women In Politics

LONDON, (CP). — Cardinal Griffin, Archbishop of Westminster, believes women would do far better if they concentrated on community affairs than they would if elected to parliament.

Addressing members of the Roman Catholic Women's League at their Holy Year rally in Albert Hall, the Cardinal said women's first consideration should be the home. It would be difficult for them to carry out that ideal if they were burdened by parliamentary duties.

He was also opposed to mothers of young families going out to work.

"Their place is in the home," he said. "But to those women who work outside the home, I suggest they join a trade union, attend the meetings and make their influence felt."

Social work, teaching, nursing, mid-wifery and medicine offered important opportunities. But whatever their job, women could play their part as Roman Catholics and he urged them to protest vigorously against any laws tending to weaken or destroy family life.

Leahy-Greenan

Present in the sanctuary were Rt. Rev Monsignor P. P. Butler, Rev. Joseph Walsh, Rev. Joseph Lynch and Rev. Charles Kay.

The bride, gowned in white and carrying red roses, was attended by her sister Miss Katherine Greenan of Barrie, dressed in mauve and carrying a muff of matching asters.

The groom's attendant was his brother, Mr. Philip Leahy of London, Ontario, and ushers were John F. Greenan, Toronto, and Frank Leahy, Douro.

Soloist was Miss Helen Hajnik of Peterborough and wedding music was played by Miss Ruth Shannon.

Five Million Dollar "Thank You" for Food Parcels

SOLID APPRECIATION of 75,000,000 food parcels received since the outbreak of World War II is planned by Britain. It is a 1,000-roomed residence for students from the U.S.A. and countries of the British Commonwealth, senders of the parcels, and it is the main item to be paid for by a drive for public funds launched by the Lord Mayor of London through the length and breadth of Britain for the equivalent of $5,600,000. Covering some 17 acres, the residence will be in the heart of London, near London University. Top: Drawing of part of the residence. Married and women students will be housed on the left, and men on the right. Right: Bomb-shattered houses to be pulled down to make way for part of the new building.

Husband, Wife Team Work For U.N. 3,500 Miles Apart

By MAX HARRELSON

LAKE SUCCESS—(CP)— The United Nations has a husband-and-wife team that is different.

Instead of sitting at the breakfast table together every morning, the Swedish couple, Gunnar and Alva Myrdal, usually have breakfast on opposite sides of the Atlantic.

As executive secretary of the Economic Commission for Europe Gunner Myrdal operates from Geneva as the UN's top economic expert in Europe. Mrs. Myrdal is senior director in the department of social affairs at Lake Success. She is the highest ranking woman in the UN secretariat.

During the last two years, they have seen each other two or three times a year when official business brought him to the United States or sent her to Geneva. One of these visits comes this summer when Mrs. Myrdal goes to Geneva for a meeting of the economic and social council.

At present, their 22-year-old son, Jan, and their youngest daughter, Kai, 13, are in Geneva with their father. The other daughter, Sisela, 15, is staying with Mrs. Myrdal at her home in Great Neck, NY.

Active Careers

Myrdal now is 52 and Mrs. Myrdal is 48. They first met as students in the University of Stockholm and have been married 26 years. Both have had active careers which often called for travel abroad.

When he joined the UN in 1947, Myrdal was Swedish minister of commerce and trade. Previously he had served as chairman of the Postwar Economic Planning Commission for Sweden. He also had been a professor at the University of Stockholm and at the postgraduate institute of international studies in Geneva.

Famous Sociologists

Mrs. Myrdal already was known internationally as a sociologist when she joined the UN in 1948. She began her career by taking intensive studies at the University of Stockholm and at Uppsala University in Sweden and studied in London. Leipzig and Geneva.

She once was psychological assistant at Sweden's central prison. Later she founded and directed a training college for nursery school and kindergarten teachers. She also wrote several books on sociology and education.

Mrs. Myrdal served on numerous government commissions in Sweden before entering international work on a full-time basis.

She was vice-president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women for nine years. She also was Swedish delegate to several UN bodies.

Jobs Similar

Their jobs are similar in one respect: they require a high degree of tact and diplomacy. Myrdal started at scratch and organized the highly intricate system of committees and working groups which operate under the Economic Commission for Europe. His field is entirely economic.

The activities under Mrs. Myrdal are much more varied. They include human rights, freedom of information, status of women, population and penal problems, narcotics, child and family welfare, housing and town and country planning, and the provision of social services to governments.

She also has a heavy load of administrative work. As senior director in her department, she becomes acting head when her chief, Assistant Secretary-General Henri Laugier, is away. Her primary job, however, is to coordinate the work of the various commissions which come under the Department of Social Affairs.

SOROPTIMIST LEADER — Grace L. Nicholls, managing director and secretary of the Toronto Mutual Life Insurance Company, was elected president of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs at the annual meeting in Seattle, Wash., Thursday. A member of the executive board of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association, Miss Nicholls also serves on the Dominion board of the Health League of Canada.

Gracie Fields' Songs, Capers Delight Nostalgic Audience

Gracie Fields, comedienne and singer, on Friday evening gave the last performance of her 1950 Canadian tour for a fair-sized audience in the Peterborough Civic Arena. The English star of stage and screen, who has gained millions of ardent fans during a lengthy career, has, in the past two and a half months given 30 shows in larger cities of the Dominion from Halifax to Victoria. Early next week she will be rehearsing in New York for a television show,—her first.

With probably the most versatile personality of the entertainment world, Miss Fields slips directly from slapstick and near-vulgar into the region of sublimity. It was after her renditions of "The Lord's Prayer" and "Count your blessings" and "Bless this house" that she received loudest applause.

A square of chiffon or lace, matching her gown, is the only prop for her characterizations. It was this marked talent for mimicry that first established Gracie in a solo act, while in her teens. On this program she did take-offs on the Scotch, a Yorkshire lass, a Welshman, an Irishman, and a gum-chewing American woman applying for a divorce. A series of jokes, interspersing her songs, was about the village crackpot. Her "blitz" stories made fun out of near-disasters in the past war.

Two hand-springs across the stage, after she had clowned the classic opera song "My Hero", were followed by the remark "I'm 39—just like Jack Benny. Advertising copy states Miss Fields was born 51 years ago in Rochdale, Lancashire, and has been singing in public since the age of seven.

Here In 1941

Her appearances have been world-wide and many have been for charity and war relief. In 1941 Miss Fields sang in the Peterborough Armouries, on a tour arranged by the Navy League of Canada, but the Kawarthas apparently did not call her very strongly at that time, for she denied having been in the city before.

A local citizen who went backstage to see her at intermission had worked in the same cotton mill at Oldham, Lancashire, though not in the period when Gracie earned her daily bread as a weaver. Several others brought snapshots taken during previous tours and on ship to have them autographed, and one war bride wanted a word with her because she was homesick.

First half of the program was opened with a group of piano selections by the accompanist, Jimmie Bailey. The second half introduced Marguerite Learning, 19-year-old violinist of Niagara Falls, Ontario, who has accompanied Miss Fields throughout this tour. When appearing in Peterborough earlier this year for a concert, Miss Learning was anticipating this "chance of a lifetime" which came true.

Gracie is gifted as a song leader and few remained silent when she called them to join in old favorites. Perhaps 50 per cent of her audience had strong ties with the old land and many eyes were wet as she closed the evening singing with them, "Now is the hour."

"Sailing far across the sea" is exactly what Miss Fields will do very shortly when she goes to her island home in Capri for an extended holiday. There she will be joined by Mr. Bailey and his wife, after he has done some work as BBC pianist. For the past tour, he was equipped to give support in about 60 of Gracie's individual song arrangements, never knowing exactly which ones she would call for in a particular show.

Marriage and Career Easy MP Has Family Co-operation

By KAY REX.

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP)—Combining marriage with a career shouldn't be a problem for any woman as long as she has the co-operation of her family, says Canada's only woman member of the House of Commons. She ought to know.

For the last 15 years slim, good-natured Mrs. Ellen Fairclough has been doing double duty as career woman and housewife.

And in an interview shortly before the recent prorogation of parliament she laid the reason for her success directly at the feet of husband Gordon Fairclough and 18-year-old son Howard.

They helped particularly in the by-election a couple of months ago when she won the seat in Hamilton West for the Progressive Conservatives.

Campaign Manager

Mr. Fairclough who heads a printing company in Hamilton was her campaign manager.

"He looked after printing all the signs," she said.

Even Howard, who is more musically than politically inclined took an active part in his mother's election campaign.

A seat in Parliament was the natural step up for Mrs. Fairclough who runs her own public accountancy firm at home.

Since 1945 she has been a member of Hamilton City Council, first as Alderman and now as Controller.

In addition she is vice-president of the Ontario Provincial Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. And she's immediate past district governor of Zonta International.

None of this would have been possible without the help of her family.

"It's almost impossible for a woman to combine a career with her domestic duties unless she has the complete co-operation of her family."

Mrs. Fairclough feels that fitting business with marriage is a natural desire for many women, particularly for those who led active lives before marriage.

Not Fazed

Being the only woman in Canada's Commons doesn't faze Mrs. Fairclough. She considers herself as "just another member."

She believes too that it's "a lot of nonsense" to think a woman member is "going to set the house on fire," although, on the other hand, she has a special job to do.

She becomes a "sort of catch-all" for women's views across the country

And presenting the views of Canadian women is pretty important, particularly when it's a question of legislation which may affect them.

Do Men Understand Women Or Can Women Fathom Best

Dorothy Dix

A correspondent wants to know whether men understand women better than women understand men, or whether women have a keener line on men than men have on women. Women understand men far better than men understand women. And the reason for this is perfectly obvious.

Since the beginning of time women have been dependent upon men. Men have held women's security, their prosperity, their happiness in their hands, and every good thing a woman got she had to wheedle out of some man. In order to do this she had to be able to read him like a book. She had to study all of his moods and tenses and get wise to his every reaction in order to know how to play upon him as upon a harp of a thousand strings.

But men, being the lords of creation, had no such necessity to study women. Women had to take what they gave them and like it, or lump it. The result is that while every wife has her husband sized up to the last hair of his head, the great majority of husbands never get their wives' measures or have the faintest idea why their spouses act as they do.

Men Never Took Trouble

Of course, the only reason that men don't understand women is because they have never taken the trouble to try to solve the feminine conundrum, but out of this has grown up the myth that there is something occult and mysterious about women that has furnished millions of men with an alibi when they blundered in dealing with sweethearts and wives. When they did something so stupid that it was a crime, they simply shrugged their shoulders and threw up their hands and cried out that nobody could ever tell what a woman would do, and let it go at that.

The fact that few men ever think it worth while to try to find out what makes the wheels go round in a woman's head is a special dispensation of a merciful Providence to women, for it delivers men bound and gagged into their hands. It enables them to put across any kind of propaganda they choose and to make men believe anything they like. It even enables them to hunt a man down to the very foot of the altar without his ever even preceiving that he is being chased.

Women who are on to the arts and wiles of their sex are continually amazed at the ease with which men are fooled by ruses that are so transparent that a blind man should be able to see through them. I doubt if even the cleverest man ever deceived a woman as completely as the silliest little girl does a man. When a girl is taken in by a man, it is because she wants to be misled, not because she didn't really know what he was up to.

They Sin Through Ignorance

The most unfortunate result, however, of men's lack of knowledge of women is found in the domestic relationship, for half of the sins that husbands commit against their wives are done through ignorance, and because the poor blundering dears don't know how to make their wives happy nor even what their wives desire in the way of treatment.

Apparently the average husband never even tries to find the key to his wife's character, or how to work her. Yet it would be money in his pocket and peace in his home if he knew how to put things to her in a way that would make her acquiescent instead of raising a storm, and if he knew generally how to stroke her fur the right way.

Hence we have the sorry spectacle of women who are sour and disgruntled because their husbands never pay them any compliments or tell them that they love them. We see wives who nag because their husbands don't understand that they are asking for a little praise, and wives whose extravagance is just revenge for being neglected. Wives who would rather hav a ten-cen bunch of flowers brought to them by their husbands than to have an unlimited charge account at the most expensive florist.

There are not many women who do not know how to get along with their husbands, and who are no tclever enough to have a specially good dinner before they show a new hat or impart that Aunt Sally is coming for a nice long visit, or who are not perefectly aware of the effect of tears on their husbands, and when it is best to see things and when best to shut their eyes.

When a woman fails to manage her husband it is because she is too lazy to take the trouble to do so, or because she likes a fight. She knows how to do it. But when a man fails to get along diplomatically with his wife it is because he doesn't know how to do it. He has never bothered to try to understand her.

What's Right?

A wife is speaking of her husband.

WRONG: She keeps referring to him as "He."

RIGHT: She refers to him as "my husband" or by his first name.

Stock Markets Reflect War Uncertainty

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Stock markets this week reflected as well as anything the uncertainty of the times.

Uncertainty may not be the word, because the times seem to be shaped. Korea has set certain lines which are not likely to be departed from until we end up, some years hence, with a world government.

But there is uncertainty as to what this considerable process will mean to things as we are accustomed to deal with them—including our way of doing business and such things as buying and selling on stock exchanges. We dont' know what the process will mean to world affairs, and we don't know what they will mean to our domestic way of life.

Going To Be Busy

In the midst of these uncertainties we may be sure that we are all going to be very busy, but we don't know what this business means in terms of making a stock worth buying with a prospect of profit.

Stock markets this week reflected this, changing pace at this whisper or that, this piece of news or that, but never knowing exactly what they mean to market trading.

Take the Toronto market. On Monday and Tuesday it retreated; on Wednesday it attempted a comeback which failed; on Thursday it acomplished some recovery; on Friday it staged a brave burst but ended about where it was. On the week here is what the exchange's index, based on representative stocks, said:

Industrials down 16.15 at 224.22; golds down 8.68 at 82.00; base metals down 3.23 at 109.71; western oils down 5.11 at 70.05.

All this happened while the ordinary news picture gave every reason for continuation of the bull market which had preceded the Korean fighting, and yet it was logical enough.

United States Intends To See Fight Through

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—President Truman's decision to enlarge American armed forces furnishes the world new proof that the United States intends to see the Korean fight through to a finish.

While Russia is expected to assail the action as further evidence of American "aggression," there is growing confidence here that the Soviets do not plan to precipitate a world war.

Truman's announcement Friday stressed that the decision to use the draft, if necessary, was made as a result of the Korean situation. In this respect, it was understood that two specific problems of related grand strategy were of primary concern;

1. The course of the fighting in Korea has indicated a need for greater troop strength in actual combat than was originally thought necessary. This strength has to be furnished without stripping home defences or those of other non Communist areas outside Korea.

2. From the start of the Korean incident two weeks ago the possibility has existed that it was a diversionary move by the Soviet-Communist bloc, to be followed up by an attack in some other sector of the east-west conflict. Such a development could require an additional commitment of American forces.

Keep Strength Up

The State Department is understood to have recommended the immediate replacement at home of any divisions deployed for action on the oKrean front, so that American readiness for action would be maintained.

This recommendation, coinciding with the advice of military leaders, fits into the basic policy that the best way to prevent more serious trouble with Russia is to maintain the strength to deal with any challenge which may arise.

Another factor in top-level government calculations is that the conflict between the Communst and non-Communist countries is expected to continue for many years, barring unforeseen developments.

Leaders are convinced that the United States must therefore conserve its total strength, economic as well as military, for the long pull.

A Narrow Escape

LONDON, Ont., July 8 (CP)—A driver escaped with minor bruises Friday when his loaded gravel truck crashed through a wooden bridge and poised on end in a shallow creek. The driver, Athur Hodgins, 19, of R.R. 8, Parkhill, scrambled clear of the cab after the load of gravel cascaded forward around him.

A Little Late

BERLIN, July 8 (AP)—East Germany's Communists have accused American troops of plundering Thuringia during their 10-week occupation of that province in 1945. The Russian-licensed ADN news agency said the Americans took billions of marks worth of property.

Biographer Calls Northcliffe Genius Of London's Fleet Street

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON —(CP)— The amazing story of a schoolmaster's son who rose from obscurity to the pinnacle of fame and fortune while wielding the greatest influence on British journalism within the last 50 years, is told by veteran newspaper man Tom Clarke, in his book "Northcliffe in History," published here recently.

Former editor of the London News Chronicle and for 11 years closely associated with Viscount Northcliffe, founder of the Daily Mail, Clarke knew his man well, He found him perpetually hurrying on, and dragging others with him, towards new fields of adventure, new interests, new experiments. Clarke has no hesitation in bestowing on him the title "The Genius of Fleet Street."

Northcliffe, who became one of the Empire's most powerful Press Lords, entered the publication field as Alfred Harmsworth, in 1896. He launched upon his career with consuming ambition to make good and a reserve of volcanic energy to carry it out.

The author gives his subject a place in history as a great newspaper man with a passion for truth, genuine patriot, a visionary, but withal a thwarted politician.

"A High Wind"

Northcliffe, he said, swished through Fleet Street like a high wind, upsetting everything as he went, causing comedy and drama, but leaving fresh air and a sense of stimulation behind him.

Irrepressible foe for complacency and a man who refused to be kept down, Northcliffe is praised as an apostle of free enterprise and a pioneer of journalism who was one of the first to: realize the thirst for information of the newly-educated masses; appreciate the importance of the fledgling inventions of radio and aviation; foresee the rising status of women in all spheres of life; forecast the first war with Germany; sound a later warning of danger of another world war.

But Mr. Clarke concludes that Northcliffe could not flourish again, confronted with prevailing conditions.

"There could have been one Northcliffe," he writes. "The man fitted the hour. When he died so tragically in 1922 at the age of 57, his title died with him. It better befits him to stand alone in history, first and last of his line—the man who had lived for power and out-lived it.

"Could his dictatorial make-up have been adapted to the new conception of human rights which now expand far beyond those for which he campaigned? Or must we admit there would be no place for even a benevolent Northcliffe in these days of the decline of materialistic dominance and personal power? The answer, I feel, is that no Northcliffe, as we knew him, could flourish again today."

Sought to Impress

In the early days of his career, Northcliffe developed the habit of talking over dummy telephones in his office, to impress important callers. He would press a secret button to start the phone ringing. Then, picking up the receiver, he would carry on an imaginary conversation with some cabinet minister, general or other big wig.

Even to the last he could not forget the telephone. During his last illness at his home in Carlton Gardens, when on doctor's orders it was thought all the telephones had been placed out of his reach, he found a way to make a call to his colleagues at the Daily Mail and said: "They say I am going mad. Send a reporter out for the story".

The supreme disappointment of Northcliffe's life, the author says, was that he outlived his "banquet of power." He saw it turned to a "banquet of ashes," prepared for him by the politicians he had helped to the seats of the mighty and to whom he believed he was indispensable.

But political power had triumphed in the end over press power. Lloyd George, then prime minister, refused to have Northcliffe at the 1919 Peace Conference, not even to "come in with the coffee."

became sheriff of Hastings county, and they moved to Belleville. Here Susanna wrote "Roughing it in the Bush," published in 1852, and "Life in the Clearings" in 1853, as well as several volumes of fiction and poetry. In the first two, she was outspoken in expressing contempt and hatred for Canadian pioneering, particularly the squalor of backwoods homes and the slovenly disrespect of the "common classes" for their superiors. She gave a warning which deterred many gentry from coming to Canada: "It has often been remarked to me by people long resident in the colony that those who come destitute of means, but able and willing to work, invariably improve their condition and become independent; while the gentleman who brings with him a small capital is too often tricked and cheated out of his property and drawn into rash and dangerous speculations which terminate in his ruin. His children, neglected and uneducated, yet brought up with ideas far beyond their means, and suffered to waste their time in idleness, seldom take to work, and not unfrequently sink down to the lowest class." She and Mr. Moodie were frank in admitting that they were glad to get out of the backwoods, even to the village of Belleville. After Moodie's death in 1869, Susanna lived in Toronto until her death in 1885.

Hollywood News Goes On War Or No War

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (AP)—Today let's take a look at this week's Hollywood headlines.

The movie news may look a bit pale beside the other events of the day. But war or peace, boom or bust, Hollywood is always with us. So here is how the recent headlines look to this armchair analyst:

"Bette Davis returns from Mexican divorce, denies she'll marry soon."

That seems the right thing to do. Especially since her new romance, Gary Merrill, won't be free from his wife for a year. Mrs. Merrill got an old-fashioned California divorce, which takes all of 12 months to make final.

"Two thousand US film theatres to close this year."

Oh, television, so there is thy sting.

"Lana Turner announces pregnancy early so co-workers won't think she's temperamental."

Miss Turner apparently feared other workers would take it to heart if she had to leave the set without explanation. Ah, for the old days when a women announced her motherhood merely because she wanted the whole wide world to know.

"Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner have quiet dinner talk in London."

And press announcements are released with every course. The idea of Frank and Ava having a quiet dinner is about as likely as Hollywood tossing a sub rosa premiere.

SOME THROW

A skilful boomerang thrower can make the weapon travel more than 200 yards.

UK Can't Ease Trade Barriers

LONDON, July 8(Reuters)—A. G. Bottomley, Secretary for Overseas Trade, said Friday that Britain still has a long way to go before she can loosen restrictions on importing goods from Canada.

In a luncheon address, he said that Canada had bought almost $59,000,000 worth of goods from Britain in April and May of this year—an increase of $20,000,000 over the same period last year.

He said this was due to the "profound appreciation in Canada" that in order to sell more to Britain the Dominion must buy more from Britain.

"I do not wish to be over-optimistic. It will take us all our time to maintain the position we have now achieved. The Canadian market remains as tough and exacting as ever," he said.

An Honest Man

GALT, July 8—(CP)—Theo Macarowsky, of Galt, will vouch for the honesty of Cleo Bloome, of Los Angeles. In July, 1949, Mr. Macarowsky lost his wallet while travelling in California. Thursday the customs office here informed him that they had received his wallet from Mr. Bloome with papers and $29.85 intact.

Duplessis Planning To Block CBC Project

QUEBEC, July 8 (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Friday the Quebec government will block CBC plans for a television transmitter on Montreal's Mount Royal until Federal broadcasting regulations permit a provincial broadcasting service.

Mr. Duplessis' Union Nationale Government in 1945 enacted legislation for a $5,000,000 Quebec radio service but the Federal government has not given its sanction.

At his weekly press conference, Mr. Duplessis said the CBC is a "voice trust" and he doesn't see why it should become a "vision trust."

He said he has expressed his views recently to Dr. Augustin Frigon, CBC general manager, in a conference on television plans.

Archie Jones lost one of his horses recently. In some way it got its forelegs down a crevice in a rock in the pasture. It was some time before it was discovered and then was so badly injured that it had to be destroyed.

Spot Wreckage

BOGOTA, July 8 (AP)—A Colombian army searching party fought its way through the jungle today toward the wreck of a plane believed to be a United States missionary craft missing since June 9 with 15 Americans aboard. The plane was spotted Thursday from the air on a mountain peak 75 miles northeast of Barrancas. The plane belonged to the New Tribes Mission of Chico, Calif.

Church, State Making Deal

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 8—(Reuters)—Negotiations between the Roman Catholic Church and the state are under way, the government announced Friday.

The fact had been rumored for some days, and observers said they expected the talks to end in agreement.

Such a development, they said, would end the tense relations between the Communist government and the Church's Bench on Bishops, relations which have worsened steadily since the imprisonment last year of Joseph Cardinal Midzenty.

Matters came to a head recently when Joseph Revai, Minister of People's Culture, announced a drive against "clerical reaction." His speech was followed by confiscation of several properties of monastic orders and the evacuation of monks and nuns to the centres of their respective communities.

Employment Jumps

BONN, Germany, July 8 (Reuters) — Employment in Western Germany has umped by 537,430 since March, it was announced today. There was a drop of 130,000 in the unemployment figures to 1,538,066 on June 30, compared with May 31.

6—In Memoriams

HAYWARD—In loving memory of Mr. Oliver Hayward, who passed away July 9th, 1946.
All souls are Thine, we must not say
That those are dead who pass away
From this our world of flesh set free
Not dead, but living unto Thee.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

McQUARRIE—In loving memory of dear Allan, who was killed in action July 8, 1944.
My love for you will never change,
It's the same, day after day,
Every memory is a keepsake
With which I will never part.
Sunshine fades and shadows fall,
But sweet remembrance outlasts all
From memory's page time cannot blot
Three little words, forget thee not.
—Lovingly remembered by mother, father, sister, brothers and his wife in London, England.

STAPLEY—In loving memory of Mrs. Fred Stapley, who passed away one year ago today, July 8. In life loved and honored,
In death remembered.
—Ever remembered by her husband and family.

WEYER—In loving memory of our little girl, Marjorie Ann Weyer, who passed away four years ago today, July 8, 1946.
She was only a little white rosebud,
A sweet little flower from birth,
God took her home to heaven
Before she was soiled on earth.
—Sadly missed by mamma, daddy Raymond, Marion and Carolyn.

WEYER—In loving memory of our granddaughter, Marjorie Ann Weyer, who passed away July 8, 1946.
The depths of sorrow we can not tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well;
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by Grandma, Grandpa, Uncle Bob and Aunt Mary.

WEYER—In loving memory of Marjorie Ann Weyer, who passed away four years ago today, July 8, 1946.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion
Of one who thinks of you.
—Remembered by Aunt, Uncle and Cousins, Margaret Rose and Bobbie.

Contest Winners In Navy Essay To Visit Halifax

HALIFAX, N.S.—Seven provincial winners of the Navy League's National Essay Contest and their school principals will arrive in Halifax this week-end to spend all next week here as guests of the Royal Canadian Navy. Their program includes a day's trip to see HMCS "New Liskeard" and visits to various naval establishments at this coast.

The students will be escorted by Lieutenant Ian Webster, RCN during their week long stay. Male members of the group will be quartered in barracks at "Stadacona" for the week and the ladies will stay at the nurses' residence. A full program is planned for them. The busy agenda includes a visit to the Naval Air Station at Dartmouth, N.S. on Monday, a tour of "Stadacona", HMCS "Magnificent", and the dockyard on Wednesday, a trip to HMCS "Cornwallis" at Deep Brook, N.S.; Thursday and Friday will be spent at Camo Major, the Sea Cadet camp near Lunenburg, N.S. The highlight of their visit to the fleet will be a trip to sea aboard HMCS "New Liskeard", on Tuesday. They will have lunch at the Navy League's Sea Gull Club and will be taken on a conducted tour of Halifax, on Saturday.

The subject of the essay was "Our Canadian Navy". The purpose of the contest is to stimulate interest in naval affairs and maritime matters in general among students, teachers, and parents.

Law Changes Urged Curb Sex Crimes

VICTORIA —(CP)— Greater legal aid in police efforts to curb sex crimes has been recommended by the British Columbia section Canadian Bar Association.

At the association's annual convention it was recommended that convicted sex offenders found loitering near children's playgrounds without reasonable excuse be open for conviction of vagrancy.

Under the criminal code, police cannot act against known offenders in suspicious circumstances unless "an overt act is made."

An amendment to the code would be necessary before the Bar Association recommendation could be adopted in police work.

Special criminal code legislation for "peeping Toms" was also suggested.

Not Uncommon

A report of the criminal justice committee said: "Reports have reached the committee that this exciting but unpleasant practice is far from being uncommon."

The Supreme Court of Canada in a recent case ruled in effect that the "simple act of deliberate and stealthy peeking through windows, usually with an intent of enjoying an exotic pleasure . . . is not in itself forbidden or unlawful . . ."

It was recommended that the law should be changed, but necessary safeguards left to protect "honest but perhaps careless or unthinking persons, against the stigma of being charged as a 'peeping Tom.'"

Says Wilson Not Quitting Council Over Tax Rift

Max Wilson, Harvey township council representative on the Lakefield High School Area Board, who was asked by the township council to continue his duties until the end of the year, was not leaving because of any disagreement over school tax rates.

Reeve Gale Elliott said Mr. Wilson's work with the council has always been satisfactory and there was no criticism of his liaison work with the School Board.

Mr. Wilson offered his resignation because he has moved from Harvey township to Douro township and felt he could not properly carry on the work while living so far from members of the township council.

In Time Maple Leafs May Train In Pt. Hope

PORT HOPE, July 8 — In a letter to the Port Hope Board of Trade, Hay Day, assistant manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs indicated that this hockey team may be interested to train there in another two years.

At present the Leafs have a contract with St. Catharines Parks Board to train in that city for the next two years, but will be looking for a new fall training spot after that time.

If the Leafs come to Port Hope, they will train at the Peter Campbell Memorial Rink, at Trinity College School.

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (AP) — Actress Dorothy Lamour is reported "considerably better" in hospital where she was given a blood transfusion for what physicians described as abdominal fatigue.

Hydro Worker Killed Backing Against Wire

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP)—Jules J. Nerbonne, 38-year-old Ottawa hydro worker, was electrocuted Friday when he backed into a live wire carrying 2,200 volts in the transformer room of a downtown theatre.

The high voltage seared through his body for almost 30 seconds before his helper, Connie Watson, cut off te power. He died in hospital three hours later.

F. E. Britnell Funeral

Pallbearers at the funeral on Friday of Frank Edward Britnell, 63, 335 Rogers st., were Harold Wells, Ernest Abraham, Ross Jordan, Frederick Lewers, Kenneth Hoard and Jack Smith.

Mr. Britnell who died Tuesday was formerly a shipping clerk at the De Laval Co.

The funeral was from the Kaye Funeral Home to St. Luke's Church Friday afternoon for service, the Rev. W. J. Gilling officiating. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Learn Building Terms When Starting New Home

Planning your home, whether you're talking to your builder, architect or just to yourself will be a great deal easier if you know the tools of the trade. Here are some of the most commonly used words you'll need to know to talk your builder's language.

Blocking: Placing short pieces of wood between studding at various intervals.

Brick Veneer: Brick facing laid against frame wall construction.

Building Paper: Waxed or asphalt-coated paper applied over the sheathing to provide a moisture and wind-proof membrane.

Carriage: The heavy frame that supports the stairs.

Cross-Bridging: Used between floor joists to prevent swaying or trembling of floors. Made of two pieces placed as an X, with all four ends nailed into the joists.

Curtain-Wall: Walls of masonry or similar material between piers.

Finished Floor: Usually of narrow strips that are matched, that is, tongued and grooved so that they will lay up tight and provide a smooth floor after being polished.

Fire-Stops: Usually 2x4's placed between the studs to impede the progress of fire.

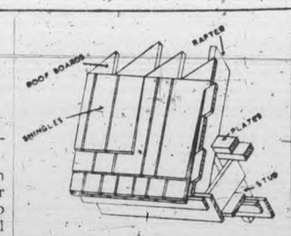
Flashing: Sheet metal applied to obviate water seepage at various places where it may occur.

Flat Arch: The top of an opening formed by bricks or other material, the bottoms of which are set on a horizontal line.

Floor Joists: The heavy cross-pieces that carry the floors.

Footing: Platform or base upon which foundation or piers rest. Usually made of concrete. Should extend a few inches beyond outside dimensions of foundation walls or piers.

Foundation: The stone, concrete or brick base upon which the house structure rests.



Frame: General, the rough structure including the sills, studding, joists, rafters, and the first rough enclosure called sheathing or boxing.

Grade Line: The point at which the foundation or piers rise above the level of the ground.

Interior Trim: The woodwork inside the house including baseboards, window and door casings, mouldings and all members used to finish the interior, other than the floors.

Jamb: The side of a window or door.

Millwork: The doors, windows, cabinets . . . sometimes taken to include the trim and panelling on the interior.

Muntins: Wood or metal separating panes of glass.

Piers: Square posts of brick or concrete upon which the house structure rests. Used in lieu of continuous or solid foundations where no basement is provided.

Plates: Any horizontal piece upon which studding, rafters, window or door frames rest.

Rafters: Members which run from the top of the walls or the house to the peak or ridge of the roof and which supports the roof.

Roof Sheathing: Cross-pieces that are nailed at right angles across the rafters and form the surface to which the shingles or other outside roof covering are nailed.

Siding: Wooden strips or other material that forms the finished outside wall of the house.

Sills: Also known as foundation plates. The heavy timbers which are laid flat on the top of the foundation wall, or from pier to pier, and on which the house frame is erected.

Soil Pipe or Stack: The large iron pipe placed inside the interior walls and which carries off all discharge from plumbing fixtures.

Studding: The upright pieces, usually 2" x 4" or 2" x 6" that form the "skeleton" of outside walls and inside partitions. The first members to be used in the rough framework of the house, after the sills are laid.

Vent: A pipe connecting with the soil stack and supplying air to prevent siphonage or back pressure at plumbing fixtures.

Sun Glasses Popular

OTTAWA, July 8 — (CP) — Selling sun-glasses to the Eskimos may sound about as practical as selling ice in the Arctic. But take it from the men who know, the northern trading posts are doing a good business in sun-glasses. "The glare on the ice-fields makes some sort of protection necessary," a member of the Northwest Territories Council explained.

Builder Should Double Shingles At The Eaves

Wood shingles make an excellent roof finish providing high quality shingles are used and they are properly applied. Roof sheathing boards should be spaced slightly apart to permit ventilation to the underside of the shingles and prevent rotting.

The "pitch" or slope of the roof must be considered. For wood shingles the pitch should never be less than a six-inch vertical rise for each foot measured horizontally. If the slope is less, rain or melting snow might sweep under the shingles and damage the wood framing.

Shingles are available in 16, 18 and 24-inch lengths. The first two sizes should be laid with a maximum exposure of five and a half inches. The 24-inch shingles, which are thicker, may have an exposure of seven and a half inches. If the exposure is any greater the result will be a thinner and short-lived roof.

Shingles should be doubled on the first course at the eaves and throughout the job care should be taken to ensure that nowhere are joints directly above one another. There should be a space of at least an eighth of an inch between the shingles. Use of rust-proof nails is important. These should be limited to two to a shingle and placed so that they will be covered by the next course.

Edge-grain shingles are most satisfactory for roof finishing, while a coat of stain will add years to their serviceability.

Tipplers Set Record

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP) — Presumably without the knowledge of the Ontario Control Board, three flying tipplers were credited with a Canadian and North American record for staying "high" for 17 hours and 25 minutes. In case you're wondering whether the feat is humanly possible—the flying tippler is a type of pigeon that likes to do a lot of flying. The former record Kiner, Pirates, 64.

Seaway Delay Proving Costly

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Every month's delay in building the St. Lawrence power project is costing the people of New York $2,000,000 on their power bills, Senator Joseph Ives (Rep., N.Y.) said Friday.

He made public a letter to Mon C. Wallgren, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, urging early approval of the state's application for a power development licence. Congress for many years has considered proposals that the United States and Canada join in a St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Ives said since New York, in 1921, decided to undertake the power project, "great river developments have taken place in other parts of the country where the people received the benefit of cheap hydro-electric power."

He said the rapid increase in the cost of steam power generation has emphasized the necessity for the St. Lawrence power project. He emphasized that no federal cost is involved. The project would be financed by state bonds.

Your Worries Ended Many Hangover Cures

NEW YORK, July 8 — (AP) — Hangover may be cured by anything from fermented mare's milk to bird's nest soup, according to an informal poll of 18 countries taken at the United Nations bar by a representative of the United Bartenders' Guild.

A member of the Yugoslav delegation suggested kumyss — fermented mare's milk.

Among the other "remedies"—Australia, passion fruit nectar with a dash of bitters and red nectar; Brazil, black coffee, rum and cream thoroughly mixed; Canada, pea soup; Czechoslovakia, hot potato dumplings; Cuba, fresh sliced pineapple; Denmark, akvavit with raw egg; England, Pimm's cup with lemon juice and cucumber rind; France, absynthe; Finland, pickled herring; Greece, goat's milk and salt; Holland, cheese on toast; Italy, strega and cafe expresso; Mexico, tequila and orange juice; Siam, raw sliced fish; Sweden, hot glug; and Syria, arak and water.

Sweden Fighting Battle Of Red Piracy In Baltic

STOCKHOLM, July 8—(Reuters)—Sweden is fighting a diplomatic battle of the Baltic against Russia to protect her fishing vessels from what the Stockholm press calls "Red piracy." Periodically, Swedish vessels are being intercepted by Russian coastal patrols in international waters and forced to put into Russian ports. There, their crews are held without being allowed to communicate with the Swedish authorities or dependents at home.

A new incident has led Swedish newspapers and fishermen to describe Russia's foreign ministry officials as "downright liars." It is also causing Sweden to consult with Denmark, whose vessels are also being intercepted, on common action against Russia.

Two trawlers, the Marion and the Larex, were involved in this new incident. They were captured by two Russian coastal patrols 21 and 16½ miles from the Russian coast, respectively.

Describing this act as a "high handed flagrant breach of international law," Foreign Minister Oesten Unden told the Swedish parliament that the Swedish fishermen were forced to leave their tackle and catches in the water.

They were subjected to an interrogation as if they were common criminals and held for two weeks," he added.

"Russian's In Right"

Replying to Sweden's protest over this incident—her ninth in two years concerning "Red piracy"—Russia said that the two vessels were intercepted 11 and 10½ miles from the coast, respectively.

Their captains, Russia added, confirmed these positions by signing a map.

Russia refused to pay compensation for the lost tackle and catches and, while not denying that the crews had been held incommunicado for two weeks, declared that accusations that she "acted unjustly lack all foundation."

The skippers of the Marion and the Larex said that the "maps" they signed were Russian documents thrust into their hands by their prison guards who told them that they were certificates that they had not been maltreated.

Most bitterness of all has been caused by Russia's extension of her territorial waters from the customary three to 12 mlies. Sweden has repeatedly asked her whether she considers that her waters in the Baltic extend beyond the customary three miles, but has never had a reply.

Has To Make Unhappy Choice

LONDON, July 8.—(CP). — An agonizing choice between personal and professional considerations made Friday an unhappy birthday for Iva Withers of Winnipeg, leading lady in the London production of "Carousel."

Miss Withers has to decide between staying here or returning to New York, where her husband—Kazimir Kotitch—is in bed with a shoulder paralysis.

If she leaves, it means quitting her part as Julie Jordan in the lavishly - mounted production which has been playing to standing-room-only houses since it opened a month ago in the Drury Lane Theatre.

"I can't sleep at nights worrying about it," Miss Withers said in an interview. "I know you've got to make a decision and abide with it, but Julie Jordan is part of me and it would be like cutting off my arm to quit."

Rainy Lake Dropping From Record Peak

FORT FRANCIS, July 8 (CP) —Rainy Lake continues to ease slightly from its record flood peak, but property owners along its shores expect the respite will be brief.

After a three-day dry spell throughout the rain and flood sodden northwestern Ontario region, forecasts were for rain over the weekend and up to next Wednesday.

Easterly winds, which have a long, clear sweep against already damaged lakeshore installations, were also predicted.

The lake, after a seemingly-interminable rise which brought it above the 1916 high mark for the century, eased .01 foot in 24 hours.

Niagara Farmers At Feuding Stage

ST. CATHARINES, July 8 — (CP)—Farmers in the Niagara district are at the feudin' stage—and they blame the Ontario Highways Department for their troubles.

For years, the farmers said, they have been selling their produce—mostly fruit—at roadside stands on their own property along the Queen Elizabeth Highway. The department contended this was a traffic hazard on the through highway and ordered the farmers to use one of the four community markets built by the government.

The farmers claim business isn't so good there. Everybody is jostling his neighbor trying for a good sales spot and folks who were friends for years aren't speaking to each other any more.

Woman Seeks To Change Name

FREEHOLD, N. J., July 8 (AP) —A 32-year-old Long Branch woman Friday sought to change her name to that of a man's prior to undergoing an operation to change her sex.

Miss Henrietta Marjorie Dangler said in a petition to the county clerk's office that her physical condition made it impossible to continue life as a woman.

In support of her contention she offered an affidavit from Dr. D. Randall MacCarroll of Philadelphia, which stated in part: "my opinion is that if the operation is performed, the patient definitely will be of the male sex."

Miss Dangler, of small build with the appearance of a young boy, petitioned the court to change her name to "Henry M. Dangler."

She said in the petition she desired the name change before the operation so that she could obtain a promised position as a factory foreman and earn enough to pay for the operation.

NORTH KOREANS MURDER 7 AMERICANS

North Forces 20 Miles From Capital

Preparing Assault Defenders Believe; U.S. Troops Cut Off

TOKYO, July 11. — (Tuesday — (CP). — North Korean forces have battled their way southward to within 20 airline miles of Taejon, provisional South Korean capital, a headquarters communique issued at midnight Monday night said. The invading forces appear to be preparing for an all-out attack on Taejon, said a Reuters dispatch. In other developments in the fast-moving fighting, Communist forces cut off a second battalion of United States troops and seven American soldiers were found dead, killed by bullet wounds in the face, their hands tied behind their backs.

Gen. MacArthur's communique issued at 12:02 a.m. Tuesday (10:02 a.m. EDT Monday) told of the new North Korean push. He said it was made by the attacking 1st Division, which had hemmed in an unidentified "lost" U.S. battalion in the Chonan area, 35 miles northwest of Taejon, for two days.

Tank Equipped

That battalion, which fought its way to safety, is not to be confused with the one reported cut off in Monday's dispatches. The second isolated detachment, said Reuters, is reported to be equipped with tanks.

(So far, communiques have not confirmed that U.S. armor has been thrown into the fighting.)

The midnight communique said the North Korean 1st Division has pushed eastward from Chonan to Chongan, about 207 miles distant.

Another northern force, probably the 3rd Division, was in contact with United States forces at Chociwon, 15 miles southeast of Chonan.

Enemy attacks launched the night of July 7, which led to the capture of Chonan by the invaders, "temporarily lost momentum" between Chonan and Chochiwon, about 20 miles north of Taejon, said the communique. Taejon has been identified as advanced American field headquarters.

The communique, however, added that enemy reconnaissance elements were active and enemy reinforcements were streaming toward the battle area, with "all

THREE MEMBERS OF A NORWOOD FAMILY were killed in this crash near Bradford, about 40 miles north of Toronto, early Saturday. They were Marjory Davis, 21, Robert Davis, 19, and Mrs. Charles McClay, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davis of Norwood. Shocked onlookers survey the wrecked car and damaged bus. Police believe a truck sideswiped the bus, sending into the path of the fast-moving auto. Mrs. McClay and Robert Davis were both living in Toronto. Mrs. McClay's husband and nine-year-old son were also killed in the smash.

Bodies Found Hands Tied, Shot In Face

MacArthur Promised Humane Treatment To Prisoners Taken

By O. H. P. KING

ADVANCED AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, July 10.—(AP).—The bodies of seven American soldiers, their hands tied behind them, were found today by the roadside in territory recaptured from the Communist North Koreans. Each had been killed by a bullet in the face. A spokesman said the Americans had been assigned to move ammunition forward.

He said Americans and North Korean troops still were fighting over possession of the area where the atrocities occurred at the time he left to make his report to nearby American headquarters.

The bodies were found by Lieut. D. C. Gates after four of his men went to a front-line area this morning. The area was subsequently lost and regained.

"They turned a corner and ran into two tanks," Gates said.

One jeep turned around and made a dash for it, he said. The driver was killed but his companion escaped.

"An observation post saw two in each of two other jeeps surrender," Gates said. "When I arrived on the spot I found my four men and three mortar men, their hands tied behind them and a bullet fired in each face."

General MacArthur, United Nations commander in Korea, warned last week that atrocity perpetrators would be punished if caught. He promised humane treatment to Red troops captured.

(Hours before the murder of the Americans was discovered, Tokyo headquarters reported American planes had dropped leaflets informing North Korean troops they could expect decent treatment if captured. The leaflets also said General MacArthur "will expect similar treatment for American nationals and members of the armed forces of the United States" as well as of all other persons who might fall into North Korean hands.)

Secret Mission

SEATTLE, July 10.—(AP).—A frightened housewife telephoned police just before dawn yesterday to report that there were prowlers outside her home. Officers reported:

"Just the woman's husband and a brother-in-law sneaking away on a fishing trip. They made it, too."

Europe Refugees Show Strength In Zone Election

KIEL, Germany, July 10 (AP) —East German refugees have made a strong showing in a British zone election but failed in their bid for control of the Schleswig-Holstein parliament.

Complete returns from Saturday's balloting in this state, which borders on Denmark, showed that the new refugee party had polled about 25 per cent of the total vote. That is enough to make it a definite power in the 69-member state parliament, and might even win it a spot on a coalition government.

The election was watched throughout the country to see whether West Germany's 10,000,000 discontented refugees would become a political group to be reckoned with.

Cut Deeply

The new group cut deeply into the strength of the established political parties. The left-wing Social Democratic Party, which has governed Schleswig-Holstein for several years, lost its parliamentary majority. It received less than one-third of the vote.

A right-wing bloc—the Christian Democrats, Free Democrats and the Germany party — won first place by pooling their strength behind the same candidates in each of the 46 electoral districts.

The combine is similar to the right-wing coalition federal government at Bonn, and opposes the state's present socialist-planned economy.

Official Tabulation

Final official tabulation gave this division of the legislative seats: Right-Wing Bloc, 31; Socialist Democrats, 18; Refugees, 16; South Schleswig Voters Union, four.

There are some 1,000,000 refugees from East Germany crowded into Schleswig-Holstein.

Many members of the Refugee Party are homeless and jobless. They based their campaign on complaints that the state and federal governments have not done enough to help the refugees.

The total of 1,341,754 votes cast represented 78.2 per cent of those eligible to ballot.

Colombia 'Quakes Kill 211 17,000 Injured, Homeless 2 Towns Almost Destroyed

5 Earthquakes Rock North Central Area Seven Towns Blasted Communications Cut; Rush Help By Air

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 10.—(AP).—Unofficial reports today indicated 211 persons are dead and 17,000 injured or homeless in seven towns after five earthquakes that rocked North Central Colombia during the week-end. The presidential palace in a statement last night indicated the official death toll was at least 123. The new figures were given in the newspaper El Siglo. El Tiempo said the number of dead reached 200, with 500 injured and the homeless 40,000. Both papers said that Arboleda, a town of 20,000, was almost destroyed and that Cucutilla, of about 14,000 inhabitants, also was almost destroyed. Electric power failed after the shocks.

Another town, Salazar De La Palmas, population about 21,000, was also severely hit by the tremors.

The government rushed troops, police forces, and doctors, food, drugs and tents to the affected towns.

So far, the government has made no new announcement and the Red Cross has no official information because wires are down and communications almost impossible, except for radio. The help was rushed by plane.

Queen's Clothes Criticized By London Paper

LONDON, July 10—(AP)—The Sunday Pictorial, a mass-circulation weekly newspaper, Sunday took a sharp rap at Queen Elizabeth's most recent outfit.

The outfit it criticizes is a black-edged flowered dress with matching cape, wide-brimmed black hat, long black gloves and open-toed shoes. After going into a huddle with fashion experts, the Pictorial lists these specific objections:

"This pattern of dress would be better on furnishing fabric. The skimpy cape is both broadening and shortening. The dark edging makes the dress look like a dressing gown with the sash undone. The gloves are too heavy looking and add unnecessary bulk to the figure. Peekaboo shoes have been inelegant for two years. All in all a misguided effort that will not enhance our growing reputation as a fashion-conscious nation."

Czechs Warn US Keep Planes Out

PRAGUE, July 10—(AP)—The Czech government charged today that American military planes have been flying over Czechoslovakia. It said there might be "consequences" if they kept it up.

The government also claimed "undeniable proof" that such planes have spread the Colorado beetle—the potato bug—over this country and Eastern Germany. The Foreign Minstry made both protests, Prague radio reported, in notes turned over to the United States embassy here.

The embassy last Friday had given the ministry a diplomatic denial of the potato-bug charges, first made in a government proclamation the week before.

At Wiesbaden, Germany, a U.S. Air Force spokesman today as branded "utterly ridiculous" charges that American planes from Germany had made illegal flights over Czecoslovakia.

Reds Started War, Says Jessup

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 10 (AP)—Philip Jessup, United States ambassador-at-large, said today there never can be any serious question about who started the Korean war.

"The North Korean Communist forces attacked the Republic of Korea without warning, without provocation, without any justification whatsoever," Jessup said. "It has never been more true than in this case that actions speak louder than words.

"Communist peace propaganda has sought to lull th epeoples of the free world at the very moment when Communist imperialism was preparing and launching this war of aggression."

Jessup discussed the Korean situation in a talk prepared for the 17th session of the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia.

Will Investigate Price Dictating

OTTAWA, July 10 (CP) — The practice of resale price maintenance will be among the points investigated by the Federal committee studying combines legislation, the committee disclosed today.

Resale price maintenance is the procedure by which manufacturers of some products indicate the prices below which their articles are not to be sold to the public.

Comment on this problem specifically and on combines legislation generally has been invited from various organizations in a letter from the committee made public today.

The letter was sent out by Mr. Justice J. H. McQuarrie of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, chairman of the four-man body set up by the government recently to make recommedations for overhauling combines legislation.

The invitation has gone to such organizations as consumer associations, co-operative societies, labor unions, trade associations and business and professional groups. Submissions also are solicited from any individuals who want to present material to the committee.

Bell Telephone Gets Okay To Boost Rates In Ontario

OTTAWA, July 10.—(CP).—The Bell Telephone Company has been granted authority to increase its rates in Ontario and Quebec, but just what this will mean in the monthly telephone bill is not yet clear. In a decision made public last night, the Board of Transport Commissioners granted the company authority to make certain increases on an interim basis until a final decision is given on its application for an over-all revenue increase of 20.6 per cent.

In general, the Board permitted increases of varying amounts for such services as long distance, private line extensions, service connections, moves and miscellaneous, as sought by the company.

But on the exchange-rates phase of its operations—the rates applying to local service for residences and business telephones—the Commissioners granted only 50 per cent of the increase sought, and only after a regrouping of exchanges.

On an annual basis, the rates and charges allowed by the Board are expected to yield an over-all increase in revenues of about 16 per cent instead of the 20.6 per cent. sought.

The new rates are expected to go into effect about July 23 and will remain in effect until the Board hands down a final decision on the company's application for a 20.6 per cent. over-all increase in revenues, a case that was before the Board for many weeks.

1,500 UK Drivers Walk Off Jobs

LONDON, July 10 (Reuters)—More than 1,500 London truck drivers went on strike today in response to a call for an unofficial stoppage in support of the strike of meat drivers at Smithfield—central London meat market—now in its 16th day.

The nationalized road haulage executive announced that though 80 per cent of its drivers in the London area were working as usual, 1,415 men had not reported for duty today.

About 100 drivers bringing fish to the Central London market at Billingsgate also stopped work at mid-day. Leaders of the strike, condemned by union officials as Communist - inspired, said the main fruit, vegetable and flower market would be practically without transport tomorrow.

They said drivers were holding hundreds of meetings tonight to discuss joining the strike.

Prime Minister Attlee called Transport Minister Alfred Barnes and Food iMnister Maurice Webb to a Cabinet meeting which was devoted almost entirely to a discussion of the transport strike.

Two thousand troops moved into London during the week-end ready to run essential goods transport services if the strike should spread. Another 2,000 troops stood ready to join them.

Railroad Strike Threatens States

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP) — With one major rail walkout ended, the United States faced possibility of another today.

Last Thursday, AFL switchmen cancelled a walkout against four roads after President Truman said the strike was stopping the flow of grains and cattle, and threatened national defence. The strike remained in effect against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad because, the union said, parellel rail services were available.

A federal court late Saturday night sent the last 1,500 striking switchmen back to work on the Rock Island.

Today, three other rail unions met in Chicago to decide whether their 250,000 members will strike to back up their demands for a shorter work week and higher pay. They are the trainmen, conductors and yardmasters.

A cooling off period under the Railway Labor Act ends Saturday leaving these unions free to strike at any time after that.

With the government gravely concerned over military operations of U.S. forces participating in the United Nations intervention in Korea, President Truman has announced he is determined to keep transport arteries open.

Bus Driver Faces Manslaughter

TORONTO, July 10 (CP)—Pat Patterson, 38-year-old driver of a Gray Coach bus which collided Friday with an automobile near Bradford, killing six persons, was charged today with manslaughter and dangerous driving.

Patterson, suffering a broken wrist, is expected to be released from hospital next week.

The crash occurred when the southbound bus was sideswiped by a truck on the crest of a hill, causing the bus to go out of control. It collided with a northbound car, carrying three men, two women and a boy, headed for a weekend in the country. All in the car were killed.

Lack Arms To Fight

MANILA, July 10 (AP)—Lack of arms and equipment may keep 31,000 Philippine troops out of the Korean war on the side of the UN President Quirino said.

Wife Shot, Witnesses Wounded By Husband

BREWSTER, N. Y., July 10 — (AP)— Police said Mrs. Andrea Gehr, 30, of New York City, was shot and killed by her husband when she tracked him to a cottage near here this morning.

The husband, who claimed he fired "at prowlers," was arrested less than two hours later at Armonk, N. Y.

Police said he was accompanied by Mrs. Dorothea Matthews, 30-year-old brunette who has been locked in a bitter divorce battle for two years with her weathy husband, Mark Matthews.

Two of five witnesses who accompanied Mrs. Gehr were slightly wounded.

UK Postal Unions Protest Disrupting Feuds Charge

By ALLAN HARVEY

LONDON, July 10 — (CP) — Protests mounted today against a government minister's statement that a union "vendetta" often disrupts Britain's postal and telephone services.

In London, the National Association of Postal and Telegraph officers issued a statement demanding withdrawal of a speech in the House of Commons last Thursday by Postmaster-General Ness Edwards.

Try To Cover Up.

Edwards said vendettas between parent and break-away unions resulted in members of rival unions trying to cover up for their fellow-members. As a result, he added, telephone calls were delayed, registered letters disappeared and authorites could not put the finger on the culprit.

The Postal and Telegraph officers' orgapization said the implication that staff members sometimes stole registered letters is a "gratuitous insult."

In Doncaster, Yorkshire, officials of the Engineerin, Officers Telecommunications Association, which the government refuses to recognize, announced that protest meetings will be held.

Separate Organization.

In the same city, Philip James, national organizer for the National Guild of Telephonists, said his guild and the Telegraph Communications Association are trying to form a Federation of Tele-Communications Workers, distinct from the postal side.

"In spite of the rebuff by Ness Edwards," he said, "we are going forward and will take our case to the highest level."

Longshoreman Saved By One-Legged Mate

HOBOKEN, NJ, July 10 (AP) —Vincenzo Marino, 60-year-old longshoreman, fell last night into the 2½-foot space between a freighter and a barge he was helping to unload. The barge was moving slightly.

One-legged Sam Sansevere, standing on the deck of the freighter, unfastened his artificial limb, dived in and held Marino's head above the Hudson River waters until help came.

Then he put his leg on again and resumed his job of checking the freighter's cargo. Marino was injured slightly.

Buffalo Wolf Pack Beat Canadian Boys

BUFFALO, July 10 — (CP) — Police said today a "wolf pack" of Buffalo youths had been beating and robbing visiting Canadian 'teen-agers during the last two weeks.

The gang asks visiting 'teen-agers if they are Canadians. If the repiy is "yes," they are beaten up, police said.

The disclosure came with the arrest of three youths after two Toronto area boys were beaten.

THREE OF THE SIX WHO DIED Friday night when their car was crushed by an out-of-control bus are shown above. N. Korean Casualties Reported Heavy, Use New Firebombs

By Russell Brines

TOKYO, July 10.—(AP). — American and Australian planes, in round-the-clock attacks, caught North Korean tank and troop columns in a Sunday traffic jam and raked them with concentrated fire from machine-guns to firebombs. Heavy troop casualties were noted. Forty-six tanks were destroyed or damaged, said a Far East air force communique. That brought total air claims of 123 tanks knocked out in two weeks of war.

The communist columns were moving bumper-to-bumper toward the fronth south of Chonan, 50 miles from Seoul. Four Red divisions were caught.

The communique said the expanded air program pounded Red bridges and supply lines the breadth of the war-torn Asian peninsula.

Marked Success

Its "marked success," said the communique, "was attributed to co-ordinated air and ground control of air operations" permitting fast concentration of aerial firepower on points where it was needed.

Lt.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer said allied planes, in ..ing some 150 American, in 13 days have destroyed or damaged '23 North Korean tanks, 41 planes and a vast amount of other equipment. They have flown 1,570 sorties.

Stratemeyer, commander of the FEAF, reported U.S. air force combat losses for that period total 20 combat and five transport planes. Nine American airmen have been killed, five wounded and 12 are missing.

Fly Day and Night

The FEAF commander told reporters that planes will fly day and night against the North Koreans. The stepped-up air attack, Stratemeyer said, will "shortly make itself felt in an unmistakable terms. Vital (North Korean) supplies such as gasoline and ammunition are known to be short in many localities. Strategic strikes on rail, bridge and highway communications already have brought numerous reports of bottlenecks in North Korean transportation.

Stratemeyer said air reinforcements are here or en route, including three groups of B-29 Superfortresses and US Marine planes. He added that air fields are being built in South Korea.

Boat Blows Up All Crew Escape

PORT WELLER, July 10 — (CP)—A 38-year-old man was blown into the water of Lake Ontario Sunday night when a 65-foot work boat exploded. Two companions rescued him and rowed ashore in a dinghy.

The men were J. G. MacNicol, 38; C. G. Irwin, 54, and Charles Minor, 50, all of Port Colborne.

Mr. MacNicol said he was blown into the water by the blast but was not injured. He did not know what caused the explosion.

A United States coastguard cutter sped to the scene from Youngstown, N.Y., to join Canadian police and pleasure craft in a search of the wreckage-strewn water. After searching for several hours it was learned that the occupants of the boat had rowed into Port Dalhousie, four miles west of here.

The boat, the Anna Mildred, was en route from Cornwall to Port Colborne after carrying out salvage operations. The three-man crew planned to make for Port Dalhousie after engine trouble developed.

Mr. MacNicol said the Anna Mildred burst into flames after the explosion.

"We rowed around for a while wondering what we could do, but there didn't seem to be anything we could do to check the flames. There weren't any other boats in sight anywhere so we finally gave up and headed for shore."

The Anna Mildred burned fiercely for several minutes and then sank.

Gas Main Fire Said To Be Incendiary

HAMILTON, July 10—(CP)—Fire, believed incendiary in origin, at a six inch gas main which carries natural gas supply from one of the Grimsby natural gas company's wells to the town of Grimsby, was under investigation today by Ontario Provincial Police.

At the point where the fire occurred, the main goes through bush on the side of the Niagara Escarpment, part way up the Grimsby mountain road. When discovered by police flames were shooting in the air.

The blaze had been set at a point where workmen had been repairing a leak in the main, police said.

Western Oils In Good Demand

TORONTO, July 10—(CP)—Western oil stocks pushed higher in comparatively dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metals were also in good demand but most of the buying power appeared in early trading. Buying dried up in midsession and leaders had difficulty holding their advances. Volume for the first three hours was 862,000 shares.

Piccadilly, a penny oil issue, was the most active stock for a strong gain following news of an offering of bonds and Bell Telephone jumped 1⅜ to 41⅜ in brisk trading in industrials following announcement of granting of an interim rate increase in Quebec and Ontario.

In Western oils, Atlantic oil added 20 cents at $2.40 and Pacific Petroleum and Federated Petroleum were in good demand.

Industrials were strong in early trading but slipped into the minus column as the session progressed.

Anacon lead, a recent heavy loser, bounced ahead 25 cents to $1.95 to pace the base metal group.

At Chinchon, about 15 miles east of Chonan, the 2nd North Korean division engaged elements of a South Korean corps on a front just south of the city, it continued.

MacArthur said enemy pressure gained some ground in the Umsong-Chungju area, some 70 miles northeast of Chonan. Units of the 15th North Korean division there forced back Southern republican troops to high ground northwest of Umsong, he said.

Just south of Chungju, major city in the Umsong fighting area, an enemy battalion with other forces opposed South Korean troops.

The United Nations commander said increased activities on the east coast still indicated southward pressure with opposition from friendly forces (probably allied naval and air units).

MacArthur said there was evidence the morale of the North Korean Communists is slipping under the heavy pressure applied by U.S. and Australian planes which Monday began around-the-clock attacks on them.

Some 46 enemy tanks, trapped on a highway near Chonan, were knocked out by the low flying planes Monday, front line dispatches said.

Earlier, the news was more heartening for the south. Lt.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, Commander of the United States Far East Air Forces, said the combined efforts of ground naval and air forces have "stopped" the Communist drive that has ground southward relentlessly for two weeks.

A headquarters communique, issued Monday, reported a "distinct lull" in the ground fighting.

The picture, then, momentarily at least, was brighter.

Jail-Break Try Stopped Prisoners Seize Governor

MARQUETTE, Mich., July 10—(AP)—A jail-break attempt with the governor of Michigan as hostage was foiled Saturday after a near-riot.

The daring try, a plot by three hardened men held in Marquette State Prison, was thwarted after fast action by guards and police.

The governor, G. Mennen Williams, was caught in the middle of the uprising as he entered the kitchen to inspect food prepared for some 700 prisoners in the big dining room. He was unhurt.

But the governor's bodyguard, George Kerr, was stabbed twice in back and a prison guard suffered a broken arm.

Warden Emory Jacques said before the disturbance was quelled, more than 20 prisoners crowded around the kitchen door, threatening to start a major riot.

Quieted Them Down

"I kept talking and managed to quiet them down," he said.

The ring-leaders, who subsequently were placed in solitary confinement, were identified by prison authorities as Ralph Stearns, 50, of Detroit; John Halstead, 56, of Jackson, and "Crazy Jack" Hyatt, about 35, of Detroit.

Jacques gave this account:

Williams entered the dining hall just as the convicts were starting supper. With him were Kerr, the pilot of his plane and several other officials.

"We were standing at the back of the hall by a glass door which goes into the kitchen," Jacques said.

Grab Governor

"Suddenly Hyatt, who was in the kitchen, opened the door and came out swinging a mop handle. Then Stearns grabbed the governor by the arms and dragged him into the kitchen."

Jacques, Kerr and James Nancarrow, chief kitchen steward, stayed with the governor.

The warden said Stearns menaced Williams with a big kitchen knife. Kerr went to the governor's aid, and Halstead turned on him with a smaller knife, wounding him twice in the back.

Warden Jacques shouted "Shoot to kill!"

Sergeant Kerr whipped out his gun and fired at his attacker as guards pulled Stearns away from Governor Williams and grabbed Hyatt.

Went Away Quietly

In the scuffle Nancarrow was cut on the forehead with a potato masher in the hands of another prisoner.

Kerr was the only member of the governor's part who was armed. All the time, Warden Jacques related, Stearns kept muttering "I've served 22 years—I've served 22 years."

The warden said most of the prisoners in the mess hall went away quietly when the alarm whistle was blown.

Prepare To Film Swimming Club

Peterborough is again hitting the film circuit. Jean-Marie Couture, top photographer of the National Film Board, Ottawa, arrived in the city this afternoon, to spend two or more days taking pictures of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club.

These pioneers of ornamental swimming who have achieved fame all over North America since their organization six years ago, have reached the climax of their success with this filming which will have world-wide showing in the "Eye Witness Series." The club is understood to be the only Swimming Club ever filmed in Canada.

This is the second time in six months that the National Film Board has visited this city. Last winter pictures were taken of the wolf hunt. It is impossible to over-estimate the fame that will be achieved by Peterborough as a result of these films of the Swimming Club according to Jim Fraser, General Manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Film shots of the club will be taken at the Lions' Club Community Pool and at the lift locks.

Accompanying Mr. Couture are Messrs. Fralley, Crouray and St. John.

The members of the Ornamental Swimming Club, under the coaching of Mrs. Pansy Forbes, include housewives and mothers, business girls and school girls between the ages of 13 and 26.

Two other youths, Kenneth Grimley, 19, and Pat Marino, 23, were arrested Saturday and charged together with Italiano, with armed robbery, shooting with intent to maim and automobile theft.

A fourth man, John Cowel, was held as a material witness. Police said Italiano's girl companion was picked up on a nominal charge of vagrancy "to ensure the recovery of the money."

Marino and Grimley appeared in court Saturday and were remanded to July 14. Italiano will appear in court today and is also expected to receive a remand.

Reinforcements Sent From U.S. To Aid In Korea

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The United States army has started dipping into the small, five-division mobile force stationed in the United States to hasten help for American forces rocked by an onrushing North Korean army.

The decision to order the 2nd Infantry Division and an unspecified number of smaller units from other organizations to the Far East came less than two weeks after the United States had stepped in to assist South Korea in repelling the invaders from the north.

Ponder Draft

It intensified the manpower problems confronting the military, sharpening questions about the current volunteer effort, whether the draft would have to be used, whether the National Guard eventually would be moved into the picture.

The so-called "mobile striking force" was created for deployment to any area where an emergency occurs. Pared down from original plans, it consists of the five divisions, plus the units needed to enable the combat divisions to fight.

Military chiefs had nothing to say about how much help Gen. MacArthur may have requested or how much the strategy-making joint chiefs of staff here believes he should get. MacArthur started out the Korean campaign with elements of one division. That and whatever he has committed to battle since is drawn from the four divisions of his Far East Command.

See How Others Are Living Appreciate Your Own Lot

By JACK SCOTT.

CALGARY, Alta.—In the cities the trailer camp, or "court" as they like to call them, flings together an odd mixture of humanity.

The stalls visible from the street are filled with a window-dressing of big, shining travelling homes of tourists from the United States (seven out of ten of them from California). Some of these caravans are splendid homes, representing an investment of up to $8,000 and $10,000. There's one near us now that's the last word in luxury and has, of all things, a sunken living room.

Farther back, out of sight from the road, hidden by the washrooms and laundries, there's a kind of hobo "jungle" where families live in abject poverty in packing cases or crude, box-like, windowless shacks in a manner that sickens and saddens you.

These people are from all over the country. Many of them are young couples whose incapabilities or hard luck have put them on the skids. We've met a good many of them. They're an unhappy lot, filled with bitterness and seemingly without the ability or desire to look after themselves properly.

Their hutches are filthy, their children run wild and unwashed. Near us now, living in a home-made trailer that a mad carpenter might have put together, are a woman and seven children. The father is in jail. The mother is out most nights on parties. The youngsters run loose.

Yesterday my wife made some lemonade and we had the five older children in. They reacted to our interest with an animation that was touching. I think it is true that children can go without almost everything but love.

Brave Woman

Being exposed to this seamier side of life is not without its benefits. You certainly appreciate your own lot when you see how others are living. And, too, you are apt to see some examples of real courage. Which brings me to the woman living in the car.

The other early afternoon when we pulled in here the woman was sitting behind the wheel of an old Dodge sedan a few feet from the location we had selected. She was a woman of perhaps 58 or 60, grey hair turning to white. She was reading a novel and looked up from the book to smile a welcome.

The woman was there all day and when we were having our dinner we saw that she was having fruit and a glass of milk. Around nine o'clock—and we were now frankly curious — we saw her pin towels to all the windows. Then the light in the dome of the car went out.

During the next two days we exchanged greetings and notes about the weather (hot and sticky) and finally I asked her if she would tell me her story.

It was very simply told. The doctor in the small northern Alberta town where she and her two grown sons have a farm told her she must consult a specialist in Calgary and remain here under observation for three months.

"We've precious little money," the woman said, "so I just decided I'd stay in the car. I drive down to the doctor's twice a week and the rest of my time I read or watch the activity about the camp. People have been very kind and I'm not without friends. The children always drop around for a little visit."

Each time I look across to that car in this bleak sand lot on the edge of town I wonder how many women would have the patience and the courage to keep their spirits high under such conditions.

Old Gypsies

The Californians we've met are a happy and contented lot. Most are retired couples whose children have grown and married.

"We bought a small trailer," one brown old boy told me, "and figured we'd go back and camp in the mountains to get rid of the summer heat. That started it. Next year we got a bigger model and started out. Covered 40,000 miles now, in the Yew-nited States, Canada and Mexico and we like it more every day.

They are all dying to have you look inside their roving cottages. Its remarkable how they've been given a lived-in look with chintz curtains, bridge lamps and knick-knacks.

The American trailer-builders, of course, are marvellously ingenious One company had gone so far as to build a trailer in the design of a Cape Cod cottage with white cedar siding, window boxes, with flowers in them, shutters, gay shingled roofs. . . . "everything but the picket fence." Another outfit puts up a caravan with a real fireplace.

The great object of all these wandering old-timers is to find the perfect place to settle down, to lower their places off the wheels and roam no more. Meantime they migrate. North in summer. The warm south of Florida in winter.

It's a good life and an interesting one, and I'm glad we've been able to have a taste of it.

Fine Five Farmers

KAPUSKASING, July 10 (CP) —Five farmers from nearby Moonbeam were fined a total of $150 Saturday for failing to destroy seed potatoes infected with bacterial ring rot after notification by the Ontario Agriculture Department.

HAVELOCK, July 10 (ENS)—When Joshua James Harnden left here in 1907 little did he realize that 43 years would elapse before he would re-visit the haunts of his youth.

Mr. Harnden returned recently and a joyful re-union was held with his two sisters Mrs. W. J. Seeney (Maggie Harnden) of Rush Point, Belmont Township, Mrs. William Hubble (Maud Harnden) of Norwood and his brother Charles of Belmont Township, none of whom would have recognized their brother had they met him casually in the street.

Mr. Harnden is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Harnden and came with his parents at the age of ten years from Haldimand Township to the McGill settlement in Belmont Township, where his father operated a sawmill on the property now owned by Mr. George Newton. Mr. Harnden as a boy took a keen interest in the work of a sawyer and the lumber business and decided to make it his vocation. His home is in Bellingham, Washington, U.S.A., where for the past 13 years he has worked for the Marietta Hardwood Company. Last winter he trained a man to take his place at the saw prior to his retirement in the spring when plans were made for his trip home. Before that he was employed for 14 years as head sawyer for the Bloedell and Donovan Lumber Company of Bellingham.

Worked In B.C.

When he first left here he worked in several places on the west coast of Canada before going to the U.S.A.

Since his marriage, 36 years ago to Nora Jorgenson of Minnesota, the couple have lived in Bellingham, where Mr. Harnden has built a beautiful new home which they will move into on their return. He is 71 years of age, and says he is good for another 20 years.

When Mr. Harnden left here, the road connecting Norwood and Havelock entered the village at what is now known as Old Havelock and at the west end of the village where Highways No's 7 and 20 connect. There was an old frame store with residence at the side known as the Pearce Block, a hotel and the Maiden's house and bakeshop, while across the street was an old building that one day was an hotel but had been converted into a grist mill. Now the picture is entirely changed with service stations, cabins and a store, so that on his arrival Mr. Harnden said that nothing looked familiar until he reached what was known as Balfour's Corners, three miles north of the village.

Visiting Old Boys

Mr. Harnden is getting great enjoyment through renewing acquaintances with the old boys and girls who in the old days lived in the vicinity of the White Church now known as the Rush Point United Church, and getting acquainted with the nieces and nephews whom he had never seen. His parents died during his absence, his father about 40 years ago and his mother 10 years ago.

Mrs. Harnden accompanied her husband on his trip to Havelock. The couple have no children.

Charged With Theft Apples Worth $1,586

COBOURG, July 10 (ENS) — John Argier of Toronto was remanded to July 28 on $1,000 bail on a charge of theft. He is alleged to have stolen $1,586.60 worth of apples from Joe Persofsky of Brighton on March 23. Charges of drunk driving and dangerous driving against Arnold Brown of Port Hope were adjourned to August 29.

Gilbert Jones of Cavan township, liquor charge repeater, was sentenced to three months in jail. Police found him asleep on the road. Jones said he had taken too many sleeping pills. He was asked about an empty bottle of rubbing alcohol. Jones said he used it for a sore foot. Jones wil sleep at the jail for three months.

TORONTO, July 10 (CP) — Tired of being called day and night by a woman who wants a lacrosse box removed from a park near her home, Reeve Lawrence Iles of suburban Long Branch has had his home telephone number changed and removed from the company's list. Wife, Father Start Search For Survivors

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., July 10 —(CP)—Six months ago, an American B-36 bomber with 17 men aboard crashed in the Queen Charlotte Islands, 400 miles northwest of Vancouver.

Twelve men parachuted to safety and were rescued. Five others are still missing.

To hunt for two of them, a Texas woman and an Oklahoma man left Prince Rupert yesterday in a small ketch.

Mrs. Neal Straley of Fort Worth, Texas, is looking for her husband, Sgt. Neal Straley

Mack Phillips of Graber, Okla., is looking for his son, Capt. William Phillips, 29, navigator of the ill-fated bomber.

Get Indian Guides

They headed for Butedale, a village on Princess Royal Island in the Queen Charlotte group. Princess Royal is about 100 miles south of here.

At Butedale, they'll pick up Indian guides and continue the search for probably three weks.

The bomber went down Feb. 13. The hunt through the jungle-like forests for Princess Royal Island for the five missing crew members lasted more than a week.

A life raft was later found in the sea and the R.C.A.F. said at that time it "pretty well established that the men perished" in the Pacific.

Clean Up Trading

HAMILTON, N.Y., July 10 (AP) —A top British trade official Sunday night said the United States and Great Britain should lead the way in ending "discriminatory" international trade practices. Sir Sydney Caine, head of the United Kingdom treasury and supply delegation in the United States, proposed that course as a means toward world security.

New Electronic Microscope To Fight Cancer In Canada

MONTREAL, July 10 (CP) — An electronic microscope, set up at McGill University principally for cancer research, will magnify an object 100,000 times its size.

Developed in Eindhoven, Netherlands, the microscope is first of its kind to be used in Canada. Another one is to be set up shortly in laboratories of the Department of National Health and Welfare in Ottawa.

Dr. A. C. Van Dorsten, electronic scientist, who developed the microsope was expected today under the auspices of McGill University Cytological Laboratories to address research technicians for cancer research institutes and radio therapists from Montreal hospitals.

Uses Electron Beam

The microscope is one of the first of its kind on display. Properly known as a 100-kv electron microscope, it used a ray of electrons to magnify an object Instead of employing ground glass lenses as are used in an ordinary light microscope—which magnifies only 2,000 times—it has magnetic coils which are used to focus and magnify an object

Dr. Van Dorsten has been lecturing to medical and atomic research scientists in the United States on design and principles of the microscope.

He will spend four days in Canada when he will speak at NRC laboratories in Ottawa Tuesday and meet scientists from Chalk River, Ont., atomic energy establishment and later in Toronto to members of the University of Toronto's electro-microscopy department.

Municipal First Steps In Newfoundland

Other Canadian towns and cities have been convulsed by the post-war expansions and increases in populations. In attempting to provide hospitals, schools, pavement, water mains, fire protection and other municipal services they have had a pretty difficult time. What must be the throes of Newfoundland municipalities faced with similar post-war problems and, at the same time, with post-Confederation changes? Before the federation on March 31, last year, Newfoundland municipalities had not civic government in the usual Canadian sense. Now they have to start from scratch. Only St. John's is fully organized civically. The rest have to learn to stand on their own feet at a time when post-war circumstances demand that they run.

• • •

Newfoundland centres' chief problem is that they have never had property taxes. They were operated financially by the central government, or by companies. Corner Brook, with a population now nearing 20,000, is an example.

• • •

Corner Brook is a thriving, prosperous community. It was originally a pulp and paper company town. Municipal services were provided at very low charges by the company. When it ceased to be a company town, property owners still paid no taxes; what services there were were financed from government money got mainly from import duties. Now Corner Brook is having to look after itself as a municipality, and its people are not used to it. Particularly, they are not used to paying property taxes. Confederation and civic status have come at a time when the town is under the same post-war boom pressures as other Canadian towns. So Corner Brook is in double trouble; as an infant self-governing community it must provide greatly needed, expanded services.

• • •

Before the people of Newfoundland towns accept their new civic responsibilities easily and their burdens as new tax-payers willingly, they have to develop civic consciousness. An vigorous civic campaign is now under way in Corner Brook for this very purpose. Self-supporting self-government is desirable and valuable, but its ways are difficult.

Misinformation Harms Tourist Tourist Business

The Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity has reported the existence of a stupid offence and is on the lookout for the offenders. It tells of persons misinforming tourists, with the intention of keeping the tourists where they were when misinformed. It may be someone in a border communnity who hopes to profit by the tourists' stay, and warns against going further because all resorts are filled. It may be a resort operator further inland, greedy for business, who advises against further travel "because there is nothing else to see."

Fortunately, this abuse is rare, according to the department. It happens often enough, however, to warrant a search for the offenders, and we wish the department every success in its efforts. Furthermore, we hope there is some fitting form of penalty which may be imposed on such persons, for in seeking to profit personally they may actually be discouraging a number of tourists from returning to this country.

Big Difference Between Chicago's Canal and Niagara's Business

Reports from Washington say that certain United States Senators, who are opposing the proposal to allow the diversion of the Niagara River for further power development, are basing their opposition on the ground that the diversion would interfere with the possible development of the St. Lawrence Seaway. They are said to have cited, as a case in point, the diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago, and its subsequent effect on the water levels of the Great Lakes.

Many of our readers will remember the furore caused by the Chicago diversion. At that time the sewage and drainage problems of the Illinois metropolis were acute, and the solution finally reached was the building of a drainage canal which would divert Great Lakes water, to flow southward into the Mississippi system. An agreement was signed limiting the flow of water which could be so diverted.

The flow set by the agreement was later claimed insufficient to meet Chicago's needs, and the city then proceeded to help itself to what it considered necessary, exceeding the flow provided by the agreement. This action was labelled the Chicago "steal" in the press of both the United States and Canada, and it was widely blamed for lowering water levels of the Great Lakes.

There is, however, no true parallel between the two cases. At Niagara, the proposed diversion will merely mean another channel in which Great Lakes water will flow back into the Great Lakes on its normal course to the sea. While diverted, it will be used to produce power. It can have no possible effect on water levels, nor can it interfere with the St. Lawrence Seaway project. It is to be hoped that the badly-needed Niagara project will not be defeated or postponed because of an argument as untenable as that noted above.

Slowly Busy Post Office

Peterborough Post Office continues to be a busy, crowded place, both behind and in front of the wickets. American summer visitors add to its work as the receiving and distributing centre of mail from the Kawartha resorts, and at the wickets. The staff must be impatiently awaiting the roomier quarters of the projected Federal Building. Certainly the public will be happier and better served. Friday morning before eleven there was a line of a dozen people at the General Delivery wicket; as the head of the line dropped off, other people came in to replace them. The result was a constant queue for a quarter-hour at least, and a wait for everybody in it of five or ten minutes. As an American visitor in the line remarked patiently: pretty slow, isn't it? It should not be necessary to have to wait five minutes to buy a three-cent stamp. We should mention that at that time, for some reason or other, the stamp wicket was kept closed, so everybody had to do business at the General Delivery wicket.

793 Years Of Imprisonment

A total of 793 years of imprisonment has been imposed upon 195 members of the Sons of Freedom, the fanatical sect of Doukhobors who have been making so much trouble in British Columbia. It cannot have been an easy job for judge and jury to decide these cases or to impose sentence, for the Sons of Freedom are completely convinced that they are in the right, and that they are are being unjustly used. Their crimes, they say, are not crimes against the spirit of Christ. They believe that they are following in the steps of such men as Wesley, Knox and Gandhi. One of them said to the judge (Mr. Justice Coady), "We don't blame you, for you are a good man." We venture to say that this somewhat disturbed his lordship's equanimity; it is an unusual experience for a judge to be put in the wrong on his own bench, and to forgive a man publicly is one of the subtlest of all methods of putting him in the wrong.

The strength of the Sons of Freedom is in their faith in the rightness of their actions. We do not believe that many people will be found who believe that they have behaved in an admirable way. But faith is an extremely dangerous quality when it is not balanced by knowledge and intelligence. History abounds with instances of bad behaviour which have been excused by faith.

The lesson which we learn from the Sons of Freedom is that no religion can rise higher than the intelligence of the people who profess it, and faith in the righteousness of one's own actions is no guarantee they are of any special value.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Even a worm will turn, but that does not stop him from being a worm.

Why The South Koreans Cracked

From a Correspondent with the U.S. Military H.Q. in South Korea

WHILE American troops move forward in South Korea to take over from the badly-disorganized and demoralized South Korean Army, there is still considerable controversy here over the reasons for the South Koreans' inability to stand up before the North Korean invasion.

◇ ◇ ◇

UNITED States military advisers, members of the United Nations Commission and many observers were at first inclined to condemn the South Koreans as lacking in fighting spirit. As the confusion of the first days of the Korean battle begins to wear away, however, more serious assessment tends to give the South Koreans far more credit.

THE American-trained South Korean army, as observed by me in the field, is probably as good—man for man—as any that the Russians sent across the 38th parallel on June 25. There were plenty of instances during the past week's fighting in which South Korean troops folded and ran when the North Koreans fired a few shots into their ranks. But this happened in numerous cases during the Pacific war when American troops entered the front lines for the first time and tried to fight before being battle-hardened. And it must be remembered that the South Koreans had little in the way of weapons to hold a line which was being hammered by 40-ton tanks covered by planes.

BALANCED against instances of premature retreat are other cases of extreme heroism on the part of South Korean Army officers and men. There is the case, for instance, of the South Korean battalion which stood up against three thousand charging North Korean cavalrymen until all ammunition had run out. And there are also instances such as the South Korean Commander on the North-East sector of the 38th parallel who is still holding on today although completely cut off.

HE is reported to have said he would fight the war the way his American advisers told him, and promptly led his men across the 38th parallel in counter-attack. When reinforcements failed to back him up he retired to his former position in the mountains, where he is now fighting an effective guerrilla warfare on the enemy's right flank. For the sake of the record, therefore, it would be premature and unfair to condemn the South Koreans as poor fighters.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT must be remembered, firstly, that the South Korean Army until recently was nothing more than a constabulary evolved out of the United States occupation army's need for more guards. Even after it was converted into a fully-fledged army, the United States would not permit it equipment and weapons more than those necessary to preserve internal order. At no time in its history was the South Korean Army built up or organized to resist external aggression, much less to mount an offensive beyond its own borders.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE South Korean Government tried vainly to get more offensive weapons. And they even tried to get S.C.A.P. (Supreme Command, Allied Powers in Japan) permission for Japanese technicians to help build small-arms ammunition plant to supplement their meagre stores. The North Koreans, on the other hand, had been trained and equipped, it is now glaringly apparent, for offensive action against its southern brethren. And it can now be said safely that while Russian delegates were seated at the table with their United States counterparts in 1948, ostensibly Army advisers were whipping the North Korean Army into shape for solution by military invasion.

THE North Korean Army which crossed the parallel on the morning of June 25 was better-equipped than any other Asiatic Army in history, excepting, of course, the Japanese. Its columns were led by tanks resembling the big German Mark Four type, mounting 80 millimetre cannon forward and with a secondary turret mounting twin heavy machine-guns to cover flank and rear attacks. From behind the front lines it bombarded the South Korean position with what appeared to be an unlimited supply of heavy artillery, ranging up to the 155 m.m. class. The North Korean invasion force, moreover, had an air fleet of Russian Yaks numbering well over one hundred. It had amphibious landing craft and a late design of motor torpedo boats. And at least two of its dozen or more divisions of ground troops until recently had been fighting as an integral part of the Chinese Communist armies of General Lin Piao — they were battle-trained and fire-hardened.

AGAINST this formidable invasion machine the South Koreans were like David minus his sling. The South Koreans had excellent field training, good motorized transportation equipment and well-integrated communications. But they had no tanks, no aeroplanes, no amphibious assault craft and little artillery. After the North Koreans had pushed into Seoul on June 27 South Koreans were forced to flee across the Han River, leaving themselves little more than hand weapons.

◇ ◇ ◇

SOME might argue, that the South Koreans should have put up stiffer resistance north of Seoul. But it must be remembered that there was no foreknowledge of the North Korean attack until the troops actually crossed the border. And this, while obviously a failure on the part of the South Koreans themselves, was an even greater failure of American intelligence, which had one of its most capable units stationed south of the 38th parallel.

◇ ◇ ◇

ONCE the South Koreans were forced back across the Han River south of Seoul there was little with which to combat the North Korean military machine. Units, at present, are disorganized. Liaison between units on the front lines is disrupted. And intelligence —most vitally needed weapon—is in a state of chaos. The North Koreans in some cases even telephoned South Korean units and gave erroneous intelligence reports which led to greater confusion—a stratagem which was easily executed because of the common language and the confusion of that time. It is little wonder, therefore, that the South Korean Chief of Staff, before he was relieved of his command on June 29, was forcibly restrained on at least two occasions from committing suicide.

Two-Bottle Men In Britain

(B.B.C. Bulletin)

Who has not heard of the two-bottle men who every night after dinner were alleged to drink two bottles of port, becoming tipsily jollier or more irascible according to temperament? Few men in Britain nowadays can afford two bottles of any kind of wine at dinner, even if they want it, and BBC reporter Rene Cutforth, who went to a London exhibition of English drinking vessels from the sixteenth to nineteenth centuries, has now exploded the two-bottle legend of other days. He never seriously believed that a man could go on drinking two bottles of port every night for more than a month at most, and the explanation of their apparent excesses which he found at the exhibition is simple. Eighteenth century bottles were hemispheres of black glass with a bulge in the bottom big enough to put a fist into and they only held half a pint. "I'm told, too," said Cutforth, "that the port in those days was not half so strongly reinforced as it is today." Nevertheless, our great-great-grandfathers used to drink enough to get the most formidable hangovers and he saw a grim reminder of the physical shortcomings allied to the pleasures of two-bottle indulgence in a tongue scraper, revolting in its use, but itself a pretty little thing made of silver gilt and ivory.

The exhibition contained bottles of all kinds, starting with stoneware sack bottles of the sixteenth century and progressing through wine bottles to decanters. Books on wine were also on show, some of them containing recipes for the most doughty brews of liquor. The one that took Cutforth's fancy was called "The Gentlewoman's Companion —a Guide to the Female Sex" by Hannah Woolley. It was written in the sixteenth century and the gentle Hannah included a recipe for "a wine like claret but by many degrees brisker." It must have been quite frightingly brisk, for this is how it was made: "Take two gallons of your best cider, mingle it with six gallons of water; put thereunto eight pounds of the best Malaga raisins; let them stand close-covered in a warm place for a fortnight, stirring every two days: then press out the raisins and put the liquor into the same vessel again. Add a quart of raspberry juice and a pint of black cherry juice. Cover this liquor with bread, thick-spread with mustard, mustard side down; and let it work by the fireside for three or four days. Then turn it up and let it stand a week and then bottle it up and it will taste as quick as the briskest liquor whatever."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Moses and the priests the Levites spake unto all Israel, saying, Take heed, and hearken, O Israel; this day thou art become the people of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt therefore obey the voice of the Lord thy God, and do his commandments and his statutes, which I command thee this day. (Deut. 27:.9, 10.)

For this commandment which I command thee this day, it is not hidden from thee, neither is it far off.... But the word is very high unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it.

See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil; in that I command thee this day to love the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his judgements, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the Lord thy God shall bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it....

I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live: that thou mayest love the Lord thy God, and that thou mayest obey his voice, and that thou mayest cleave unto him: for he is thy life, and the length of thy days. (Deut. 30: 11, 14-16, 19, 20.)

Letter To The Editor

SUGGESTS ANNUAL FIREWORKS

Sir: May I take this method of expressing the thanks of my family and myself to those responsible for the wonderful program of aquatic sports and fireworks put on here the evening of July 1st. In my opinion it was the finest show, free or otherwise, put on in Peterborough for many years.

Would it be possible for the Service Clubs' Council to institute a fund each spring to which citizens could contribute a dollar or two with a view to a similar fireworks display on the twenty-fourth of May. I, for one, would sooner contribute to a really worthwhile display than buy the few, weak, insignificant roman candles, sparklers, etc., that can be bought for a dollar or so.

Thanking you for this valuable space, I am,
Yours truly,
MARLOW BANKS.

Loathsome Cruelty

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Some animals eat their young. This is a revolting thought, but not so revolting as the news from the province of Quebec where a young mother beat her year-old child until it was unconscious, cut off the big toe on the infant's right foot and left it half-clad in an open barn. The judge has ordered a mental examination of the woman. For the sake of faith in motherhood, it will be hoped the doctors find she was not mentally responsible.

Overflow Crowd Hear Service For Orangemen

MARMORA, July 10 (ENS). — Loudspeakers were needed to carry the special Orangemen's service to an overflow crowd of about 150 outside the Anglican Church at Millbridge on Sunday.

Orange Lodges of No. 2 District Centre Hastings paraded to the church for their annual Orange service.

In attendance were County Master John B. Hagerman, a number of Past County Masters, District Master Gordon Moffatt, and Grand Lodge Officer Richard Sanderson of Havelock. On parade were approximately 60 members of LOBA as well as about 80 members of the Order. The service was conducted by Rev. T. H. Good, who gave a discourse on allegiance to the ideals of Protestantism, choosing as his text: "Take fast hold of instruction," Proverbs 4, 13. "Thou has given a banner to them that fear thee that it may be displayed because of the truth," Psalm 60, 4.

The lessons were read by Past County Master W. J. Cottrell and Mrs. J. McCaw, Chaplain of Millbridge LOBA.

Mrs. Harold Lloyd of Bannockburn officiated at the organ, and with George Wiley and Mrs. Bert Simpson made up a trio which rendered "Beautiful Garden of Prayer." The church, with accommodation for about 100 was filled to the door. About the same number, unable to enter, heard the service on the church grounds by means of a loudspeaker system. Following the service the Lodges walked to the Orange Lodge, where sisters and brethren formed a circle to be briefly addressed again by Rev. T. H. Good, County Master Hagerman, District Master Gordon Moffatt, Past County Master Cottrell, and Mrs. Garnet Davidson. Lodges represented in the parade were Havelock, Tanner, Springbrook, Eldorado, Nickle, Marmora and Millbridge and Queensboro.

Press, Theatre, Schools Used To Get Chinese Reds

By WILLIAM PARROTT

HONG KONG, July 9 (Reuters) Through press and radio, cinema and theatre, in the schools, universities and countless study groups up and down the country, an unrelenting campaign is being waged today to convert the people of China to Communism.

Theme of the campaign is that only through Communism on the Russian model can the ordinary people of China achieve salvation.

Reports and broadcasts heard here show that China's 450,000,000 people are daily being urged to follow the leadership and precepts of Soviet Russia and to reject and oppose everything representative of western democracy.

Nor is the message directed only at the one-fifth of the world's population which lives within the frontiers of China. Through multi-language broadcasts, it is aimed also at millions more in near and neighboring countries.

Nothing In Favor

In many months of work, the official Chinese Communist news agency has said not a single word in favor of the western democracies—and nothing whatever against Russia and her European satelites.

The United States is the chief butt of criticism. China's teeming population is told every day that the United States and her leaders are "imperialistic warmongers" seeking to enslave the fatherland.

Every aspect of American policy thought to be detrimental to Communist interests is attacked forcibly and bitterly.

In one onslaught, directed against Gen. Douglas MacArthur for banning the Communist party in Japan, the agency told its readers that "American troops are propagating the 'American democratic way of life' in Japan by murder, rape, robbery and violence, looting, and black market dealings on the largest scale."

Britain is accused of being an American puppet, while her colonial administration in Malaya and Hong Kong are frequently attacked for alleged injustices to Chinese.

One country coming increasingly under fire is Australia with her "reactionary" government and her "arrogant" white Australia policy. Another recent target has been South Africa, which, like Australia, has introduced legislation directed at the Communists.

Bears, Lions Offered Only Milk In India

JUNAGADH, India, July 10 — (Reuters)—Fourteen bears in the zoo pace their cages and curse their luck at having to make do with milk when they want meat.

Local slaughter houses have closed to mark a Hindu sacred month and there is a shortage of meat from other sources.

Vegetable also are "off," due to local dysentry troubles, and so the zoo was forced to turn to milk.

Some animals, strictly from hunger, have accepted the insulting offerings.

But the lions—there are five of them—have steadfasly shunned the stuff, knocking away pails of it with contemptuous flicks of their paws.

Death Toll 14 Three Drownings

Fourteen deaths marred the Ontario week-end.

There were three drownings in the Sudbury area. Harold Wise, of Findlay, was feared drowned when his empty boat was found after he had gone fishing. Drowned in Ramsay Lake were Alex Boyko, 19, of Alvina, Sask., and Aime Laberge, 32. Other drownings were Garrett Emmons, 16, Dunville, in Lake Scugog, and James A. Dowsley Kingston of Prescott, died of burns suffered in an explosion and fire at a lighthouse off Point Pelee on Lake Erie.

British Woman MP Raps War Movies

LONDON, July 10—(Reuters) —Dr. Edith Summerskill, sharp-tongued national insurance minister, Saturday hit out at boxing matches and war movies as "uncivilized" and "sadistic" influences on British youth.

She warned women at a Labor Party gathering against allowing their boys to see boxing matches or listen to broadcasts of them.

The recent top-flight heavyweight match between Britain's Bruce Woodcock and Lee Savold of New Jersey, for instance, she described as "not amusing nor instructive, but only brutalizing to those who saw it or listened in." Savold won it.

Tackling producers of war movies on the same ground, Dr. Summerskill said they "appeal to the sadistic impulses of man and thus helped to play their awful part in promoting war."

Dr. Summerskill is the mother of a boy and a girl.

American Army Reverses Boost S. Koreans' Morale

By O. H. P. KING

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, July 10—(AP)— Curiously, American reverses in early small-scale combat with North Korean troops have boosted the morale of the South Korean Army, United States military sources said today.

The South Koreans now are outfighting their northern brothers in every flash of infantry against infantry. Since practically all of the North Korean armor is committed against the American forces, this means that the South Koreans are holding their own and even gaining ground.

Regained Face

The matter of morale rests on the fact that the North Korean armor defeated the Americans too. The South Koreans have regained face, an important factor in the Fast East.

The northern invaders have an unknown number of men along the extensive front from the east coast close to the 37th parallel to where the American forces are lined up near the west coast.

Without disclosing military information it can be said that the North Korean army strength was practically equalled, numerically, by the Republic of Korea army at the outset—each reported to have about 100,000 men. Since then, however, the South Koreans have been disorganized and hurt by casualties.

The northern strength now is placed at 15 divisions containing about 6,000 combat troops in each division, plus an unknown number of service and supporting troops.

Losses Undisclosed

When the war started June 24 South Korea was able to send about 50,000 combat troops against the invaders. Losses have not been disclosed, but many southern troops cut off by the swift progress of the armored motorized columns of the enemy have sifted back and been reorganized.

Simple recruitment—picking up of able bodied males—probably has brought the numerical army strength to that of the invaders. Training is something else again.

The Americans alone now are operating in the area leading back to Suwon and Seoul. The South Koreans hold the assignment from the U.S. right flank all the way to the eastern seaboard.

Lacrosse Petes Take Win From Brampton, 12 to 10

By FRED MAYBEE

Red Creighton's husky senior lacrosse stalwarts displayed their best form in Brampton Saturday night, to defeat Excelsior 12-10 in a game replete with thrills of every description that had 1,800 fans rocking with applause throughout. It was a humdinger.

Rising to heights that would captivate their support at home, the Peterborough boys matched every style of p[illegible] their rivals adopted, in a great show of versatility. In the roughing exchanges Brampton were rocked by Creighton's big thumpers led by Fitzgerald and Kinna. It was a fast, rugged tilt with 19 penalties in all, 11 to Peterborough. Excelsiors were met by a well-organized defence coupled with the strategy and spice of Lou Vitarelli, Ashbee, Em Creighton, Dugan, Thorpe, Dootch Vitarelli and Fitzgerald, who each garnered three scoring points. Kinna and Magee had one apiece.

Though not point-getters, the the Breakspears, Horton and Nolan all gave their best. Coach Creighton praised his starting line as a unit with 15 points but equally lauded the rest of the crew. Don Ashbee lost five front teeth on a slash from Garbutt in the second for the most serious injury of the play and failure to penalize the latter brought loud protests from Creighton, Ken Kingston, Ashbee and his mates, but to no avail. Don himself was cooped for beefing instead.

In Great Form

Ralph Speck showed fans why he is rated tops with an amazing display in the cage, particularly in the final stages. He blanked his rivals for the last 18 minutes and 20 seconds of play and made some miraculous saves. Arthurs also shone in his end.

For Brampton, Severson, Browning, Landess, Chard, Gowland, Sheppherd, Cruikshanks, Madgett and Arthurs stood out in defeat.

Toronto Aces Blank Petes In Keen Viaduct Loop Tilt

The Petes missed out on a chance to take over third place alone in the Viaduct Baseball League here Saturday as Toronto Aces—fighting for top spot with Oshawa—whitewashed them 4-0 before a fair-sized crowd in Riverside Park. Though held to six hits, the Aces made the most of them, plus one costly error and some free tickets to first.

Big Alf Williams scattered seven hits and fanned five, while getting perfect support in the field. Doug Plunkett gave only four hits in seven heats, but walked half a dozen. Gunner Ed Whitehill finished it up, allowing two hits and one more run. The visitors had three earned markers, as the Petes kicked in with two miscues. Each side pulled off a double play and Lowrey had a fine running catch back of second.

Three In Four

Keith Bell led Aces at bat with a double and two singles in four to drive home two runs. Williams drove in one as he go. a double and single in three. Howie Dalton and Paul Estlick each clouted out two for four, and Lowrey two in five tries. Plunkett was given the loss, after being removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

A walk to Greenaway, a sacrifice by Williams and a single by Bell meant a Toronto run in the third. Two counted in the fifth on walks to Greenaway and Wallace, an error and a single by Bell. In the ninth, Malloy hit to left, moved up on a sacrifice by Greenaway and scored on Williams' double, doing a standing somersault as he reached the plate. The Petes left 10 aboard, making their best bid in the eighth with three runners on bases, but lacking the power in the pinches.

Quinte Team Defeated By UE Eleven

The first visit of a Belleville soccer eleven to the city created a good impression with the local fans Saturday evening when UE defeated them 6-3 in an Eastern League match on King Edward Park before a large attendance.

Belleville lost the toss to start and were minus a player against the full quota of the local team. Willis broke up a Belleville raid to feed Murduff at centre forward, and he let Strong head the ball into the net. Within a minute Gemmell got the equalizer on an individual effort. UE replied with a steady combination and Boyd registered with an oblique shot for the UE second goal. Gemmell again came into the limelight with smart dribbling to bulge the rigging with a rising shot. Encouraged by their success Gemmell and Barclay forced the issue for the former to rattle the crossbar with the custodian out of position. A faulty clearance by the visiting netter allowed Strong to get the ball on the run to centre, across to Willis, who made the count read 3-2 for UE.

Goalie Brilliant

On resuming, Balker, Belleville goalie, made spectacular saves from Duffus and Featherstone. They came back into the picture again with a systematic attack that had the UE full-backs in a quandary. Lane, Belleville, conceded a penalty kick that Jimmie Craig failed to register from the spot. Immediately Strong broke away fast to find the corner of the upright. At this point Scott, Belleville, had to retire through an injury. Strong enacted the same performance on the next visit. Barclay and Gemmell reduced the count a few minutes later to make it 5-3. A last-minute dash by Featherstone resulted in Willis connecting for the final goal.

Belleville — L. Blaker, goal; F. Terry and R. Lane, backs; S. Scott, J. Cathcart and J. Williamson, half-backs; T. Barclay, A. Gemmell, R. Alexander, and J. Cox, forwards.

UE — J. Hutchison, goal; S. McGann and J. Craig, backs; H. Steel, S. Willis and H. Latham, half-backs; R. Strong, A. Boyd, S. Murduff, A. Duffus and A. Featherstone, forwards; sub, E. Downer.

Referee—Jack Adams.

Petes Defeated

O'Hallorans defeated Petes on Saturday afternoon 4-0 in a league match on King Edward Park before a small attendance.

Right from the kick-off O'Hallorans dominated the play to open the scoring through Davis on an individual effort. Petes replied with an aggressive campaign that failed to penetrate the winners' defence. On a pass from H. Foster, Davis made it 2-0, to be followed by H. Foster with an accurate scoring opportunity to make it read 3-0 at the interval.

On resuming, Petes carried the attack within the O'Halloran goal to find the custodian giving no openings to count. After five minutes of play, Newman rattled a low grounder inside the upright. H. Foster registered the fourth counter to end the game 4-0.

Petes — W. Cribbis, goal; K. Downer and N. Downer, backs; A. Downer, Don Downer, and Alf Downer, half-backs; J. Parks, J. Hennessy, H. Payne, N. Lane and E. Lane, forwards.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Biggest crowd of the season—at four bits a head—took in the softball exhibition at the Bowl d'Ashburnham on Saturday eve. They saw Toronto Tip Tops (world's senior champs) and the local All-Stars—with some Toronto help—go to a nine-inning 5-5 draw. And they got their money's worth. Even though they did a bit of clowning, the Toppers showed they are plenty good and would be mighty hard to beat when really working. They're practically pros and they know the fastball answers. Charlie Justice didn't strain himself, yet he threw three-hit ball (working for the locals six innings) and fanned 13. He has oodles of speed and stuff.

* * * * * *

Sam Shefsky brought a full team, except for Good Rosen, who was in a golf tourney. And they made it a good show, being entertained after at Johnny Russelle's. The local all-stars did well, also, having but two errors and getting 13 hits. Bill Crowley got a homer and single in two. Tony Giardino two in two tries, and Howie Dalton two in five appearances. Justice hit a homer, also, for the home squad and Miley (the colored catcher) two doubles. Al Menzies sprained his ankle after a hit, but should be back in action in a day or two. Montreal softballers — with Bill Durnan pitching—play the all-stars here next Saturday.

Goose Egg In The Heat

At Riverside on Saturday aft—'twas hotter than old Nick's hangout—Toronto Aces did a 4-0 job on the Petes to keep up with Oshawa in the Viaduct Baseball League scramble. Petes are scrapping now for third spot with New Toronto, and could have used that win. However, they're looking for a victory here Wednesday e'en over Dovers to keep in the race. Just lacked clutch clouts in a keen contest, leaving 10 stranded. Only Estlick, Dalton and Lowrey were hitting up to size this struggle, though Alf Williams is a pretty capable pitcher for the Aces. And he had perfect support.

* * * * * *

As we've said before, this Toronto circuit is no cinch and every club in there comes up at times with some smart all-around ball to upset the dope. Bell and Williams got five of the six hits doled out by Plunkett and Whitehill, but the team used three walks—Doug was a bit wild for a change on Saturday—and one miscue to score their runs, three of them earned. Two neat double-plays and a running catch by Lowrey, who came a long way in to pick one off back of second. Danny Brown continues to please the fans with his fine throwing from deep short. The Aces' second-sacker also played real deep, looking like another right fielder. A fair crowd braved the blistering sun.

Lacrossers Get Another

Those senior lacrosse Petes are playing some swell games lately, edging St. Kitts here last home start and taking a 12-10 win in Brampton on Saturday. They should garner another verdict in Toronto tomorrow, with the team playing up to form. The Creighton crew didn't get any the best of the refereeing Saturday as Peart and Cassidy gave 'em 11 penalties to eight. One went to Don Ashbee for protesting when they didn't penalize a Brampton player, despite the fact that Don had five front teeth knocked out in a slash. Whole squad starred both on the attack and defensively, and they bumped the Excelsiors into exhaustion in the late stages. They're rolling now, and tied for second with Brampton.

Girls' and men's softball schedules end in less than two weeks. They have a few postponements to work in, and then take a two-week rest ere commencing semi-final playoffs. Lasses' jousts at the Bowl this evening, starting at seven: CGE vs. Woollens, and Ashby's vs. Marines. Wednesday has Woollens vs. Marines, and CGE vs. Ashby's. Men's melees there on the morrow: Orphans vs. UEW, and Mutuals vs. East City. We haven't heard yet when postponements will be staged. Top three teams in the men's loop are in playoffs, second and third going in the best-of-seven semi-finals. Four girls' teams stage two semi-final serials.

Weslock Wins Ont. Amateur Defeats Matlock 4 and 2

TORONTO, July 10 (CP)—The familiar story of a putt that headed straight for the pin, only to bounce out, cost courageous young Tony Matlock the Ontario amateur golf title.

The putt that wouldn't drop choked off a fighting rally by the Kitchener kid in Saturday's final at the Toronto Golf Club and left the way open for Nick Weslock of Windsor Essex to pull his game together, shoot a brilliant eagle on the following hole, and finish off the 36th amateur final with a 4 and 2 victory.

But Nick, a 32-year-old veteran whose steady play had been an outstanding feature of the tournament, needed the break to stave off a Matlock rally that had the new champion faltering on the last nine.

Down five holes with seven to play, the 21-year-old Kitchener Rockway youngster won three in a row, pressuring his opponent into making bad shots and leaving himself a two-hole deficit to overcome with four to play.

On the 33rd hole, Weslock hooked his drive into the rough, but made a beautiful recovery to the edge of the green. Matlock, on in two, needed two putts to have the hole—but the second bounced out. Recovering his poise Weslock sank a 15-footer for his agle on the 34th and it was all over.

The victory served as added insurance for Weslock's spot on Ontario's Willingdon Cup team at Saskatoon Alre[illegible]ured of a spot by finishing on top in four qualifying tests that ended with last week's qualifying round for the amateur, Nick took the automatic spot that goes to the amateur champion.

Boston Braves Pushing Leaders On Top Pitching

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The word "pennant" is back in the vocabulary of Boston baseball fans and they're not referring to the Red Sox. They're whooping it up over Billy Southworth's Braves.

The third-place Braves today are only two games out of first place in the National League. They have won 17 out of their last 25 games, a roaring .680 clip. June 14 the Braves trailed the pack by 6½ games.

Pitching has put the Braves where they are. In the beginning Warren Spahn and Johnny Sain carried the load. Then Vern Bickford got into the groove and recently Bob Chipman began to click.

The Braves inched to within two games of the pace-setting Philadelphia Phils yesterday as Bickford turned in a brilliant 3-2, 13-inning victory over New York Giants. Bickford limited the Giants to eight hits and only three walks and won out on some daring base running by Sam Jethroe who opened the last of the 13th against Sal Maglie with a double and stole third. One out later Maglie intentionally walked Earl Torgeson, Sid Gordon followed with a grounder to Maglie who bluffed Jethroe back to third and then attempted an inning-ending double play.

Limps Home

Maglie's throw pulled Ed Stanky off second and Jethroe, who injured his left instep in his steal of third, limped across the plate with the winning run as Gordon beat Stanky's relay to first.

The Phils were trounced 7-3 by Brooklyn Dodgers but maintained their one-game edge over St. Louis. The Cards dropped a 3-2 decision to the tail-end Pittsburgh Pirates. Cincinnati Reds took two from Chicago Cubs, 6-0 and 6-5.

The pennant race in the American League tightened as Cleveland Indians knocked off the league-leading Detroit Tigers twice, 6-2 and 5-2, in Detroit. The defeats cut the Tigers' margin over the runner-up New York Yankees to three games. The Yanks tripped Boston Red Sox 3-1.

Lemon Wins 12th.

Bob Lemon outpitched Art Houtteman to post his 12th victory in the opener. Lemon had a 5-0 lead before Gerry Priddy homered in the sixth for Detroit's first run. The Tigers assumed a 2-0 lead against Mike Garcia in the first four innings of the nightcap but the Indians jumped on rookie Saul Rogovin for three runs in the sixth and added two more in the seventh off Fred Hutchinson to win going away.

Lefty Eddie Lopat scattered nine Red Sox hits to post his 10th victory before 53,097 fans in Yankee Stadium. Lopat blanked the Sox until the eighth when three successive singles produced the Boston run.

St. Louis tied Philadelphia Athletics for seventh place by beating Chicago White Sox 4-2 while the A's split a twin bill with Washington Senators. The A's won the opener 6-5 but lost the nightcap 2-0.

Buffalo Bisons Snatch Two From Montreal

By The Associated Press.

Buffalo Bisons have won only two International League pennants in 22 years—last season under Paul Richards and in 1936 under Ray Schalk.

Richards, after losing in the post-season playoffs, signed a two-year contract to manage Seattle Rainers of the Pacific Coast League. Frank Skaff was brought in as his replacement.

But when the Bisons started poorly this season, struggling in the cellar, Skaff was released. The Buffalo management looked around for a suitable successor, and it came up with—that's right—Ray Schalk, the only man ever to win the post-season pot for Buffalo.

The Bisons still are in last place but, somehow, the sun seems to be shining a bit brighter in Buffalo today. Maybe it was the double victory over the tough Montreal Royals yesterday. But the Bisons, as a whole, have been playing much better since Schalk took over.

The Bisons temporarily spoiled Montreal's bid for second place by taking the five-game series from the Royals 4-1. Yesterday's scores were 8-3 and 3-2.

Toronto Wins

Toronto conked the league-leading Rochester Red Wings 7-5 as right-fielder Buddy Heslet provided the winning margin with a two-run homer in the eighth.

A five-run blast in the ninth inning by the Little Giants broke up a 4-4 ball game. Al Cihocki hit two homers for Baltimore. Gerry Burmeister's ninth-inning single—his fourth hit of the game—won the first game for Baltimore.

Syracuse scored a 9-8 decision over Springfield Cubs in the day's other game.

22 Track Records Smashed Toronto Juniors Take Nine

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO, July 10 (CP) — You probably wouldn't recognize the Canadian junior track and field record book after the Friday-Saturday spree in the annual junior championships. The 'teenagers—from 14 to 19—from various parts of Canada wiped 22 old marks off its pages.

Most of the honors, and records, went to the Toronto Red Devils but such spots as Montreal and St. Lambert, Que.; Hamilton and South Porcupine in Ontario and Vancouver came in for their share. The Red Devils established nine of the 22 records and had another set up in the juvenile 880-yard relay but the team was disqualified and their mark eliminated.

Collect 281 Points

With points for placing in the events, the Red Devils took the team championship in a walk with 281 points. Montreal Track Club was second with 86 and Hamilton Olympic Club's 67 was good for the third spot in the 20-club competition.

The average of one record in every two events on the program probably was the greatest in history of the championships. The Athletes set 13 marks Friday and added another nine Saturday

The outstanding performance was shown by 19-year-old Rich Ferguson of the Red Devils who smashed two records in the junior two miles. His time of 9:31.6 was 18 seconds faster than the native Canadian record set in 1935 and more than 30 seconds better than the junior time established last year.

Four athletes set up double records. In the junior division. the Red Devils' Bob Bazos set marks in the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 15.8 seconds and beat his own mark of 129 feet three inches in the discus with a heave of 134 feet four inches.

Te story was the same in the midget class. Roy Ranta of the Viesti Athletic Club, South Porcupine, Ont., won the running broad jump with a distance of 19 feet 3½ inches and the hop, step and jump with a mark of 43 feet 1½ inches. Barry Ray, ner, Red Devils, clipped one second off the 220-yard sprint with a clocking of 24.3 seconds and sheared 3/10ths seconds off the 100-yard dash in 10.6 seconds.

Two Seconds Chopped

Donnie Aitken, another Red Devil athlete, clipped nearly two seconds off the old marks in the 440 and 880-yard events.

Three records went to Quebec competitors. Jackie Carroll, Montral Track Club, was timed at 50.4 seconds in the junior 440 yards, 2/10th second off the old mark and Jack Clark, Montreal Olympic Club member, added 18 inches to the junior 12-pound shot mark of 49 feet 1⅛ inches set in 1939.

In the midget class, Clifford Howe of St. Lambert, Que., cleared nine feet 9½ inches in the pole vault—a clear 6½ inches over the old mark.

One Girls' Record

Only one girls' record was set and it went to the 400-yard relay team from Vancouver.

Athletes from Stamford Collegiate, Niagara Falls, set two marks. Bob Kilkenny went 44 feet in the junior hop, step and jump, nearly two inches better than the previous record, and Fred Ruish added three feet to the juvenile eight-pound shot with a heave of 59 feet 4¾ inches.

Dave Joyce gave the Hamilton Olympic Club its only record—a 10.2-second timing in the juvenile 100 yards.

One Way To Cool Off

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP) — On a hot Sunday, the gaze of 34-year-old William Nicarico, fell upon a 10-ton sanitation truck loaded with garbage.

Later, cooler and quite a way from home, Nicario was charged with grand larceny.

Police said he insisted he only took the truck to cool off.

U.S. Financing On Huge Deficit Causes Concern

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The richest country in the world operates at a loss so far as its federal government is concerned, and is one thing which causes concern in the current generally cheerful economic picture.

In the fiscal year ending June 30 the United States government spent $3,100,000,000 more than it took in. The only bright spot about this deficit is that it was $2,300,000,000 less than had been forecast.

The United States can carry a deficit like this for a while, but long-range observers wonder where it will end.

Some see it as leading one day to a weakening of the forld position of the American dollar and the possibility of a run from it to, say, the pound sterling.

Biggest Producer

Whatever the government's leaders say, the United States still is and is likely to remain for a long time the world's most powerful producer of goods and so long as this is so her money is likely to remain attractive.

Probably she now is carrying too much of the financial burden of the western world, and as other countries improve their position there may be some easement for the big Republic.

Nevertheless, her deficit financing is a matter for long-range concern and is not the best position from which to enter a war if one should come because wartime costs would add to the deficits.

It would seem inevitable that the American economy would emerge from a war considerably changed from what it now is—quite possibly an Americanized version of a Socialist state.

If this continent and the western world are faced with any such changes, perhaps we may be grateful for the very considerable experimentation that has gone on in the last few years.

For it would seem that the big problem of the western world in its social, economic and political development will be to retain the best of what we now have in the new systems which may have to be developed. This will require a lot of good thinking.

Sacrament Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting". (Psalms 139: 23, 24).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Psalms 24: 3-5, "Who shall ascend unto the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteous-ness from the God of his salvation".

Correlative citations from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following, "Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine, or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being which he taught and practised. His proof of Christianity was no form or system of religion and worship, but Christian Science, working out the harmony of Life and Love".

To Build 3,000 Homes On Niagara Island

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—A Buffalo lawyer said Saturday that a New York City building firm plans a $30,000,000 housing development on Grand Island in the Niagara River.

The lawyer, Nathaniel A. Barrell, said Brown and Zaubler of New York plan to build 3,000 homes and two shopping plazas on a 638-acre tract.

Barrell said the builders estimated the development would accommodate 10,000 persons. The island's present population is about 3,500.

Seven Veteran Employees Honored At DeLaval Picnic

More than a thousand mothers, fathers and children romped through a full program of fun and entertainment at Saturday's annual De Laval picnic. A warm summer afternoon and evening added to the enjoyment of the picnic, which was held at Nicholls Oval.

On hand was the CGE Pipe Band to make things lively with a few Scottish airs. Doug Landry known as Peterborough's "lightning cartoonist" was the centre of attention for many youngsters.

A carload of laughs was provided by George Grant, Toronto, with his clowning acts and repertoire of gags. Every child received pony rides, ice cream cones, pop, chocolate bars and hot dogs.

Seven employees were presented with silver trays, emblematic of their initiation into the Silver Circle Club. The presentations were made by G. H. Cutmore, secretary of the company and Mrs. C. L. Upper.

Those receiving trays were Joseph A. Collins, Charles A. Cowell, Joseph F. Dobson, Joseph Hopkins, Joseph Iredale, Stanley B. Ivison and Edward L. Simmons.

Each woman was given an eleven-piece pryex cooking set while the men received their usual gift—ties. A special registration prize, a Kenwood blanket, was won by Velma Powers. And five others—Doris Chenier, Keith Wilson, M. James and N. Cross—won draw prizes of $5 each.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Woodcock took the award for having the largest family on the grounds. Another prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Tucker for being longest married and C. Cowey took the award for being the youngest child.

Toward the close of the evening, music was provided for square and round dancing by Bill Conroy's Mountaineers. There was a special platform constructed for the dancers.

Protest Stand Taken By UE On Korean Issue

HAMILTON, July 10 (CP) — Donald P. Ellis, Hamilton Alderman and a member of the United Electrical Workers Union, Local 504, said today he would call a mass meeting of the 4,500 employees of the Canadian Westinghouse Company Ltd., to protest the union leadership's alleged anti-United Nations, pro-Communist stand on the Korean war issue.

"Petitions are being circulated and practically everyone is signing them, against the stand taken by the leadership of the union," Ald Ellis declared. He added he had heard some union members were "signing out" of the union.

The Alderman said he would discourage such resignations, but instead seek to oust the union's leaders.

The U.E. union has been ousted from the Canadian Congress of Labor for alleged Communist dominated leadership.

Charged With Having Burglar's Tools

Kenneth Mitchell, no fixed address, who gave his name to police as John Doe on Sunday morning, was today remanded to July 17 on bail of $1,000 by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C. Mitchell is charged with having burglar's tools by night.

A charge of vagrancy against Mitchell was dismissed.

Mitchell was caught early Sunday morning by Ronnie Horton Monaghan Road, who saw a man standing near his home. When the headlights of Mr. Horton's car turned on the man, he ran, and was caught minutes later on Gilmour St. by Mr. Horton.

The club was officially welcomed by Mayor George Swayne of Smiths Falls.

UE Plans To Circulate Ban The Bomb Petition

KINGSTON, July 10—(CP)—The Canadian Council of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) decided Sunday to mobilize the union's 25,000 Canadian members to obtain signatures for the "Ban the Bomb petition".

Known at the Canadian Peace Petition, it is the Canadian counter-part of the Communist-inspired "Stockhold Declaration," which calls for outlawing of atomic warfare.

The council authorized its president, C. S. Jackson of Toronto, and two rank-and-file union members—one from Ontario, one from Quebec—to go to Rome next fall as delegates to the World Congress of Partisans for Peace. It was that organization which made the Stockholm declaration.

SEEK TO SPEED UP WORK

Officials of the Peterborough Baseball Commission are meeting Tuesday night in the council chambers with members of the Utilities Commission. An effort is being made to hasten work on the floodlights in Riverside Park.

POWER SHUT-OFF

A power cut off over the entire city at 12.05 today lasting four minutes completely snarled noonday traffic when the stop lights ceased working. Utilities officials advised that the cause was from some outside source.

MAY BE COBOURG MAN

Provincial police are investigating a report that the body of the unknown man found floating in Lake Ontario southeast of Cobourg last Friday and brought to Kingston may be Lloyd Henderson 37, of Cobourg. Henderson has been missing since June 4.

Lost His Boots When Boat Overturns But Discovers Canadian Money Floats

Note to tourists — Canadian money floats.

This was proved accidentally Saturday afternoon when George Sills of Peterborough was dumped into Chemong Lake as his motorboat overturned.

Mr. Sills had a couple of $10 bills in his shoes, and although the shoes sank, the money came right up to the surface.

His boat overturned off Blewett's wharf north of the causeway, and it was hauled back to land by C. J. Blewett. Mr. Sills suffered nothing worse than a soaking and the loss of his shoes.

Driver Absolved On One Charge

A charge of dangerous driving against Thornton Brick, no fixed address, was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Philp. Brick was found guilty on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $25 and $26 costs.

The charges arose out of an accident on the south bridge at Young's Point in which Leo O'Byrne of Toronto was injured.

Frederick Beer, one of O'Byrne's companions and also from Toronto, testified he and O'Byrne, and Gordon Brown of Toronto, were fishing from the east rail of the bridge when a truck came over the bridge from the north and struck O'Byrne.

O'Byrne suffered a cracked rib and a bruised elbow. Beer said he had flagged a car and gave chase to the truck, catching it further south on the road. Brick was the driver of the truck, Beer said.

Brick said he swung to the east to avoid a man standing on the west side of the bridge. He said he heard nothing, and didn't know he had struck anyone.

Protestant Needs Told Orangemen

"Protestantism Speaks To Our Day," was the subject chosen by the Rev. Dr. J. Semple in his sermon to aproximately 200 members of the Orange Order that worshipped with the united congregations of St. Paul's Presbyterian, George Street United and Murray Street Baptist Churches in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening, prior to the July 12th anniversary.

Dr. Semple, minister of George Street United Church, stressed the need today for all Protestants to have a faith, a reason for this faith and to be able to make witness for this faith. He claimed that Protestants should love their church and be willing to sacrifice for it.

One of the greatest failings of the Protestant Church today is the lack of trained teachers in the church schools to train children in the knowledge of the Bible and the church creed.

Standards of Thought

Delving into history, Dr. Semple stated that great thinkers such as Martin Luther had been successful in reforming the church, bringing it up to the standards of the early Christian church of the Apostles. Thinkers such as the Reformers are needed today to keep the church up to these standards, continued the minister.

Dr. Semple was assisted in the service by E. F. Reid, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, who read the scripture lesson.

Special music was provided by the choir and Mrs. Jessie Spencely, soloist of St. Paul's, sang "O Rest in the Lord" from Mendelssohn's Elijah.

Preceding the service, the members of the Orange Lodge met at the Orange Hall, Brock St., at 6:30 p.m. Led by the Salvation Army Band, they marched to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Following the service, the Orangemen paraded to Confederation Park where a wreath was placed on the War Memorial.

Youth Drowned Swimming In Nuncon River

Despite the attempts of his companions to rescue him, Garrett Emmons, 16, RR 6 Dunnville, drowned early Saturday night in the Nuncon River.

The fatal acident occurred about five miles north of Port Perry close to where the Nuncon empties into the west end of Lake Scugog. It was one of the six drowning accidents reported in Ontario over the hot week-end.

There will be no inquest.

Where Emmons and his companions were swimming the water is not deep and he was reportedly an excellent swimmer. But in some unexplained manner he got into difficulties and sank out of sight.

Dragging was carried on all night by Lindsay provincial police and the body was finally recovered shortly before noon Sunday by Provincial Constables Ray Lawson and Bernie Welde.

Coroner Dr. H. D. Logan of Lindsay was called to the scene.

Florida Publicity Men CharmedByKawarthas

Florida publicity men visited Sturgeon Lake on Sunday and said they were charmed with that section of the Kawarthas. Twenty-four daily and weekly newspaper editors, heads of Chambers of Commerce and travel agencies arrived by air from Florida at Malton airport on Saturday. They were taken by bus to Bigwin Inn, Lake of Bays for dinner and overnight and proceeded to Gil-Mar Lodge on Sturgeon for Sunday luncheon.

In the afternoon they were entertained by a lake boat ride with resort owner Gil Watson acting as master of ceremonies. The visitors had to leave early in the evening again for Malton and plane connections for the Sunny South. In four days travel time they had done 2,500 air miles in their own country and 500 road miles in two of Ontario's outstanding summer playgrounds. "We have never seen anything like it," was the general opinion of their Ontario tour.

'Worse Than A Mad Dog' Say Police Of Tied Man

Steven Sweeney of Belleville, the man who complained last week he was shackled to police cell bars, was convicted on a charge of malicious damaged today and fined $3 and $2.50 costs or five days by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C. Sgt. Gordon Puffer testified Sweeney was brought into the station the night of July 3, and "put up quite a battle in the guardroom. He took his shoes off and threw them at me and another officer.

He yelled and pounded all the time, and threw all his clothes off. We handcuffed him to the door of the cell and turned the hose on him to quiet him down, after he threw milk bottles at the door.

PC George Moore-Gough testified he brought Sweeney into the station and that "Sweeney threw a boot at me. Then he grabbed me around the legs and started to chew on my left ankle. He was worse than a mad dog."

Sweeney, a small, wiry, indignant man, admitted he had been drinking wine and beer: "pretty heavy that evening."

He admitted that he didn't remember much until the hose was turned on him.

Cuban Shortstop Suspended By Ont. League

GALT, July 10—(CP)—At a lengthy meeting here Sunday, the Intercounty Baseball League executive and senior club representatives set out to find a solution to "unsatisfactory umpiring" and concluded by suspending Pedro Juarez, Cuban shortstop with the Brantford Red Sox for one year. It was alleged, he falsified the records.

Evidence was produced that Juarez was the same player who under the name of Pedro Gomez played 105 games for Saginaw, Mich., of the Central league. His records said he did not have professional experience. This was the first suspension under a new ruling written into the records when the Harry Sollenberger case was brought to light, he having played under the name Don Perksin for Galt last year.

Lenient-View

The Red Sox nearly lost their playing manager, Bob Whitcher, when it came to light he also played for Saginaw last year and that he had been placed on the ineligible list. However the executive took a lenient view of his case in view of the fact that he had produced his voluntary retirement papers when he came into the I.C.

On the umpire question, brought up bythe London and St. Thomas Clubs, provided lists of umpires they consider satisfactory. Bill Farquharson of London thought the umpires had too much authority and Jack Beeker of Kitchener said they were too quick in expelling players and suggested that the officials "pull the watch" on arguing players.

The excutive decided to modify the rule that a pitcher or any other player cannot rub-up a ball. Starting next Monday a pitcher will be allowed to rub-up the ball "within reason."

YUKON ERIC, who is recognized by the Montreal Athletic Commission as world heavyweight wrestling champion, made a special trip to attend a meeting of the commission to sign a contract to defend his title against Yvon Robert at the Royals baseball stadium, on July 17. They are seated, LEFT to RIGHT, Eric, Dave Rochon, chairman, and Robert; standing, Councillors J. A. Lyall and Elzear Simard, members of the commission.

The Brockville Rowing Club captured nine events to win the Eastern Rowing Association regatta at Brockville Saturday.

The Blue and White club piled up an impressive point total of 73 in winning the event for the first time in eight years. Ottawa scullers, who placed second, won three events for 44 points.

St. Catharines oarsmen also won three events, including the senior open eight, while Jack Guest, Jr., of Toronto Dons breezed to an easy triumph in the senior singles race.

St. Catharines, represented by four crews, won going away in the 155-pound eights. 155-pound fours and the senior eights. In each event the winners were followed by Ottawa and Brockville.

Guest, Etobicoke high school sculler, won the senior singles by three lengths from Frank Tucker of Brockville. Ed Graves of St. Catharines was third.

My Sweetie, a 1,500-horsepower Detroit powerboat, with Wild Bill Cantrell at the wheel, swept all three heats of the 45-mile Maple Leaf International Trophy race on the Detroit River Saturday.

Her fastest time was hung up in the third 15-mile heat when Cantrell gunned the boat 73.362 miles an hour. The race's fastest lap was also won by My Sweetie, with a blistering 76.271 miles an hour in the final lap.

Second place was taken by Delphine X, driven by Horace E. Dodge of Detroit. Dodge is the owner of both Delphine and My Sweetie.

Such Crust II, owned by Jack Schaufer of Detroit and driven by Danny Arena, placed third.

Heavyweight boxer Ezzard Charles, recognized by the National Boxing Association as world champion, definitely will lay his title on the line in a mid-August match, his co-manager said Sunday.

But who he'll face and where remain to be decided, declared Jake Mintz.

"We have not decided yet if we'll go against Freddie Beshore in Buffalo next month," Mintz said. "It's up to the International Boxing Club. I'm waiting to hear from Jim Norris and Al Weil (of the IBC) on it now."

The Charles-Beshore fight was posptoned twice when Charles came up with injuries. Matchmaker Charley Pinto in Buffalo insisted Saturday that the match has been reset for the third week in August.

Bill Stewart, veteran National League umpire, interrupted the Braves-Giants game Saturday to charge from the second base area toward eight men who had been heckling him for seven innings from a first-base box.

Giants coach Herman Franks hopped out of the dugout to restrain him from leaping into the box.

Other Giant players then formed a human wall in front of Stewart, a one-time National Hockey League referee, until four policemen escorted the hecklers from the ball park.

The incident occurred as Stewart moved from first base to second for a possible play. Suddenly he ran toward the box with the game still on.

Plate umpire Lon Warneke called time when he saw Stewart dash from the field.

The umpire said later the men had been abusing him with "vulgar remarks" and that by the seventh inning he couldn't stand it any longer.

Jockey Ken Church was honored Saturday at Arlington Park for his heroic act in saving a fellow rider, Dendell Eads, from possible injury last Wednesday.

Stuyvesant Peabody, chairman of the Illinois Racing Board, presented an appropriate scroll to the 20-year-old native of Windsor, Ont., and a leading rider at Arlington. Frank R. Warton, a member of the board, came up with an engraved gold wrist watch. It was the gift of Warren Wright, owner of Calumet Farm, who heard of Church's exploit.

Church helped Eads regain the saddle when Eads dangled perilously during the running of the third race Wednesday. Church finished second in the race.

Waterloo Tigers Blast Galt 11-1

By The Canadian Press.

Take the Waterloo Tigers, add Joe Yosurak, and you have a combination that other teams in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League find pretty hard to beat.

Playing errorless ball behind Yosurak's steady pitching, the Tigers belted Galt Terriers 11-1 at Galt Saturday. It was Yosurak's ninth win the season.

Brantford Wins

In other intercounty games, the rampaging Brantford Red Sox trounced London Majors 7-2 to strengthen their hold on second place. At Stratford, the Nationals scored five runs in the third inning to beat Guelph Maple Leafs 5-4, and at Kitchener the Legion blanked St. Thomas Legion 5-0.

Yosurak helped win his own game with a double and two singles in five times at bat and driving in three runs. Galt's five miscues helped sew up the game for Waterloo. Big Jim Bagby was charged with the loss.

Lefty Alf Gavey racked up his fourth win of the season for Brantford with a six-hit performance. London used three pitchers in their fruitless attempt to stop the Red Sox.

The luckless Leafs finally got Bill McGinty's number in the seventh when Marv Rich doubled and Dick Falk and Bill McCarthy tripled for two runs. But Gord McGraw and Sam Sporn came in to hold the fort and save the game for Stratford.

Drives In Two

A former Windsor player, centrefielder Freddy Thomas, put the game on ice for Kitchener when he lifted one over the left field fence in the seventh with two men aboard.

Dover's Men's Shop, although outhit 14-8 by Staffords, scored three runs in the eighth to take an 8-6 victory Sunday in a seesaw Viaduct major league game in Toronto.

In the Niagara district Senior Baseball League Niagara Falls Fords downed Cheektawaga 12-1.

Former Hockey Great Silas Griffis Dies

VANCOUVER, July 10—(CP)—Silas (Si) Graffis, elected June 27 to hockey's Hall of Fame, died here early today. He was 66.

Griffis had been an advertising executive since he left hockey in 1919.

Griffis was a forward with Kenora Thistles when that club won the Stanley Cup in 1907. Later he came to British Columbia and was an outstanding defenceman for a decade with Vancouver Millionaires. He was captain of Millionaires' Stanley Cup champions in 1915.

Jitters Bugaboo Of Davis Cuppers Facing Aussies

By VIC MORRIS, JR.

MONTREAL, July 10 (CP) — Canada's Davis Cup players are trying to convince themselves that the Australian tennis wizards are not supermen.

Non-playing Captain Gordon MacNeil claims that problem has always handicapped Canada in her matches with Australia.

"It's dangerous,' says MacNeil, skipper for the second successive year. "We know the Aussies are about the best in the world, but we should forget about that when we face them on the courts. After all they have the same equipment as we have—two arms and two legs. They're not supermen."

The Canadians meet the Australians here next Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the North American tie. Two singles matches will be played the first day, one doubles match the next and two more singles the third.

Victory Last Year

MacNeil figures the Brendan Macken's victory over Billy Sidwell last year may have erased any psychological trouble suffered by the 27-year-old Montrealer.

"That victory was enough to give Bren confidence to face any of the world's top stars," said McNeil.

He also thinks that 20-year-old Lorne Main of Vancouver stands a "good chance" to come through with some surprises Main, playing his second year with the squad, last year took one set from Sidwell in their singles match.

Rochon, third member of the team, is making his fifth appearance as a Davis cupper. The 26-year-old Montrealer is ranked No. 1 Canadian player and appears to have enough confidence to shake any court jitters.

George Robinson, 31, is the oldest member of the team and the only one who has never competed in cup play. But MacNeil thinks that Robinson's age and Canadian tournament experience should give him assurance.

AmericanLeague 8-5 Favorites In All-Star Tilt

By JOE REICHLER

CHICAGO, July 10—(AP)—The American League today ruled an 8-5 favorite to continue its dominance over the victory-starved Nationals in tomorrow's 17th renewal of baseball's all-star game.

The fact that Vic Raschi, veteran New York Yankees pitcher, will open for the American Leaguers against inexperienced Robin Roberts of Philadelphia Phils has no bearing on the one-sided odds.

The Americans probably would be favorites to win simply because they've made a career out of knocking the tar out of their inter-league rivals in the mid-summer and world's series classics.

Ever since the mighty Babe Ruth blasted his two-run homer to give it a 4-2 victory in the first all-star game 17 years ago, the American League has had the upper hand and now leads 12 games to 4. The National's last triumph came in 1944.

49,000 Spectators

Despite the big edge by one League, the game continues to maintain a stout hold on the public. A capacity Comiskey Park crowd of 49,000 will watch the teams in action on the same field where the game was inaugurated in 1933. Requests for more than 200,000 tickets were received.

No pitcher is allowed to work more than three innings, Manager Burt Shotton of the Nationals is expected to follow Roberts (10-3) with his own Preacher Roe (10-4) and New York Giants' Larry Jansen (9-5). Roe, the bellwether of the Brooklyn staff, is the only southpaw.

Casey Stengel, the American League's leader, may send in Yankee Tommy Byrne (9-3) in the middle three innings and close with Chicago's Ray Scarborough (8-8). Raschi, who has not allowed a run in six innings of all-star pitching, has won 10 of 16 decisions during the regular season.

Robinson To Play

Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, and Hank Sauer, of Chicago Cubs, who for a time appeared doubtful starters, will be in the opening line-up for the Nationals. Robinson was out for several days because of a wrenched knee. Sauer, originally snubbed by Shotton, will start, either at left or centre field.

Commissioner A. B. Chandler, reversing his ruling which permitted Shotton to replace Sauer with the Dodgers' Duke Snider, heeded the protests of Chicago fandom. Sauer is the only Chicago player voted on either starting team.

The club owners held their annual mid-summer meetings yesterday at which both the National and American Leagues agreed to scrap the March 1 spring-training deadline. Hereafter all clubs are permitted to send their players south for conditioning whenever they see fit. However, no club can play an exhibition game before the second Saturday in March.

The leagues also ruled that hereafter no barriers can be erected in any park while the season is in progress. This move was made to stop clubs from creating false fences to increase homers.

Special Stamps And Movies Used To Recruit Priests

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS, July 10 — (AP) — Special stamps, movies, posters and even colored adventure strips for children are being used by the Roman Catholic Church in France in a campaign to win more recruits for the priesthood.

"It is not that there is really a shortage of priests in France," explained Canon Paul Lieutier, who directs the campaign, "but we have to move with the times."

With about 40,000 priests for her 40,000,000-odd population, France reaches the church's desired level of roughly one priest for every 1,000 people. But, while this average figure is largely sufficient in Paris and other big cities, it does not take account of remote mountain sections where the villages are often small and widely separated.

In 1946 the late Emanuel Cardinal Suhard, then Archbishop of Paris, founded the centre of Sacerdotal documentation which Canon Lieutier now heads.

Co-ordinate Efforts

Its aim is to co-ordinate the efforts of the 87 dioceses of France by providing them with literature and other material for awakening the faithful to the constant need for priests.

The first recruiting campaign in France began in 1900, when the church was having a tough time in face of a wave of anti-clericalism in the government and elsewhere. In 1919 it had to fill up the ranks after more than 4,000 French priests and seminarists had beein killed during the First World War. The Second World War caused another drop, which now is being made good.

Some dioceses have many more priests than others. Paris has 1,400 for a population of 4,500,000 (1939 census figure) but Marseille has only 325 for 900,000. The diocese of Rouen has 748 priests for the same population as Marseille.

About 9,000 seminarists now are in training, of which an estimated 25 per cent will either give up before ordination or be rejected on health or other grounds. Church officials say this percentage remains fairly constant. The course of training takes five or six years.

Two Different Approaches

Canon Lieutier is approaching the problem in two different ways, One is spiritual, involving a movement of prayer ("since vocation is a grace of God"), and 1,500 pilgrims from 40 French dioceses have already made a Holy Year visit to Rome to pray for the priesthood at the Apostles' tomb. A second pilgrimage will go in September.

On the material front, Canon Lieutier organized his campaign through scores of books and pamphlets, sermons, movies, stamps, posters, plays and picture books.

Prime Minister St. Laurent Breaks Open Calgary Stampede Today

CALGARY, July 10—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today opens the West's roughest, rowdiest spectacle — the Calgary Stampede.

Mr. St. Laurent, sporting a spanking new 10-gallon hat, will officiate at the opening of the week-long jamboree, termed by Calgarians "the greatest annual spectacle of its kind in the world."

Tens of thousands of persons—promoters' estimates run to 100,000—are expected for the occasion, which this year also celebrates the city's 75th anniversary.

The Prime Minister will ride in a horse-drawn wagon at the head of the parade which snakes through downtown streets and completely takes over this humming foothills centre.

Indian Dance

For the Prime Minister it is the end of a far-from-usual trip. Saturday at Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., the Plains Indians presented him with another type of bonnet—the feathered headdress of an Indian Chief. They made him Chief O - Tee Ensiewooneka - Niew ("Wise Leader" for short) and drew him into a tribal dance to the beat of native drums.

While he addressed a huge picnic and sports-day crowd, an aircraft dropped leaflets written by Nelson Clarke, Saskatchewan Labor-Progressive party leader, asking him to "tell the truth" about Korea.

Mr. St. Laurent, against the unaccustomed background of wigwams, didn't seem to know what to do with the ceremonial pipe of the Chiefs, and his beat was off in the Braves' dance, but he shuffled around the little wooden platform in his flowing headdress. Around him his new brethren yelped and yipped and the squaws smiled.

He promised the Indians that he will honor the treaty made in 1874 with "the great white mother"—Queen Victoria—and joined the pipe ritual which the Indians call "the symbol of the great spirit's covenant with the redmen."

Bare-Top Dresses "Done To Death" Says Designer

NEW YORK, July 10 (CP) — West coast designer Howard Shoup finds women "wonderfully confused" about what to wear to a cocktail party.

Tweeds and bare-top evening dresses often show up at the same party, and "both look terrible," said Mr. Shoup as he showed his fall collection here.

His recommendation is a simple dress-and-jacket ensemble — the dress low-cut, if desired, for possible dancing later—in a dark, rich fabric.

Incidentally, Mr. Shoup predicted a swing back to the covered-up look in evening dresses, even to long sleeves. The bare-top has been "done to death," he said.

Barbara Kerneghan To Live In Boston, After Honeymoon

The wedding of Miss Barbara Jean Kerneghan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Kerneghan of Peterborough, to Dr. Charles Phillips Rance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Rance, of Toronto, was a lovely event in the George St. United Church on Saturday afternoon.

Blue and white delphiniums made effective background for the bridal party as the vows were pledged before the Rev. Dr. James Semple. Traditional wedding music was played by organist Mr. Charles Allen and Mrs. Thursa Williamson sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I'll walk beside thee." Mr. Kerneghan gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's gown was of pale blue chiffon with the very full skirt ankle-length and the bodice becomingly draped from an off-the-shoulder neckline. She wore short gloves of pale blue nylon net and a veil of the same caught to a Juliet cap of pale pink flowers. Her bouquet was a crescent of pale pink carnations, white gardenias and freisia.

Bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth Hall of Toronto was dressed in navy chiffon, similarly styled, and she wore navy gloves and accessories and a Juliet cap of flowers in violet shade. Sweetheart roses and violet-shaded sweet peas made up her bouquet, also in a crescent.

The groom was attended by Mr. Walter Cameron of Toronto and ushers were Murray Wilson, Toronto, and Donald Kerneghan, of Peterborough, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Kerneghan was gowned in beige tissue faille and wore a hat of cinnamon straw and a corsage of sunset roses and peach gladioli petals. Mrs. Rance, mother of the groom, wore a gown of dusky rose chiffon with lace insets, a hat of navy velvet and straw and a corsage of pink roses and blue cornflowers. Both were in the receiving line, greeting guests to the reception held in the YWCA Green Room.

The bridal couple will live in Boston, Massachusetts, after their honeymoon which is being spent in Temagami. When going away by motor on Saturday the bride was wearing a linen suit in a natural shade with hat to match and her accessories were brown.

Pastures Are At Their Best So Is Flavor Of Veal

By MARY MOORE

Mrs. D.O.B. asks me to print my method of making headcheese from veal shanks.

I have wanted to find space for veal headcheese for the past two weeks, and this letter added to some verbal requests makes it a must.

If you are a farmer's wife you know that clover is in bloom, and that cows eat clover and that the flavor of their milk is at its best. Consequently their children are having wonderful meals.

Now, while veal is seldom cheap, the way you are going to make it this week will provide some mighty economical meals for you.

Emem's Jellied Veal

Buy from 5 to 6 lbs. shank veal, bone in, but bone broken. Wash. Put in large kettle and barely cover with water. Add 2 or 3 slices of onion, 1 bay leaf, 1 chopped outer stalk celery, ½ cup chopped parsley or 1 teaspoon parsley seed, ¼ cup vinegar or lemon juice, grated rind ½ lemon, and ½ teaspoon pepper. Cover and boil for about 3½ to 4 hours, or until meat falls from bones. Cool enough to remove meat from bones; strain the liquid.

(To make this foolproof I suggest that you use gelatine to insure a good stiff jell, aware that veal will jell pretty well without it—but this hot weather . . . . sometimes it needs help.)

Meanwhile have soaking at least 3 tablespoons gelatine — I prefer 4—in ¾ cup cold water. When you strain the liquid from the meat, stir the soaked gelatine into it until it is thoroughly dissolved. If your liquid is too cool, melt the gelatine by standing it over hot water until dissolved.

Put the boned veal through the food chopper, using a coarse knife, and letting some of the soft gristle go through too.

Mix all together (If you are being very particular about this the broth should be chilled to allow fat to rise to top, and then fat should be skimmed off.' Taste for salt. It may need 2 tablespoons.

Pour into about 4 or 6 medium sized or smallish moulds which have been rinsed out with cold water. If desired moulds may be garnished with sliced hard cooked eggs, or sliced stuffed olives. If you do this add only a ¼-inch layer of the broth to set the garnish in and chill it, then fill moulds, and chill.

Use very sharp knife to slice this when cold. If kept constantly cold in electric refrigerator this will keep I week.

AUTUMN HIGHLIGHTS—Left, white pinwale corduroy with zebra-striped velveteen for coachman's coat that will brighten any rainy day. With matching beret and gloves, costume is zelanized and water repellent. Centre, royal blue velvet over royal-and-green striped satin for cascade overskirt of formal evening gown that has built-in bra. Right, dramatic theatre suit in coffee colored velvet features slim skirt with strapless bodice of brown lace over gold satin, a contour-carving hip-length jacket.

Devotion Record Rewarded With A Gold Medal

PHILADELPHIA, July 10. — (AP).—For 3,900 straight Sundays through three-quarters of a century Jennie Powers went to Bible school at the Westside Presbyterian church in Germantown.

This record of devotion, which friends believe is unsurpassed anywhere, won national recognition yesterday when the slender, grey-haired spinister, now 78, received a gold medal from the Sunday school and congratulations from a host of well-wishers.

At a special service honoring Miss Powers, church officials read letters from President Truman, Pennsylvania's Governor James H. Duff, several members of Congress and dignitaries of the Presbyterian church.

North Bay Rites For Local Girl

A recent wedding of interest here was in St. John's Anglican Church, North Bay, when Barbara Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Simmonds, Dunlop St., became the bride of Edward William Tandy, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tandy of North Bay.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. R. W. Simmonds of Peterborough and wore a gown of Chantilly lace and silk net over satin, fashioned with long sleeves on the tight-fitting bodice and the bouffant skirt ending in a graceful train. Her chappelle veil of silk illusion was caught to a hand-beaded tiara and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. R. W. Simmonds and the bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Norman of North Bay. They were frocked in yellow and green taffeta, similarly styled, and wore matching picture hats and carried bouquets of sweet peas and yellow roses.

Groomsman Mr. Bud Beatty and ushers Ossie Saari and Mervin Quirt were all of North Bay.

Mrs. H. W. Simmonds of Peterborough, mother of the bride, assisted at the reception held in the Hotel St. Regis. She wore a navy sheer dress with a navy straw hat and a corsage of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Tandy, mother of the groom, was in dusty rose crepe and wore a rose straw hat and corsage of cornflowers, sweet peas and roses.

On the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo the bride travelled in a suit of yellow gabardine and wore a matching picture hat and green accessories.

The couple will live in North Bay.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

"The other night," writes a correspondent in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, "my side needed 120 points for the initial meld. Among the cards in my hand were two jokers, two tens and two sevens. Keep your eye on those sevens, because they're what started the trouble.

"The pile had been frozen by the dealer, who had turned up a red three and had then covered it with a deuce. By this time the pile was quite large, and neither side had melded because both sides wanted to get that discard pile.

"Five sevens had been thrown by the player at my left and by my partner, and I was beginning to think that my own pair of sevens were pretty dead. Then the player at my right threw the only remaining seven in the deck.

"I put down the two jokers with my two tens and then put down two sevens. The opponents raised a howl about this. They said that I had my initial meld without counting my sevens. They insisted that I could not take the pile without using the sevens as an essential part of my initial meld.

"To keep peace, I was obliged to put one joker with the tens and the other joker with my pair of sevens. This gave me a mixed canasta of sevens instead of the natural canasta to which I was rightfully entitled.

"Would you please clear up this point. I tried to prove my side of the argument by referring to your books and to theofficial laws, but nothing seemed to fit."

My correspondent was quite right, of course. She was entitled to meld the two jokers with the pair of tens. Then she could take the discard pile with her pair of sevens, thus acquiring a natural canasta. The opponents were 100 per cent wrong in their argument that the sevens had to be part of the meld.

The law very clearly states that the first meld for a partnership may be made when the cards melded total a certain minimum. The word "minimum" means the lowest amount that you can have; it doesn't mean that you can't have more.

As to the argument that the cards you use to take the discard pile must be an essential part of that minimum, that was pure invention on their part. No wonder my correspondent couldn't find it in the laws!

This brings me to a point that is often raised in letters on Canasta. People will mention some such incident as this and say that the laws do not cover it. The answer is that the laws can state what you are required to do, but they cannot begin to cover what you are not required to do.

Perhaps I can make this clear by an exaggerated example. Suppose your opponents said you could not make your initial meld unless you stood up on the chair and barked three times. Obviously you would pay no attention to such foolishness. You would say, if the point was seriously argued, that the laws don't require you to do so and that you won't do what you aren't required to do.

The same is true of all other disputes on the laws. When people spring some new "fancy" law on you, make them show you exactly where the official laws back them up. If it isn't in the law book, it isn't a law.

Madeleine Davidson Bride Of Harold J. Kempt, Keene

Keene United Church, decorated with delphiniums and orange blossoms, was the setting on Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Madeleine Hope Davidson to Harold James Kempt. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Davidson, and the groom son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kempt, all of Keene.

Their vows were pledged before the Rev. George Murray, pastor, and assisting minister the Rev. Mr. Herrington. Music was played by Mr. Walter Morrow and during signing of the register Mrs. A. Parker sang "Through the years."

The bride's gown of white satin was fashioned with a Queen Anne collar and sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves, fastened at the wrist with tiny covered buttons, and a full skirt with short train. A fingertip veil of illusion was caught to her head with lily of the valley and she carried white gladioli. Mr. Davidson gave his daughter in marriage.

Maid of honor was her sister Miss Phyllis Davidson, the junior bridesmaids Eileen Davidson and Barbara Garnett, and the flower girl Ruth Garnett, small cousin of the bride. Their frocks were all of Swiss embroidered organdy over taffeta in shades of pink and blue. The maid of honor wore a headdress to match her dress and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. The others wore flower headbands and carried old-fashioned nosegays of cornflowers.

Groomsman was Mr. William Miller and the ushers Archie Davidson and Duncan Keitel.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents where Mrs. Davidson received in a gown of blue heaven crepe trimmed with Chantilly lace and wearing a white straw hat and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Kempt, mother of the groom, was wearing a navy sheer dress and navy straw hat and had pink roses in her corsage. She assisted to receive.

Leaving later for a honeymoon in the Kawartha Lake district the bride was wearing a two-piece dress of brown checked sheer with a red shortie coat and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Kempt will live near Keene.

THESE THREE DESIGNS forecast the shape of things to come this Fall. Monte Sano picked patterned fleece for his "little great coat" (left), which has deep-cuffed three-quarter length sleeves and convertible chin-tip collar. Soft-draping beige wool lace (centre) is used by designer Charles Lang for a dress which emphasizes texture and trim. Dark beige wool trims the elbow-length sleeves and squared neck-line. Sapphire blue wool flannel is used by Monte Sano for his new town suit (right) which displays the "figure eight" silhouette.

DOROTHY DIX

Stop Worrying About Aging First Step to Stay Young

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you please tell me some of the characteristics that make adults seem youthful? Some people seem old, although they are still young in years. We all wish to remain young. How can we do it?

R.A.E.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: The best way to remain young is not to worry over growing old. Lots of women acquire wrinkles trying to avoid them and in their efforts to keep a girlish figure they starve themselves into withered beldames, and look twenty years older than their age instead of ten years younger.

To a certain extent we can keep our bodies youngish by taking care of them and eating and sleeping and working and playing right, but nothing stops the relentless march of time and we only befool ourselves when we think that we can attain a synthetic youth by the use of cosmetics.

Aping Youth A Mistake

Indeed, nothing so emphasises age as for it to ape youth. An elderly woman never looks so old and haggard as when she is decked out in granddaughter's clothes. She never seems so senile as when she ogles men young enough to be her grandsons and talks about her "boy friends." Many a woman, whose age would be of no interest to any one except herself if she dressed appropriately and conducted herself with dignity, is laughed at as a ridiculous old monkey because she tries so hard to be a mere girl.

So, if you want to keep young, keep your sympathies alive. Make the joys and sorrows of everyone about you your own. Be kind. Be tender. Keep the heart of a little child. The women whom everybody loves are ageless and beautiful.

Keep growing. Keep studying. Keep up with the times. Keep an open mind. Keep yourself vitally interested in everything that goes on in this changing old world of ours. Age is not a matter of years. It is the stoppage of growth. Whenever you begin to talk about the "good old days" and think that the younger generation is going to the devil; whenever you begin to reminisce and become a repeater you are old, but you will never be old as long as you can change your opinion and adopt new ways. And if you will make yourself lovable, keep yourself interesting. Nobody will ever know or care how many birthdays you have had.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: While I was single I supported the home, which included not only my mother but a temperamental brother who could never find just the work he wanted to do, and a sister who quarreled with her husband and came back home with her three children to live. Now I am married and my family feel that my husband should go on supporting them as I did. This makes him sore and he begins berating my family and bemoaning his burdensome fate with "I didn't marry your whole family." This makes me so unhappy and hurt. What must I do?

A TROUBLED WIFE.

ANSWER: You can't let your mother want. It is your duty to take care of her, but your husband is certainly under no obligation to support your able-bodied brother and sister.

Of course, as long as your mother lives in her own home she will provide for her derelicts, for mothers have a predilection for their black-sheep children and are always willing to sacrifice their good children to them. Hence you will have to put your mother in a boarding house or take her to live with you if you do not wish to provide for brother and sister and the children.

There is no other problem in the world that has more heartbreak in it for a woman than to realize that she is making her husband a living sacrifice to her family. It is a problem that takes much love and forbearance and sympathy on the part of both husband and wife to settle. He must recognize his wife's obligations to her people, and she should make the drain upon him as light as possible by forcing all those who are able to do so to go to work and support themselves.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am well-to-do and able to support my wife in comfort, but she insists on working in a store where she hardly makes carfare, although she is 58 years old. For thirty-seven years I have gotten up every morning and cooked my breakfast and prepared my lunch and washed the dishes and gone to work leaving her in bed. Now I am at my row's end and have stood this as long as I can.

M.B.

ANSWER: You are thirty-seven years too late in asking advice. You can't change a woman who is your wife's age. She is too set in her ways. You will have to realize that there are some women who are not domestic in their tastes. There are women with wandering feet who just have to be out where there is life and movement and excitement, and you have to be thankful that yours can take out her wanderlust in business instead of on the primrose path.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: This is the third time I have written to you.

I hope this time brings an answer. I am not sending any money this time; twice I sent 10 cents and no answer.

Will you please send me your reducing menu? I am 49, five foot two, and weigh 159 pounds, and would like to lose at least 20 pounds.

It is not because I haven't much work to do, as I look after a seven-roomed house and have two foster girls, 3 and 5 years old, a son 16 and a daughter 18.

My daughter has been sick with heart trouble for 10 weeks, I also had a son and grandson home for two weeks. Had a son and daughter-in-law and three little ones for seven weeks as my daughter-in-law was too ill to keep house.

Have kept boarders up until a year ago.

Have always done all my own washing, ironing and cleaning, also all of the painting inside.

Please do not think too badly of this scribble; it is due to the fact of a pair of terrible bad hands, which keep breaking out with exczema. There doesn't seem to be a permanent cure for them. Tonight the pain is terrible and the only reason for writing at this time is the fact I had to remove some of my clothes because I am getting so uncomfortable because of my weight.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I am.—C.G.

ANSWER:

I am sorry you have had so much trouble. I have received none of your letters. I think it would be wise in the future to send a stamped self-addressed envelope. I am sending you the calorie chart today.

Before I give you any menus to follow I hope you will not mind if I preface them with some warnings.

You are a very hard working lady and do not have to lose a lot of weight compared to most reducers.

So if you cut down your food intake too much you might impair your health. Would you be satisfied to lose one pound per week? If so I can give you the diet pattern I follow myself.

I think you should consult your doctor if you restrict you diet more than I suggest.

Secondly, I must suggest that you have at least one hour per day doing moderate exercise out-of-doors, such as weeding with a hand tool in the garden or clipping the grass (not mowing) or unhurried walking. The bending you will do while working in the garden will help slim your waistline.

Breakfasts

Fruits: Generous bowl of berries without cream or sugar; or 1 whole orange or half of a large grapefruit; or a banana (regarding bananas eat one per day—if you eat one at breakfast you do not have one at the other meals of the day).

All fruits that come in season should be beaten freely by you. Do not ever add any sugar to any of them or cream.

Main Breakfast Course: (You should always have an egg for breakfast in some form. The reason for this is because you must have a diet high in protein foods to maintain your essential nutrition. Please remember this as you read these menus.) One egg without butter—that is hard-cooked in shell hot, or 4-minute boiled in shell, or poached on unbuttered toast. It would be alright to scramble your egg twice per week using only 1 teaspoon butter for this. You could have an egg coddled in a cup with ½ teaspoon butter once per week. One slice 100% whole wheat toast without butter. Two cups of coffee with butter. Two cups of tea or coffee with whole milk—no cream or sugar.

Lunches: If you have a non-cream soup you will have only 1 slice whole wheat bread; if you do not eat soup you may have 2 slices whole wheat bread with ¼-inch thick slice of meat with no fat; or the filling to your sandwich could be 1 hard-cooked egg chopped and mashed with 1 teaspoon mayonnaise (no butter on sandwich); 1 8-oz. glass skim or buttermilk; 2 or 3 leaves of lettuce or 1 fresh tomato; 1 orange or apple or plum or pear or 12 cherries. Other fillings to your sandwich could be canned fish or peanut butter with crisp fried bacon—but this latter only once per week.

Dinners: At least a 4 ounce piece or slice of lean meat or fish or fowl or cheese dish (containing 4 oz. cheese) never fail to have this); 2 vegetables which are not potatoes; you may have 1 teaspoon butter on one of these or ½ on each; no bread; (twice per week have a baked potato sprinkled with skim grated cheese and eat the skin—grated skim milk cheese may be bought at large groceteries).

Have a fresh vegetable salad composed mostly of greens and use only 1 teaspoon of mayonnaise or French dressing on this; have the salad every dinner time (or if preferred at lunch — the point is be sure to eat a fresh vegetable salad every day.

Desserts should always be fresh fruits. Remember that canned fruits contain a high percentage of sugar. But as much fresh fruit as you like—but do not eat more than one banana per day. This gives you a large selection especially during the growing months which are at hand now. Do not put sugar on any fruit and this means berries and grapefruit.

You will notice I say to have an 8-oz. glass of milk for lunch. This should be skim or buttermilk, and you may have 3 glasses of either of these per day.

A precaution I want to repeat is that you should not stretch your stomach with excess liquids at meal times. When you find you are becoming overhungry, which will happen about 4 in the afternoon, have a glass of tomato juice and a rye crisp or whole wheat wafer or, of course, a cup of tea with skim milk.

I stress essential foods you must have to keep you from suffering from hidden nutritional deficiences. Please let me know how you make out.

What's Right?

While ill in a hospital a member of your family receives flowers from numerous friends but is, of course, not able to acknowledge them.

WRONG: Let the matter go indefinitely.

RIGHT: If there is someone who has the time to write notes or telephone friends that the flowers have been received, the matter should be taken care of.

TradeUnionsRap Executive Action

MELBOURNE, July 10 (Reuters)—The Australian council of trade unions today condemned the Federal executive of the Seamen's Union for banning transport of war materials to Korea.

ACTU said in a statement the seamen's executive had "assumed the right to determine a line of action without consulting the trade union movement."

It added that the Australian workers would hold the seamen's union responsible for any action taken to embroil the Australian trade union movement in "this unfortunate international situation."

The statement added that the action of the seamen's executive would assist the Menzies' government to aid passage through parliament of the Communist party dissolution bill.

It said support of the United Nations as "the instrument seeking stabilized world peace and preventing the employment of force to suppress minorities which do not subscribe to the political ideologies of powerful nations."

Two Suspects Escape Beaverton Chief

BEAVERTON, July 10 (CP) — With drawn gun, Chief Constable Hector Reid chased by car and on foot two men suspected of attempting to blow a safe at the Beaverton District Co-operative store here during the week-end.

Both men escaped on foot after their car hit a curbstone on a sharp turn and went out of control.

Belleville Club Honors Campbellford Mayor

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10. — (ENS). — Mayor Ernie Ayrhart of Campbellford was presented with a life membership in the Belleville Shrine Club at a stag party at the club held in his honor recently. More than 200 members and their guests present.

Noble Lionel Crawford of Deloro, chairman of the board, introduced Mr. Ayrhart and made the presentation. Mr. Crawford said it was through Mr. Ayrhart's help that the club was able to emerge from its former humble abode on Campbell St. to its present fine building. "Club directors," he said, "felt they would be remiss not to show some sort of appreciation."

Canada-Austria Trade In Canadian Dollars

OTTAWA, July 10 — (CP) — Trade between Canada and Austria may be carried on in future on either a United States dollar or a Canadian dollar basis, the Finance Department announced today.

Up to now, exporters shipping to Austria have been required to obtain payment in U.S. dollars.

The arrangement also will enable Canadians to obtain permits through their banks for the expenditure of any reasonable amounts of Canadian dollars for travel to Austria.

Previously, travel expeditures in Austria were in practice made in U.S. dollars and were limited by the travel ration of $150 U.S.

UK Labor Shaky Next Few Days

LONDON, July 10 (Reuters)—If Labor's slim-majority government comes through some ticklish parliamentary debates in the nexe few days, it is likely to be in the clear for nearly four months.

After this week, there are few issues on which the opposition will challenge the government's existence before parliament shuts down at the end of July for the long summer recess. Labor holds a five-seat advantage in the Commons.

But today the government must get its finance bill through third reading. And tomorrow the opposition will challenge War Minister John Trachey's "plot against Socialism" speech — held by critics to be an attack on the Schuman plan.

If angered, Winston Churchill's opposition may press its threatened motion of censure against the government.

Parliament will not reassemble until October—unless the Korean war or other international developments demand an emergency session.

Expectations of a general election in the autumn have receded in recent weeks.

Many friends attended the funeral services for the late Mr. Albert Lewis on Saturday afternoon which were conducted from the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons by Rev. M. J. Aiken, of St. Andrew's United Church.

Mr. Lewis was well known in Peterborough, having been a barber for many years. At the the Empress Hotel, alone, he spent 32 years besides being in business on Simcoe St. and barbering with his brother, the late Jim Lewis, at the old Oriental Hotel on Hunter St.

Pallbearers were William Lewis, Harold Delahaye, Herb Delahaye, Ray Stabler, Albert Jones and Sam McGlennon.

Fleeing Hong Kong

HONG KONG, July 10—(AP) —Chinese are leaving this colony three times as fast as they came in since war broke out in Korea, the Hong Kong Standard said today.

The paper said its own survey shows that 2,000 enter Hong Kong daily while 6,000 leave.

The colony's population has more than tripled in 10 years—from 750,000 in 1940 to an estimated 2,500,000 today.

Ford Local Cracks On Reds, Demand Pledges

DETROIT, July 10 (AP)—Ford Local 600, giant of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO), will require its 550 officials to sign anti-Communist pledges.

The general council of the 60,000-member Local Sunday voted 75 to 63 to establish the pledge requirement. It gave the Local's officials until Aug. 1 to sign the pledges, on penalty of possible ouster.

The action is the first such on record for any UAW Local. It was made as part of a general policy of support of President Truman for his action in Korea and condemnation of the Soviet Union.

The measure met with bitter opposition. One opponent warned that it would set the pattern for loyalty pledges from all industrial workers.

The pledge reads:

"I hereby pledge that I owe allegiance to the government of the United States and no other.

"I support the policy of the CIO as that policy may be determined by majority opinion within my union.

"I further state that I am not a member of the Communist party, Fascist party, or Ku Klux Klan, nor do I support the policy and program of Soviet Russia and its satellite nations, nor will I distribute leaflets or other forms of literature or petitions in favor of such policy or program."

500,000 Volunteer —N. Korean Premier

LONDON, July 10—(Reuters) —Kim Ir Sen, North Korean prime minister and commander-in-chief said today that more than 500,000 persons had volunteered for the North Korean forces since the outbreak of fighting.

In an appeal over Pyongyang radio, reported by Moscow radio, he claimed the entire Korean people supported the northern army. The prime minister asserted that "the American brigands think the Korean people have no other fate than to be colonial slaves, in order to fill still more the bloodstained pockets of the Wall Street traders."

25 Years' Fishing Builds Own Troller

PORT ALBERNI, B. C., July 10— (CP) — After more than 25 years on Pacific coast waters, fishermen Angel Jorgeson figured he knew the requirements for the ideal troller. So, working 12 hours a day for 10 months, he built it himself.

When a dock crane eased her into the water here, Jorgeson's vessel, the Nomic, represented an investment of close to $10,000, excluding the engine, which will be installed soon.

The boat is a troller but has forecastle space for extra crew and can be used either as a halibutter or seiner. Thirty-six feet four inches long, with a 10-foot beam and six foot depth, The Nomic will carry a 100-horsepower engine, assuring speed in bank trips and in changing fishing grounds when following the salmon runs.

Egypt Withholds Vote For Red China

CAIRO, July 10—(AP)—Informed sources said today Egypt has decided not to vote for United Nations recognition og Red China. Her ballot in the Security Council might have been decisive.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India had intervened personally in an effort to swing Egypt's vote to Red China, hoping this would end the deadlock and bring Russia back to U.N. meetings she has been boycotting since January over the China issue.

Egypt still recognizes Nationalist China.

Plane's Lights Quit Crash Explanation

CASABLANCA, French Morocco July 10 (CP)—Investigators said today they believed a sudden unexplained failure of the plane's lights caused the crash yesterday of a French plane in which 21 persons died. The plane crashed soon after it took off from Casablanca airport.

After the blackout, the pilot tried to land but the left propellor hit a hill, and the plane caught fire, investigators said.

Largest Crowd Of Year Attends Band Concert

More than 1,000 spectators made up the largest audience this season at Nichols Oval at the Sunday evening band concert by the Peterborough Citizens' Band.

Judging by the applause, the selection from "Oklahoma" by Rodgers was the most popular rendition on the program. However, the two selections, "Hail Smiling Morn" and "Image of a Rose," played by the Trombone Quartette composed of Bandmaster W. H. Parnell, D. Parker, G. Johns and G. Parnell also proved to be greatly appreciated by the audience.

Many Red Casualties Follow US Air Sweeps

TOKYO, July 10 (AP)—Numerous casualties were reported among Red ground troops caught in the weekend storm of Allied rockets, bombs, machine-gun bullets and—for the first announced time—the jelly-like explosive liquid called Napalm.

This incendiary liquid composed of gasoline mixed in a secret soap-like substance, is carried in belly tanks. The tanks are dropped and explode on contact, spraying flaming gasoline in all directions.

Keeper Of Jail Hounds Escapes From Prison

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 10—(AP)—The keeper of the bloodhounds at the Tennessee State Prison escaped yesterday, but the bloodhounds couldn't track him down.

Charles Lenning, about 30, a trusty serving 12 years for housebreaking and larceny, walked away from his job, guards said.

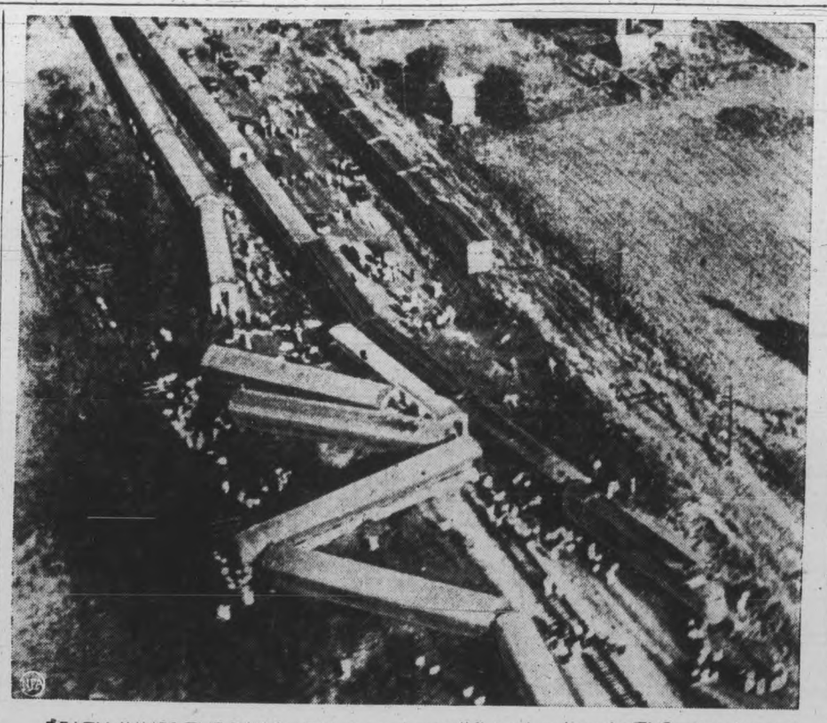
The hounds picked up his trail, all right. But it led to a dead end—Lenning had got into an automobile. He's still at large.

Chalice Replica

LONDON, July 10 (Reuters)—The Vicar of suburban Petersham, Rev. R. S. Mills, said Sunday that his church is to present to an Anglican church in British Columbia a replica of a silver chalice made in 1752. It will be in acknowledgement of money gifts sent by the people of Vancouver to the restoration fund of Petersham Church, where Capt. George Vancouver, the explorer, is buried.

Racer Dies In Crash

PORTLAND, Ore., July 10.—(AP)—Motorcycle racer Stanley Lattimer, 28, of Vallejo, Calif., was killed yesterday at the Portland Meadows track, the second fatality in as many days on the oval. Saturday, Phillip Moore, Milwaukie, Ore., was killed in a practice run.



DEATH JUMPS THE RAILS—This is an aerial view of the crash of two Santa Fe streamliners — the Chief and the El Capitan — which cost at least 10 lives. Both trains were speeding toward Chicago on parallel tracks when the El Capitan jumped the track at Monica, Ill., while travelling at 90 miles an hour. The Chief, trailing slightly behind, rammed into the cars which left the rails. More than 70 persons were injured in the crash.

Tank Group Cut Off By N. Korean Troops

TOKYO, July 10 (Reuters) — A United States tank-equipped battalion has been cut off by North Korean troops south of Chonan, according to reports reaching military headquarters here this afternoon.

Non-Red Newspaper Suspended Three Days

HONG KONG, July 10 (AP)—Shanghai reports said today the North Korean China Daily News, last non-Communist English language paper published in that Red city, learned the danger of straying from the Communist line.

The Reds objected June 26 to a headline: "North Korea declares war against South Korea."

Everyone knows, the Reds said, that "it was the South Korea reactionaries under the instigation of American imperialists that invaded North Korea."

EDINBURGH, July 10 — (Reuters)—More than 2,000 striking Scottish coal miners returned to work today.

The dispute, which began last Monday when the National Coal Board rejected the claim, has affected 46 collieries. About 100,000 tons of coal have been lost.

The employees are members of the Ottawa local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers which a union official said has been negotiating with the railways since June of last year. A conciliation board appointed by the government suggested a 44-hour week but this was turned down by the union.

KEEP THE BEACHES CLEAN

With summer just around the corner, many of us will be going to the beach—to relax in the fresh air and sunshine or cool off with an invigorating swim. Our beaches, however, soon become an eyesore if littered with paper or other refuse. So after your picnic or outing gather up the left-overs and see that they are disposed of. Leave the beach as you found it. It's "Good Citizenship".

Vancouver, B.C.

ATTENTION: Mr. Fred Deeley

Dear Sir:

We wish to compliment you on the performance of the 1949 Austin A40, and to thank you for interesting us in their purchase.

We have five A40's in our firm at the present time, all of them giving service with maintenance costs practically nothing. Three of these cars are on Sales work and travel approximately 1500 miles per month. We are amazed at the saving in the operating costs. Over the last six months our costs have been practically cut in half.

The one feature which appeals to the writer the most is the fact that the riding qualities and comfort are equal to a larger car. However, this is something one has to experience by riding in the new A40, as any previous experience with Austin cars gives the wrong impression.

Thanking you again and assuring you of our continued business, we are,

Yours very truly,

One Phone Links Tokyo And Korea

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, July 10—(AP)—One slender thread links the world with the Korean scene where history is being written.

The thread is the single telephone circuit from here to Tokyo.

All the front-line news of the crucial conflict is channelled through that one line.

It is shared by the military, the United Nations commission and correspondents. There are 40 correspondents already on the scene and a score of others en route—and the press comes third in priority on the telephone.

Only another newspaper man can fully appreciate the mental anguish the corespondents suffer from the inevitable delays in getting out their hottest stories, but perhaps this explanation of the system will give the newspaper reader some idea:

There is no censorship, but there is a code of voluntary cooperation for military security (which various correspondents interpret in various ways). Every correspondent must file with a signal corps officer what he wishes to telephone. The officer puts a number on it in the order received. The correspondent must wait until all copy ahead of his is cleared before he gets a crack at the telephone.

Navy Plans Training Cruise In Europe Waters

OTTAWA — Plans are going ahead for a European training cruises this Fall by a Special Service Squadron of the Royal Canadian Navy. They are subject, however, to alteration or cancellation, should circumstances demand, Naval Headquarters announced today.

The destroyers, Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan, formerly scheduled to join the Squadron are now en route to Pearl Harbour.

The Squadron, consisting of HMC Ships Magnificent, Huron and Micmac, is at present, scheduled to sail from Halifax in late August for Londonderry, Northern Ireland. Arrangements have been made for the Canadian ships and carrier-borne aircraft to carry out two weeks of intensvie anti-submarine training at the Joint Anti-Submarine Training School operated at Londonderry by the Royal Navy and Royal Air Force.

Many Vistis

Following the departure from Londonderry, the itinerary calls for visits to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium, France and Portugal, as well as to ports of the United Kingdom.

Gibraltar is listed as the last European stop before the squadron heads back across the Atlantic.

It was emphasized that the European cruise, as planned, was primarily a training venture which, in addition to providing the Canadian ships and naval aircraft with much valuable experience, would afford an opportunity to visit some of the North Atlantic Treaty countries. The Joint Anti-Submarine School at Londonderry is considered to be one of the most advanced of its kind in the world and the training obtained during the two weeks there would be entirely in line with the RCN's specialization in anti-submarine operations.

U of T Zoologist Loaned To Army

OTTAWA, July 10.—Dr. Kenneth Clarke Fisher, associate professor of zoology at the University of Toronto, has been loaned to the Department of National Defence and has been appointed superintendent of the Defence Research Board's northern laboratory at Churchill, Man., it was announced today by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton. He will be on loan from the university for approximately 16 months.

Dr. Fisher was born in Saint John, N.B., and took his university training at Acadia and Toronto, receiving his PhD in physiology from the latter university in 1936. From his graduation until 1941 he was an instructor in zoology, for the first year at the University of Maine and then at the University of Toronto. During this period he spent his summers instructing at the Marine Laboratory, Woods Hole, Massachusetts.

Throughout the war years, from 1941 on, he was engaged on war research projects under the direction of the National Research Council, concentrating on operational research with the Canadian Army. During the summers of 1945 and 1946 he was head of the Canadian Army operational research group at Camp Borden.

Since the war Dr. Fisher has maintained his contact with the Defence Research Board, contributing, through his duties as consultant, essential knowledge and experience to many projects of defence research.

Church Leaders Of 160,000,000 Study Problems

TORONTO, July 10 (CP) — Leaders of 160,000,000 Christians in 44 countries today begin a six-day study of world-wide religious problems.

In a grey-stone gothic building on the University of Toronto campus, the central commitee of the World Council of Churches—representing every major Christian denomination but the Roman Catholic Church—will study problems ranging from religious liberty and racial discrimination to Christian judgments on present political and social systems.

The 90-member committee meets annually to act for the Assembly of the Council, founded at Amsterdam two years ago.

The committee's meeting was opened yesterday with special ecumenical service at Timothy Eaton Memorial Church when Rev. Franklin C. Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, said Christians must take a new "searching, hungering, yearning look at God."

In other churches throughout the city, clergymen attending the meeting preached special sermons. At Grace Church on the Hill, pastor Martin Niemoeller, imprisoned during the Second World War for his opposition to Hitler and who recently attracted wide attention for a statement urging German unity, told an overflow congregation that the real purpose of totalitarianism was to "enthrone man—maybe superman—instead of God."

Finland Binds Economy To Russia's For 5 Years

By THOMAS HARRIS

HELSINKI, Finland, July 10—(Reuters)—Not without misgiving, democratic Finland is binding her economy to Russia's for the next five years. The biggest trade agreement ever entered into by Finland has been signed in Moscow. Now, the Finns are busy reading the fine print.

In some ways the agreement is welcomed here because it gives Finland a market for her newly-developed manufacturing. The Finns are happy too, because Soviet leaders said nice things about them in Moscow, but many people here are asking: "Why the sudden friendliness? What's the catch?"

The agreement calls for trade exchanges of $350,000,000 in both directions over five years. This means that Russia is going to take about 25 per cent of Finland's total exports, compared with only 10 per cent up to now.

Takes Icebreakers

Russia has undertaken to buy manufactured goods such as electric motors and light factory plant from Finland. She has even promised to buy three 10,500-ton icebreakers.

These are important undertakings because they will enable Finland to find work for years ahead for the 40,000 men and women now employed in turning out reparations goods for Russia.

About one-third of the $230,000,000 worth of reparations goods to be delivered between 1944 and 1952, are manufactured products. To supply them, Finland has had to build new factories and even shipyards.

Hope To Balance It

The Finns feared that these new factories and shipyards would be idle after 1952 with no markets for their output. By taking this output, and paying for it instead of receiving it free as now, Russia has left Finland's traditional export of wood, pulp and paper free for her traditional markets—the west.

Finland thus hopes trade will be balanced between east and west, with Soviet Russia replacing Great Britain by a moderate margin as her principal customer.

But, as in all Finno-Russian agreements since 1944, there are vague clauses which could give rise to differences of interpretation, as the Finns phrase it diplomatically, particularly over prices. These are to be fixed each year at current world prices.

HAITIAN LANGUAGE

Although there are only 500 white inhabitants of Haiti, of a total population of 3,500,000, the official language of the country is French.

Frost Meeting Collapses As Civil Service Assoc. Fails To Keep Appointment

Won't Accept Ultimatums, Premier Warns As Paid Official Indicates Civil Servants Prepared To "Declare War"

TORONTO, July 11.—(CP).—Premier Frost said today the Ontario government won't listen to "ultimatums" from employee representatives who are not civil servants. Refusing to meet with Don G. McMaster, a paid official of the Ontario Sivil Service Association, the premier waited in vain for scheduled meeting with Association representatives. Meanwhile, the Association executive announced its resignation in protest against the government attitude toward Mr. McMaster, who is not a civil servant.

While Premier Frost was away from the city, McMaster issued a statement in which he indicated that the civil service is prepared to "declare war" on the government on the salary issue and the "inactivity" of the provincial advisory council, a joint board set up some years ago to discuss wage problems.

Premier Frost countered today with the assertion that the government is not going to stand for such an "ulimatum."

Won't Have Ultimatum

"We are prepared to deal with members of the civil service but we are not going to be subjected to ultimatums from outside persons," he said. "The situation can become dangerous when a person outside of the government service can make such statements."

The premier emphasized he was willing to negotiate with the civil service at any time His door was always open to them.

"But not to Mr. McMaster?" he was asked.

"That is not in accordance with government policy," replied the premier. "We will discuss any problem at any time with the members of the service but not with outsiders. If anything needs changing we will be glad to consider it. All they have to do is come and suggest it.

"We are not making an issue out of anything except the method of approach."

Premier Frost wrote R. C. Johnston, president of the Civil Service Association on July 5 stating that he would be glad to see representatives of the service.

Made Policy Clear

"In that letter I set out clearly the government's policy of employer and employee relationship, and the joint advisory council system which was introduced in 1943.

"This system has received wide commendation in the service and the effect of this system on the whole tenor of the civil service including its permanency and rates of pay have been very marked.

"To meet rising living costs, the government had instituted a cost-of-living bonus in addition to normal salary increases. The salary schedule was increased. The government was also considering the problem of lower-paid employees.

"I may say that I am prepared to discuss with the representative members of the civil service the problems of provincial employees," said the premier. "That has always been the case and I have re-emphasized that in my

Egypt Giving Support To The West

CAIRO, Egypt, July 11 (AP)—Egypt today announced her support of the west in the world struggle against communism. She called North Korea's attack on South Korea an act of aggression and said she approved the United Nations' decision denouncing it.

But a carefully-worded statement by Foreign Minister Mohamed Salah Eddin Bey maintained the Nile kingdom's refusal to support the U.N. security council's decision to use action in Korea.

Salah Eddin outlined the new Egyptian position at a press conference. Observers considered his statement a careful retreat from Egypt's previous "plague-on-both-your-houses" attitude toward Korea.

The other six Arab states earlier broke away from Egyptian leadership to give qualified support to U.N. Korean policies Egypt had been criticized throughout the western world for her abstention from the council decision. Soviet papers praised her stand.

Salah Eddin repudiated Russian support in a two-fisted attack on communism, saying: "I hope the western powers succeed in their efforts to stop the communist menace." Asked if that included Korea, he said: "Everywhere."

One Big Strike Ends In Britain

LONDON, July 11 (Reuters)—One of Britain's two major strikes ended today, but the second grew.

In London striking meat delivery truck drivers and food handlers decided to end a 17-day unofficial walkout after leaders told them the union had promised to speed negotiations on the wage claims that brought the men out.

In central Scotland, however, miners in 10 more coal mines today went on strike forcing the coal-wage strike picture back on ground gained yesterday when 2,000 of 14,000 striking miners returned to work. More than 15,000 miners now are idle at 60 mines.

The London meat strike, which has kept London on a scanty canned-meat diet for two weeks despite the efforts of troops called in to handle orders, ended today at a mass open air meeting.

Have Bill To Abolish Upper House In N.Z.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., July 11 (Reuters)—A bill to abolish New Zealand's upper house—the legislative council—was introduced tonight in the House of Representatives.

Prime Minister Sidney Holland said the bill provided for the upper house to go out of existence Jan. 1, 1951. Members of the outgoing council would be paid no compensation.

The legislative council's 25 members are said to be predominantly pro-Labor. It is a non-hereditary body appointed by the governor-general. When a move to abolish it was made 40 years ago it precipitated one of the longest and fiercest political controversies in the dominion's history.

But up to the present there has been little fuss about the new bill, introduced by Holland's Conservative government.

Marooned In Gorge

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 11. — (CP). — Police hauled Sgt. Earl Bray 20 feet up the almost vertical Niagara gorge bank last night after he became marooned while coming out of the gorge depths on a rope. He had gone down the embankment with two other men to investigate a wrecked car, stolen from William Knight of Stamford.

600 Homeless After Flood In Nebraska

CRETE, Neb., July 11 (AP)—The raging big Blue River flood waters rolled downstream today after inundating parts of four towns and causing millions of dollars worth of property and crop damage.

The record breaking flood crest, resulting from the run-off of a 13-inch rain at York, 50 miles northeast of here, is expected to reach Beatrice, 25 miles south of here, early Thursday.

The flood, most extensive in the history of York, McCool, Beaver Crossing and Crete, already has claimed five lives, and driven more than 600 from their homes.

The only casualties reported to date were a family group which was drowned in a flash flood near Fullerton, about 100 miles northwest of here. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bogner of Hastings, their two small children and a niece were found dead near the point where their car was washed from the road.

Bridges Opposition Provokes Riot

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11. — (AP).—Harry Bridges' opposition to his own C.I.O. union supporting United States action in Korea precipitated a near riot Monday night.

Several fist fights broke up the meeting of Local 10, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, and prevented a vote on the anti-Communism resolution. Bridges is a member of the local.

Angry right-wing Longshoremen booed their international presideont as he led the opposition. The resolution had been offered by Phil Sandin, president of the local.

The resolution condemned North Korean aggression, pledged the union's loyalty to the United States, promised to load all war cargoes, and declared:

"We shall not join in, condone or recognize any Communist demonstration or picket lines.

Do It Hard Way

VIENNA, July 11.—(Reuters).—Many Viennese crawled out of windows on their way to work today. Wooden doors, baked tinder-dry in the record-breaking heat wave, were swollen, warped and jammed after a night of torrential rainstorms. The night-long cloudbursts produced flooding in many parts of Austria and sent rivers up the high-water mark.

Fruit Growers Raise $5,000 To Fight Government Ban

VINELAND, Ont., July 11 (CP)—An organization to be known as the Niagara Property Owners' Protective Association has been formed by a group of fruitgrowers who have banded together to fight the Ontario Government's legislation prohibiting operation of individual fruit stands along the controlled access Queen Elizabeth Way.

The group decided to raise $5,000 to fight the bill through the courts.

Hon. George Doucett, Ontario Minister of Highways; Hon. Charles Daley, Labor Minister and M.L.A. for Lincoln; Joseph L. Easton, M.L.A. for Wentworth, and other government officials will be invited to attend a meeting of the growers.

A petition against the bill, presently being circulated among the fruitgrowers, is being largely signed, it was reported.

To permit growers along the heavily-travelled Queen Elizabeth Way to continue highway sale of their fruit after the individual stands had been prohibited, mainly as a traffic safety measure, the department of highways opened up four community fruit market sites at which the growers might market their fruit and vegetables.

These markets have not proved satisfactory to the growers some of whom are now openly defying the government regulation by carrying on sales from stands at their own properties bordering the four-lane highway. J. D. Miller, deputy minister of highways, has said these growers will be prosecuted.

60-Tonners Smash Open Gap In Line

Hoping To Defend Last Major Line Around Ku.n River

TOKYO, July 11. — (CP). — United States troops in South Korea, harried by Communist tanks and cunning infiltration tactics, have fallen back to new defence positions at the approaches of Taejon, provisional capital and U.S. headquarters.

A communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said the Americans were "continuing their action to stabilize the situation by stopping the North Korean offensive north of the Kum river," the last natural defence barrier to Taejon.

The enemy's closest reported penetration was near Chochiwon, five airline miles north of the Kum river.

At the same time reports direct from the scene of action told of successful North Korean tank actions and of the invaders' skill in slipping through American lines.

Best Seen

One US Army spokesman at field headquarters, reporting the withdrawals under North Korean pressure "all along our front line" said the Communist infiltration tactics were "as good as I have ever seen. They infiltrate by dressing in civilian clothes and move behind our lines at night."

A Reuters dispatch from the field said American tanks were "mauled" in their first brush with Korean armor.

It said crew members of two tanks which rolled into a rear area said five tanks of their original column were left "twisted and torn" as a result of superior North Korean striking power.

10 U.S. Tanks Destroyed

(An Associated Press dispatch from Washington said today that the defence department had reported 10 American tanks destroyed and two disabled in Korean fighting.

The survivors said that American armor ran into withering fire from opposing Communist tanks. One American tank was knocked out by a direct hit. The others were forced into rice fields where they bogged down and were destroyed by the enemy after their ammunition was exhausted.

75,000 Reds

Reuters said it is estimated that Communist strength in this sector totals 75,000 men, mainly concentrated along the main highway leading to Taejon. They are believed to have at least 80 tanks in support.

MacArthur's communique said that Communist activity on the East Korean front also increased "although it still remains on a relatively small scale."

Enemy strength is reported to be increasing near Utchin, an east coast port about 125 miles north of Pusan.

Light bombers and fighters are maintaining their attacks on highways, bridges, railroads and concentrations of ground troops, the communique said.

Last Major Line

The Kum Gung River mentioned in the communique is the last major defence line the Am-

Colombia Speeding Relief After 'Quake

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 11 (AP)—Colombia sped relief today to the rich coffee-growing section 230 miles northeast of here where 270 persons were killed and 40,000 left homeless in earthquakes Sunday.

The government, Red Cross, newspapers and private organizations rushed food and medical supplies to the stricken area. An air lift was set up to carry doctors, nurses and troops to 10 hard-hit towns.

Cold and heavy rains hampered relief work.

Electric power failed and people groped through darkness searching for loved ones or just wandered aimlessly.

KOREAN CASUALTIES—American soldiers await evacuation to a hospital after being wounded in the Korean war. These are among the first US casualties in the struggle against Red North Korean invaders of South Korea.

French Assembly Confirms Pleven Premier

PARIS, July 11 — (AP).—The French National Assembly today confirmed Rene Pleven, a member of the small Union of Resistance Party, as France's new Premier.

Pleven received a strong majority, with the official vote count at 373 to 185.

He has 50 hours—until 10 a.m. Thursday—to complete his Cabinet for Assembly approval. He said he expected to have a Cabinet formed by tonight.

Pleven was the second man in a week named to try to end France's political crisis. The country has been without a government since June 24 when Premier Georges Bidault resigned.

Pleads For Unity

The new Premier pleaded with the Assembly to unite behind a strong government in a time of international crisis.

Pleven had the support of the Socialists, the Mouvement Populaire Republicain, the Radical Socialists and a generous scattering of Independents. The Communists formed the bulk of the vote against his confirmation.

Despite his strong support, Pleven's problems — similar to those which caused the government crisis — are only beginning. The major issue is over increases in minimum wages for low-paid workers.

Political observers say it remains to be seen whether the bitter partisan quarrels break out again when Pleven begins handing out ministerial portfolios. Neither the Socialists nor the pro-Catholic MRP have indicated whether they will participate in a Coalition Cabinet.

One-Man Force Found Guilty

JAMESBURG, NJ, July 11 — (AP). — The Jamesburg Borough Council early today found the borough's one-man police force "guilty" of refusing to work the midnight to 5 a.m. shift.

Harry L. Hubbs, the suspended Chief of Police, testified in his own defence for more than two hours Monday night, telling how hard he had been working for his $42 weekly salary.

He owns his own police car and his own billy club and even has to help the dogcatcher, he said.

A grandfather and veteran of the First World War, Hubbs was tried and convicted by the Council of the borough — 35 miles south-east of New York—on four specific charges:

That he absented himself from duty without just cause; refused to report for duty despite orders from a superior; failed to obey a schedule of working hours; and refused to appear at a meeting of the Council's Police Committee.

There was no announcement of what penalty would be imposed.

Girl Sails Boat Alone After Raiders Loot Craft

MONROVIA, Liberia, July 11.—(Repters).—Terror-stricken Aga Muller, 18, who tried with her father to sail across the Atlantic to South America in a 16-foot boat, cut the anchor and sailed the frail craft single-handed after raiders boarded it off Africa's west coast and robbed her dying father.

The senior Muller, a 65-year-old German chemist, and his daughter left Hamburg last November "in search of peace and security" in South America.

At least half a dozen times they were saved by passing ship from the teeth of wild gales as they voyaged from Germany to Ireland, across the Bay of Biscay, along the Spanish coast and south off the west coast of Africa.

The comparatively calm seas boiled up and wires supporting the mainsail snapped.

Raiders Come

Then the African raiders came. They boarded the Berlin from canoes with "offers to help." But when they saw Muller's condition they brushed Aga aside and seized blankets, food, fuel and other stores.

Fearing they would return later Aga cut the anchor—it was too heavy for her to lift single-

Dies From Injuries In Cave-in At Mine

BELLEVUE, Alta., July 11 (CP)—A 55-year-old coal miner died in hospital Monday from injuries suffered in a cave-in at West Canadian Collieries here. His working partner—buried to the waist in rock when the "roof" of a mine crosscut gave way—is in hospital.

Dead is John Taborski. His partner, Charles Wynotula, 52, is reported in "good" condition.

Bellevue is in the Crow's Nest Pass area near the southern British Columbia border.

May Tax Britons Still Higher

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Britons, groaning under the world's highest taxes, were told Monday night they can pay more—and may have to.

The warning was given by the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, in reply to House of Commons suggestions from Conservatives that tax gathering has reached its limit.

Britons now pay 40 per cent of their national income in taxes.

Sir Stafford agreed he has reached "near the limit of direct taxation on incomes."

"But that does not mean," he added, "that we have reached the limit of taxability. There are indirect taxation, death duties, and many other ways by which taxes can be raised.

"If it were the question of an emergency the situation would be quite different."

Request Gov't Control Wheat Crop Marketing

CHATHAM, July 11 (CP) — Control of marketing of the 1950 winter wheat crop will be urged on federal authorities next week by Ontario grain elevator men supported by a strong delegation of farmers from Western Ontario.

They will ask that the government take the surplus wheat off the market until all Canadian domestic purchases have been made.

First deliveries of the 1950 winter wheat are expected next week, with the bulk of the crop reaching the market within three weeks. Growers and dealers fear that a sudden rush of wheat on the early market will drive the price down.

Cowpuncher 'Lou' Forgets PM Dignity, Leads Parade

CALGARY, July 11 —(CP)—A compuncher named Lou was right in there Monday in the biggest, most colorful parade you ever saw.

The cowboy named Lou—otherwise Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent—was there at the front in cowboy suit, waving down from the seat of an old-fashioned driving carriage to tens of thousands of people who lined the streets six deep for blocks.

Monday night Mr. St. Laurent formally opened the Stampede by confessing that in recent weeks he has fulfilled two boyhood ambitions. In Chicago recently he drove a railway locomotive. Monday he put on those cowboy clothes and drove in this cowboy show.

The Prime Minister was hailed both by thousands of Stampede visitors and by the heavens. Just as he began his address, hail began to pelt him on the stage, and then a cloudburst swept over the exhibition grounds.

However, Mr. St. Laurent gamely finished his address. Mayor Don MacKay tried to keep the show going by leading a damp sing song. The replica of the big cake sent from Edmonton for Calgary's 75th birthday party was whipped off the infield before it got too soggy.

As the crowd of 26,000 pushed its way out of the enclosure, threats of panic appeared as people gasped for air in the dense throng, and small children crushed.

New Overture To Russia Hinted In UK

Will Offer Soviet New Proposals To End Korean War

LONDON, July 11.— (AP).—The Daily Express today reports a new overture for Russian aid in ending the Korean fighting was in the making. There was no immediate official comment on the report.

The Express says Britain's ambassador in Moscow, Sir David Kelly, in a future interview with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko "may put forward detailed proposals by which Russia could co-operate in ending the fighting Korea."

The Kremlin last week declined to take action on a British request relayed verbally by Sir David that Russia intercede to halt the Korean fighting.

Have 2 Points

The Express says the British cabinet is consulting with the United States, France and other governments about proposals to be made to the Russians. The newspaper adds that any proposals made to Russia would stress:

"That any action must be taken through the United Nations."

"That North Korean forces must withdraw to the 28th parallel"—the pre-fighting boundary between north and south Korea.

Three-Day Visit

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP) — Prime Minister Robert Menzies of Australia will spend three days in Ottawa—Aug. 7 to 9—when he visits Canada next month, a spokesman for the External Affairs Department said today.

Mr. Menzies left Sydney by air Sunday on a trip that will take him to the United Kingdom, United States, Canada and New Zealand.

He will visit Vancouver as well as Ottawa.

Strachey Makes Speech Apology

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—War Minister John Strachey apologized today for some of the things he said about the Schuman Plan in a speech 10 days ago at Colchester.

"I particularly regret," he told the House of Commons, "if any expressions which I used are felt by M. Schuman and his associates to reflect in any way upon their motives."

Strachey was the first speaker in a debate demanded by Conservative leader Winston Churchill, who insisted the minister's remarks should have a full airing in parliament.

The Labor Party sent out a hard and fast order for its members to attend the session to bring its full working majority of six to bear against any attempt at a vote of censure, even of a technical nature.

Ask Labor Department Intervene In Strike

WINDSOR, Ont., July 11 (CP) Intervention by the Ontario Department of Labor has been asked in the office workers' strike at the Canadian Industries Limited chemical plant here, an official of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) announced today.

The union said a telephone call Monday to Labor Minister Charles Daley asked for a meeting to discuss prosecution of the CIL, charging an illegal lockout of the plant.

Fifty office workers, members of Local 240, struck in a contract dispute July 6.

Operations in the chemical plant were halted after the strike pickets halted truck transport into the plant.

Some 360 workmen, members of Local 195 of the UAW, are expected to be effected by the production stoppage.

Ace Policeman And Aide Have Been Charged In Armed Robbery Plots

Head Of Montreal Hold-Up Squad, Sergeant Both Ordered Suspended From Quebec Provincial Police Detachment

MONTREAL, July 11.—(CP).—The ace anti-robbery officer of the Quebec Provincial Police and his assistant will appear in court Wednesday on charges of conspiring to commit and to have others commit armed robberies. Detective Lieut. Marcel Patenaude, head of the hold-up squad, and Sgt. Gaston Archambault were ordered suspended Monday night by Deputy-Director Hilaire Beauregard pending outcome of their trials. A third man, Paul Hervieux, who recently was suspended from the force for failing to carry out his duties, also has been arrested on the conspiracy counts. He and Sgt. Archambault will be arraigned today.

Short, bespectacled Patenaude is a former private detective who joined the Provincial Force seven years ago. Of 17 bank robberies in Montreal during 1949, the squad chief was credited with solving 14 and of nine hold-ups in the district this year, seven have been solved.

Pleads Innocent

Patenaude pleaded innocent and chose trial by judge alone. He was released on two $950 bonds.

The arrests came as a sequel to charges made last February by Charles Emile Poliquin, 28-year-old alleged bank robber who claimed he got "protection" from Provincial Police.

Poliquin, a Montreal taxi driver with whom Patenaude is alleged to have incited to commit a $4,000 hold-up at a St. Hugues, Que., bank sub-branch, is scheduled to appear for trial at St. Hyacinthe next month on an armed robbery count. The hold-up took place Dec. 2.

Under police questioning, the cabbie claimed he paid protection money to Provincial Police who never bothered him. A full inquiry was ordered by the Attorney-General's office and Poliquin later retracted the charges.

The three men also are charged with inciting another person to commit a bank hold-up at Rougemont last Dec. 28 and to conspiring between Nov. 1 and Feb. 1 to commit armed robberies at St. Hugues, Rougemont and St. Paul L'Hermite. The latter planned robbery never took place, Beauregard said.

Give Million Move Workers

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP)—A number of European governments have made almost $1,000,000 available to the International Labor Organization to help the migration of workers from over-populated areas.

In making the announcement today, V. C. Phelan, director of the Canadian branch of the I.L.O., said the special fund, amounting to $998,000 in U.S. currency, would be used to carry out a detailed plan to facilitate movement of workers. The plan, mapped at an I.L.O. conference at Geneva this spring, envisages the movement of workers from over-populated European countries to other countries, either in Europe or abroad, which need manpower.

Canada, which has taken thousands of European immigrants including displaced persons, may be one of the receiving countries under the plan.

The fund will be used to assist government in improving their methods of selection and examination of prospective immigrants, to improve the volume of information available to prospective immigrants about their prospects in a new country and to encourage improved transport facilities for migrants whether moving within European or to outside countries.

4 Drivers Up For Carelessness 2 Dismissals

The "unsupported opinion" of two witnesses in a careless driving case before Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope in City Police Court resulted in dismissal of the charge against Robert McLeod, 17, of Toronto.

McLeod was charged with careless driving on Highway 28 where it enters Lakefield. He was defended by T. J. Carley, KC.

Lakefield garage owner Frank Coyle testified he saw a car "going about 60 miles an hour" pass his service station on the highway. He said after it went past, he heard brakes applied and turned to see a car in the ditch.

Norman Moore of Lakefield, said he turned onto the highway from Clementi St., heard the screech of brakes and saw a car beside him. The car went into the ditch, he said.

Stanley Richardson of Lakefield, said he was driving west on the highway from Lakefield and saw the car "about 700 feet away." "The wheels weren't touching the road at times," he said.

Heavy Skid Marks

Lakefield police chief Garnet Samis said there were heavy skid marks for 132 feet, and that there were skid marks in the gravel on the shoulder of the road.

Mr. Carley pointed out that although Mr. Coyle had seen a car travelling very fast, he had not identified it as the car he later saw in the ditch, and that Mr. Richardson had seen the car only for a few seconds.

Three Other Cases

Three further case of careless driving were heard by Magistrate Baxter.

Richard Baldwin, 469 Stewart St., pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving. He was found guilty and fined $25 and $6.30 costs.

Evidence revealed Baldwin had been driving south on the Chemong road towards its intersection with Highway 7. Harry Blewett, who lives near the scene of the accident, said he had his truck on the road, with a chain attached from it to a car in the west ditch.

Baldwin said he saw the lights of Blewett's truck, but did not see the car in the ditch, and thought he had sufficient room to pass the truck. He said he was going about 45 miles an hour.

Baldwin's auto struck the left rear of the truck, skidded on down the road and went into the west ditch.

Erratic Driving

Joseph Casey, Maria St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs when convicted by Magistrate Baxter of careless driving. Provincial Constable B. Milligan testified he saw Casey driving erratically on Highway 7 the night of June 24. The officer said that when Casey tried to stop at the intersection of Highway 7 and the Chemong road, the car skidded and went completely out of control.

A charge of careless driving against Albert Young, Smith township, was dismissed when the crown offered no evidence.

Submit Resignation

The Civil Service Association issued a statement stating that following instructions from the provincial council meeting on May 19, the provincial executive had submitted its resignation from the executive. The resignations were effective as of 10 a.m. today, one hour before the meeting time set by the premier.

"In attempting to make contact with the government the request went forward that the association be granted the same privileges as it was presumed that the government would enjoy," said the statement. "It was assumed that the premier would have his technical advisors present to provide exact information concerning the brief presented by the association.

Need First-Hand Pointers

"Since this brief was prepared from information gathered by the executive secretary, it was pointed out to the prime minister that the officers would require his presence to explain these various points from his first-hand information.

"Government policy was stated as not recognizing 'outsiders' for purposes of discussion. In a letter to the prime minister it was pointed out that the association president would be spokesman, and that the executive secretary would only be present in an advisory capacity.

"Since there are no longer any officers or executive committee to govern the association, the executive secretary has called an immediate meeting of the branch representatives to elect new officers and determine future action."

It was learned that the meeting will be held on July 21 in Toronto when plans will be laid for future action.

Boat Upsets Two Drowned

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP)—Two persons were drowned and three others escaped a similar fate when an outboard motor boat overturned at Long Island in the Rideau River about 10 miles south of Ottawa Monday night.

Drowned were Winnifred Strutt, 18, and her 23-year-old brother John, both of Ottawa.

In the boat with them at the time of the accident were Jim Strong, Ruth Perrier and Ted Frayne, all of Ottawa. All three were rescued.

W. G. Burns, occupant of a Riverside cottage, heard the cries from the river and swam to the scene. He found Miss Perrier and young Frayne clinging to the overturned boat and urged them to hang on rather than try to swim ashore fully clothed.

Jim Strong, a good swimmer, stayed afloat in the channel until rescue boats reached the scene and picked up all three.

Advances among base metals included Smelters $1; Nickel and Noranda each ⅞; Quemont $1.25; and the following in cents: Anacon 9; Ascot 5; East Sullivan 25; Falconbridge 20; Pend Oreille 10; Steep Rock 10; United Keno 25; Waite Amulet 35.

Among the more active oils were Central Deduc up 10 cents and Pacific Pete up 20.

ericans have to stem the Red offensive heading toward Taejon, the South Korean provisional capital.

The communique said American forces were able to halt one enemy drive at a point eight miles northwest of Cochiwon on the south bank of the Miho River, a tributary of the Kum Gung.

This drive has succeeded in penetrating south to Chonui, approximately 25 miles northwest of Taejon.

The communique said "the remainder of this front" was "relatively stable near Chongan," which the Communists reached Monday.

However, additional troops and armor are being concentrated in this sector.

The Reds were reported to be active in the Umsong-Chongju area.

A field headquarters spokesman said four Communist twin-engined bombers hit Pohang on the east coast today. Pohang is on Yongil Bay about 60 miles north of Pusan, main South Korean port.

Seen Second Time

This is the second time in the war that twin-engined North Korean planes have been seen.

The spokesman said the North Koreans now jump out of tanks and other vehicles whenever they see American planes coming.

"They jump in holes or climb trees," the spokesman said, adding "I don't get this climbing trees but that's the word we get."

South Korean forces were reported still holding firm on their front. The spokesman added, however, they had lost some ground today which they had won in fighting Monday night and this morning.

North Korean tanks, lunging out of a dawn mist, drove some Americans from their front-line positions, which were taken over by Communist troops, field dispatches said. Some of the Communist tanks are 60-tonners.

A United States infantryman said the Communists came "out of a fog, with trees and everything else on them" as camouflage.

One high American officer said "probably a division of Red soldiers" led the newest attack. He said the enemy tanks knocked out some American machine-gun and light artillery positions.

Associated Press correspondent Tom Lambert, who telephoned the account, was not permitted to give the location. He said 11 tanks led the thrust, which shoved American troops out of positions they had won in an earlier counter-attack.

At least two American tanks were knocked out by the Reds, Lambert said.

Reports of North Korean atrocities mounted. AP correspondent William R. Moore said he saw two dead Americans Monday. Their hands were bound behind and they had been shot through the head. The day before, an American Lieutenant reported that he saw seven U.S. soldiers slain similarly by the Reds.

Two Reporters Killed

Two American correspondents were killed Monday, a regimental adjutant reported to field headquarters.

Presumably they were Ray Richards, correspondent for the Hearst newspapers, and Cpl. Ernie Peeler of the Tokyo Stars and Stripes, a United States armed forces' newspaper.

The bodies were not recovered because fighting still raged around the outpost where the reporters were killed.

Richards and Peeler had been reported missing since Sunday night, when they went forward to observe results of the first American bombings.

A see-saw battle roared along the western front.

Heavy Bombing Support

American and South Korean ground troops were getting sledge hammer support—the heaviest of the war—from Allied aircraft. Gen. MacArthur said his planes knocked out 65 Communist tanks and 190 trucks Monday for a record single-day bag.

But despite an estimated total loss of 170 tanks, the North Koreans kept hurling armor-led pressure against American and South Korean infantrymen in four major sectors stretching across a battle area 45 miles wide.

Thirty to 40 Red tanks were spotted speeding toward the American sector, about eight miles north of the Kum river defence barrier and 20 miles north of U.S. headquarters at Taejon. An American spokesman there said some of the Russian-made tanks were 33-tonners.

Wide Open

This column of Red armor was wide open for another aerial pounding. The air force said flying weather was excellent, the same as Monday, when MacArthur's planes flew 315 sorties—a record number. The first appearance of Red jet fighters Monday—three Russian-built Yak-15s—did nothing to spare the North Koreans their terrific mauling. The air force said there were no Allied air losses.

The U.S. tanks fought well although an advanced headquarters spokesman said they were outgunned by the Red tanks, presumably heavier with larger guns.

American artillery joined the tanks and planes in helping U.S. infantrymen Monday check a Red offensive, headed by three North Korean columns.

The Reds today slashed five miles farther south on the east flank, where South Koreans were the defenders.

Army Chiefs Make Hurried Visit To Tokyo

WASHINGTON, July 11—(AP)—Informed Senators said today they expect a 100,000-man increase in the United States armed forces—at an initial cost of $350,000,000—as the first step in the build-up toward a decisive victory in Korea.

Present strength is about 1,370,000. The 100,000 figure was reported to have been given to senate armed services committee members in advance of an appearance before the group today of top military leaders headed by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Bradley and the heads of the services are expected to explain to the Senators why it has taken so long to get heavy equipment and sufficient men into the fighting to stem the southward advance of Communist columns.

Draft machinery to produce the 20,000 recruits asked for by the army was in motion, while military leaders sought ships to carry trained troops to back the defence of Southern Korean against invading Communists.

Keep Draft Ceiling

The defence department said Monday's call for 20,000 was issued to meet the manpower ceiling approved by President Truman last week. The exact figures that are in the ceiling are still a secret.

In another move indicating urgency, Gen. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, left Monday night to confer in Tokyo with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Gen. Collins took with him the blue and white flag of the United Nations, which the UN presented for MacArthur's use as "commander-in-chief of the unified forces in Korea."

Mobilization In Canada Will Be Fast

Second War Set-Up Still Exists, Makes Work Smooth

OTTAWA, July 11.—(CP).—Should Canada become plunged into a full-dress war over Korea, mobilization of her manpower would be fast and smooth compared with that of the Second World War.

Five years after that war's end, much of the framework of the machinery for directing manpower into military and civilian channels is still in existence. Many of the key men who directed the job are still in government service.

In the last war, everything had to be built up from scratch, but by the end of hostilities Canada had one of the best manpower-mobilization organizations among the Allies.

Key agency in the last war was National Selective Service, which after the opening stages of the war centralized manpower controls under the Department of Labor.

Chief Still There

Much of the organization of this agency is still in existence in the form of National Employment Service, which has a network of 300 regional offices across the country. The wartime director of NSS, Arthur McNamara, now is Deputy Minister of Labor.

National Employment Service developed from the Selective Service organization, and still uses many of the facilities and personnel of the wartime body. Officials say the transition back to a wartime basis could be made easily.

Facilities for the placement of technical workers in war industries are in being, while training programs are being operated by the provinces and could be switched back to Federal control in the event of emergency.

Britain's Dollar Surplus

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, had good news for the British House of Commons last week. Surveying the country's finances during the second quarter of the year, he stated that the sterling area, for which Britain is the banker, had a net gold and dollar surplus for the three months of $180,000,000. In the first three months of the year the surplus had been $40,000,000. How striking an improvement in the sterling area's position this is can be seen by comparing the figures with those of 1949. In the second quarter of that year there was a deficit of $632,000,000.

* * *

Sir Stafford explained the improvement in these words:

Last April, when I spoke about the first quarter's results, I explained that two main types of influence had been at work in bringing about the improvement in our affairs. First, there were those influences which were outside our own control, such as a recovery in the demand by the dollar countries for goods which are supplied by the sterling area. Secondly, there were the effects of our own policies and actions, such as the positive encouragement we have been giving the exports to the dollar area, and economies which all the sterling area countries acting in unison have exercised in their expenditures on dollar imports. By making our own exports more competitive, compared with dollar goods, devaluation played its part in encouraging these economies. It also helped to limit expenditures on so-called invisible items. We benefited too from the great change in sentiment about the original position and prospects which took place after devaluation and resulted in a considerable accretion of funds as debts outstanding were paid and new business entered into.

The chief thing to say about the second quarter's results is that most of these influences have continued to be powerfully at work. Among them, it is probably true to say that the continued high level of demand in the United States, particularly for raw materials produced by the rest of the sterling area, must take first place. The increase in our own exports to North America, especially Canada, is also a factor worthy of special mention.

* * *

Britain is not out of the wood yet, but she is on the fringe. The devaluation has helped greatly, though its first year's effects are likely to be the most helpful. (As Sir Stafford said, the exceptional accretion of funds following devaluation cannot continue indefinitely.) During the quarter, receipts under E.R.P. amounted to $240,000,000, and $18,000,000 was drawn on the Canadian credit. E.R.P. is to end, and special credits such as Canada has extended, are not perennial. Nevertheless, Britain and its sterling area have remarkably regained financial stability. It is to be hoped that the improvement will continue sufficiently to permit Britain and other sterling countries to buy liberally again in Canada. It is not comforting, for instance, to know that Canada is losing trade because sterling area countries are switching their buying of apples, wheat and other commodities from dollar-based Canada to other countries within the sterling block, on the plea that they have not enough Canadian dollars.

* * *

The figures given above are for the whole sterling area and are controlled by Britain, banker for a vast section of the world stretching from Australia and India to the West Indies. It needs to be repeatedly emphasized that Britain is the centre of a world-wide trading system and still a great financial power. That the pound has been in difficulties as regards dollars does not minimize the importance of Britain's financial status. On the contrary, it underlines it, as Canadians ought to know, now that so many of their products have been rebuffed by pound-based countries. The U.S. dollar is not omnipotent. It is the pound's importance throughout the world outside North America, and in Canada, which makes such good news as the surplus of $180,000,000 announced by Sir Stafford hopeful news for Canada and her exporters.

The "Maple Leaf" Controversy Ended

On this page today we publish a letter from Sir Ernest Macmillan which appears in the current issue of Saturday Night, and which establishes plainly that the version which Sir Ernest prints in A Canadian Song Book and which The Examiner quoted some weeks ago, is the one which the writer, Alexander Muir, wished to be the final one. Saturday Night has made a most gracious acknowledgement of its error, and everybody is happy.

Or shall we say—fairly happy? We referred to the song in the first place because we wanted to suggest that it be sung and played more often than it is. The Maple Leaf, without being in any way a great piece of verse or music, is good, sound stuff, and of a cheerful tendency. We like it better than the somewhat ponderous O Canada. This is a new and optimistic country, as the countries of the old world go, and we like to hear a song about it which has an optimistic sound.

Neither The Maple Leaf nor O Canada is as good a piece of music as God Save the King. Countless musicians, Beethoven and Haydn among them, have admired the dignity and simplicity of that tune. The U.S.A. liked it well enough to steal it and fit it out with a set of words suited to the purposes of a republic. From time to time there is agitation for a Canadian national anthem. We will do a great deal of experimenting and rejecting before we find anything that equals God Save The King.

Our Private Lakes

Peterborough has a dozen lakes at its gates, but the majority of Peterborough people cannot get near them: the shores are all private property. On a holiday such as Dominion Day, cottage owners and renters may bask on the banks and enjoy the waterscape and bathing. Other folk who for one reason or another have neither cottages nor friends with cottages may catch a glimpse of the water from a highway or county road, but if they want to bathe, picnic or loll in the sun, they had better plan on staying in town where there are public parks and beaches.

The pre-emption of nearly all accessible lake shores by private owners is a public calamity. Ontario, a land of open spaces and beautiful lakes, offers less freedom of the convenient countryside to people than do crowded France and England. The public is fenced out in Southern Ontario; not only in this Trent Valley-Kawartha district, but in other resort areas such as Lake Simcoe and the Muskokas. We sympathize with the desire to secure cottages and privacy, but there is a line between private property privileges and public good which has been badly drawn in these lake districts. There has been no malevolent rapacity in the foreclosures; it has been a matter of short-sightedness. When automobiles made lake country accessible, the grab for riparian land began. It has continued unabated since 1900.

The Department of Lands and Forests is now alert to the undesirable situation. In new leases of Crown land to cottagers, it reserves segments for public use. Many of these allotments are, however, remote. They are not handy for motorists on a single day's outing. The new policy will not remedy the mistakes of earlier years. But there is a way that the public may again have access to now private land.

Cottage lots do come up for sale occasionally. If the Department were to devote some of the money it gets from the new leases of Crown land to buying up desirable developed sites on lakes within easy access of towns, the Kawarthas, Lake Simcoe, and Muskoka could again be opened to the people. The Department of Highways has given a fine example through its roadside parks. A twenty-year policy of reclaiming lakeshore property from private hands would meet with warm approval from citizens and tourists alike. The faults of other years need not put a perpetual ban on people of this and subsequent generations.

A Sterling Area Triumph

By SUSAN STRANGE

A YEAR ago, Britain and the sterling area had a gold and dollar deficit in their balance of payments of 632 million dollars. This year, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced in the House of Commons today, returns for the second quarter showed not a deficit but a surplus—a substantial surplus of 180 million dollars.

◇ ◇ ◇

A YEAR ago, sterling area trade was doing so badly that not even Marshall Aid could stop the drain on the gold and dollar reserves. Now, the 180 million dollar "trading surplus", plus 240 million dollars of E.R.P. funds, plus 18 million dollars from the Canadian credit, have added 438 million dollars to the gold and sterling reserves of the sterling area. On June 30 these reserves had consequently risen to 2,422 million dollars.

◇ ◇ ◇

ALTHOUGH there have been rumours that the reserves were rising to over 2,300 million, this news is unexpectedly good. If only the pace could be maintained for the next year, Britain would be out of the wood and able, with the sterling area, to stand on her own feet independent of American aid by the time the Marshall Plan comes to an end in 1952.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHY has the sterling area been able to do so well in the last three months? One reason is the prosperity of the United States. The recovery of demand there for sterling imports has kept dollar earnings high. On top of that, the economy campaign by joint agreement of all Commonwealth members has worked surprisingly well. They have kept faithfully to their agreement to reduce dollar imports to 75 per cent of 1948 levels—and in some cases have done even better.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANOTHER reason is that the benefits of devaluation are still being reaped a good while after it was thought they would have disappeared. Devaluation undamned a special inflow of payments and orders into the sterling area which had been piling up in the uncertain period before the plunge was taken. That inflow is still going on.

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE have also been some special reasons. One is that many of the colonial raw materials, which are the most stalwart dollar earners, have gone up considerably in price. Rubber is a case in point. And the dollar area has paid the higher price. South African gold, which has been earned for the pool by exports to South Africa from other parts of the sterling area, has also made a substantial contribution. And, lastly, the second quarter of the year—from April to June—benefits from the invisible earnings which come with the beginning of the summer tourist season.

◇ ◇ ◇

ONE proof that these results are unexpectedly good is that the Chancellor has had to increase the sterling funds in the Exchange Equalization Account. This is a sort of reservoir-mechanism adopted in the mid-thirties to stop fluctuations in the balance of payments from affecting the internal economy. The influx of gold and dollars into the Account and the consequent drain of sterling has left it practically bare, and its capital is to be raised by another £300 million to £875 million.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN spite of all this, Sir Stafford Cripps warned the House of Commons that the reserves are still not entirely above high-water mark; they are above the danger line in the balance of payments which might come about through outside forces. Treasury officials, too, do not expect the surplus to go on going up at this rate. They think it will level off, at best, when the force of devaluation is spent and as Marshall Aid gets less. And, of course, any one of a number of things—a recession in the United States, a fall in commodity prices—could upset the applecart.

◇ ◇ ◇

THESE dangers do exist. Just because the sterling area has done well in one particular quarter, it does not mean that any of its parts—least of all Britain—can relax its vigilance on the foreign or the home economic front. Inflation, we know, would run away with the benefits of devaluation. A scramble for wage increases or too heavy a rise in the cost of social services would reduce people's incomes without increasing the amount of goods to go round. Prices would rise, including the price of our exports, and the export drive might be hamstrung.

THERE is another point to which no one has yet given much attention. The war in Korea may turn attention to Britain's defences. The decision may have to be taken to step-up rearmament, particular in the air. Under the stimulus of the Korean war it may also be decided, in consultation with the United States, that the global defences of the Western Powers will have to be strengthened. In a number of ways, this may mean extra claims being put on British production. These extra claims would have to be paid for—if we are not to have inflation—by someone going short.

BUT there is one bright spot of consolation. The Government's economic pundits in the economic survey for 1950 forecast a rise in productivity of 4½ per cent.—that is, that output in 1950, taken as a whole, would be 4½ per cent. bigger than last year. Now it turns out that the rise in productivity over the first four months of 1950 was double the forecast—nine per cent. Productivity in paper and printing in the first quarter, for example, rose by 24 per cent.; in clothing, by 14 per cent.; in chemicals, by 6 per cent. and in mining by one per cent. If this continues, it would give a slightly better safety margin for any unavoidable inflationary forces.

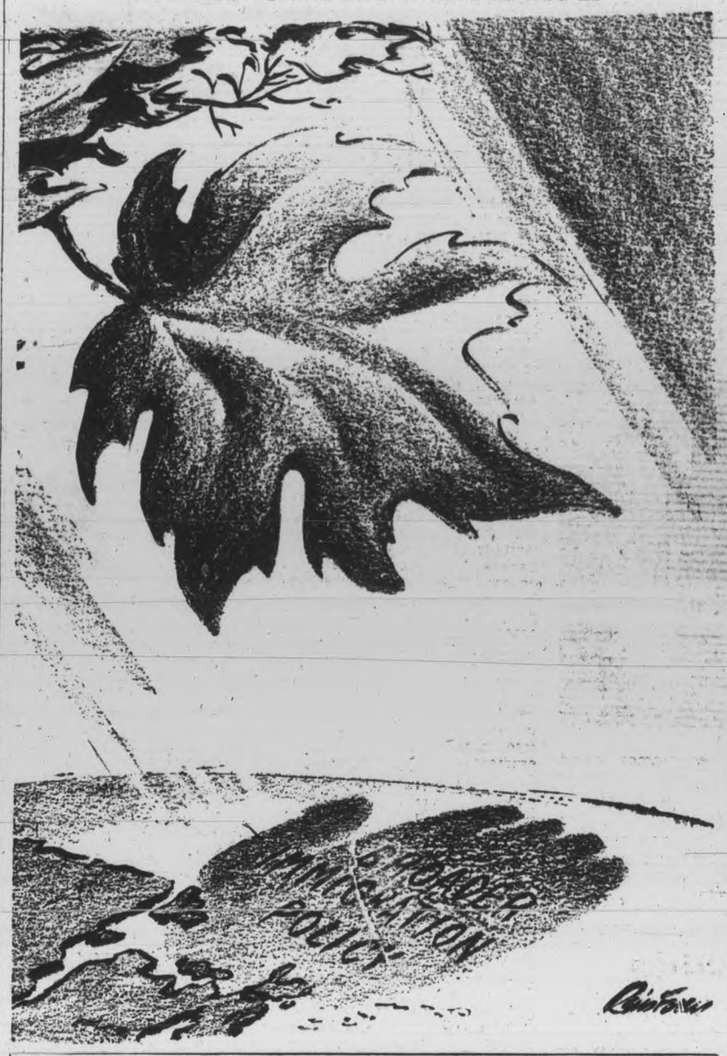
Is The People's Business Boring?

(Montreal Gazette)

Many citizens will find it curious, if not irksome, that in the final stages of the parliamentary session, the concluding business of the House of Commons was dealt with at times by a mere handful of members, falling occasionally below the quorum level of 20. Especially considering the tremendous volume of procedure pushed through in the wind-up of a session, it is odd that so few members out of a total roster of 262 could be mustered to remain in their seats and carry out their duties.

It is true that the clean-up sittings lasting from morning to late at night can be somewhat wearing, and that many of the matters dealt with are routine and lacking in interest. But if items on the House agenda are sufficiently important to require disposal by the Commons, they should be important enough to get attention from more than 20 members.

"ALL HAIL TO THE BROAD-LEAFED MAPLE"



The Authentic "Maple Leaf"

(LETTER IN SATURDAY NIGHT)
from Sir Ernest Macmillan.

SIR: An editorial in your issue of June 20, headed "The Wrong Maple Leaf" castigates severely the "mis-educating editor" of "A Canadian Song Book" for having arbitrarily and clumsily altered the original text of that song. As the mis-educating editor in question, I read it with some misgivings: must I plead guilty to editorial carelessness? Years had passed since the book first appeared and I could not be sure that I had at the time investigated the original sources. Of one thing however I was certain: I had not wilfully tampered with an original text because of an offensive rhyme. I have no objection whatever to the rhyming of "came" with "domain" if it satisfies the ear of the poet. More far-fetched rhymes such as "glorious" and "over us" or "cause" and "voice" in our National Anthem I can bear with equanimity nor have I any urge to make "the rocks and forests quiver" to the sound of "the Maple Leaf foriver." Stephen Leacock tells us that he was once nearly mobbed by a company of infuriated Scots when, at a Burns' Night dinner he ventured to suggest that "afore ye" was not an ideal rhyme for "Loch Lomond"; had I been present I have no doubt that the MacMillan blood would have been similarly stirred to fury.

No, Mr. Editor, I was sure that the version which you term an "atrocity" and a "frightful banality" antedated my song book by many years. If my memory is not at fault I was taught it in a Toronto public school somewhere about the turn of the century, though I was also made familiar with the version you (and I) prefer. I knew that it had appeared in several song books: to name only one, you will find it on page 232 of "The New Normal Music Course, Book III", published in 1914, and authorized for use in the schools of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. I knew, in short, that the "vandalism" was not mine—that I had not, to use your picturesque metaphor, stolen the first crust of bread. But had I stolen the second?

In the course of twenty-one years, (during which, I believe, the National Council of Education which first commissioned the book has ceased to exist,) my memory of details has become somewhat hazy and I could not be certain that, at the time, I had carefully checked all existing versions of the song. The book has during that period been in wide circulation and, until you sprang to the defence of "poor James Muir" (Alexander, Mr. Editor: when you are defending a man's fair name it is as well to know what it is) no one had to my knowledge raised the question.

I cannot endorse too strongly your view that a poet living or dead has a right to be correctly quoted, even though amended versions my please us more. I am therefore relieved that our admirable Public Reference Library has come to my rescue. In John Ross Robertson's "Landmarks of Toronto," Volume 6, page 561, it is stated that Alexander Muir wrote to the city editor of "The Empire" (afterwards amalgamated with "The Mail") on September 8th, 1894, as follows:

"As I find my song 'The Maple Leaf Forever' is sometimes printed incorrectly, I enclose the correct words."

The words begin:

"In days of yore the hero Wolfe Britain's glory did maintain."

I am, sir, Yours faithfully,
ERNEST MACMILLAN.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples.

And the disciples did as Jesus had appointed them; and they made ready the passover. Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve. (Matt. 26: 17-20.)

Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God; he riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself. After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garents, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you? Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. (John 13: 3-5, 12-15.)

Doing His Duty

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

Mr. Drew is doing his duty to the people of Canada ably by constantly demanding economy. We sincerely hope that his campaign proves effective, and that a reduction of Government spending results in a reduction of taxes.

The Government's task, however, is to balance the need for making economies against the present-day physical requirements of the nation and the various demands for public spending. As in the case of Mr. Drew's economy program, the success of the Government in carrying out this task to the public's satisfaction will undoubtedly be made manifest when next the electorate has an opportunity to express an opinion.

KODAK SAFETY

LIGHTHOUSE BURNS — Gasoline-fed flames killed two men and gutted this Lake Erie lighthouse off Point Pelee. The blaze was started by an explosion during the loading of gasoline from the supply ship Grenville. Killed were William Moore, 64, keeper of the steel and concrete lighthouse, and Dowsley Kingston, of Prescott, an inspector for the Department of Transport who was travelling on the ship.

U.S. Shippers Must Pay Federal Tax

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) —The United States Government has acted to plug a loophole by which some shippers had avoided payment of a three-per-cent Federal tax on transportation charges.

The Internal Revenue Bureau announced the action Friday in an effort to prevent the possible loss of millions of dollars in tax revenue through the payment by American companies of freight bills in Canada.

The payment scheme hitherto had appeared a fully-legal method of avoiding the three-per-cent tax on freight charges.

The Revenue Bureau itself advised a Seattle man a month ago that the tax could be avoided lawfully by personal payments in Canada. The practice would not be legal however, where the payment money was sent to Canada by mail, messenger or telegraphic order.

Reverses Ruling

But the Bureau reversed itself after American business concerns began showing intensive interest in making their shipments tax free, threatening to cost the government a huge sum in potential tax revenue.

Revenue Commissioner George Schoeneman advised all shippers and freight carriers of the Bureau's new attitude.

"The three-per-cent transportation tax applies to all shipments of property between two points in the United States and the law does not exclude anyone from this tax if he pays his domestic freight bills outside the United States," he said.

The Bureau previously had considered itself powerless to collect because U.S. law is phrased to put the tax only upon "the amount paid (for freight) within the States."

Anti-Semitism Vital Factor In World, Rotarjans Told

Rabbi J. Mayer, Peterborough, chose the "History of Anti-Semitism" as the subject of an address at the Rotary luncheon at the Empress Hotel, on Monday.

At the beginning of his address, Rabbi Mayer distinguished between anti-Judaism which is hostility toward the Jewish religion and anti-Semitism which is the term used for the hostility toward the Jewish race itself. With the growth of religious toleration, anti-Judaism has almost disappeared, but anti-Semitism remains a vital factor in almost every country in the world.

The Rabbi attributed to four factors the origin and growth of anti-Semitism in the world: first, the instinctive hatred of the human being for the stranger—and the Jew is everywhere in some respect or other different from his surroundings, to which he is therefore a stranger"; secondly, the growth of nationalism; thirdly, "the hostility of the country to the town and the Jews with the exception of modern Israel, are and always have been practically all townsmen," and fourth, economic distress which is always looking for a scapegoat and nearly always the Jews are picked to fill that position.

As Old As Christianity

Tracing the history of the growth of hatred for the Jewish race, the speaker stated that anti-Judaism is as old as Christianity. The first major attack against the Jews took place during the Crusades. At the time of the terrible "Black Death," between 1348 and 1351, the Jews were accused of poisoning the wells and were treated accordingly. At the end of the 15th century they were expelled from Spain and Portugal.

Anti-Semitism, however, arose in the later 19th century and obtained its first roots in Germany with the growth of German nationalism. At first it was only supported by scholars and philosophers, but in 1879, it broke out into actual persecution, in boycotts, taxes, and riots. However, Germany is not the only country where anti-Semitism is prevalent. Hostility towards the Jews has entered other countries such as Russia, Austria, Hungary, Italy, France, and to a lesser extent, South Africa, Australia, United States and Canada.

This movement reached its climax with the rise of Hitler in the 1930's. In the United States the movement has been supported by the efforts of the Ku-Klux-Klan and in 1920 by the anti-Semitic campaign of Henry Ford. At that time the Jews were accused of trying to destroy the existent social organization and replace it by Jewish world domination. Seven years later, Henry Ford admitted his errors and ended his campaign.

Concluding his address, Rabbi Mayer stated that only the growth of "the universal rule of justice, the rejection of tyranny in all its forms, the abhorrence of cruelty, the progress of liberal thought and the striving after a world-wide brotherhood," would bring about the destruction of anti-Semitism.

Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army introduced Rabbi Mayer and gave a brief resume of the guest speaker's life. The rabbi was born and educated in Germany and had his first ministry in 1936. Later he was imprisoned, but was able to escape to England where he became a naturalized citizen and entered his second ministry near London. Two years ago he came to this country, and since that time has resided and carried on his ministry in Peterborough.

The following guests were welcomed at the luncheon by Rotarian Ernest Young: Chet Sampson, and A. D. Sampson, Jefferson, Ohio; J. E. Crawford, and Homer Stall, Columbia, Ohio; Kenneth Madill, Widsor; J. S. McFeaters, Keesport, Pa.; Norman E. Wilson, Amherstburg, Ont; Bill Stanburg, Darlaston, Staffordshire, England; Bob Jackson, Rochester, N.Y.; Dan Barmon, Buffalo, N.Y.; Jasper Humphrey, Montreal; Rev. US Reporter Sees Bodies Of Korean Atrocity Victims

By WILLIAM R. MOORE

NEAR THE FRONT IN KOREA, July 11—(AP)—I saw two dead American soldiers Monday who had been shot through the head. Their hands were tied behind them.

This was Communist North Korea's answer to the plea of the International Red Cross for humane treatment of prisoners in Korea's Civil War.

The two soldiers lay just off a main road which carried traffic supplying front-line fighters. They had been there since Monday morning, I was told later by infantry officers.

These officers said three Americans had been tied and shot in the head, but I saw only the two bodies.

(Monday, American Lieut. D. C. Gates reported that seven American soldiers, their hands tied behind, had been shot to death by North Koreans. There was no indication whether the three reported today were some of those, or additional atrocities.)

I found no one who witnessed these slayings. Based on what was known of the fighting at this point early Monday, the belief was held generally that the soldiers, riding in a jeep in the morning mist, suddenly found themselves only 20 yards or so from a North Korean tank.

With the tank guns raised upon them, they jumped out and surrendered.

Their bodies showed what happened afterward.

Refugees From Germany Ask Aid

TORONTO, July 11 (CP)—Two noted theologians Monday night urged the central committee of the World Council of Churches to aid 9,000,000 homeless refugees from East Germany.

Dr. Martin Niemoeller, president of the Evangelical Church in Hesse and Nassau, termed the problem "an international affair"

Dr. Niemoeller said "we must take a step in the direction of calling international attention to procuring means for these homeless people."

Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, philosopher and theologian, said the democratic powers are involved in a problem inherited from the Nazi regime. If there is no help for the East Germans, "then that is where the disease in Germany will start."

He said the church can accomplish a great moral task in rousing the concern of its members.

Cross Against Red Light New Winnipeg Driving Plan

WINNIPEG, July 11—(CP)—Winnipeg traffic experts came out Monday with the blueprint of a law that would make it legal for motorists and pedestrians to proceed against a red light if the way is clear.

George E. Sharpe, 41-year-old chairman of Winnipeg's Joint Safety Commission and Traffic Board, said his group has had the proposed law under study for six months.

"Of course, it's still a more or less tentative thing," Mr. Sharpe said. "But if it goes—and I don't see any reason why it shouldn't—it will work out something like this:

"We'll say it's about 40 below on the corner of Portage and Main (the city's downtown hub). A pedestrian is standing on the corner, facing a red light, and there's no traffic in sight.

"Under this new law, the pedestrian will be entitled to walk across the street—against the red light!

"On the other hand, the same common-sense ruling will apply to motorists."

The proposed law could aim at equal rights for both motorist and pedestrian.

"Sort of first come first served," Mr. Sharpe explained. "The ultimate idea is a code of working traffic courtesy between pedestrian and motorist.

"We have long recognized the futility of trying to make people stand like dummies when there is absolutely no need for it. After all what's the point in standing on a curb for a red light when there is no traffic within blocks? And the same goes for cars."

The traffic safety chief gave Winnipeggers a pat on the back for traffic courtesy. He said obedience to regulations improved 100 per cent during the last two years.

Part of the credit, Mr. Sharpe said, goes to the influx of people from other cities, Montreal and Toronto among them, where, he said, citizens are taught early to pay attention to traffic laws.

Dagger Soldered In Sheath King Too Handy With It

By FRED J. ZUSY

AMMAN, Jordan, July 11 (AP) —A ragged desert Bedouin climbs the steep road to a palace on a hill overlooking Amman. He strides past sturdy Circassian Guards, to tell the court chamberlain he wishes to see King Abdullah.

It is 6 a.m. The King is starting his audiences for the day. The Bedouin stalks into the Royal chambers. Bedouin and King kiss each other on the cheek in the traditional Bedouin fashion. They have never met before, but by the desert code any subject can have audience with his ruler.

The same Abdullah goes to London and dines with King George and Queen Elizabeth, conversing with ease—through an interpreter—on literature, politics, philosophy.

Abdullah wears a dagger in his belt, but he can't draw it, it's soldered in its sheath. Too often in the past he's come close to knifing a subject when his mercurial temper was aroused.

Direct Descent

A devout man, he claims direct descent from Mohammed, prophet of Islam. With much fanfare he led a group of Arab armies in the ill-fated 1948 war "to push the Jews into the sea." Other Arab leaders accused him, however, of conducting secret negotiations with the Jews during the fighting.

King Abdullah is the most controversial figure in the Arab world. He has come close to breaking up the Arab League, the regional organization of seven Arab states. King Farouk of Egypt and King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia openly dislike him.

Yet Abdullah sometimes is hailed as the most stabilizing factor in the chaotic, strategic, oil-rich Middle East. British and American diplomats say he is the only Arab leader who realizes Israel is in the Middle East to stay. He is willing to talk permanent peace. The other Arabs won't.

The colorful Abdullah reigns over a territory of less than 40,000 square miles, chiefly desert. Boundaries are vague.

Has Great Power

Major-Gen. John Bagot Glubb (Glubb Pasha), the British officer who heads Abdullah's Arab Legion, and, behind the scenes, wields great influence, once described the country as wild and unwanted territory.

Jordan recently was enlarged through annexation of Eastern Palestine, including the biblical cities of old walled Jerusalem, Jericho and Bethlehem. This more than doubled the number of Abdullah's subjects. They now number more than 1,000,000, including more than 500,000 Palestine refugees whose homes and farms now are held by Israel. Most refugees are penniless.

Abdullah was born in Mecca, in 1882, the son of the late Sharif Hussein, then ruler of the territory, including Mecca and Medina, holy cities of Islam.

Hussein and his family were called to Istanbul by the Turks, in 1893, because of Turkish suspicians of Hussein's intentions towards his satrapy.

The family lived in Turkey for more than 15 years. Abdullah received a Turkish education and became a member of the Turkish parliament. At the end of their enforced exile, Hussein and his sons returned to Mecca. They played a big part in the Arab Nationalist movement before the First World War.

Joined Lawrence

Abdullah and his brother, Faisal, joined Lawrence of Arabia in the First World War anti-Turk revolt in the desert. After the war, Faisal became King of Syria.

The French ousted Faisal in 1920. Abdullah raised an army and proceeded from Mecca toward Damascus, determined to seek revenge.

He got as far as Amman. Winston Churchill, then Britain's colonial secretary, was in Jerusalem at the time. Churchill persuaded Abdullah to give up his aggressive intentions against the French and become ruler of a new territory carved out of Palestine and called Trans-Jordan. Churchill promised British protection and financial aid.

This protection and help has continued.

Williams in the first inning for the losers, as M. Stewart went the route for the victors.

E. McFadden and J. Dunk for Ashby's, and B. Ayotte and R. Richards for Marines, were best defensively. L. Jordan led her side at bat with five for six, one of them a triple. J. Reynolds and E. Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Ontario's bid to retain the interprovincial team golf championship and the Willingdon Cup lies in the hands of a four-man squad considered one of the strongest to represent the province in years.

Picked after a series of test matches, it is headed by 32-year-old Nick Weslock of Windsor, ranked as Canada's No. 1 amateur golfer last year. The others are 21-year-old Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, veteran Jack Nash of London and Jack Amell of Toronto.

They will leave by air Wednesday to defend the title at Saskatoon July 15 and attempt to bring Ontario its 11th triumph in the annual competition.

This year's Ontario team is a mixture of youth—in Kesselring and Amell—and experience—in Weslock and Nash, who have been two of the top golfers in the province for years.

Golf officials see Kesselring as a coming star and they expect Amell, a sound, steady player, to emerge as a top tournament contender on the basis of the improvement in his game this year.

All but Amell have played on previous Ontario Willingdon Cup teams. This is the seventh time Nash has made the squad and the second time for both Weslock and Kesselring, twice winner of the Canadian amateur junior championship.

Two Ontario golfers sank holes-in-one in the last two days.

Graham Dey of Owen Sound, dropped his tee-shot with a six-iron shot Monday on the 135-yard fourth hole at the Owen Sound Golf and Country Club during an inter-club match with golfers from Port Elgin and Southampton.

R. Proctor scored his ace Sunday on the 17th hole on Toronto's Humber Valley course. He did the trick with a No. 5 iron on the 164-yard hole.

Silas Seth (Si) Griffis, once known as the "fastest big man in hockey" is dead.

The 66-year-old hockey great, recently elected to Canada's Hockey Hall of Fame at Kingston, died in Vancouver after an illness of several weeks.

Si was a maker of hockey history, starting out from a small town, Rat Portage, Ont., now Kenora on the Lake of the Woods where he also made a name as an oarsman.

He started his brilliant career in 1900, playing rover in the seven man game of that time and then cover point, and his dazzling speed and left-handed stick-handling took him to the top of early day hockey.

He was born in the Kansas hamlet of Onaga, and later moved to St. Catharines, then to Kenora, 150 miles east of Winnipeg.

Griffis played in many Stanley Cup series. He moved to Vancouver in 1906, retiring from hockey until 1911 when the Patricks opened the Pacific Coast League. When he left Kenora the citizens presented him with a purse of gold. He had been offered a handsome home if he would remain there.

Playing defence for the Vancouver Millionaires, a fabulous collection of rough and ready players, he was a 60-minute man on the ice.

Woollens Gain Close One Over Electrics

In one of the best games seen so far this season the Girls Softball League, Woollens edged CGE 4-3 last night at the Bowl in one hour. The Electrics had more hits but couldn't bunch them properly and Woollens used a couple of walks to help fashion their triumph. J. Hart pitched four-hit ball, having 11 strikeouts, as S. Harris gave but eight blows and fanned four. The winners got the only errors of the fine fixture as both sides played hurry-up ball.

S. Dafoe and C. Ferguson shone in the field, the latter turning in a high-class performance. E. Boyce and M. Batley went best defensively for the losers, with all hustling. None of the Woollens got more than one safe hit. D. Jackson and M. Batley led the CGE lasses at the plate, each hitting safely twice.

REMEMBER WHEN—
By The Canadian Press

Don Bradman, great Australian batsman, made a record score for England-Australia test match cricket 18 years ago today at Leeds, England when he hit up 334 runs. His mark still stands as the best test match score for an Australian, but Len Hutton of England scored 364 in a 1938 test.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

One local lacrosse club is in action tonight, the OLA juniors playing Brampton at 8.30 in Miller Bowl. The seniors play Toronto here on Wednesday night and Hamilton on Friday. The Petes are making quite a bid for top spot now, being in second slot with Brampton Excelsiors, and starting to throw their weight around against the top teams in this rugged sport. A game which leads one to break out in a July jingle:

* * * * * *

Kids carve initials in tree trunks,
And dad carves the Xmas geese;
Butchers and surgeons are carvers, too
But second-rate carvers are these.
If you wish to see carving superior,
With dexterity shown all the way,
Forget pop, kids, doc and the butcher:
Go see the lacrossers at play!

Don Down In Mouth

Yes, it's hard body contact as the race warms up in this rousing game, and sultry summer weather doesn't improve tempers. A guy will take just so much slashing and then he'll cut back. A referee should be on his toes in OLA play. They weren't in Brampton a few nights back when the Petes won out 12-10. Don Ashbee was cut across the mouth and lost some front teeth. Yet the Brampton guy wasn't penalized. The Petes raised highland heck over it, Don doing plenty of protesting, too. So what happens? So a riled ref tossed Ashbee off! Don was so mad he nearly ground out a few more molars.

Toronto Dovers tangle with the senior baseball Petes at 6.45 tomorrow eve in Riverside Park, a Viaduct Major League fray. Hasn't been a twilight senior tilt to date this season here, and this one should catch the fancy of a lot of fans—especially those working in stores Saturday or off to a cottage week-ends. They'll get a chance to see two well-matched squads battling hard to keep in the race for a play-off spot, and they'll witness some fine baseball. It isn't Doug Plunkett's turn to twirl—nor is Ed Whitehill likely to pitch, as he was relief man Saturday. Johnny Baumgardner, the Chicago import, or Bill Edger will likely get the local slab assignment. Dovers have been coming along fast lately to upset two of the top teams, so this should be a grand ball game in the evening tomorrow.

Woollens Were Hot

Woollens came up with a swell performance at the Bowl last e'en to edge CGE colleens 4-3 in a snappy encounter. Both sides turned it on in dandy fashion but Woollens got the verdict. J. Hart hurled four-hit ball and fanned 11 in a losing cause, and you can't come much closer than that. In the other game, Ashby's got off to an early start and rolled home handily ahead of the Marines. A free-hitting fray with enough boots to supply a medium-sized family. Tomorrow, it's Woollens vs. Marines, and CGE vs. Ashby's, with the schedule winding up on Friday.

PMBA-ers should benefit to a good extent from that exhibition tilt between Tip Tops and All-Stars here last Saturday. All returns aren't in yet. Bill Durnan's Montreals play All-Stars here Saturday with part of the proceeds going to aid minor ball, which is still well in debt and has been for years. Al Watkins has issued the schedule for the week, night games being at 6.30. North and south peewees are at the Ex. tonight with east and south juves over at Riverside. Tomorrow has east and south bantams in the Ex. and north and east midgets in the park by the River Otonabee. Teams should clip out the list.

Rowland Gets Sixth Rebuff For Major Loop

CHICAGO, July 11—(AP)—Clarence (Pants) Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, has been rebuffed for the sixth time in his crusade to get his circuit major league status.

"No" means nothing to this indomitable baseball pioneer who was born 62 years ago at Platteville, Wis., the son of a railroading father.

He presented his request to the major league officials Monday, and got the inevitable answer.

"I'll be back again next year," said the sparkling-eyed veteran. "We don't intend to continue as a kindergarten for the major leagues. We'll gain major league ranking eventually, and I think I may live to see it."

Wrong Attitude

Rowland described his session with baseball's hierarchy as a meeting "with business men—not baseball men."

"They haven't the foresight—or perhaps its just selfishness—for starting a third major league," Rowland declared.

Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler professed that he has nothing against a third big league.

"But the Pacific coast simply cannot handle it financially," he said. "It would take something like $80,000,000 over a 10-year-period to build the coast league into a major league circuit. The parks aren't big enough and attendance just wouldn't support a major league operation.

Marmora On Top

MARMORA, July 11.—(ENS).—Norwood switched their postponed home fixture with Marmora to the latter's grounds on Monday evening to lose a hard fought game by 11-2. Darrah on the mound for the winners was in fine form, allowing only one hit. E. Spencer, who started for Norwood, was relieved by Kelly in the third innings. Dikun, Auger and Killian got two-base hits for their team, which yielded runs. Scott for Norwood and Hickey for Marmora made spectacular catches in deep right field. Although the venue of play was changed at short notice, a fair-sized crowd viewed the encounter.

Rays Win In 11th

Reybestos nosed out the Woollens 12-11 last evening in a nifty fastball fixture, scoring two runs to one in the 11th inning. They had tallied two each in the first and fourth, with four in the sixth and one apiece in the second and 10th. Woollens got two in the first, four in the third, three in the sixth and one each in the two overtime frames. F. O'Toole's bingle drove in Nicholls with the winner for Rays in the 11th to end a grand game, but E. Leonard made it close when he scored in Woollens' half.

C's Capture Tussle

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11 — (ENS)—The Campbellford ball squad came out on the top of a 9 to 5 tilt against the Frankford ballsters at the High School diamond on Monday night. The game was played in a light drizzle, but this did not appear to dampen the spirit of the players. The game was packed with excitement, and many of the umpire's decisions were questioned by both sides. Frankford took an early lead only to have Campbellford tie it up in the third. Chase got a homer for the Frankford boys to put them out in front, but Campbellford came back strong in the fifth inning and from then on it was their show. George Bibby's homer in the eighth inning with Doherty and McComb on base sewed up the game for the home town lads. Don Homes, Paul O'Sullivan and Charlie Macoun each got a single for Campbellford.

Tigers Trounce Excelsiors 13-6

HAMILTON, July 11 (CP) — Hamilton's lacrosse Tigers are hotter than a 10-buck pistol.

The Tabbies won their sixth straight Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game Monday night and decisively. They defeated the former second place occupants, Brampton Excelsiors 13-6.

The win moved Tigers up into a three-way tie for second with the Brampton club and Peterborough Petes. Owen Sound Crescents remain well ahead of the pack.

Hamilton jumped into an early lead, sparked by two first-period goals by Captain Blain McDonald. From then on they were never headed, with tricky Stu Scott and Jack Dorney sifting through the crumbling Brampton defences for four goals each.

For the losers, Nick Ferri and Al Garbutt each notched a pair.

Pep In Wrong?

Honeymooning Willie Pep put his marriage ahead of a 10-round boxing bout scheduled for Monday night, and thereby drew a suspension from the National Boxing Association. The fight was cancelled.

The 27-year-old master of the featherweight division was married Monday morning in Elkton, Md., to 22-year-old Dolores N Von Frenckll.

At the time Pep and his bride were perfecting marriage plans, the little boxing stylist was supposed to be in Washington training for a bout with Tommy Bell of Youngstown, Ohio. He never showed up.

Golfing Prowess Of Toddler Amazes Experts

RHYL, North Wales—(CP)—Bobby Logan, who touched a golf club for the first time just nine months ago, has already startled members of the Rhyl Golf Club with his amazing feats.

Big str[illegible]men, just taking up the game, have even threatened to toss their sticks into the ashcan after watching Bobby perform. Off the tee, Bobby invariably gets his drive straight down the middle, often beyond the 100-yard mark, pitches to the green with a backspin and explodes out of a sand trap. In fact he has scored a five on a 260-yard, well-trapped hole.

So what? Well, Bobby has something to brag about for he is very much of a wee toddler—just two years and nine months old.

Slightly under three feet tall, Bobby has learned to use his sawed-off clubs, a hickory driver and light-weight iron, with eye-brow-raising precision. He turns out every morning for practice, at present confined to two holes.

Bert Southcott, the club professional, say's Bobby's hitting power is quite phenomenal. "His drives, averaging around 60 to 80 yards, are all carry and follow a correct trajectory. I think the secret lies in his wrists which are exceptionally strong for an infant."

Daddy Jimmy Logan, former Ayr United football player, also thinks he has a champion in the making.

Supporting Card Secret For Fight

NEW YORK, July 11—(AP)—It's no secret that Jake Lamotta of the Bronx will meet Tiberio Mitri of Italy in a 15-round bout tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden for the world Middleweight title.

But what the customers will get for a supporting card is confidential stuff.

"We do not intend to sabotage our card by naming our prelim fighters," said a spokesman for the International Boxing Club.

The I.B.C. and the boxing managers guild are feuding over television revenue. The spokesman said that if the names were announced, the managers might attempt to persuade the boxers to withdraw.

The preliminary bouts will be announced Wednesday when the principals weigh in at noon.

Shrimps Take Win

Shrimps blanked the tadpole lacrosse Hurricanes at Miller Bowl 7-0, neither side having any spares. After a scoreless first chapter, Walling tallied twice and DeNoble once for the Shrimps. Walling got one again in the third from Parry, and DeNoble pulled a solo to make it 5-0. Parry twice counted in the third, with Mountney aiding once and Walling having an assist.

Shrimps: Heffernan, Walling, DeNoble, Parry, Mountney, Giardino.

Hurricanes: Stickle, Bell, Davies, DeNoble, Todd, Brioux.

Referees: R. Allan and J. Sutherland.

Royals Pacing Attendance In League Play

NEW YORK, July 11—(AP)—Montreal Royals, perennial leaders in International Baseball League attendance, are pacing the triple-A circuit again this year at the half-way mark.

In 43 games the Royals—Brooklyn Dodgers' No. 1 farm club—have played to 234,063 paying customers, an average of 5,443.

Next best is Baltimore. The Orioles, who have climbed from fifth to second place during the last few weeks, have seen their attendance boom along with their winning ways. Nick Cullop's crew has attracted 201,617 fans in 39 games for a 5,170 average.

Rochester—leading the league—is the third member of the 200,000 club." The Red Wings have drawn more people than Baltimore—206,639—but also have played more home games. Consequently, their average is lower—4,592.

Jersey City, once a rich location, now is the circuit's "lemon." The Little Giants, while playing good ball for third place, have attracted only 53,717 for 35 games, a 1,535 average.

Hit By TV

Newark, only a few miles from Jersey City, had to relinquish its franchise last season because it couldn't cope with the television franchise from nearby New York's three major ball yards. The "TV bug," obviously, is biting into the L'il Giants' pocketbook, too.

Toronto, a seventh-place outfit, is fourth in average attendance, with 4,337. Springfield, which replaced Newark, is fifth with 3,172.

Buffalo's last - place Bisons have managed to place sixth, while Syracuse is a shade behind in seventh. Buffalo's average is 2,182; Syracuse's 2,122.

The league as a whole has drawn 1,146,838 in 312 games. That's a 3,676 average.

Give Breakdown

Here is a team-by-team breakdown of the attendance figures, including games of Sunday, July 9.

Petes Beat Lions

Lions lost to the Petes' lacrosse peewees 11-6 in a neat scrap. Kent got two in the first for Petes and Trudeau one from Reid for Lions. The latter added two, aided by Trudeau in the second, as Parry hit the twine once and Freeman scored from Reid. Mountney and Hawthorne got the Petes' tallies that frame. In the third, Davis, Coombs, Hunt and Hawthorne put Petes up, with Davis aiding on two, as Reid got the Lions' counter. Hunt pulled the hat trick with three in a row in the third, Hawthorne helping on two.

Petes: Heffernan, Davis, Hunt, Parnell, Mountney, Kent, Hawthorne, Coombs.

Lions: Chapman, Reid, Parry, Casey, Trudeau, Freeman.

Referees: R. Allan and J. Sutherland.

Springfield Clips Orioles 6-2 In Big Blitz

By The Associated Press.

Don't say "home run" to Baltimore's Irv Medlinger. It might scare him to death.

The Oriole righthander had enough of baseball's "big hit" Monday night. Springfield gave him the full treatment—four homers in four innings—while winning 6-2.

But when the fourth frame smoke cleared, Springfield had a 5-2 bulge, 4,646 Baltimore fans were disconsolate and Medlinger was taking a shower.

Ransom Jackson nicked him for No. 2, and no sooner had "handsome Ransom" crossed the plate, than big Jack Wallaesa crashed No. 3.

After Les Peden doubled, Bob Thurman lit the big firecracker—a 420 foot blast over the centrefield wall—and Specs Klieman was rushed in. Play was halted in the seventh because of rain.

Fifth Victory

Bill Monsan held the Orioles to five hits to pick up his fifth victory. The loss was Medlinger's seventh, compared to six triumphs. It also dropped the Orioles three full games behind the league leadin Rochester Red Wings, who were idle.

Buffalo and Toronto split a doubleheader. Buffalo, behind Charlie Harris' four-hitter, captured the second game 7-1 after Toronto took the seven inning opener 3-2. Johnny Mayo's long fly with the bases full in the seventh inning scored the winning run in the opener.

Syracuse had its game at Jersey City postponed due to rain.

Montreal and Rochester were idle.

Find Canada Has Larger Merchant Fleet

OTTAWA, July 11 (CP)—Canada is emerging with a deep-sea merchant marine larger than the government envisaged when it decided to put part of the fleet under the British flag.

Officials working on the flag transfer say it looks now as though the Canadian fleet for this year will be between 50 and 60 ships, compared with 40-odd estimated when the plan was launched last year.

Under the scheme, the government got permission from the United Kingdom to transfer registry of 123 ships from Canada to Britain with ownership remaining in this country. Purpose of the plan was to enable hard-pressed Canadian shiping to participate in sterling traffic.

Simultaneously the government is providing $3,000,000 in subsidies for ships remaining under the Canadian flag, to enable them to meet their relatively high operating costs. The subsidy applies only to this year.

95 Ships Approved

Up to now, 95 ships have been approved by the Canadian Maratime Commission—originator of the plan—for the transfer of registry.

Commission officials say it is not expected that—this year at least—Canada will seek to transfer all of the remaining 28 that may be shifted to Britain under the agreement. Instead, only about 15 more are expected to haul down the Canadian flag.

The reduced number of transfers, it was learned, was made possible through some Canadian operators agreeing to keep some vessels in operation without subsidy while receiving subsidies on others.

Rescue Doll

TORONTO, July 11 (CP) — Constable John Price of suburban New Toronto commandeered a leaky boat and hurried to the rescue Monday when a citizen reported seeing a child's body floating face down in Lake Ontario. The "victim" turned out to be a child's doll.

HONORARY FREEMAN — L. Dana Wilgress, right, Canadian High Commissioner in London, Eng., is shown being congratulated by L. Nenk, master of the Worship Company of Horners, after he was elected an honorary freeman of the company. The company is in London's financial district. Mr. Wilgress is the second to receive the honor in the company's 700-year history. The first was Sir Basil Brooke, prime minister of Northern Ireland.

Western World Writing Poor Propaganda

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

One of the peculiarities of the efficient western world and its way of life is that it is dumb when it comes to telling of itself.

Further, it scarcely realizes what a good job has been done of telling stories against it

It just says, of Communist tales, "that's propaganda," and thinks that few will believe them. And when it comes to making a rebuttal it is not as clever as its enemies.

If Moscow's attacks were confined to the fierce words of Pravda or the occasional outburst of a member of the Kremlin hierarchy, we probably wouldn't need to worry much.

It is the sly tale, spread cleverly among millions, that does the damage. It is that sort of thing which makes it appear to many in western Europe and more in Asia that the world quarrel is simply power politics, with the United States seeking to overrun the world and Russia more or less trying to prevent her from doing it.

Told Effectively

That theme, while fellow North Americans are dying in Korea, may horrify us, but we had better realize that it is theme that is being told effectively.

Numbers of observers have preached to us that our propaganda must emphasize that we are not fighting Russians or Asiatics, but a dictatorship and an imperialism.

Perhaps never before have the principles of western peoples been put under such test as fighting in Asia may bring, and perhaps never before has it been harder to live up to them. The ferocities of the last war were not a good start.

North America, perhaps particularly the United States, has not a clear record in its attitude towards other peoples and races, and that may be one of the greatest handicaps we have in Asia.

For it we are ever to sell western ideas there the words "Little Brown Brothers" have to be cut down to just "Brother."

WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES — Geoffrey Allen, left, Anglican bishop from Egypt, and Dr. Leslie Cooke of the Congregational Union of England are two of 90 delegates attending the central committee of the World Council of Churches, held in Toronto for the first time. The committee, with representatives from 44 countries, will study religious liberty and world-wide religious problems during the one-week meeting.

Church Group Tackles Korean Views

TORONTO, July 11 — (AP) — The central committee of the World Council of Churches today tackled preparation of a statement on the political issues in the Korean situation.

The 90-member policy-making committee of the world council, which embraces about 160,000,000 church members in 44 countries of all major Christian confessions except Roman Catholics, meets in closed session on the Korean question.

The privately-expressed views will be heard by a sub-committee which will draft the statement. The statement will go to the full committee for open debate, probably Thursday.

The central committee, holding its annual meeting here, ends its sessions Saturday. The eventual statement will be the most significant Christian viewpoint on the Korean situation which possibly could be expressed, apart from that of the Roman Catholic Church, because the council is the largest international body of Protestant and orthodox faiths.

The central committee Monday night was asked to issue a statement by the Commission of the Churches on International Affairs, an agency of the World Council and the International Missionary Council.

Today's closed session was agreed upon because some committee members felt that their views should not be reported for security or other reasons, delegates indicated.

Membership of the central committee and the world council penetrates iron-curtain countries.

The central committee Monday unanimously elected Bishop Eivind Berggrav, of Oslo, 66, Primate of the Lutheran Church of Norway, as one of the six presidents of the world council.

Bishop Berggrav, who led Christian resistance in his country during the German occupation, succeeds the former Lutheran archbishop, Erling Eidem, of Uppsala, Sweden. Archbishop Eidem resigned last week because of advanced age.

Special Coach On Exhibition

HALIFAX, July 11 — (CP) — Among sights at the Ottawa exhibition next month will be the Walter Callow wheelcart coach, designed by a man who has moved nothing but his lips for 20 years.

Walter Callow, legless, blind, paralyzed first world war veteran, announced from his bed Monday night he is sending his bus to Ottawa so "those people can have a gander at it." The five-day exhibition will begin Aug. 21.

He designed the bus in 1947 and since then it has travelled thousands of miles around the Maritimes, taking paralyzed veterans, old people and crippled children to baseball games, movies, country fairs, hockey matches, festivals and on just plain scenic drives.

Its headquarters is Camp Hill Military Hospital, where Mr. Callow is known to his fellow patients as the "human log" and "the brain." He was injured in a first world war plane crash, when he was a member of the Royal Flying Corps.

Although he lives in a still world of darkness, Callow's brain is always at work. During the war he established a cigaret "bank" for Canadian servicemen overseas. By war's end, 3,000,000 smokes had been handed out.

Archbishop Charges Slavery Developing

QUEBEC, July 11 (CP)—Archbishop Maurice Roy, of Quebec, told hundreds of summer students at Laval University Monday night that the world appears to be moving back towards a system of slavery and urged them to give the human person the respect he has a right to expect.

Several of the students, here to learn French, come from various parts of Canada and the United States.

This slavery has already begun to make its appearance in the world, Archbishop Roy said in French.

There was too pronounced a tendency today to treat men like animals, providing them with food and games but neglecting their higher faculties.

Five Caskets In One Grave As Norwood Lays To Rest Victims of Highway Crash

By DAVE WHITE

Like good friends and neighbors should, the people of Norwood and district turned out in strength Monday afternoon to pay their respects to the bereaved Davis family. About 500 attended the funeral and graveside services. Following the benediction Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davis, who had raised their 10 children within 300 yards of the sloping hillside in Norwood cemetery, took a last look at the five coffins already consigned to the earth.

The large flower-banked grave was the final resting place of two daughters, a son, a son-in-law and grandson. All were victims of one of Ontario's worst motor accidents this year. Friday night an out-of-control bus plowed into the victims' car, north of Bradford, on Highway 11.

Instantly killed were Robert Davis, 19, and his sister Marjorie, both residents of Toronto but formerly of Norwood; a second sister Stella Pearl, 30, with her husband Charles McClay, 38, and the McClay's 10-year-old son, James.

The sixth fatality was Lyle Reddick, 25, Toronto, no relation.

A Numbing Blow

Five of a family. It was a numbing blow that brought grief not only to the immediate relatives but to the community as well. Mr Davis, the father, is the village blacksmith and he and his large family have the confidence and affection of their neighbors.

Activity in Norwood seemed to come to a dead stop during the service. Everyone who could spare the time was there to pay his respects. Nobody said much; there were few signs of over-grief. The tragedy ran too deep for that.

Shortly after 1 p.m. cars from the surrounding district began to converge on the Tedford Funeral Home. Ruddy-complexioned farmers, village residents and outsiders from far-away cities in the United States and Canada conversed in low tones on the broad, green lawn of the funeral home.

Chairs were brought out on the lawn flanking the main entrance, for the women to sit on. And the men took their places to the rear. As the close relatives arrived everyone rose in respectful silence, the men taking off their hats as they did so.

The usual sprinkling of curious children—obviously attracted by the crowd and the tense air of suppressed emotion among the grown-ups—skirted the quiet gathering. On hand too were newsmen and photographers recording the event for those unable to attend.

Weekend Holiday

Five of a family: their lives snuffed out almost instantly. Ironically enough they were setting out for a weekend holiday of family fun at Wasaga Beach when the accident occurred.

Why?

Nobody seemed to know. But the Rev. E. E. Pugsley of Norwood, officiating at the service, had a relevant comment.

"Today we are living in an ever-increasing era of pressure and speed. Sometimes it seems to be closing in on us."

Mr. Pugsley glanced at the almost deserted street of the mourning village. There was a vast hush. Not even the leaves were stirring in the sultry afternoon air. The California style funeral home with its five dead, grieving relatives and sympathizers seemed apart from the fast-paced world he was talking about.

Then he broke the illusion. "There are no quiet backwaters to be found today," he said. "There is only ever-increasing pressure and speed . . . . Perhaps there should be less death if life moved more slowly."

"In the midst of our day of life we are in death."

The five caskets were then taken down the flower-lined steps of the funeral home to the hearses—four of them from Peterborough — to the final resting place in Norwood cemetery.

A large grave had been selected on the south side of a deep sloping hill, facing the south. Within easy sight is the family homestead.

As soon as the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Arthur Homer of Perth the large gathering of sympathizers quickly melted away.

Those who had not done so silently shook the hands of the immediate family. Again there was little conversation. The hush remained in the village.

The funeral was over but Norwood was still in mourning.

Service Held On The Steps Of Norwood Funeral Home

The funeral service Monday afternoon for five members of the Davis family, Norwood, killed in Friday's bus-car crash was held on the steps of the Tedford funeral home. It was the only way that friends and sympathizers could be accommodated.

Officiating minister was the Rev. E. E. Pugsley of Norwood, assisted by the Rev. Arthur Homer of Perth.

There were 30 pallbearers — most of them from the Norwood district but others from Toronto:

Russell Thompson, Jack Bitten, Bruce Parcels, Jack Hyslop, Arthur Andrews, Earl Cuthbertson, Kenneth Thompson, Joseph Clements, Fred Golloher, Wilbert Widman, Roderick Webb, Warren Webb, Ross Aldred, Jack Stewart, S. Paris, Norman Marshall, Lloyd Hamilton, Howard Scott, Larry Obee, Ted Cavanagh, James Rothwell, Charles, Neil and Mr. Burns, Arnold, Mervin, Garnet and Howard Baptie, and Earl and John Hamblin.

Lying side by side in the family plot are Robert Davis, 19, his sister Marjorie, 21; a second sister Stella Pearl, 30, and her husband and son—Charles McClay, 38, and James, 10. At the time of the accident all were living in Toronto but the two sisters and the brother were born and raised in Norwood.

Left are their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davis of Norwood, a sister and brother—Beverley and Carl—living at home; two other brothers—Harold Edward, Chatham, and William, Toronto; and two married sisters—Mrs. Warren Delhorbe (Gertrude), Detroit, and Mrs. M. J. Holmes (Helen), Brock St., Peterborough. Another sister, Marion, lives in Toronto.

Burial was in Norwood cemetery.

MASS FUNERAL FOR FIVE highway crash victims, three of them children of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davis of Norwood, and two of Toronto, was held on Monday afternoon at the Norwood cemetery. The car-bus crash occurred near Bradford late Friday. In the Upper Photo, pall-bearers of the first casket arrive at the burial plot while others follow in the background. Hundreds of relatives and friends attended the funeral service at a Norwood funeral home and part of the crowd are shown in the Lower Photo.

Labor Council Supports Action In Korea

The Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) is backing the Canadian government's decision to support the United Nations and send aid to South Korea.

A long resolution, unanimously adopted Monday night by the 15 delegates present, contends that "the democratic republic of South Korea has been the victim of armed invasion by the forces of Communist - controlled North Korea."

The resolution which is being forwarded to the CCL executive in Ottawa, is seen as a direct slap at the left-wing United Electrical Workers who are mobilizing their membership to obtain signatures on the "Ban the Bomb" petition.

In Hamilton Donald P. Ellis, city alderman and a member of the UE, has already called for a mass meeting of the 4,500 employees of the Canadian Westinghouse Co. to protest the leadership's alleged anti-United Nations, pro-Communist stand on the Korean issue.

Internal Threshing

Here in Peterborough there has been no open condemnation of the UE leadership but there are rumbles of discontent over the peace policy. The matter is being threshed out inside union ranks and today none of the union officials would comment on the situation either here or in Hamilton.

The CCL resolution points out that the CIO and CCL-affiliated labor councils have always followed a policy of co-operation with the government on such matters as a defence program for the western democracies, the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic security pact.

As an indication of this, the resolution continues, the Communist-led unions have been expelled from their ranks. Communist unions are a "fifth column for the Moscow imperialists."

Besides commending the Canadian government for its present stand the local CCL unionists ask that full support of the United Nations be continued.

Toothless Gets Month For Stealing Suit

Edward Lynch, at present serving a sentence for theft in Lindsay jail, was today sentenced to one month in jail by Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope on a charge of theft of clothing.

Gilbert Windrem, Wellington St., identified a suit said to have been stolen by Lynch, as his own.

"How did you know it was your suit?" asked Crown Attorney John Bradshaw. "I ought to know it, I bought it 13 years ago," said Windrem.

Evidence established the suit had been taken to a dry cleaner by Lynch, who claimed Windrem's housekeeper had told him to take it in for cleaning. Windrem said this was not true.

Lynch, who has no teeth, had some difficulty making himself understood.

8,547 Attended City Playgrounds

The eight playgrounds in the city are in full swing. Last week a total attendance of 8,547 was recorded according to Alex Sinclair, Recreation Director. An increasing number of youngsters attended as the week progressed and it is expected that even more children will be taking advantage of the playgrounds this week.

This week is "Cleanup Week". The children are being organized into groups that will be responsible for keeping their respective playgrounds clean and attractive.

Already plans are underway for the craft work that will be displayed at the exhibition. Mrs. Margaret Freestone, handicraft director has started the children in this project. This work will include plaster casting, art, work with plasticine, woodcraft and sewing.

Sports are also on the playground program. Softball and volley-ball teams are being organized for the inter-playground games that will start next week.

The total attendance at the eight playgrounds last week was: Inverlea, 1,690; King Edward, 1,444; Riverside, 1,389; Hamilton, 1,363; Turner, 999; McKellar, 559; Fleming, 553; Confederation, 550.

Legionnaire Design For Canadian Flag

MONTREAL,—(CP).— The 6th Hussars branch of the Canadian Legion here has come up with a design for a Canadian flag to be submitted to the Dominion Legion convention this fall.

The design, by George J. McMurdo, of Montreal, retains the Union Jack in the upper left-hand corner. On the fly, which is white to symbolize peace, is a large green maple leaf with a rust border to represent Canada. Surrounding the large leaf are smaller maple leaves to symbolize the 10 provinces.

Sophisticated NY Comedy No Pork Barrel of Laughs

By T. J. ALLEN

The Summer Theatre is venturing on stage this week with a comedy written by S. N. Behrman for New York: "No Time For Comedy." It would be too flip to say that Peterborough has no time for No Time for Comedy. Actually, Peterborough can welcome the thing because it brings to Queen Mary theatre for the first time the winsome Charmion King who plays the feminine lead (she is sure to become a favourite) and brings back good familiars of Summer Theatre audiences like Frank Perry, who gives warmth and brightness to the stage on every appearance, and Gerry Sarracini, cast in a role different from his earlier parts, with puzzling results. Secondly, this play shows by contrast what an excellent theatre fare we have been getting.

The chief trouble with the presentation is the play itself. It is punk—of the highest class of rotted tree. No toad-stools around; the equivalent could be chaises-longues. There are bright lines (to be expected from a technician like Behrman), a certain glitter, and some of the carbonation of a highball. Now, to make punk glitter is impossible outside Broadway and name stars. Monaghan Road, Peterborough, is not Times Square and the Summer Theatre cast are not sophisticated stars. The technical and personal resources of the Summer Theatre are not big enough to cope with as thin a play.

It should be explained that the play is about a young playwright, Gaylord Esterbrook (Bill Hutt) and his actress wife (Charmion King). The playwright decides that he has had enough of writing successful froth and that the world situation (specifically, China) is too momentous; he must write on a serious theme. Another woman intervenes; she (Barbara Hamilton) feels herself to be the nursemaid of genius. She is the wife of plutocratic, studious banker named Philo Smith whom Gerry Sarracini plays more tensely than the part is worth. There are various shiftings of affection, but in the end all returns to urbane domesticity. The note of tragedy or high thought in both Esterbrook's and Behrman's minds is bathetic. It would be interesting to see the play done as a burlesque of itself.

Frank Perry is the attractive man-about-town. Gertrude Allen plays the negro housemaid with careful mannerisms. Bill Hutt as the playwright. Gaylord Esterbrook has an unconvincing, unresolved part. (Does he say 'testi-MOANy' for 'testimony' intentionally?) Barbara Hamilton plays the wife of the rich banker Philo Smith with conviction of manner in modish dress. The butler is Wally Duffield. The sets leave much to be desired, but such desires cannot be fulfilled in a summer theatre.

There is inverted fun in this play. Thus it can be laughable.

Korean News One Day Ahead

Tomorrow's news from Korea reaches Peterborough today and a reader may see on Thursday a news story dated Friday.

The reason is that Korean time is 14 hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time, which takes in Quebec and most of Ontario. In this way Korea's Friday is more than half gone before Peterborough's begins.

Korea is located just four hours west of the International Date Line in the Pacific—an imaginary line where when it's Friday on the west side, it's Thursday on the east side.

Because of this difference, when its 1 p.m. Monday in Korea, it's midnight Sunday in the Maritimes 11 p.m. Sunday in Quebec and Ontario; 10 p.m. Manitoba and part of Saskatchewan; 9 p.m. in Saskatchewan and Alberta and 8 p.m. in British Columbia. Except of course that most parts of Canada are on daylight saving time in which case the time is an hour later.

No Special Train For Orangemen

No special train has been put on by the CNR for Orangemen of Peterborough and district who will be travelling to Lindsay Wednesday to take part in July 12 Walk there.

The regular train leaves the CNR station at 8.23 a.m. daylight time and arrives back in Peterborough at 8.35 p.m. daylight time.

One bus has already been chartered for the trip and the bus company has been advised there will likely be heavy traffic to Lindsay. Many are expected to go by car.

Peterborough Lodges will hold a parade through main city streets in the evening from the CNR station immediately after the evening train arrives at 8.35 p.m.

Body Found In Lake Said Not Cobourg Man

COBOURG, July 11 —(ENS)— Chief W. J. Carey denied rumors that the body of a man found by crew of an oil tanker 17 miles east of here in Lake Ontario was Lloyd "Chic" Henderson. Examination of the remains at Kingston where they were brought by the oil tanker revealed that they were of a man whose description tallied in no way with that of Henderson. The Cobourg man has been missing since June 4.

Stressing Glamor Designers Turn To Curving Lines

NEW YORK, July 11 — (AP) —How to go straight in a curved line was illustrated today by New York designers to visting fashion editors.

Beginning a crowded week of Fall Fashion openings were the following collections: Tina Leser, Monte-Sano, Anthony Blotta, Jo Copeland and Maurice Rentner.

All turned thumbs down on the flat-chested, boyish silhouette and stressed glamour with a capital G. All presented the straight, slim silhouette, softened by notable curves at bust and hipline, with a sharply nipped waist between.

Tina Leser borrowed her romantic ideas from Spain, introducing the bull-fighter's bolero, the picador vest and the Andalusian skirt, with the hope that these glamorous fashions would do away with the current "plucked chicken" look.

Anthony Blotta showed a superb collection of suavely moulded and rounded suits and coats either sweeping and bulky or smooth and fited. His telescope sleeve, made in three tiers plus a shoulder capelet, created interest as did his fabulous dinner and evening suits in mink-trimmed satin.

Jo Copeland, designer noted for sophisticated dinner and cocktail outfits, showed a glittering collection, making news also with her casual suits. A notable example was a suit in natural camel's hair with a convertible neckline achieved by manipulation of a button-in scarf of self-fabric.

Rentner stressed the "side show" silhouette, slim and moulded to the figure, with movement and interest created by drapery, panels or surface ornamentation concentrated at one side.

CABOOSE PAPOOSE — Mrs. Matt McGovern's new son doesn't appear too pleased about the change from a caboose in which he was born to the hospital at Fort Frances, Ont. But, momma, after her ordeal on the 19-mile run from her Nickel Lake home, is all smiles. Conductor Charles Gosselin delivered the infant with the help of Mrs. McGovern.

Notable Women Give Opinions At B&P Convention

HALIFAX, July 11 — (CP)— The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club will establish a national office, probably in Ottawa within the next two years, it was decided by 895 delegates attending the Federation's Biennial Convention.

No solution has been found to the problem of finding employment for senior citizens, Ruth Hamilton, director of the Women's Division, National Employment Service, Monday night told the members. "The problem of older workers in Canada is an ever-increasing one," she said, because of the nation's rapidly aging population.

Mrs. Nancy Hodges of Victoria, speaker of the British Columbia Legislature, told the women "You've got to stop passing resolutions and thinking they are the be-all and end-all of all things. Get right down and fight with the most potent weapon you have— and that is the vote."

Principal speaker at the convention, Miss Freida S. Miller of the U S Labor Department's Women's Bureau, leading career woman and an international labor office member, declared that women's role in the economy of the U S is not a specialized issue but an integral part. "Women form 29 per cent of the country's working force. There are 217 women in the state legislature and 10 in Congress.

Miss Miller appealed to the maternal instinct in North American women to help their less fortunate sisters in Europe and Asia. "We must expand our interests, our knowledge and our sympathies, for our own salvation if for no highe: reason. Our hopes and prospects are inevitably linked with those of all the women of the world."

Want 100 Women Fill Positions At Moose Factory

OTTAWA, July 11.—A "help wanted" sign went out Monday at the Department of National Health and Welfare offices as personnel officers swung into action to fill more than a hundred positions for the new Indian Hospital at Moose Factory, Ont.

Topping the list of vacancies, both in number and importance, are 44 for graduate and practical nurses, with from one to half a dozen persons each needed as X-ray operators, hospital orderlies, cooks, dietitians and maintenance men.

For nurses interested in off the beaten track work the Moose Factory hospital offers a first class opportunity, personnel officers state. With 155 beds and new, modern equipment, the Moose Factory hospital offers special training and experience in nursing of tuberculosis patients, but it also takes general medical and obstetrical cases. The patients will be drawn from northern Ontario and Quebec in the area around James Bay. Nurses with experience at this hospital will later be given the opportunity to take charge of nursing stations in the surrounding region and in the Eastern Arctic. A registered nurse or a graduate of an approved training institution with up to two years' nursing experience begins at $1,920 a year, $2,160 with three or more years' experience, or $2,280 if she has a diploma in public health and a year's experience or if she is employed as a charge nurse. Practical nurses get up to $1,800 a year, depending on the length and type of nursing exmaintenance is available at the perience they have had. Full hospital in modern nurses' quarters. Married women are eligible for appointment, and all appointees receive the usual privileges of cumulative sick leave, statutory holidays and vacations with pay.

Applications are also being received for a medical superintendent, a medical specialist in tuberculosis, three Xray operators, six hospital nursing orderlies, four cooks, two storemen, a laundry operator, a plumber, an electrician, a carpenter-painter, a hospital matron and a dietiitian.

A number of positions are available for hospital attendants, housemaids and drivers, but it is hoped that these will be filled by Indians.

Single employees can be accommodated in the hospital, and a limited number of houses or suites are available for the medical and other senior staff members. The hospital itself is located a short distance from Moosonee and is scheduled for opening in August.

McQuaid-Crown Lindsay Nuptials

Given in marriage by her brother Mr. Clair Crown, the bride was gowned in white nylon sheer styled over white taffeta with an off-the-shoulder neckline, long pointed sleeves and a full skirt with sweeping train. She wore her mother's wedding veil caught with a band of rosebuds and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Elva Crown and Miss Moira Crown were bridesmaids in frocks of pink and blue nylon sheer, similarly styled. Carolyn Duckworth of Peterborough was flower girl in a yellow taffeta dress with mauve trim. Each carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli and wore a headdress of the same flowers.

New Moscow Cafe Spurs Rivalry In Choice Foods

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW— (CP)— The finest new restaurant to be opened in Moscow since the end of the war started business a few days ago.

It is called "The Ararat" and is operated by the government of the Armenian Republic of the USSR.

The opening of this new restaurant began a heated competition in the field of middle-eastern foods. Moscow already has a large number of restaurants which specialize in Georgian, Armenian, Azerbaidzhan and central Asian dishes.

They include several outstanding eating places opened in the last year, such as the "Uzekistan" and "The Baku".

However, the outstanding place where Muscovites could get the best "Shashlyk" (broiled spitted lamb), "Pilaf" (a dish of lamb and rice) and the like has always been the Georgian restaurant, "The Aragvi."

The restaurant, which derives its name from a famous fast-flowing river of Soviet Georgia, occupies a fine establishment just off Moscow's main stem—Gorky street.

Georgian Orchestra

"The Aragvi" has a fine Georgian orchesta and several times each evening presents a Caucasian male dance in the traditional Caucasian uniform in a dagger dance. It has been visited by many famous American guests in the Soviet capital.

Now, however, it seems "The Aragvi" is going to have to share its laurels with "The Ararat."

The Armenian Republic has made strenuous efforts to see that its restaurant in Moscow will be in no way inferior to "The Aragvi" in the service of Armenian and middle-eastern foods and wines.

The best Armenian cook in Erevan has been engaged, according to report, to take charge of

Good Looks Are No Guide In Selecting Life Partner

DEAR MISS DIX: Are looks as important as we are led to believe they are in marriage? If a handsome man marries a plain girl, will he be likely to tire of her sooner than he would of a pretty one? If a beautiful girl marries an extremely ugly man, will she regret it and be attracted to someone better looking?

Dorothy Dix

I am a very attractive girl in love with an ugly man and my friends advise me against marrying him just because of his looks. But he is fine and intelligent and kind and considerate, so I do not mind if he isn't as handsome as a movie star.

A PUZZLED GIRL

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: I think that the most foolish thing in the world is the undue stress that we put upon physical beauty, and make it, at least so far as men are concerned, almost the determining factor in marriage. For nine men out of ten pick out their wives solely by their looks, without any regard whatever for their intelligence, or their dispostiions, or any of the qualities that would fit them to make good wives.

Beauty Doesn't Last

That is why there are so many divorces because, unfortunately, beauty doesn't last. It is the most fleeting of all charms. It inevitably perishes with age, and even long before age it can be killed by sickness, by an accident, by work and worry.

It has always seemed to me that the one place of all others in which women registered their superior intelligence to the allegedly superior sex was in their disregard of men's personal appearance. They put almost every other quality ahead of good looks in choosing their husbands. All that they ask of a man is that he shall be clean and well groomed, and the rest may go hang for all they care. A man may be fat or thin; he may be growing bald; he may be pug-nosed and freckled, but if he is intelligent, if he is interesting to talk to, if he is a good dancer, if he is kind and considerate, any girl is glad to go out with him and he may marry whom he chooses. But you can't imagine any man taking out a fat, bald-headed, freckled girl or asking her to marry him, no matter if she had every possible spiritual charm.

As a matter of fact, homely men make far more satisfactory husbands than handsome ones, for as a rule a male beauty is far more vain than a female one. He not time admiring him, but seeks the only expects his wife to spend her admiration of other women. And he is selfish and spoiled and feels that the family money should go to adorning him instead of being wasted on his plain wife.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: While I was away on a vacation my husband went out iwth a man friend and his girl friend. The man suddenly had to leave town and he suggested that my husband fmish up his date with the girl by taking her to a night club with some other people. This my husband did. He did not tell me of this until I found out accidentally and he seems to think I should not care about it because he did not make a date with the girl and stayed only a short while at the night club and they were with friends who went with them to take her home. We have never had the agreement that either could go about with others as my husband is exceedingly jealous of attentions paid me by other men. What should I do about this?

ANSWER: Nothing. Forget it. You are being silly and narrow-minded and jealous without any reason whatever.

Your husband has done nothing that any gentleman wouldn't have done under the circumstances, and for him to have refused to take the girl to the night club, when asked to do so by her escort, would have been boorish in the extreme.

If you are so suspicious of your husband that you are afraid even to have him show a common social courtesy to a girl, and your husband gets green-eyed if a man speaks to you, it seems to me that you are singularly lacking in respect for each other. Do you think him so poor and weak a creature that he cannot resist any petticoat, even when it isn't waved in his direction? Does he think you so lax a woman and so loose of morals that you would fall for any chance stranger? If I were married to that pusillanimous a man or woman I shouldn't care what he or she did. I should think myself lucky to be rid of such an unworthy mate.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR DOROTHY RIX: I am an elderly widow. Poor, I want a husband and home. Life is nothing without a good husband who can provide a good home and support a wife in comfort. I want a congenial husband. How can I get such a man? RUTH.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Get our your Bible and read how another widow also named Ruth went about getting a husband. Nobody has ever improved in all the centuries on her method. But—I hate to say it but the truth must be told—Ruth was young and beautiful. I don't want to be pessimistic, but I think an elderly woman without any money is wasting her time in husband-hunting.

DRIVE OUT TO THE PINES FOR A GRAND EVENING OF FUN!

ARE YOU WATCHING YOUR WAIST LINE these days? It's wise to streamline now for those warm summer days when coats and bulky clothes are laid aside. That's when your friends cast a critical eye in your direction and think, "Hmm, looks heavier to me".

One plan that not only produces good results but actually makes you more efficient in your work is as follows:

Eat a substantial well balanced breakfast—fruit, egg, coffee—and a dinner which includes a fair sized portion of meat or fish, salad, green vegetable, and fruit, BUT eat a light lunch.

Here is an ideal luncheon plan:
A bowl of Cream of Tomato Soup—garnished with watercress
2 reducing wafers
A green salad (cucumber slices, head lettuce) with Buttermilk Dressing (Recipe below)

This luncheon totals only 236 (app.) calories and gives you a lilt and a lift that will carry you through the most strenuous afternoon. It's a good repeater, too, you won't tire of it easily.

BUTTERMILK DRESSING

1 cup buttermilk
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
3 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup
1 teaspoon Cider Vinegar

Place ingredients in jar or bottle. Shake well. Chill. Serve on green salads. (Yield: 1¼ cups.)

new! LUX for all the family wash

Just tell us in your own words why you like to use New Lux in your washing machine. You might say something like this. "I use New Lux in my washing machine because it's the only soap I know that gets dirt out so fast, goes so easy on my clothes yet costs no more."

Or—in your own words you might say..."I use New Lux in my washing machine because it really saves wear and tear on all the family wash yet it gets heavy dirt out of workclothes and leaves white wash whiter."

Sincerity counts—not fancy words. And once you use New Lux in your own washing machine you'll have no trouble telling us how much you like New Lux.

Clogged Waste Pipes Can Make Lot Of Trouble

By BOB CHARFF

Few troubles cause greater inconvenience to the entire family than clogged drains and sewers. However, in most cases, clogged drains and traps are comparatively easy to clean.

Over a period of time, accumulations of grease, dirt, or other waste may tend to clog the traps under a sink, tub or lavatory. A suction plunger or plumber's friend can be used to break this sediment free and open the drain.

It is used by partly filling the bowl with water, placing the rubber cap over the drain, and working the handle up and down. This creates alternate suction and pressure that clears the obstruction.

When the trap is cleared so water runs freely, it is a good idea to use a strong drain-cleaning chemical. Use it with care as it burns badly if it gets on the skin.

Periodic use of these chemicals will prevent excessive accumulations of sediment. Also pouring a kettleful of boiling water into the kitchen sink drain every few days will go far toward preventing accumulations of grease.

Of course, avoid pouring grease or dumping coffee grounds into the sing drain, since these will tend to encrust in the pipes and trap.

Traps under a sink or lavatory can be cleaned either by removing the cleanout plug or where there is no plug, by unscrewing the two nuts that hold the trap.

Have a bucket under the trap when taking it off so the water won't spill on the floor. Brush the trap clean with a bottle brush or fasten a piece of cloth to the end of a piece of soft wire and pull the cloth through the trap.

Usually the matter clogging the trap will come out easily and little trouble will be encountered in doing the cleaning out job in this manner.

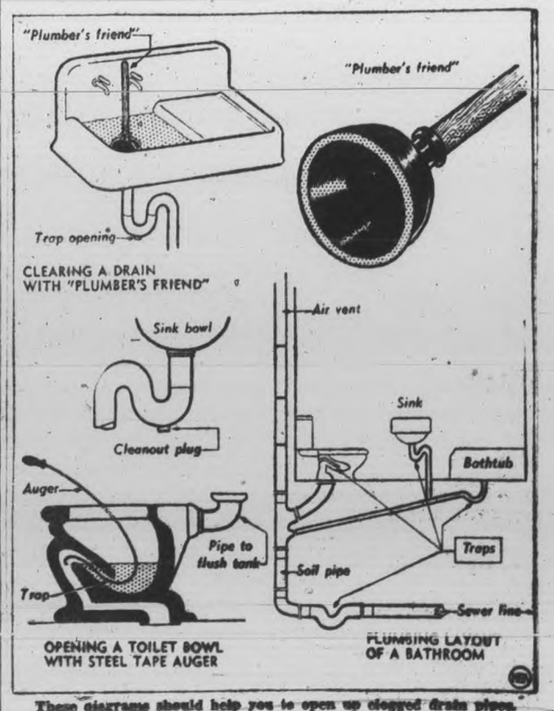
If the toilet trap becomes clogged, a drain auger or snake can be run down through the trap to clean it out.

Waste water backing up through the basement overflow drain indicates a clogged soil line from the house to the street sewer or to the septic tank in the case of an individual disposal system.

In unclogging a soil line, it is usually only necessary to introduce a flexible steel strip auger and push it through the line until it meets and dislodges the obstruction.

The majority of stoppages in vitrified clay-tile soil line are caused by tree roots. Such root growths can be cut or torn loose with a special auger that has a cutting tool on the end. Many plumbers have these devices and will perform this job for a reasonable fee.

Tree roots can be discouraged by occasionally flushing a pound of copper sulphate down the toilet. Repeated applications of caustic drain-cleaning chemicals are also effective in burning and eating away tree roots.



These diagrams should help you to open up clogged drain pipes.

Youngsters' Dike Saves Property During BC Flood

HARRISON HOT SPRING, B.C. (CP)—In the nursery rhyme it's the House That Jack Built. But in this Fraser Valley resort town it's the dike the kids built.

The dike was one which virtually saved a block of business property. The kids are the plucky youngsters who lugged heavy sandbags to hold back greedy, flooded Harrison Lake from further inundating their community.

When the swollen Fraser River was at its peak in its turbulent rush to the Pacific, Harrison Lake swept over its edges covering much of the resort town with fater.

Adults figured it was just a matter of time before the whole community "got mighty wet." But not the youngsters.

Led by a 14-year-old, driving his father's bulldozer, nearly a score of eager boys in their early teens began lining up sandbags as the water approached. First the oldsters smiled indulgently. Then they saw the youngsters were holding back the lake.

Twice the rising waters slopped over the hastily-built barricade, but each time the youthful dike brigade began again—piling sandbags higher against waves created by passing tugs.

Loggers nd business men who stopped to smile at the small-type work gang soon pitched in themselves. But around Harrison Hot Sorings it's still "the dike the kids built."

Pravda Trumps More Charges

MOSCOW, July 11 — (AP) — Pravda charged today that the Western Powers have ordered formation of a permanent West German army of 30,000 men.

The newspaper, official organ of the Communist Party, called it "the new, most crude violation of the Potsdam agreements by the Western Powers."

It said former Nazi officers of all ranks were arriving in the West German capital of Bonn to lead the army.

The West German government, fearing an attack from the East, has asked the Western Allies for permission to set up a central West German federal police force of 25,000 men.

The request was turned down June 22, but following the outbreak of the Korean war, the United States High Commissioner, John J. McCloy, said the occupation authorities were willing to consider the request.

He said "no military implications are involved" in the proposed police force.

the kitchen of "The Ararat," and the cream of Armenia's select wines and its famed high-quality cognac were brought in to stock the wine cellars of the establishment.

On the other hand, "The Aragvi" is prepared to meet the new situation. It is improving its already excellent cuisine and service and is counting on the loyalty of its old and favored customers.

Muscovites who love middle-eastern foods stand only to gain from the competition. The prospects are that there will be plenty of customers to keep both restaurants full.

Prince's Coach Made Of Silver, Keeps Rare Gems

Though he has never been a ruler, His Highness Col. Sir Kameshwar Singh, KCI, D. Litt., Maharajadhiraj of Darbhanga, might be called the maharajah's maharajah. It is a long time since the Darbhanga dynasty has been a ruling house, but the twenty-second Maharajadhira (the title means "Prince of Princes"), is nearer to being a king today than any of his brother nobles, many of whom owe him money, a New York Times writer recalls.

When the government of India took over the princely states, the rulers were left comparatively poor as their jewel hoards, paaces, fleets of motor cars and other properties were considered as belonging to the states. Since the Maharajadhiraj had no state, he was not affected. His jewels, his lands, his cars and his palaces are his own, and while the government would like to whittle him down, as a member of Parliament he is able to look after his interests.

Still Has Plenty

The impending abolition of zamindari (absentee landlordism) will take something away from him as he is the biggest zamindar of all, but he figures to keep upwards of 20,000 acres that are not tenant-farmed. Anyway, it is said that if he lost every inch of his landholdings and never earned another rupee from his many other enterprises, his present accumulated fortune would support his family and his 22,000 employees for four generations.

The entent of the Maharajadhiraj's fortune is not discussed. It has been estimated that his jewels alone are worth $20,000,000, but actually such figures are meaningless in the lack of a standard to be applied. This treasure includes the famous Marie Antoinette necklace (purchased at auction for £60,000), from which he removed the largest diamond because it had a black spot, which is said to be bad luck.

He also owns the world's largest emerald, which was purchased by his father from a fugitive Nepalese prince for $180,000 but is thought to be worth four times that today.

Control centre of his industrial empire is a private estate called The Raj, a park-like domain of 4,000 acres enclosed by a wall that shuts out the squalor of Darbhanga town, a smelly, tumbledown settlement of 75,000 near the Nepal border in northeastern Bihar state. This was the capital of a principality created by the Moghul Emperor Akbar 400 years ago, until the British abolished the state.

Silver Coaches

Among his means of transport in addition to solid silver carriages, Rolls Royces and a private railway car are nine airplanes. This aerial fleet forms the Darbhanga Airways, a profitable freight charter service that will fly anywhere. Darbhanga Airways employs five American pilots and technicians headed by Capt. Jim Lassiter, of New Orleans, veteran wartime flier and decorated Antarctic pilot.

The proud Darbhanga dynasty, who are Brahmins whereas most of the other princes are only Kshatriyas of the second caste, considered the British something like untouchables. One Maharajadhiraj forced the British representative to stand well away from him and downwind so that his person would not pollute the breeze. After a little of this treatment the British took over the state, which drastic punishment turned out to be the economic salvation of the present Maharajadhiraj.

Coney Island Too

The three palaces inside The Raj compound (he has five others in principal cities) contain astonishing gewgaws collected by succeeding generations with varying kinds of taste. In one room, where thrones with frameworks made of enormous ivory tusks are flanked by four huge stuffed tigers, the walls are lined with distorting mirrors, like a Coney Island "fun house."

One of the bedrooms contains two four-poster bedsteads of solid ivory, carved in delicate filigree. There are ivory tables mounted on rhinoceros feet, and thrones of solid silver cushioned with gold-worked red plush.

In the stables, the visitor is shown a carriage fifteen feet high, meant to be pulled by four elephants. Except the wooden wheels, this vehicle is solid silver, trimmed in pure gold. There are three slightly smaller silver carriages, designed to be horse-drawn.

HOLDING HIS PRIZE four-and-three-quarter pound green bass caught Sunday in upper Chemong Lake is Paul Moscoe, 7, Toronto. It is the biggest fish the red-headed Toronto lad has caught and he's been fishing since he was three years of age. With him are his uncles Joe Rogow, George St. (right), and Herb Schacter, also of George St. (left).—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Seven-Year-Old Hooks Bass Which Weighs 4 lbs., 12 ozs.

Don't tell 7-year-old Paul Moscoe, Toronto, there are no fish in Lake Chemong. He knows better.

Sunday night Paul hooked a four-and-a-quarter pound green bass in Cedar Bay. That's one fish that won't be eaten but is slated for stuffing and then mounting on the wall in Paul's room.

The bass is the biggest fish he ever caught and he's no novice at the game. Every year he comes up to stay the summer with his uncle Joe Rogow, George St., and his No. 1 hobby is trying to catch "a big one." He's had the bug ever since the age of three.

Only last summer he got a three-and-a-half pounder, also in Lake Chemong.

Paul was using minnows when he caught his prize bass. At first he didn't know he had a good strike, but when he saw it break water he knew he had a beauty.

By the time the bass was reeled close to the boat, Uncle Joe decided to lend a hand. The pair had come out with no net so some fast thinking was required.

Mr. Rogow trapped it against the boat and then lifted it out by the gills.

And Paul? He's now aiming to join the Order of the Kawartha Muskie before the summer is out. That's ambition for you.

Jerry Colonna Jumping Into Television

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (AP).—Jerry Colonna, the man with the monstrous moustache, is the latest to get into television.

The comic is shaping up his own show for the Fall. That should help enliven the coming season, which promises to be the most competitive in the young industry's history. Such stars as Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor and Groucho Marx have been mentioned as probable starters in the TV field.

Colonna severed his professional life with his old sidekick, Bob Hope, two years ago and has been doing mostly theatre dates since. The split was a friendly one.

Noes 'n' Stuff

Jimmy Cagney says "A Lion Is In The Streets" will be his next picture. This in spite of the fact that it has the same Huey Long theme of the prize-winning "All The King's Men." Jimmy goes to his home at Martha's Vineyard in New England after he finishes his hoofing in "The West Point Story." He'll stay there until called to wrestle with "Lion."

Burt Lancaster will take to the road to exploit his latest picture. Unlike some stars who merely say "Hello" on such trips, Burt will go all-out. He'll even perform his acrobatics on city hall flagpoles, if necessary, he says.

Nominated for the least-inspired film title of the year: "Texans Never Cry."

UNITED STATES TOURISTS in Ontario's Niagara area will be getting shining new Canadian silver dollars, like the one inset, in their change shortly. Happy about the prospect are, left to right, D. Leo Dolan, Director of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, Ottawa; Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Canada's Minister of Trade and Commerce, and J. C. McGlashan, Chairman of the Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce, who accompanied a delegation from his area to Ottawa to appeal for the coins. Mr. McGlashan got an assurance from Finance Minister D. C. Abbott that Niagara banks would be allotted supplies of the dollars for local merchants. The silver dollar campaign has been advocated for some time by private organizations, which argued tourists will like to retain them as souvenirs of their Canadian trip.

Teach Children Swimming By Brink System

Psychology has been introduced into methods of swimming instruction. Three hundred and fifty children who are attending the swimming classes at the Lions Community Pool are being introduced to the fundamentals of a method of instruction known as the "Brink System."

This method was introduced by Dr. B. Dean Brink in 1914 and has been used successfully ever since to eliminate fear and give children greater confidence when they first attempt to master the art of swimming.

Instead of merely commanding the children to put their heads under water, they are told that the duck every time she gets hungry has to put her face under water to look for food. The instructor explains that if the duck can see under water so can children, and in this way he gets them to submerge their heads without any protest. By imitating other amphibious creatures, the children are taught to float. The motor boat provides an example for breathing, the steamboat for kicking and the windmill for arm rotation. Before they know it, the children are swimming a rough crawl.

Already an amazing number of children have been successful in mastering the first fundamentals of swimming at the Lions Club pool. Instructor Bill Lech reports that by the end of next week, 50 per cent of them will be able to swim. Even the smaller children ranging from three to five years of age are learning to swim in the wading pool.

The largest of these classes that meet three times a week is the class from the Separate Schools with approximately 100 members. The smallest class with 20 members comes from the Central Public School.

Reuther Visits Windsor Plant Picket Line

WINDSOR, July 11 — (CP) — Walter P. Reuther, international president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), visited the picket line of striking office workers at the Canadian Industries Limited salt and chemical plant here M

He also sat at the controls of a steamshovel to turn the first sod for the proposed Canadian headquarters of the union in Windsor.

Some 50 CIL office employees, members of UAW Local 240, left their jobs Thursday in a contract dispute.

There is no change in the status of the strike, which the company said forced the shut-down of operations in the plant itself after truck transport was halted by pickets.

About 360 plant workers are expected to be laid off in the shutdown. Company officials said that once the chemical equipment was stopped last Thursday, production could not be resumed, even on a partial basis, for two months after settlement of the office strike.

George Burt, Canadian UAW director, said the union regards the situation in the plant as a lockout.

Plant workers have not been barred from entering the company premises, and CIL officials said they are being given work cleaning up the plant preparatory to a complete shutdown of chemical operations.

Marmora High School Ground Work Started

MARMORA, July 11—(ENS)—Levelling of the grounds upon which Marmora's new high school will be erected, has started. The St. Lawrence Construction Company has the contract for the erection of the building. Notification of the approval of the by-law authorizing the same was received by Reeve Vincent M. Lynch Saturday. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fluke will have to be moved to another site to make room for the school.

Woman's Life In A Trailer No Escape From Housework

By JACK SCOTT.

CALGARY, Alta.—Our first mail arrived today from St. John's Newfoundland, where the leading paper is running these trans-Canada notes. A feminine reader there suggests it might be interesting to get the woman's view of trailer life and so Grace has been scribbling away. Here are some of her impressions:

✧ ✧ ✧

I get hysterical with laughter when I think of the dreamed-of escape from housework our trip promised. Like those other trailer-wives we've met on the road I find it's a big job to keep a caravan tidy and a bigger job to keep the travellers that way.

Never worked so hard, felt so well or looked so terrible.

I'm beginning to appreciate the theory that the smaller the house the bigger the job of keeping it clean, especially when you're travelling with the world's champion droppers and leavers of clothes.

The days we travel are sandwiched by some pretty hectic activity. In the morning there's the task of putting everything away so that the trailer's motion won't shake them loose.

We had considerable chaos in the refrigerator for the first few days, but now I've learned to pack things so that we no longer have eggs in the jello.

When we've come to roost there's the unpacking to do. Then there are those extra special days when we've run into dust and otherwise carefree life reaches its lowest ebb. It gets in the trailer like pale brown talcum powder. Start out the day all clean and crisp and end looking like the Joad family. It gets into your nose, eyes and mouth.

We've invested a small fortune in lotions to keep moist.. I look for those paved roads now even more eagerly than Jack.

Value of Water

I'll never again see a kitchen tap with unlimited cold water without thinking back to this trip.

When we're not hooked up to a water supply it means packing it by the pail and it's astonishing how much water you can use, In the beginning we had some rousing arguments about my "wasting" water. Now I cherish every drop.

One routine is fill the bathtub (but not too full), bahet the kids, do the washing and then the floor all with the same slim rations. By the time I've used a tub of water our pressure system is down and, as I've been elected official pumper ("It will take off that surplus") I find myself frequently on the business end of a bicycle pump.

What with bending over the scrub-board, scrubbing the floor and pumping I should be taking off a few pounds. But then there's that outdoors appetite, the old equalizer.

In our pre-caravan days my biggest problem was to get my family to eat. Now I can't stop them. For the first week I tried to make mealtime like home with table mats, napkins, etc., even a few wild flowers on the table. But I've smartened up now. They don't need any encouragement.

Shopping in the small towns is certainly a lot less attractive than city shopping. I suppose its the slower turnover or perhaps because so many people in the country grow their own. Whatever it is, the fruit and vegetables are usually pretty exhausted.

It's more than a compensation, however, to have the fresh cream, eggs, butter and preserves from the friendly farmers along the way.

No Washing Machine

Speaking of the woman's view, it's surprising how many of the women who visit us sympathize with me and offer the facilities in their homes. The kindness of the women we've met is just wonderful. Actually, the only thing we lack is a washing machine and the Laundromats, now in most towns, fill the bill It's the first thing we look for when we enter a new place.

When I'm asked what I miss most about the "old life" I answer, truthfully, "Sleeping in the odd morning."

Jill wakes at the crack of dawn and pads into "our" room to start her morning routine, which consists of harrassing us until we get up, an exercise in reverse child psychology.

We were worried at first about how Jill would react to all this, but she's taken to it nicely. Many of the United States women we've met in the trailer camps have told us of taking babies all over the continent without a hitch. The familiar things of home are right back of our car and, in fact, she's more at home in strange surroundings than any of us.

Some after-thoughts:

If you should ever plan a trailer trip, make a large gas frigidaire the first requirment on your list. It's been a constant delight and goes along through the worst dust and over all the bumps.

Keeping the children clean is a hopeless job. Whatever else Jack may find out about Canada the trailer housewife finds out every day that Canada has an awful lot of dirt.

Time takes on a new meaning. The days seem to slip by. We all seem to feel content at night to sit in our tiny living room. Haven't yet been to a show.

The best part of the day is when the children are clean and in bed and we can get out the maps and decide what the next stop will be.

Our stove continues to blow up regularly, in spite of alterations we've made at several stops, but works fine after it has displayed its temperament.

Sure like to have a little of that Vancouver water . . . of the kind that lathers.

Women's Institute Hears District Report

MILLBROOK, July 11—(ENS)—The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hilton on Saturday evening, with Miss Mary L. Widdis, the president, in the chair.

Th district director, Mrs. Henry Blakely, gave a report of the 50th district annual meeting of the East Durham Women's Institute, held at Cavan, June 13th.

It was decided that the annual picnic should be held this year at the home of Mrs. Chas. Thorndyke. Mrs. H. J. Armstrong was appointed convener of the refreshment committee, and Mrs. Delbert Olan and Mrs. Henry Blakely were put in charge of the entertainment.

Mrs. Gordon Davidson conducted the program which followed. A reading, "Why I Stick to the Farm," was given by Mrs. Allie Fallis. Mrs. Delbert Olan gave a demonstration, accompanied by a chart of potato diseases, on infected potatoes. She also outlined methods of treatment. Mrs. Gordon Davidson gave a paper on farm life.

A clothes-pin contest, in which Mrs. Allie Fallis placed first, with Mrs. H. J. Armstrong and Mrs. Wm. Armstrong in a tie for second place, was very much enjoyed.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. J. Armstrong.

Mrs. Hilton was thanked for the use of her home, and Mrs. Gordon Davidson, Mrs. Allie Fallis and Mrs. D. Olan for a fine program and refreshments.

First Of 50,000 Bombs Hit London 10 Years Ago

By ERNEST AGNEW

LONDON, July 11 (AP). — Just 10 years ago the air raid sirens were wailing over Britain.

The first of 50,000 bombs, not counting incendiaries, which German bombers dumped on London 13 months fell on the moonlit night of July 11, 1940. It hit an open space, caused no damage, but that was only the beginning.

The war lasted five years and eight months. For 47 of those 68 months London was more or less under attack from the air.

1,227 Air Raids

From the dramatic moment at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 3, 1939, when the first false alarm sent Londoners scurrying to air raid shelters, until March 28, 1945 — whe nthe sirens sounded for the last time — there were 1,227 air raid alerts in Central London. When the war ended, 145,000 houses in Metropolitan London alone had been demolished or made uninhabitable.

Thousands of houses have been rebuilt, so have numbers of damaged buildings, but completion of an ambitious plan for full reconstruction of the capital will not come for at least 15 years, perhaps more. The country can't afford it.

Serious discussions about the rebuilding of the city started in 1942. By 1943, two plans had been drawn up by Professor Patrick Abercrombie, 65-year-old professor of Town and Country Planning at the University of London.

New City Plans

They covered:

1. The rebuilding of Greater London—the whole mass of built-up streets, including the outer suburbs.

2. Metropolitan London, or the administrative county of London, the inner area.

3. The City proper, the square mile that encloses the Bank of England, the financial district and the Lord Mayor's headquarters.

Broadly, Abercrombie's plan for Greater London calls for construction of eight satellite towns on the outskirts and the creation of a "Green Belt" for open space and recreation.

For the County of London his plan calls for a relocation of streets and arterial highways to relieve growing traffic congestion, elimination of sub-standard housing, more parks and the prevention of the intermingling of industry and housing.

Gigantic Cost

Both plans are under way, now. The time of their completion is highly problematical.

"For one thing, the cost will be gigantic — in the billions of pounds," says an official of the London County Council.

By mid-1952 the council says it either will have rebuilt, repaired or completely replaced all the 145,000 houses destroyed or damaged in the six metropolitan boroughs of Westminster, Holborn, Stepney, Poplar, Lewisham and Wandsworth. But docks still line the Thames and no tunnels have been dug under it. And few of London's many squares have been redesigned in accordance with the plan.

"Give us 50 years," says a planning official. "Even London can't be rebuilt in a day."

St. Laurent Orders RCN To Korea

3 Destroyers Leave Pearl Harbor Soon As Refuelled

OTTAWA, July 12.—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that three Canadian destroyers are being turned over to the United Nations for service in Korea. "No time will be lost in having them sail to Korean waters," he said.

He said the destroyers, due at Pearl Harbor at 3 p.m., (EDT) today, will get orders to proceed to Korea, "just as soon as despatches can reach them," by radio.

The Prime Minister spoke to reporters as he emerged from a cabinet meeting which ratified the action.

He said: "We have been informed by the U.N., that our three destroyers would be very useful in Korea and we are advising the U.N. at once that they are being made available as part of the U.N. force."

Leave In Hurry

He said the destroyers will "go on from Pearl Harbor just as fast as steam can carry them."

"There will be no time lost except for refuelling."

The Prime Minister emphasized that the destroyers are being made available for U.N. police action in Korea only and not for general use in the Pacific.

He was asked if the ships already have orders to proceed to Korea.

He replied that they would get their orders just as soon as dispatches could reach them.

Mr. St. Laurent said that the exact way in which the warships will be used will depend upon Gen. Douglas MacArthur, appointed supreme U.N. commander for Korea.

External Affairs Minister Pearson is expected to elaborate on the Prime Minister's announcement in a press conference which he has called for this afternoon.

The destroyers are the Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan. They sailed from Esquimalt, B. C., last week.

$300,000 Fire Destroys Church

AYLMER, Ont., July 12 (CP)—The Aylmer Baptist Church burned to the ground early today in a spectacular $300,000 fire believed to have broken out in the organ loft.

The brick and wooden structure was a mass of flames within a few minutes. Although the Aylmer fire department made a fast run to the scene, they were held back by the searing flames at the front of the building.

Three hose lines were played into the back of the building with the assistance of the Aylmer RCAF fire truck and crew, but little could be done to stop destruction of the building.

Officials said $50,000 insurance was carried on the building and plans will be made to replace it.

Fire Chief Clark Mitchell has asked the Ontario Fire Marshall to investigate the cause of the fire.

Lie Makes Appeal To End Atrocities

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y June 12 (AP)—Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the United Nations, disturbed by reports of shootings of prisoners and other non-humanitarian acts in the Korean war, today urged both North and South Korea to avoid atrocities.

He dispatched messages containing his appeal to both sides.

Lie acted after receiving press association reports here that at least 18 American prisoners of war had been bound and shot by North Koreans and that South Koreans in one incident had broken the backs of persons said to have been Northern guerrillas in southern territory.

Discuss Ways Other Lands Can Aid Korea

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson said today conferences are going on as to help which other countries may give in the Korean fighting.

He told a press conference the State Department is conferring with the United Nations and with the Defence Department on suggestions of help. Offers of troops from other United Nations members would be most helpful, he added.

He said he could not say whether other countries, aside from Nationalist China, had proposed sending in ground forces.

Regarding Anglo-Soviet talks on a possible settlement of the Korean war, Acheson said he did not think he ought to speculate on what the Russians might do.

Acheson did say in response to another question that the British government has kept the American government informed of developments in the talks.

The next move appeared to be up to Russia, following the talks yesterday between Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Britain's ambassador to Moscow, Sir David Kelly.

Diplomatic informants said that it was too early to tell whether the Soviets are really manoeuvring to help end the conflict or whether they are simply encouraging a hope that they will do so, while the actual fighting continues to go in favour of the North Korean Communists.

DIES FROM BURNS

BELLEVILLE, July 12—(CP)—Mae Dawn Scrimshaw, 8, burned when a flaming tube of rubber cement ignited her dress, died in hospital today. She suffered third degree burns over 95 per cent of her body.

Gambler of Century Dies Find He's Confidence Man

LONDON, July 12.—(Reuters).—John Hugh Rowan, Britain's "gambler of the century," is dead of his own hand. Known to every racehorse bookmaker in the country as 'the old 'un,' the 82-year-old Rowan was found hanging from a hook in a London hotel early this week shortly after he had phoned the valet and said: "Will you come along to my room in 20 minutes? I want you to untie something for me."

The man who once placed £70,000 on a horse that came in at 13-8, left one last communication to a London bookmaker, "take care of my funeral."

Rowan used to bet in tens of thousands and lost more than he won.

How did he meet his losses? With his death the mystery was solved.

Rowan was a daring, successful confidence trickster who paid bookmakers with money extracted from a long line of victims.

Many never complained to the police for he handpicked them and knew they would rather lose money than face the publicity which prosecution would mean.

He did not always get away with it. In 1903, soon after leaving his native Australia, he was sentenced to three months imprisonment for loitering with intent to practice "the confidence trick." In 1926 he was given six months for trying to swindle an American tourist out of $14,280.

Luck finally deserted him. At a recent meeting he was seen to put five shillings on a horse.

"It had better win," he said. "It's my last.

Take Precautions

LONDON, July 12—(Reuters)—Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell assured the House of Commons today that the government has taken "the necessary precautions within our resources" to prepare the armed forces for any foreseeable emergency.

Find 2 Sisters, 14 Cats In Attic

HALIFAX, July 12 (CP)—Two elderly sisters were found in the squalid attic of a four-storey house Tuesday. With them were more than a dozen cats of all sizes.

One of the flat's three rooms was crammed with papers from wall to wall. City workmen led by bailiff John A. Barber had to wedge through the doorway and scrambled over the tightly-packed bundles to carry out an eviction notice.

Ill and emaciated, one of the women had to be taken forcibly from her garret abode, crying shrilly as workmen carted bundles of papers away to be burned.

The cats—14 of them—ranged from toms and females to litters of kittens. Most of them lived in the room filled with papers. They were the pets of both sisters.

The place was plagued by rats, one sister said, and workmen taking effects out of the attic complained of lice and fleas.

The two women were put out because they couldn't pay their rent.

Friends found them temporary lodging.

Most British Papers Urge Strachey Resign

LONDON, July 12 (CP) —Most British newspapers agreed editorially today that War Secretary John Strachey should resign.

Three Conservative newspapers—the Daily Telegraph, the Daily Graphic and the Glasgow Herald—joined the Liberal News Chronicle in calling bluntly for his resignation.

The Times (Independent) said Strachey's choice would seem to lie betweenu observing more faithfully the obligations of his high office, or "else to recover the full freedom of speech in one obvious way."

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal) wondered whether Strachey is not, "for all his high gifts," becoming a liability to Attlee.

Williams Has Fracture

BOSTON, July 12—(AP)—Ted Williams, slugging Red Sox outfielder, suffered a fracture in his left elbow in yesterday's all star game and will be lost to the team for most of the remainder of the season, the club physician said today.

Germany's Red Police Units Causing Great Uneasiness

BERLIN, July 12 (AP)—Are detachments of East Germany's Communist "People's Police" army off to the Korean war or to some other Communist pressure point—like the borders of Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia?

These questions arose in Berlin and East Germany today as reports multiplied that many of these trained troopers had been dispatched from their barracks and training centres on "special assignments."

Germans who claimed to have observed the movements said the troopers moved out were supplied with new field-grey uniforms.

Recent dispatches in West Berlin's anti-Communist press have claimed that Soviet satellite countries were preparing "international brigades" to fight with the Communists in Korea.

(The People's Police are a force which has been branded by the western powers as an illegal Soviet-sponsored army trained with infantry weapons and tanks.)

Some Germans here said any German recruits probably would be sent to the Balkans if the Kremlin planned a Kominform attack on Marshal Tito.

The Yugoslav press has in recent weeks reported unusual military activity by its Cominform neighbors.

The American high commission's newspaper "Neue Zeitung" here claimed that the Communist people's police now were also receiving paratroop training under instruction of Russian officers.

UN Planes Hammer Enemy Lines

Hordes of Men, Tanks Overwhelming Allied Defenders

TOKYO, July 12.—(CP). — Fierce ground fighting was reported today on the approaches to Taejon, provisional capital of South Korea, as American and Australian aircraft hammered with good results at invading North Koreans.

Field dispatches from advanced American headquarters in Korea said American troops, earlier reported to be digging in along the south bank of the twisting Kum river, were involved in "particularly intense" action.

An American officer said the North Koreans, under incessant aerial attack, continued to "exert pressure all day" on sectors held by both American and South Korean troops.

The trend of the fighting was not mentioned but the defenders have been regrouping south of the Kum. A Reuters dispatch described the river as a "line of no retreat."

Stop Traffic

The officer said steady aerial pounding has stopped north-south traffic on the enemy side between the front and the strategic area behind his lines.

"We have reports the main highway south from Seoul is scattered with burning vehicles and wrecked bridges," he told an Associated Press correspondent.

One sign of the effectiveness of allied air strike is the diminishing artillery fire from the North Koreans, he said.

Australian Mustang fighters, using a South Korean base to refuel and rearm, turned in their best performance of the war. A communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters credited them with knocking out eight tanks and five trucks.

Reuters reported four American battalions are in the Chonan-Chongju sector north of Taejon. The agency said the communists were estimated to have two or three divisions there.

King Gets Tax Rebate On Cancelled NZ Trip

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters) — The King is to be given a £2,800 tax rebate because he cancelled his trip to Australia and New Zealand two years ago.

The money was sales tax paid on clothes which the King bought for himself and for those going on the trip with him. The tour was cancelled because of the King's illness.

A treasury official said it was felt that the King had been asked to go abroad as a public duty, and as circumstances prevented his going it was unfair that he should be asked to pay tax on things which were not to be used.

Berserk Guard Shoots Baker

PITTSBURGH, July 12 (AP)—A berserk watchman, screaming "I get even, I get even," killed a baker early today as he made breakfast biscuits in the fashionable Hotel Schenley basement, then stalked upstairs to the lobby and pumped bullets into two other hotel employees.

Police identified the slayer as 59-year-old Dominick Omogrosso.

Alfonso W. Morano was killed by a single shot from a 32-calibre revolver. He died as he dropped an egg yolk into the biscuit batter.

Five other bullets, fired wildly at Morano, missed.

Critically injured were Herbert H. Kinde, night manager, and John Harper, 55-year-old desk clerk.

"I shoot them," police quoted Omogrosso as saying. "They caused me trouble. They always make faces, make lot of smart remarks about me. I get even. I get even."

Omogrosso is to be arraigned today on a homicide charge.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., July 12.—(Reuters). — Negotiations with Britain on meat prices for the 1950-51 season have been postponed for three months, the New Zealand Minister for Agriture and Marketing, Keith Holyoake, said today. He said New Zealand producers wanted 7½ per cent more for their meat because of higher prices paid to other suppliers of the British market.

Gun-Toting Man Stages Four Holdups

MONTREAL, July 12—(CP)—A youthful, gun-toting bandit Tuesday went on a one-man crime wave, shooting two Montreal policemen—wounding one seriously—while committing four holdups of two stores and two taxi-cab drivers. The robberies, which all took place in north-end Montreal within 20 minutes, came on the heels of a $6,000 jewel robbery in the industrial St. Henri district. The wounded policemen are Paul Emile Dagenais and Marcel Mascherin. Dagenais was released from hospital after treatment for a knee injury. Mascherin has a bullet lodged in the lower left abdomen.

Dagenais was shot as he tried to halt the young gunman fleeing from the Union Watch Repair Company where money and watch samples were taken.

The bandit then forced cab driver Romeo Lafrance out of his cab and drove a short distance to a drug store where he was confronted by Mascherin. The bandit felled the officer, took his revolver and commandeered another cab at gun point to make his getaway.

In the jewellery store holdup, four men drove up to the store of J. P. Lemarbre. Two masked men entered the store and took six dozen diamond rings after beating up a clerk, Bernard Coupal.

J. Dlusy, owner of the watch repair firm, said the youth whipped out a gun after looking at some watches. The bandit then took some money from Dlusy and some watches from a jewellery trader, H. Ludwig. Dagenais came running up and was felled by a bullet.

The bandit then entered J. A. Brault's drug store where he shot Maseherin.

Thessalon Folk Terrorized By Mystery Man Torturing Farm Animals

Organized Posse Ready To Join Search For Man Who 'Walks Like Bear', Civilian Volunteers Join Police Hunt

THESSALON, Ont., July 12. — (CP).—Search for a red-bearded "mystery man" who "walks like a bear" were intensified today following a veterinary's examination of farm animals killed in this northwestern Ontario district. Residents of this town of 2,000, fearing for the safety of their children and themselves, are keeping to their homes at night and keeping barn and garage doors locked. A report by the veterinary in charge said today that mutilation of a young calf and horses over the week-end indicate that the person responsible is a sadist, and that the animals were not cut up for food but were forced to undergo torture.

Mayor Campbell Cork, president of the Thessalon Chamber of Commerce, said that an organized posse will be on hand any hour of the night or day. He also issued an appeal to all residents of the town to be on the lookout for the fugitive.

The search for the mystery man began Monday after he is alleged to have mutilated a horse and two calves for food on the nearby farm of Harry Gavin.

Tuesday, a horse owned by Fred Carlson of Ansonia, six miles north of Thessalon, and a calf owned by Tom Bronson were mutilated in the same way.

Has A Beard

Residents of the area who claim they have seen the man describe him as having a beard and wearing old clothes.

Thessalon is about 50 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

Two men picked up for questioning by provincial police Tuesday night were later released.

More evidence to substantial the theory the mystery man is being forced closer to town because of hunger has been discovered. A farmer reported to police that he found bloodstains on the rear bumper, fenders and lights of his car.

Closer investigation uncovered tiny pieces of flesh in this area where a horse or other animal apparently had been tied to the vehicle and forced to undergo torture.

Earlier, two other farmers reported that their calves were tortured.

U.S. Officials Expecting A Long Fight

WASHINGTON, July 12—(AP)—Foreboding over the magnitude to which the Korean war might expand touch some high officials at United States defence headquarters today.

The spectre of hordes of "volunteers" from Russia and China to aid the North Korean army gave rise to the feeling in the high command.

But even aside from this potential situation, there were estimates in other well-placed quarters that it might take until next fall to win in Korea—even if Russian or Chinese Communists do not take a hand.

This timetable was reported to have been predicated on several factors, including:

1. It will be better to take the Korean campaign at a deliberate, careful tempo than to push it for a quick finish at a possible high cost in casualties with resultant bad reaction at home.

Fight To End

2 The North Koreans are tough figures. They have fought for the Russians at places like Stalingrad, and for the Japanese. They fought viciously to the end—few or no prisoners were taken from among the Koreans.

3. It took three months of campaigning in Okinawa to win over Asiatic fighters.

4. The North Koreans have the advantage of short supply lines through protected inland routes.

Military mentors cautioned that perhaps another three weeks of bad news, of more falling back by American and Korean forces, should be expected before the build-up of strength begins to pay off.

New Floods Menace Centres In Nebraska

OMAHA, July 12 (AP) — An eight-inch downpour brought new flooding to Nebraska today.

The state safety patrol said six feet of water surged over a main highway near McCook, Neb., at the Kansas state line.

The Burlington railroad reported some of its track on a branch line in the same area washed out.

Considerable crop damage was reported near the little town of Danury, Neb. The patrol said the eight-inch rain was concentrated near Danbury.

A flood crest, born of runoff water from the week-end rains, roared down the big blue river toward the southeastern Nebraska city of Beatrice. Rising at the rate of about seven inches an hour Tuesday night, the big blue was expected to crest today at 25.5 feet.

Only Rifles To Fight Tanks Bitter GI's Tell Reporters

By TOM LAMBERT.

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN KOREA, July 12 (AP)—A bitter, beaten little band of American soldiers sprawled in exhaustion on a sunny Korean hillside this afternoon—weary survivors of one of the most savage battles fought by Americans in the Korean war.

Their bitterness was more pronounced than their exhaustion, which was almost complete. They talked of encirclements and infiltrations.

A grimy, bewhiskered, bloodshot-eyed officer gritted his teeth:

"You don't fight two tank-equipped divisions with .30 calibre carbines. I never saw such a useless damned war in all my life."

Two days ago this handful of soldiers was part of a sizable unit. In a morning-long battle with North Korean tanks and troops yesterday they were whittled down.

Many of the original group still are in the hills after a plunging rush from their encircled positions. But many of them—wounded and dead alike—are in North Koreans hands or territory.

The battle began two days ago when the unit pushed off to attack the Reds who were battering another American outfit. The unit moved up and dug in.

The Red assault began Tuesday at about 5:30 a.m. The Communists rode ghostlike out of a deep ground fog, which shrouded everything but the flashes of their automatic weapons.

"Every time you would kill one about 20 would come up to take his place," said Pte. Freddy Pickens of Columbus, Miss.

Overwhelmed by hordes of Communist soldiers, the Americans retreated. Some Americans estimated an entire regiment attacked them.

General Warns Penalty For Atrocities

TOKYO, July 12 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today four United States soldiers had been murdered on the battlefield and warned North Koreans that those guilty of such "barbarity" face death if caught.

Headquarters issued a communique saying that proof had been received of "barbarity and murder" perpetrated by North Korean soldiers.

Field dispatches, cross-checked in an attempt to weed out duplications, have put the number of U.S. prisoners slain at 18.

Headquarters said the proof was in the form of official photographs showing four Americans with their hands tied behind their backs. They were shot through the head.

General Astounded

The communique said MacArthur was "astounded by these barbaric acts and holds the leadership of the North Koreans responsible."

The communique, after detailing what the official pictures showed, concluded:

"The murder of the prisoners of war is a violation of the laws and customs of war and the perpetrators of such offences as well as leaders who order, cause or permit the same are subject to the death penalty when imposed by military tribunals.

"The world has been shocked by those atrocities which violate the precepts of civilization. Appropriate action is being taken to inform the North Korean people of the inhuman acts committed by their armed forces."

Hail Battle Starts With Bang Prairie Farmers Hard Hit

WINNIPEG, July 12.—(CP).—The prairie farmer, worm, wind and drought problems apparently in hand, faces the almost-anual ordeal by hail. His yearly gamut of natural enemies starts before he sows his seed and ends only when the grain is safely tucked away in the elevator. But the spectacular standout among the menaces is the round ruin from the skies during July and early August.

The hail season this year has started off with a bang.

Stones an inch in diameter blasted a six-mile-wide swath through the Hafford and Blaine Lake districts of Northern Saskatchewan. Loss ranged from 50 to 100 per cent.

Avonlea and Bengough in south-central Saskatchewan report scattered claims as high as 100 per cent, and even southwestern and central districts say 30 claims for 100-per-cent insurance have come in. Swift Current in the southwest had 50 claims.

Hard Hit

The Alberta Hail Insurance Board, a government - backed agency which writes about 75 per cent of the business in that province, estimates that 200,000 of 16,000,000 acres have been hit in that province. Damage varies from light to 100 per cent.

Weekend hail in the south—worst-hit portion — damaged wheat and beet crops. Winter wheat—much of it in the head—was feared battered beyond recovery. Beet crops at Raymond and Magrath and canning crops at Magrath suffered heeavily.

Far north at Fort St John, B.C., just west of the Alberta border, crops were slashed by the worst hail storm ever recorded in that area. Farmers were reported planning to plow under what had been promising fields of grain.

Damage in Manitoba has been light with only scattered storms reported.

Claims paid by insurance companies do not reflect total losses, since many farmers do not insure and most protect only part of their crop—and that for only a portion of its value.

But the Alberta Board in 1947 paid $1,767,000 in claims. The figure usually runs about $400,000.

Major-Scale War

The concern evidenced privately in some quarters was that if North Korea's Communist friends in Russia and China start sending in hundreds of thousands of "volunteers" the conflict may swell into a prolonged, major-scale war even though the theatre remains confined to that part of the Far East.

So far, battle-front reports reaching Washington have made no mention of Russians being captured. But some officials thought such reports could be expected at any time.

Whether or not the "volunteers" are reaching front lines, U.S. defence officials have evidence that behind the front the North Koreans' campaign is being planned by able Russian staff work.

Moreover, the quality of North Korean material has been excellent—superior tanks, good artillery well fired The North Korean air equipment has been second-line, but within the last two days there have been reports of Yak-15 jet fighters. These fighters are old by present standards, but are the first North Korea jets to appear over the front.

Withdraw Troops

Chongju lies just north of the Kum. MacArthur reported that South Korean troops between Chongju and Umsong, about 13 miles farther west, had made a planned withdrawal to the Pogang river, which flows southwesterly into the Kum about 18 miles north of Taejon.

A spokesman at United States advance headquarters said the Americans hoped to hold the Kum river line until enough reinforcements arrive to counter-attack.

MacArthur's communique, issued at 11:30 p.m. (9.30 a.m. EDT) appeared to lag behind field dispatches in its report of ground fighting.

It said strong North Korean pressure against outnumbered American battalions in the Chonan-Chongju battle area north of Taejon "may compel further withdrawals behind the Kum river."

It also described United States units as "delaying the enemy advance in positions astride the highway six miles north of Chochiwon," which field dispatches had reported taken by the communists.

No Major Developments

No major developments were reported along the east coast beyond a naval attack on enemy installations at Yangyang, just north of the border between the two Koreas.

(Russia correspondents in dispatches to Moscow claimed today that North Korean forces have advanced almost to Pusan, the main American supply port on the southeast coast of Korea.

(A correspondent of the Literary Gazette said North Korean naval landing parties had been put ashore in force along the east coast.)

Reuters News Agency reported that huge transport planes were streaming into Taejon airfield with men and materials to strengthen American troops which have taken up new positions south of the Kum river.

The meandering river is the last natural barrier before Taejon, 15 miles south by road. The city has been American advanced headquarters. It is on the main South Korean rail line from the southeastern supply port of Pusan.

O. H. P. King, Associated Press correspondent, said advanced American headquarters had planned to pull U.S. troops back of the Kum if necessary. The river, while only 200 yards wide at some spots, offers a natural line of defence.

King said headquarters believes it can make a stand there until enough men and supplies arrive for a counter-attack.

American engineers had mined the modern bridge across the Kum and the highway to the north. King did not say whether the bridge had been blown up.

"Too Quiet"

Today began quietly on the Korean western front — "too quiet" in the words of a field headquarters spokesman. Then, in mid-morning, a tank-led Red attack flared up against Cochiwon, about 60 air miles south of Seoul, the Communist-captured South Korean capital.

Red mortar and artillery fire pushed the American defenders back four to seven miles to the broad Kum River. The withdrawal was orderly.

It was the same story on the central front. The Reds advanced five to 10 miles there, MacArthur's communique said, presumably around Chinchon, about 50 miles southeast of Seoul, where South Korean forces are fighting.

New Division

In the Chungju area, 30 miles east of Chinchon, a new enemy division apeared. It is the 15th North Korean division, MacArthur's communique said, "apparently assembled and trained in the extreme north of North Korea."

"It is reported to have a large number of Koreans who previously have been fighting with the Chinese Communist forces in Manchuria," the communique said.

MacArthur said the enemy still is as strong as it was when it drove across the Han River at Seoul. This indicates that the attackers have built their forces back to at least five divisions—perhaps 75,000 men.

American and Australian aircraft pounded targets with "excellent results," a Far East communique said. The Allied fighters destroyed six tanks for a two-day total of 45.

B-29 Superforts of the 20th air force blasted Chinchon, near the front and "the whole town was left burning after the strike," the communique said.

Enemy aircraft appeared for the first time in more than a week. Two Russian-made Yak fighters fired at an American jet. It was not hit.

All Allied planes returned to base without loss or injury to personnel.

The communique said enemy anti-aircraft fire was up 'slightly" from the average of the last few days, but scored no hits.

Prices Slide A Bit On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, July 12 (CP). — Prices settled quietly downward today in slow trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Base metals and western oils, which sparked yesterday's advance, showed almost a full list of minus signs, though the losses were modest for the most part. Minor losses also marked the greater number of industrial changes and golds reached a new low point since 1943.

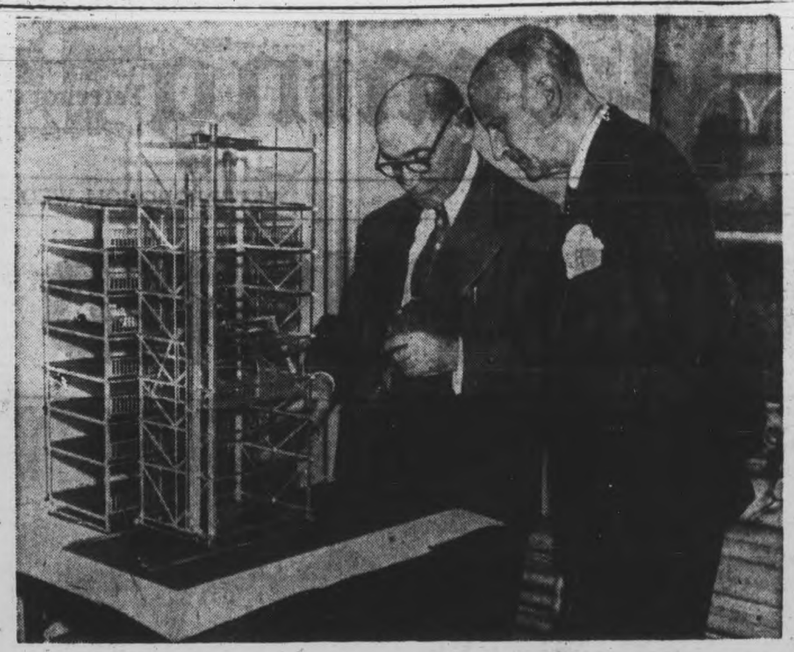
In the industrials, papers, utilities, steels and liquors were the weakest, while foods showed some signs of strength.

Bell Telephone, Brazilian and CPR lost fractions in utilities, Algoma picked up ¼ in steels and Steel of Canada lost ⅛.

In metals, Smelters, Nickel and Noranda were all off fractions Only Highland Bell and New Calumet clung to the plus column.

In oils, only Calmont and Pan-Western led their own.

Bralorne, Dome, Giant Yellowknife, Hollinger, Kerr Addison, Sigma, Teck-Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves sagged in senior golds and the great proportion of the juniors were either unchanged or down.



PARKING FOR 1,520 automobiles—that is the plan of Benjamin N. Rosenbaum of New York (left) and A. A. Slayer Sure New Evidence To Free Him

VANCOUVER, July 12 (CP)—Frederick (Red) Ducharme, convicted sex slayer scheduled to be hanged Friday, believes that new evidence will set him free.

But in case it doesn't, he has placed his order for the traditional last meal. He wants a 10-pound roast turkey — no sage in the dressing — salad, ice cream, pie and cherry brandy.

Guards at Oakalla jail say the 37-year-old millworker is confident that new evidence will prove him innocent of the Nov. 9 killing of Ferne Branche Fisher. The 45-year-old spinster was drowned in False Creek after an "intimate hour" in the back seat of Ducharme's automobile.

Marks were found on the throat of the nude body.

The British Columbia Appeal Court rejected Ducharme's bid for a new trial. His counsel took the case to the Supreme Court of Canada. A decision is expected hourly on a motion for leave to appeal.

Ducharme claims that he spent much of the evening of Nov. 8 with friends and not with Miss Fisher.

His only visitor has been a priest.

Veteran Auctioneer Dies In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 — (ENS) — One of Campbellford's best known residents, James Rae Battisby, better known to his friends as "J", died at his home on Front St. Monday morning. Mr. Battisby was 87 years old, and was quite active up until about three weeks ago, when he suffered a stroke while selling at an auction sale on Centre Street in the town.

Mr. Battisby had been an auctioneer for more than 40 years. He was in later years associated with Ray Williams in the real estate and auctioneering business. He moved to Campbellford some 31 years ago, prior to which he lived in Castleton, where he was born. His parents were the late James Battisby and Ellen Davidson, who were Scottish immigrants.

Besides his wife, the former Annie V. Anderson, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Glen Thompson, (Nellie) of Stouffville, Ont.; two sisters, Mrs. H. Mallory of Welcome Corners near Port Hope, Mrs. G. Pomeroy of Toronto, and one brother William Battisby of Kingston, Jamaica. An uncle, Rev. John Battisby resides in Chatham, Ontario.

J. R. Battisby was a member of the Campbellford town council for a number of years, and was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He was on the Board of Managers of St. Andrew's.

Funeral services will be conducted privately at the home on Front Street on Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will officiate, and burial will be in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

Pall-bearers will be his three grandsons, J. B. Thompson of Toronto, Dr. W. R. Thompson of Trenton, Glen Ross Thompson of Stouffville, Dr. J. R. Anderson of Campbellford, Ray Williams of Campbellford and A. G. Thompson of Stouffville.

Have New Missile

WASHINGTON, July 12—(AP)—United States army ordnance experts Tuesday successfully fired a new guided missile, named the "Ordcit," about 50 miles into the air at White Sands proving ground in New Mexico. The army said it is the first American-designed and American-built supersonic missile guided from the ground.

Starlings Shatter Cobourg's Peace

COBOURG, July 12 (ENS) — Starlings with their stench and racket are again plaguing the residents of the Chapel Street area.

The birds have been cnogregating in larger numbers each night for the past two weeks in trees along Chapel, College and Walton streets. Droppings from the birds foul the leaves and splatter the sidewalks until the area takes on the odour of a poultry yard.

Smoke smudges, hammering the trees with heavy sticks, whacking the sidewalks with boards, and shooting air rifles, have been used to frighten the starlings away, but the birds do not scare easily and, after circling around a bit, usually resume their perch.

Shotguns were effective last year and the year before in keeping the starlings on the move just about the time they settle down for the night. The birds usually light out for some quieter district, but no shotguns have been used yet this year.

Pt. Hope Sets Up Civil Defence

PORT HOPE, July 12.—Mayor Wilbur N. Moore appointed this week a three-man civil defence committee. The committee consisting of Al Ross, general manager of the Eldorado plant, C. P. Freeman, and William Roche will study a nine-page report on radiological defence issued by the Ontario Government and also data from the Federal Government on atomic bomb defence.

The committee was thought necessary, because of the government Eldorado plant, which refines radium brought in from Great Slave Lake, NWT.

Trent Canal Wall Gets Face Lifting

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 — (ENS)—A portion of the cement wall along the Trent Canal in Campbellford is undergoing a face lifting. A section of the wall had started to crumble and was not considered safe, so workmen have been chewing at the defective cement with air hammers for the past few days.

When the old wall has been removed, it will receive a new cement face above the water line, and it is believed chains will hang along the wall just above the water line, as a safety measure.

Council Hard Up Gives Token Grant

COBOURG, July 12 (ENS) — Facing a deficit because of an increase in the United counties rate, Cobourg town council at its regular meeting here gave only a "token" to the Kinwanis Club to help stage the civic holiday celebration. As there was nothing set aside in the estimates to cover the grant to the Kiwanis Club, council agreed to Mayor Jack Burnet's suggestion that a token amount only be granted.

The civic holiday celebration was taken over by the Kiwanis Club this year after the regular civic holiday committee decided to abandon its plan to run the holiday program due to lack of funds.

Infectious Diseases Hit Low In Counties

COBOURG, July 12 (ENS) — Only 11 new cases of communicable disease were reported for the week ending July 8 by the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. This is the lowest in some months.

The total is made up by six case of chickenpox in Port Hope, four cases of German measles, three of them in Bowmanville and one in Darlington Township and one case of whooping cough in Hope Township.

Our Shameful Picture Post Cards

The Kawartha district has a shaming assortment of picture post cards of local scenes to offer the tens of thousands of tourists who come to this region. There are a few good photographic ones in black and white, and many pretty shabby ones, too. The worst are the coloured cards; trite, gaudy, inaccurate, atrociously printed, and out of date. These are the cards which tourist must send back to friends and relatives, or take home with them as mementos. What kind of advertisements are they for the beauties and decencies of Peterborough and the Kawarthas? People whose knowledge of this district depends on such cards must believe it to be a shoddy, cheap place, and antediluvian. There are cards on sale in shops now which show vessels passing through the lift lock which passed to the scrap heap a dozen years ago; gravel roads which have been paved for several years, and summer hotels in the garb of the 1920's.

* * *

We vented our spleen about these cards a year ago, and suggested ways of improving the situation. Nothing seems to have been done. The initial cost of making the plates for post card reproduction is heavy, but other places have good cards, for instance Quebec city. Artists have been commissioned to paint various characteristic scenes of Quebec, and plates engraved from their paintings have been carefully prepared. This special series sells at five cents a card, and is highly prized by tourists, who often buy them to frame. Similar good post cards can be had all over Europe. Peterborough and the Kawarthas need not plan an elaborate and expensive series, but if four or five really good coloured post cards were available they would sell in very large numbers and in two or three years the original cost of the plates would surely be met. To supplement them, ordinary coloured photographic cards of decent quality should be available.

* * *

We are objecting more to the lack of good cards than to the surfeit of bad ones. It would not matter too much how many bad ones there were, so long as tourists could get better ones. This is a problem which the Chamber of Commerce might look into; it is probably too amorphous a task for any one business firm or tourist resort to undertake. And it seems that commercial firms specializing in the picture post card business do not give a hoot about raising the quality of their Peterborough and Kawartha cards, or think it is not profitable to do so. Profitable or not, better cards should be available.

Korea In Course

The Korean war is beginning to assume the public trade-marks of any war. There is the shock of it starting, the bewilderment and lack of adequate information. Then follows the new localized geography: a hundred million people who had never heard of Seoul (or ten years ago of Tobruk, or 35 years ago of Ypres, or 140 years ago of Waterloo), now talk about it, perhaps a little unhandily in their pronunciation. Then there is a re-assessment of the quality of the enemy troops. When one's own side is not making spectacular progress and the enemy may be, it is the duty of pride in friendly troops to point out that the enemy are not to be sneezed at. At the same time come the other bolsters of patriotism, true stories of atrocities. So seven Americans have been found with their hands tied, and shot in the face. Then it is important that the real importance of the war and stature of the opposing country be emphasized, because no nation goes to war for meagre or ignoble reasons. Korea is no longer to be considered a "tiny republic," as the Toronto Globe and Mail has pointed out. The area of Korea is 85,000 square miles — that is, of the whole peninsula. South Korea, the republic which the U.S.A. and U.N. are defending, is about 45 per cent of the whole, therefore about twice as large as Nova Scotia, or a tenth the size of Ontario. The capital, Seoul, has a population variously estimated to be between 750,000 and 2,000,000. We must also point out that the entire peninsula is little more than 600 miles long and 150 miles wide.

After the first alarums, the first cries, the new geography and the fresh evaluations of stature and equipment, come the long periods of advances and withdrawals, line-forming and breaking, bombing and shelling. It is then that a war fails to occupy all the headlines and all of the front page. The Korean war is now reaching this stage, unfortunately. We say unfortunately not because we like war headlines, but because the Korean war seems to be settling into a hard, longish and awkward campaign of difficult if not grandiose proportions.

Prime Minister Cowboy

The West may be big and breezy, and Calgary high, wide and handsome during its Stampede week. But brashness can be carried too far, beyond the bounds of decorum. It seems to us an impertinence to ask or expect a gentleman with the age, position and dignity of Prime Minister St. Laurent to don a cowboy suit and parade in a chuck-waggon down a city street. It may all be hearty, clean fun and a good publicity stunt for the promoters of the Stampede, but it is not the sort of thing the Prime Minister could relish, nor that most Canadians would expect of him. When Mr. St. Laurent came to Peterborough six weeks ago on an official centenary-year visit, he was not expected to paddle a Peterborough canoe along the Trent Canal, or even to sit in one dressed in sports clothes for the benefit of this tourist-conscious Kawartha district. He rode in a limousine and was clothed impeccably as a Canadian statesman is expected to dress. There has been altogether too much decking of distinguished visitors in locomotive-drivers' caps, Indian chieftains' headgear, Royal Order of the Ancient Mook's earrings or aprons, and playboys' cowboy breeches. Such men must not be required to turn themselves into gewgaws to prove that they are one-with-the-crowd, in the worst American fashion. The fact that they have achieved eminence and the confidence of the citizens shows that they are not merely one of the crowd. Why make them pretend to be? Our political democracy should not demand that distinguished men be demeaned to the status of circus riders and invested with the frippery of sideshowmen, commercial-boosters or horse-buddies.

Mounties On Parade

The scarlet tunic of the R.C.M.P., familiar to generations of children the world over who read how the Mounties 'always get their man', is now as scarce as the Mounties' horses. Nowadays the Mounties sleuth in the north-west by jeep and plane, and in dungarees or drab uniforms. They police the southern provinces in automobiles and finger-print files. But for the sake of the goggle-eyed and with a bow to the past, some horses are kept and some of the uniforms. Both are displayed at strategic tourist points.

At the Banff station an R.C.M.P. constable in the full glory of his traditional cap and scarlet is always on view as trains pull in. Mounties similarly attired regularly appear at Parliament Hill in Ottawa. They are the cynosures of all tourist cameras. The horse is missing. However, the tourist-loving authorities in Ottawa are repairing that omission. This year a Mountie, mounted, will promenade in front of the Parliament Buildings Mondays to Fridays for several hours every morning and afternoon, unless the weather is too hot. And so the picture which appears on many tourist pamphlets will be brought to life; the Mountie and his horse against the background of the Peace Tower.

Let no one imagine that we disapprove of this fol-de-rol. We applaud it. Canada needs all the traditions and colour which are rightfully hers. The Mounties give both. The Tower of London keeps its beef-eaters, Chelsea its uniformed pensioners, the Papacy its Swiss Guards, Venice its gondoliers, and Japan its geisha girls. Let Ottawa and Banff and other resorts of tourists keep their R.C.M.P. decked in scarlet, and mounted.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Japanese name for Korea is Chosen; the chosen people of the Cold War gods.

The Governor General is spending the next weeks touring in Alberta. Ottawa putting on the heat, or Calgary stampeding?

Premier Frost said that his Government will not listen to "ultimatums" from employee representatives who are not civil servants. Is it a case that when government servants become unionized they cease to be civil?

Chit-Chat On Korea

(From The New Yorker)

NOBODY knows for sure where the earliest inhabitants of Korea came from. The best bet is that they wandered down out of northern Manchuria. The present inhabitants are of predominantly Monogloid stock, with some admixture of southern blood, probably Malay. They tend to resemble Japanese, but they are an inch or two taller—the average Korean male is just over five feet four — and have lighter skins and heavier beards. Some Koreans have brown hair. The first European visitors to Korea noted that the natives looked more like white men than other Asiatics did. There's no record that the Koreans were especially pleased to hear it. Their own accounts of the founding of Korea vary. One legend has it that about four millenniums ago a god came down to earth in the form of a gust of wind and breathed on a virgin he found sitting by a stream. The virgin bore a son, Tangun, who established the kingdom of Chosen, or Land of Morning Calm. Chosen is the Japanese name for Korea. Tangun reigned for a thousand years, then ascended to Heaven. According to another story, Korea was founded by a Chinese sage named Kija, in what we reckon as the year 1122 B.C. The word "Korea" comes from "Korai," which is supposed to have been the name of a prehistoric kindom in Manchuria.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Korean language belongs to the Turanian group, which includes Turkish, Hungarian, Estonian, and Finnish. It's an agglutinative language, full of suffixes. By changing the suffix, you can make a single verb express surprise, reproof, desire, promise, exhortation, doubt, intention, contempt, boredom or just plain sleepiness. The verb "hata," meaning "to do," has nine hundred forms. Some suffixes are used only in speech and others only in writing, which makes it nearly impossible to set down conversation verbatim. Like Japanese, Korean has different honorific forms of address to indicate the precise social standing of the speaker and the person spoken to. It's wholly unlike Chinese, though many Chinese words have been imported over the years and most of Korea's classic literature was written in Chinese ideographs. In the fifteenth century, one King Sejong set up a Bureau of the Alphabet, with the idea of working out a simple phonetic alphabet. The Bureau's scholars produced an alphabet with twenty-six characters. It's said to be one of the best alphabets in the world, as alphabets go. Movable metal type was invented in Korea in 1403, nearly fifty years before it was in use in Europe.

◇ ◇ ◇

BECAUSE of the way Korea juts down into the Yellow Sea, between Japan and the mainland of Asia, it has always been a favourite target for invasion. In 589 A.D., a Chinese army of three hundred thousand men invaded Korea and was repulsed. The Chinese emperor then assembled a million men to go back and do the job right. He equipped them chiefly with banners, drums, and trumpets, which proved ineffective, and they, too, were given the heave-ho. In 1231, the Mongols occupied Korea and forced the natives to build them a fleet in which to invade Japan. When the invasion failed, the Mongols pulled out of Korea and headed west. The Japanese tried invading Korea in the sixteenth century, and the Koreans had to call in the Chinese to help them fight off the Japanese. Later, the Koreans were overrun by Manchus. This constant serving as a doormat for other countries made the Koreans understandably touchy. As late as 1880, there were signs on their highways reading, "If you meet a foreigner, kill him. He who has any friendly relations with a foreigner is a traitor to his country." This was four years after the Korean government had established diplomatic relations with Japan, formally making contact with the outside world. In 1883, the United States signed a treaty with Korea, and the missionaries started pouring in. There are now around half a million Christians in Korea, which has a population of thirty million, but the religion of most Koreans is still a combination of ancestor worship and primitive animism, which requires continual propitation of any number of local and household gods, the great majority of whom are evil demons.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Thirty-eighth Parallel roughly bisects Korea. Southern Korea covers forty-four per cent. of the area of the whole country but has twice the population of Northern Korea and more than half of the natural resources. It's also considered more important strategically. The Thirty-eighth Parallel was never intended to be a boundary line between separate states. In August, 1945, just before American troops entered Korea, the Russians were already approximately as far south as the Thirty-eighth Parallel. A line had to be drawn defining the areas of responsibility for accepting Japanese prisoners of war; the American and Russian military commanders agreed on the Thirty-eighth Parallel, and their respective governments later confirmed the decision. As in Germany, the military line turned into a political one.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Thirty-eighth Parallel has figured in history before. In the eighteen-nineties, the Japanese and the Russians were competing for influence in Korea, which was then nominally an independent kingdom, though dominated by Japan. In 1895, the Queen of Korea, an outspokenly anti-Japanese lady, was assassinated by Japanese strong-arm men, and a few months later the King of Korea, fearing a similar fate, disguised himself as a woman and made his way to the Russian Legation at Seoul, where he was welcomed with enthusiasm. The Japanese thereupon proposed that Korea be partitioned into two protectorates, divided by the Thirty-eighth Parallel, the northern protectorate to be Russian and the southern to be Japanese. Russia turned the offer down, partly because it expected to get all of Korea sooner or later. After the Russo-Japanese War, in 1904-05, Korea became a Japanese protectorate.

◇ ◇ ◇

KOREA is six hundred and fifty miles long, and two hundred miles wide at the Thirty-eighth Parallel. The terrain is mountainous, with scattered low hills and plains. It is well wooded, with oak, maple, juniper, and mulberry trees, and gets forty inches of rain a year. Most of this rain falls in the short rainy season, which begins about this time of year and runs through August. The Thirty-eighth Parallel is in the heart of the Temperate Zone, just six degrees and fifty-eight minutes south of the mid-point between the Arctice Circle and the Tropic of Cancer. It hits the coast of California at Point Reyes, thirty miles northwest of San Francisco, and enters the Atlantic at Assateague Island, Virginia, a hundred and twenty miles northeast of Richmond.

Chief Author of the Schuman Plan

(Winnipeg Free Press)

IN view of the intense interest aroused everywhere by the Schuman Plan for a European coal-steel pool, it is curious that so little attention has been paid to the man credited with being its chief author. The economist, M. Jean Monnet, is unquestionably one of the most influential men in France but he does not figure directly in politics nor, except in Communist literature, in the speculations surrounding successive Cabinet shuffles and changes.

M. Monnet, whose family is in the brandy business, first attracted favourable attention when at the outset of the first world war he was instrumental in persuading the British and French to set up a joint system of grain purchasing. In the 30's he was deputy to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations; an experience which doubtless coloured much of his later career. Thus in 1940, after serving as head of the Anglo-French purchasing mission in the United States, he intervened in the Bordeaux crisis in a vain attempt to persuade the French Cabinet to accept Mr. Churchill's offer of Anglo-French union. It may be noted also that the present Schuman Plan, though an economic arrangement, is defended by the French not primarily because of its economic but because of its political implications.

Behind all the Cabinet changes in France there has been a fairly consistent economic policy based upon a recovery effort which goes by the name of the Monet Plan. This has of course made M. Monnet a prime target of the Communists. It has also made him a central figure in the life of postwar France and it is therefore noteworthy that the present momentous project for ending the Franco-German feud should bear his stamp and engage his backing though it does not carry his name.

"Land Of Hope"

(St. Catharines Standard)

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has just issued a fine pamphlet, subject matter excellently covered: "Canada — Land of Hope." We are not so sure that the title could not have been improved upon. Wouldn't it have been better to have framed it: "Canada—Land of Reality." To dwell too much on the hopeful outlook in Canada is to discount the tremendous strides made in the last decade.

Excellent as the C. of C. pamphlet is, there is a fly in the ointment. It gives a wrong spelling of the name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, spelling the Christian name as 'Wilfred.' This annoys The Ottawa Journal, which calls attention also to the wrong spelling in four different ways, of the name in letters in books, wood, carved in stone, of Sir John Macdonald. Mac with a small d and a big d; mc with a small d and a big d. Our contemporary rightly says, "not, perhaps that anybody cares; least of all Laurier and Macdonald. Still...."

It is again a reminder that there is no place name in Canada or the United States spelled inaccurately as often as the name of St. Catharines. Letters pour into The Standard office addressed to St. CathErines. And what can be done about that?

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

There was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews: the same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.

Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again.

The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit....

Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness. If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly things? (John 3: 1-8, 11, 12.)

◇ ◇ ◇

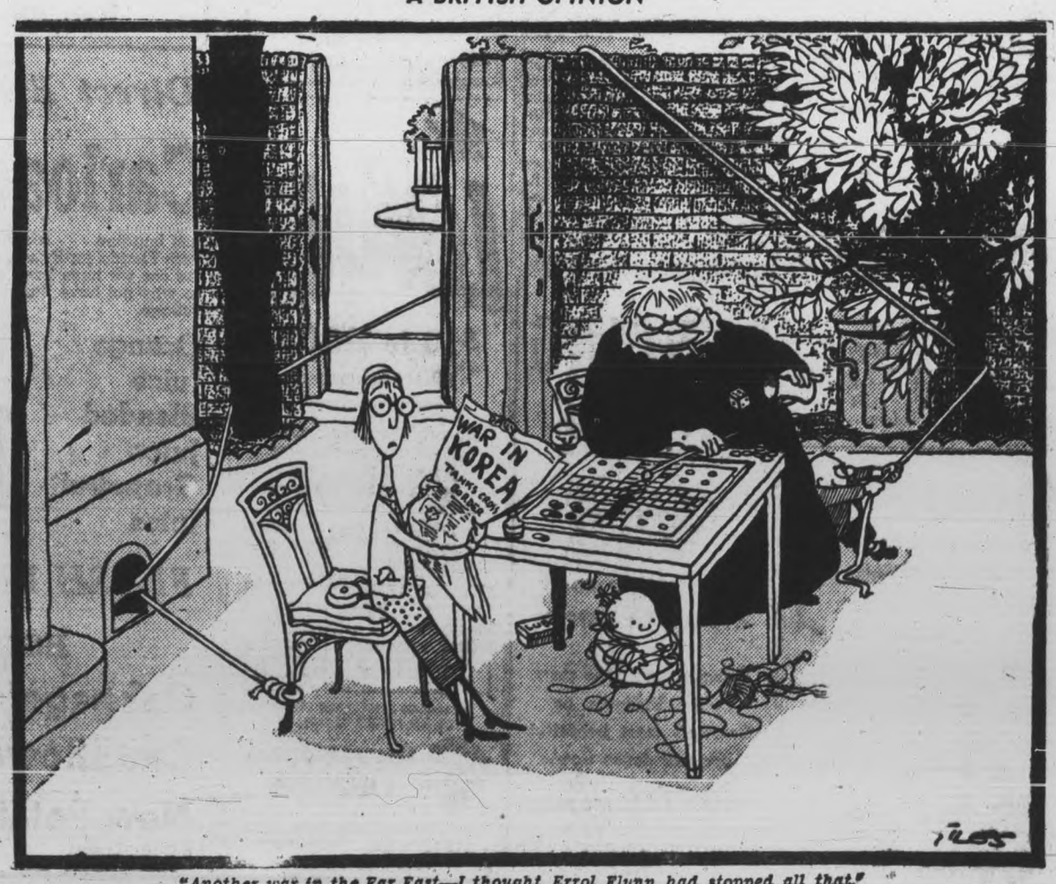
Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. (Matt. 11: 28, 29.)

Women's Votes

(St. Catharines Standard)

One direct result of women voting is a very heavy increase in the election bill of the country, federal and provincial. And another direct result, is the headache to party managers. Running a campaign is not as simple as in the old days, when men's noses could be counted whereas now there is the whole household. It is true that there is no longer open bribery, the mass vote is too great for that sort of thing, but there is a tremendous increase in patronage in federal affairs, and patronage dispensation while open and honest enough has the same effect in vote-getting as bribery.

A BRITISH OPINION



"Another war in the Far East—I thought Errol Flynn had stopped all that."

Expert Sees Warmer World

MONTREAL, July 12 (CP) — Dr. T. W. M. Cameron, director of the Institute of Parasitology at nearby Macdonald College, told a joint meeting of the Canadian Home Economics Association and the Canadian Dietetic Association Tuesday night that if the world is really entering one of the warmer epochs of its history, Canada will become completely habitable.

Canada's northern portion would be the active cultural centre of the North American continent and although all her present great ports would be under water, the country would benefit, he said.

"For more than a century now the swing has been toward a warmer world with a recession of glaciers and a spread of the tropics. Statistics prove this point. ."

Crux of the population problem was the food supply science could make available and the crucial factor was nitrogen, problems that undoubtedly could be overcome.

Car Snaps Off Pole 5 Have Narrow Escape

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—Five youths from Ormond, Ont., had a near escape with death Monday night when the car in which they were riding careened across the highway 18 miles south of here, leaped 40 feet through the air and snapped off a telephone pole.

Slight injuries were suffered by Elmer Jorgensen, 17, Leslie Sheldrick, 19, Patrick Cronin, 19, and Raymond Meldrum, 18. Alan Carkner, 19, was unhurt.

Meldrum, driving the 1929 model car, told police he lost control when the lights suddenly went off.

Falls Down Well Grapple For Body

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., July 12 (AP)—Albert Stone, 27, of Rock Springs, was trying to recover drilling equipment from a 1,100-foot air shaft Tuesday when he disappeared in the depths of the well.

The shaft is about two feet in diameter, just big enough for passage of a body.

At a depth of 385 feet it narrows to 20 inches in diameter.

It was believed impossible he could still be alive but grappling hooks were lowered in an attempt to save him.

Go After Mosquitos

HAMILTON, July 12 (CP) — Hamilton's anti-mosquito campaign is being mechanized. Jeeps, aircraft, and an autogyro are used in spraying of insect breeding-grounds in and around Hamilton.

INJURED US PILOT, Lt. Edwin Johnson, of Seattle, is treated at Suwon in South Korea after he bailed out of his damaged jet P-80. Johnson's plane was hit by anti-aircraft fire during a strafing mission over the Han river. He managed to get the plane back over Suwon before bailing out. Suwon is now in the hands of North Koreans.

50% Hydro Power Located In 2 Provinces

LONDON, July 12 (CP)—Fifty per cent of Canada's hydro-electric power is concentrated in the industrial provinces of Ontario and Quebec, the fourth world power conference was told Tuesday.

Dr. Otto Holden, assistant general manager (engineering) of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, made this point in discussing one of 26 technical papers presented at the second day of the 47-country conference, which ends Friday.

Dr. Holden said Canada is fortunate in the distribution of its hydro-electric power, since no other sources of energy are available in Ontario and Quebec.

Silent Hunters

VICTORIA, B.C.—(CP).—After being kept out of the province's forests for two years, 20th-century Robin Hoods can once more stalk big game and grouse with a bow and arrow. A regular hunting licence and a bow of at least a 40-pound pull are required. Poisons and explosive arrowheads are prohibited.

Doctors Discover That Younger Mothers Give Children Longer Years Of Life

LIEGE, Belgium, July 12 (AP) —The younger your mother was when you were born, the longer you may expect to live, a new study shows.

If she was 20 or 25, you may get 10 to 15 years more of life than if she was 40.

It does not make any difference how old your father was.

His age at your birth does not count in offering you these extra years of life.

This peculiar effect of a mother's age on her children's length of life was reported Tuesday by Dr. Eeva Jalavisto, professor of physiology at the University of Helsinki, Finland, to the first conference of gerontology—the study of aging.

Dr. Jalavisto studied the birth and death records of 18,000 Swedish and Finnish men and women born between the years 1600 and 1850.

A child born when the mother was 24 or younger lived an average of six or seven years longer than a child born to a woman of 40 or more, she said.

Vansittart Quits Committee Job

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters)—Lord Vansittart and three other British members resigned Tuesday from the international committee for the study of European questions, which last week was reported to have suggested using the atomic bomb to end the Korean war.

The committee, an unofficial body, in a report addressed to prime ministers, foreign secretaries and chiefs of staff of the western powers, was said to have proposed using the atomic bomb—after due warning—to put an immediate end to the North Korean or any other aggression.

The four British members, Lord Vansittart, Lord Brabazon of Tara and Martin Lindsay and Ernest Marplies, both Conservative members of parliament, announced their resignations in a joint letter to The Times.

Says Winnipeg Flood Like Bombing Attack

MONTREAL, July 12 (CP) — Winnipeg, during the Red river flood, faced all the problems that would plague a big city after a bombing attack, George V. Ferguson, editor of the Montreal Star, said here Tuesday.

Mr. Ferguson, speaking at a Kiwanis Club meeting, called for greater awareness of the need for civilian defence in every Canadian city.

"During the period of three weeks," he said, "Winnipeg faced all the problems—bridges and highways knocked out or threatened, hospitals flooded, communications and supply lines slowed."

Urges Church Council Continue Refugee Aid

TORONTO, July 12 (CP) — Continuing aid for European refugees was urged on the World Council of Churches Tuesday by Dr. Robert Mackie, associate general secretary of the Council and director of the council's department of church aid and service.

He told the general committee of the council that there still are 500,000 displaced persons in Europe and there would be refugees moving to other countries until the middle of 1951.

"We may be scraping the bottom of the barrel," he said, "but many of those remaining are among our best men and women."

TEA SERVICE IN PARKS: "Are there any parks in Toronto where we can make our own tea for a small picnic? We are driving over from Niagara Falls and meeting our family's friends."

The City Parks Commission tells us that several of Toronto's parks have facilities for making your own tea. You of course bring the tea, and they will supply the hot water. Three of the largest parks—High Park, Exhibition Park and Kew Gardens—all have these facilities.

HORSESHOE FAN: "We have just recently moved to a house in the Toronto suburbs which has a large lot. I am anxious to teach my boys to pitch horseshoes, something we always did on the farm when I was a boy. Could you tell me where I could get the stakes, horseshoes and instructions. Also how much will it cost?"

The Harold A. Wilson Company at 299 Yonge Street in Toronto has them. A set of four horseshoes costs $2.65, two stakes cost $1.50 and the instructions are included.

BUDGET HONEYMOON: "My fiance and I are being married in August. We have $200 to spend on a honeymoon. Could you suggest some place for us to go which will not be too expensive but which will still be a nice trip?"

If I were you I'd head for the Laurentians. There are a dozen towns and villages up that main highway where you can live inexpensively and beautifully.

National League Downs Americans 4-3 In Greatest All-Star Game

By JOE REICHLER

CHICAGO, July 12.—(APP).—Red Schoendienst, Andy Pafko, Larry Jansen, Ewell Blackwell. These are the names on everybody's lips following Tuesday's 14-inning 4-3 victory by the National League over the favorite American Leaguers "in the greatest of all 17 all-star games." Manager Burt Shotton, Enos Slaughter and Ralph Kiner also sparkled as the victory-starved Nationals won for the first time since 1944. Schoendienst was the big hero, of course. It was his home run in the top of the 14th that broke up the three-hour and 19-minute struggle—the first extra-inning affair in all-star competition.

Schoendienst, like the immortal Babe Ruth, called his shot.

"I'm going to end this thing right now," he told teammates Walker Cooper and Murry Dickson as he selected a bat. "Watch me hit one into the upper seats."

The scrawny - looking 160-pounder from St. Louis has hit only three home runs all season in 73 games In 1946 he went through the season without hitting any.

Only Time At Bat

Schoendienst, a personal Shotton pick because of his defensive wizardry and his ability to fill in at either second, third of short, was batting righthanded against southpaw Ted Gray, of Detroit. He is a switch hitter. It was his only time at bat during the game.

Pafko saved the game in the bottom half of the 12th with a sensational catch of pinch hitter Tommy Henrich's terrific clout that appeared labelled "home run" the instant the ball left the bat.

Jansen pitched near-perfect ball in a five-hitting tenure, the longest National League stint by one pitcher since Lon Warneke hurled four innings in 1934. He allowed only one hit—a handle-hit single—and struck out six men in shutting out the American Leaguers from the seventh through the 11th innings.

Blackwell came close to matching Jansen's performance, holding the American Leaguers to a lone hit in three shutout innings. The long, lean Cincinnati right-hander sent the near-capacity Comiskey Park crowd of 46,127 home limp from exhaustion when he wound up things by forcing the great Joe DiMaggio to slap into a game-ending double play.

Covered With Glory

Nearly all of the National Leaguers who apeared in the line-up covered themselves with glory. There was the brilliant catch by Slaughter of Walt Dropo's second-inning clout that appeared headed over the centre-field wall. There was Kiner's home run that tied up the game in the ninth inning.

Slaughter also shone on offence. His triple in the second inning set up two runs.

It's impossible to overlook Shotton, the abused pilot.

Booed unmercifully at his pre-game introduction for his intended benching of Hank Sauer in favor of his own Duke Snider, Shotton redeemed himself in the eyes of the fans with his strategic moves.

His 11th-hour centrefield switch from Sauer to Slaughter paid off in the second inning when Enos made his glittering catch. His move of Slaughter to right and Pafko to centre in the middle of the game set the stage for Andy's game-saving grab.

Brilliant Selections

Criticized for placing Kiner second in the batting order, Shotton proved he was right when Ralph blasted his ninth-inning homer. Had the Pittsburgh slugger been in sixth spot as Shotton had him in the orginal line-up, Ralph probably never would have had another chance to hit. Not even Shotton's severest critics could question his pitching selections.

Not even unfortunate injuries to Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio two of the American League's brightest stars, failed to dim the happiness of league president Ford Frick and company.

Williams, who made two glittering catches to take two hits away from Kiner, bruised his left arm in the first inning when he banged into the left field wall to haul in a Kiner smash.

DiMaggio pulled a muscle in his right groin in attempting to prevent the game-ending double play.

"The pain shot up my body with every step I took," he said. "but I couldn't stop running. I knew it meant the ball game. I'm afraid I won't be able to play tomorrow."

Williams Hero

Williams, a.450 All-Star hitter in seven previous All-Star tilts, almost emerged the hero again. His fifth-innings single scored Larry Doby to put the Americans in front, 3-2.

Gray was the fifth of six American League pitchers. The other homer also was charged to a Tiger hurler—righthander Art Houtteman. The Nationals' first two runs were scored at the expense of starter Vic Raschi, of New York Yankees. The others—Cleveland's Bob Lemon and Bob Feller and New York's Allie Reynolds—pitched scoreless ball.

Before Jansen took over, the Nationals used Philadelphia's Robin Roberts and Jim Konstanty and Brooklyn's Don Newcombe. Roberts, the starter, gave up one run in three innings. Newcombe was tagged for two in two. Konstanty, Jansen and Blackwell shut the Americans out in the last nine innings.

The day's receipts of $126.179.51 was a record. After expenses are deducted, the cash goes to the players' pension fund.

Brampton Boys Take Tilt In Junior OLA

By FRED MAYBEE

Brampton juniors came from behind at Miller Bowl last night to defeat Peterborough 16-9 in a fast, well-played lacrosse game.

Jack Sibbald, speedy, elusive defence star, led Excelsiors with four goals and one assist, while Blakely and Sutherland each had three points.

Had A Margin

Peterborough held a margin in play in the first half and led 6-5 going into the third period. At this point however, Brampton went on the offensive and pumped five goals past Hickson after Gary Robinson had put his team two up at 3.07. Each team added another to give the visitors an 11-8 margin to start the fourh in which they put five more back of Nicholls with only one reply by Heffernan. It was a nice game to watch from a spectator's standpoint with plenty of action.

Heffernan and O'Reilly each scored two goals and an assist while Gary Robinson had one and one and Batley, Wyatt, B. Robinson and Burns scored single goals to lead Filter Queens. Lou Vitarelli's boys are looking better each time out.

Third baseman Alex Garbowski hit his first home run of the year for Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday night to give the Leafs a 5-3 exhibition game victory over the parent Philadelphia Phillies of the National League.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Toronto Dovers are the opposition for the Petes at 6.45 tonight in Riverside Park. An important Viaduct Major League ball fray, important to both clubs as they battle for a playoff berth in a loop that is getting tougher as the schedule wears on. It's just anyone's guess as to what local twirler gets the call, Manager Ed Murphy being uncertain himself till he sees how they go in the pre-game warm-up. He wants this one and will throw a pitcher out of turn if he figures that guy's got it at the time. Should be a dandy duel and will likely draw a big twilight crowd, being the first evening ball game this season.

* * * * * *

A switch occurred yesterday in the local lacrossers' senior schedule, the Torontos getting the okay to play here Wednesday—instead of in Toronto on Tuesday. So there's an OLA senior struggle at 8.45 tonight in Miller Bowl, and ball fans can get down there in time to view the gutted-stick game, also, if they wish. The Creighton crew should take this one to stay up there in second place with Brampton, as they've been playing solid lacrosse their last several starts. But it might be a rugged and keen enough contest ere the end. And a hefty gallery will probably be on deck for this joust.

That Superman Cape

There's another reporter by the name of Clark Kent but—unlike us—he doesn't have to worry about being in two places at one time. Just dons a cape and lo, he is Superman. We lack such a cape and must confine ourself to one spot at a time. Though, we can do the ball game tonight and still get there for most of the boxla tussle. Fortunately, our friend and assistant, Fred Maybee, is usually available for a hurry-up call, so he won't have tonight off. It makes it tough all around when two major attractions are on tap the same evening, doesn't it?

Johnny Russelle reminds us that Bill Durnan's Montrealers will be playing the Mutuals, not the local all-stars, in that softball exhibition here Saturday night. He also tells us that Charlie Justice and his catcher will come down free gratis to play for Mutuals on July 29 against Oshawa Pedlars. It seems that Normie Bagnell and his buddies—Normie is with Pedlars — have hinted that Justice of Tip Tops is afraid to pitch against Bagnell, who is rated a pretty classy flinger. But the big Negro speedballer resents this quite considerably and will be on deck to show Bagnell and the Pedlars. Incidentally, Justice figures Al Menzies a mighty fine catcher. Al chipped a bone in his foot Saturday and will be sidelined for some time.

Orphans Roll Home

Orphans finally hit the jackpot at the Bowl last p.m. in the men's softball loop to beat UEW 5-1 in a fine fray, Burt Harrison pitching 'em to the win. Mutuals were crowded plenty by East ere gaining a 9-7 nod to finish off a neat twin bill before a crowd that is growing as playoffs approach. The standing remains the same and it'll be UE and East City in the semi-finals early in August. Some promising material in the luckless Orphans' lineup, including Bill Crowley who had eight putouts in centre. Richardson and Byers led them at bat as Taylor topped UEW. Giardino, Crowe and Dalton were the mean men with the maces for Mutuals, as Doris, Sullivan, Curry and Wade were clouting the ball hard for the Ashburnhamites. Another double-header on Thursday, Orphans vs. Mutuals, and UE vs. East City.

* * * * * *

With the arrival of the new poles for the floodlights in Riverside Park, the meeting between the Baseball Commission and the Utilities was called off last p.m., though they may hold a huddle later. It is hoped to get early action now in having the arcs placed so that night ball may be staged. The Petes have a busy week-end coming up with Staffords here on Saturday (the Oshawa team obtained a switch in dates), the locals going to the Motor City on Friday p.m. and to New Toronto on Monday. Still a little thin on pitching strength for the gruelling grind, and with Al Menzies out for a couple of weeks, the men o' Murphy face a severe test for the next week or two. But, anyway, they crave the lights shortly.

Mutuals Down East City In Neat Game

Mutuals yanked out a 9-7 City Softball League decision over East City before a fair-sized crowd at the Bowl last night. It was a tight tussle throughout with the Ashburnham crew having a 6-4 margin the first while as they shelled out Don Bigford but George Hunter put out the fire and Mutuals gradually took command. Lefty Doris pitched a good game, and both sides kicked the apple around at times. The fans stayed right to the finish of this one, which left Mutuals well on top with East City still a game behind the second-place UEW team.

Giardino led the winners at bat with a homer and two singles in four tries, as Dalton had three for five and Crowe a triple and two singles in five appearances. Doris and Sullivan each had two in four for East City, and Curry and Wade two for five each. Sullivan and Doris clouted homers, and Sullivan also had a double, Wade clicking for two two-baggers.

Orphans Eke Out 5-1 Win Against UEW At Bowl

Downing UEW 5-1 at the Bowl last night, the Orphans finally broke into the victory column in the men's softball loop standing. They played errorless ball behind six-hit hurling by Burt Harrison and hit in timely style to earn the verdict. The losers were a little loose in the field, but Ken Hall threw steady ball, both pitchers giving out five walks. UE were blanked after the first frame, though threatening at times after that, a double-play nipping off a threat in the fifth. Vic Griffin pulled off a good catch for the losers.

Richardson, who hit a homer and double the previous game, led the victors this time with two for four, while Byers had two in five, a triple and double. Taylor got two in four to top the UEW squad, as Mackness, White, and Thomson hit doubles, the latter in a pinch-hitter role. This game did not materially affect the standing, leaving UEW in second place and Orphans in fourth.

Shotton Proves Clever Pilot Despite Boos

CHICAGO, July 12—(AP)—The little man in grey slacks, white shirt and polka-dot tie stepped out of the dugout.

Boos from some 46,000 fans thundered out of the Comiskey Park grandstand.

But Burt Shotton, 65-year-old manager of the National League All-Stars, broke into a wide smile.

He beamed for three minutes, just standing there, as if waiting for his picture to be snapped Then came a rippling of applause.

Shotton, manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, replaced his cap, stepped jauntily back into the dugout and directed the senior league's All-Stars to a sparkling 14-inning victory over the American League All-Stars.

Out Of System

Never in the history of the mid-summer classic had there been such adverse reaction from fans when a manager was introduced in pre-game ceremonies.

The boos came from the Chicago crowd because several days previously Shotton had tried to replace outfielder Hank Sauer of Chicago Cubs, and the fans' starting choice in the country-wide poll, with his own Brooklyn player, Duke Snider.

After the game the happy Shotton said:

"I stood out there long enough with my hat off to let them get all the boos out of their systems. I wanted to win this game in the worst way—and with the kind of players I had I couldn't fail."

Shotton topped his actions with a neat gesture in the fifth inning.

He yanked Sauer and sent in the Cubs' Andy Pafko. He did this in face of his aim to start Snider, who eventually was inserted as a pinch hitter in the 12th.

What the fans didn't know was that before the game Sauer went to Shotton and grabbed his hand.

Nationals Jubilant

The Nationals were jubilant after winning for only the fifth time in the all-star series.

But you would have thought the cocky, jesting American Leaguers were the victors. There was no gloom in their quarters.

Joe DiMaggio was the only dejected player in evidence He ended what may be his last all-star assignment by hitting into a double play to close out the game in the 14th round. Trying to run it out, the Yankee Clipper aggravated a groin injury suffered on Sunday against Boston Red Sox.

Veteran observers agreed that the 17th all-star game, the first one to be carried into extra innings, was the greatest ever played It had the pleasing combination of excellent pitching, thrilling hits (when they came) and sensational, circus catches in the outfield.

It also had Burt Shotton—the booed boss who thoroughly vindicated himself and won the hearts of the fans before he was finished.

They pushed over three runs each in the first and fourth innings, two apiece in the third and sixth, with four counting in the fifth. Crescents Whip Weston 11-4

By The Canadian Press

Owen Sound are making a runaway race of the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series.

Crescents boosted their league-leadership Tuesday night by walloping the lowly Weston Lions 11-4 at Weston. The game was a dull affair, Crescents taking a slim edge at the half and walking away in the last two periods.

Don Campbell, shifty Crscent rover, showed polish around the nets to pot four goals for the winners, the others being distributed among Doug Gillespie, Don McWhirter, Bain, A. Smith, S. Smith, Bill Allum and Marlowe Woods.

For Lions, Allwell, Pop Chard, White and Southwell scored single goals.

Bethany Triumphs

BETHANY, July 12 (ENS) — Bethany beat Blackstock 8-5 here Monday in a North Durham League series. Edmunds pitched well as his side got a run each in the first and second, adding six in the fourth. Hastings Victors

Hastings Legion tightened their hold on third place in the TVL defeating Trenton 8-5 at Trenton. Crowley on the mound for Hastings showed his old form, allowing but five hits and setting down six on strikeouts. He was given good support, and Scriver, who ran out to right field to take a ball over his shoulder and Phillips with a fine diving catch in left field supplied the fielding gems of the game.

Curtis pitched fine ball for Trenton giving up but six hits and striking out 10, but his support was poor, his teammates bobbing 10 behind him. In the ninth inning with the score at 5-5 Legion crossed the plate three times on four errors and a walk. Trenton returns to Hastings Friday.

Hastings: Fife 1b, Morrow 3b Crowley p, Scott c, Beavis ss, Richardson cf, Phillips lf Scriver 8b, Thomas rf.

Canada's Hopes In Tennis Rests On Macken

MONTREAL, July 12—(CP)—Canada's hopes of victory in a singles match against Australia in the North American Davis Cup tennis matches rest with veteran Brendan Macken, of Montreal.

That is the feeling of many observers as the Canadians and Australians hold daily practice sessions for the opening singles matches Friday.

The strong Australian foursome, Jack Bromwich, Frank Sedgman, Ken McGreggor and Mervyn Rose, are paying noticeable attention to 27-year-old Macken as he brushes up on his strokes.

The "blonde wizard" himself remains non-commital on his chances with either Sedgman or McGregor, the two top Australian players who are almost certain to draw starting singles assignments.

Macken, who recently captured the West Jersey championship in the United States and is making his fifth appearance with the Canadian squad, believes he is playing the best tennis of his career and "I should be in there all the way."

Last year he came through with an unset victory in the Davis Cup matches, defeating Australia's Billy Sidwell in five sets.

Yesterday, the Canadians went through a torrid tune-up session despite slippery grass courts caused by a slight drizle.

Victory High Wins At Wasaga Beach

Stanley Blewett's Victory High at Wasaga Beach last week won two harness races of three straight heats, on Tuesday and Saturday nights.

The gelding, which Mr. Blewett has owned two years, is totally blind. Mr. Blewett said the horse has been handled very well in all the heats by Jim McIntyre of London St.

The Wasaga Beach track was opened this year by Roy and Charlie Conacher of hockey fame. It is well laid out, but needs a year to settle, Mr. Blewett said.

Another horse owned by Mr. Blewett is Vivian McKinney which has placed no better than fourth racing at the Thorncliffe track in Toronto. Mr. Blewett is going to Toronto this week to see if he can start the mare on winning ways.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Officials of Toronto's Thorncliffe Raceway announced Tuesday that the $15,000 Canadian Cup Pace will be contested Aug. 11. Originally Canada's richest harness racing event had been scheduled for Aug. 9.

Officials said the change was made because the Canadian cup would have conflicted with the renewal of the Hambletonian at Goshen, N. Y.

The purse of $15,000 is the largest ever offered for a harness race in this country. It equals the largest purse ever posted for the King's Plate, the premier event in the Canadian running-horse game.

Entries for the Canadian Cup were closed March 21. Forty-one horses were named for the event, feature of the inaugural 42-day meeting at Thorncliffe.

Among the entries was Jerry The First, which won the $50,000 pace at Santa Anita. Almost 50 per cent of the horses named are owned in the United States.

Bob Baker, undefeated Pittsburgh heavyweight, ran his victory string to 17 straight Tuesday night as he scored a technical knockout over Bill Weinberg of Boston in 1:29 of the fourth round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Civic Arena in Pittsburgh. Baker weighed 202, Weinberg 210.

Canada will enter 15 to 25 Jewish athletes for the first time in the third Maccabean games in Israel Sept. 25-Oct. 9, Jack Klein, chairman of the Canadian Maccabean committee, announced at Montreal Tuesday.

The ten round non-title fight between lightweight champion Ike Williams and welterweight George (Sugar) Costner, scheduled for Tuesday night at Shibe Park in Philadelphia, was postponed for the second time because of rain.

The fight, together with three other ten rounders, originally was scheduled to be held Monday night.

The Lee Oma-Nick Barone heavyweight fight, rained out at Buffalo Tuesday night in Civic Stadium, was rescheduled for July 25.

The Fairview Athletic Club said it has made arrangements to hold the fight on the new date regardless of weather. If it rains, the 10-round bout will be shifted to Memorial Auditorium.

Mighty Fine won the $5,000 Saratoga two-year-old trot, featured grand circuit event at Saratoga Raceway, in 2:23 2-5 over a heavy track Tuesday night.

Imperial Siskiyou Tuesday night won the featured Greenport pace at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury, N. Y.

John Dennis reined the four-year-old bay across the line in 2:09 4-5, a half-length ahead of Green Mountain Boy. Just a nose back of the second horse was Dennis M.

Orioles Edge Springfield In 4-3 Victory

While Rochester continues to lead, Baltimore Orioles were the most talked-of team in the International League today. Their upsurge of the last week has boosted Nick Cullop's crew to within two games of the Red Wings.

What is more, the Orioles stand an excellent chance to pick up more ground tonight. They will entertain Springfield's fifth-place Cubs in an abbreviated doubleheader. The first game will be the completion of last night's second game of a doubleheader, halted after eight innings because of rain.

Baltimore's Curfew

Baltimore has just to hold a 7-2 lead in the ninth and it will gain a half-game on Rochester. The Red Wings, meanwhile, will be tangling with Montreal's tough Royals, currently in fourth place but still a big factor in the pennant picture.

The Royals bounced Rochester 5-4 last night. Ronnie Lee was the winner in relief.

Baltimore edged Springfield 4-3 in an eight-inning opener, Johnny Kerns providing the differece with a home run.

Syracuse and Jersey City were rained out.

Conclude Agreement

MONTREAL, July 12 (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and General Steelwares Limited have concluded a collective labor agreement covering approximately 2,500 workers in company plants here, at Toronto and London, it was announced Tuesday by international representative Raymond Lapointe.

Scientists Learn How To Make People Younger

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

LIEGE, Belgium, July 12 (AP) —Sex hormones are making old persons younger and healthier in a big step towards man's dream of rejuvenation.

Hormones have brought startling results in about 50 men and women, all older than 65 and some as old as 90, Dr. William B. Kountz of St. Louis, Mo., told the first international conference on gerontology today. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

Women long past the change of life began menstruating again after receiving the female sex hormones estrogen and progesterone, Dr. Kountz reported.

The living cells of the uterus or womb in such a woman again became like the cells of a healthy young woman, Dr. Kountz said. The cells of the membranes in the hose also changed back to become more like those of a young person.

Feel Better

Patients felt better and often became more active physically and mentally. The tissues in their bodies received more nourishment. Men receiving the male sex hormone testosterone showed similar improvement.

"This is just the beginning," Dr. Kountz said. "If we can return the uterus to normal function, then some day we will be able to do the same with an aged heart —perhaps using other hormones.

"Hormone studies are being made by groups of scientists at Washington University and Infirmary Hospital, St. Louis. Some patients have been treated as long as five years. So far there has not been nay sign of a cancer or other diseases from the use of hormones. The amount and use of hormones is adjusted carefully to the person's general health picture.

Good Diet

"Good diet is another part of the treatment. Only a few of the 50 patients have died so far and these deaths were not due to hormones. Autopsies showed that their body organs and tissues were getting an increased blood supply and nourishment."

Striking rejuvenation in rats—their heart, kidneys, and livers made young again—was reported by Dr. Vadimir Korenchevsky of the Oxford gerontological research unit in England.

This also was done with sex hormones, but in huge doses.

There were two bad effects, the doctor warned. Some rats developed heart diseases and a few others got tumors of the liver similar to cancer.

Die From Treatment

VATICAN CITY, July 12 (AP) —Some superiors of Slovak religious orders jailed by the Communists have died as a result of ill treatment, the Vatican radio said Tuesday. The broadcast did not give the number nor the names of those who died.

Kawartha Tennis

The Kawartha Tennis Club continued its undefeated string in Cobourg last night with a 6-1 victory to stay on top of the Kawartha Tennis League. The home club, champions last year, took but one match when Jack Adams, a one-time Manitoba champion, won from John Fletcher 6-2 and 6-0.

Rose Fletcher won by default, as J. Leeming and R. Charlton beat F. Noah and C. Randall 6-0, 6-4; R. Lye and D. Lamonte defeated C. McQuaig and G. Robinson 9-7, 6-2; N. Charlton and W. Elmsley won over Mrs. J. Adams and J. Irwin 6-4, 6-1; J. Clarke and R. Stuart beat B. Coleman and G. Renwick 6-2, 7-5; and R. McKee and B. Lamonte defeated B. Hugh and K. McCaig 6-3, 6-8 and 6-4.

Release Communists

BOMBAY, July 12—(AP)—A high court Tuesday ordered the release of 25 top-ranking Indian Communists who have been in prison for the last two years for alleged activities prejudicial to the state. The court ruled that the detention orders under which the Communists were jailed were technically faulty.

Tobacco Crops Down

WASHINGTON, July 12—(AP) —The United States Agriculture Department has forecast a tobacco crop of 499,188,000 pounds, more than 60,000,000 pounds less than was produced in 1949. This drop accounted largely for the two-per-cent drop in the forecast for all tobaccos—1,932,000,000 pounds. Production a year ago was 1,970,000,000 pounds.

Yelverton Loses

BETHANY, July 12 (ENS) — Yelverton girl softballers dropped a 19-18 decision to Bethany. Bay Of Fundy National Park To Be Opened Officially July 29

ALMA, N. B., —(CP)—Its air washed by the salt spray of Fundy tides, its 80 square miles nested with angling haunts and wild-life habitats, the new Fundy National Park here will be opened late this month.

Maritimers — and particularly New Brunswickers—see in the new park a big asset for the flourishing tourist trade. Its attractions are legion and its location, beside the fabulous tides of the Bay of Fundy, is convient to reach.

A sportly, nine-hole golf course was designed by Stanley Thompson of Guelph, Ont., planner of the Jasper, Banff Springs and six other national park courses.

Great Contrast

Golfers on the velvet-like fairways will find it hadr to imagine they are playing where once were such things as a community dump, fox pens and barns.

Two big buildings will house the arts and crafts school, second of its kind in Canada and operated by the handicrafts division of the New Brunswick industry department. Tourists and New Brunswickers will be able to make craft items under expert instruction.

The fisherman-tourist, particularly, will be delighted with the various lakes and streams which can be reached with little out-of-the-way travel and without guides. At present, eastern brook trout is the park angler's prize, but over-all plans provide for stocking Point Wolfe River with salmon.

For Nature Lovers

A myriad of wonderland trails and roads lead from park headquarters and will provide adventure for the lovers of nature who likes to explore on foot.

Located between the Upper Salmon and Goose River, the park skirts the bay, which has an average tide of more than 20 feet, for more than nine miles with a shoreline featured by numerous picturesque coves and inlets. Rising in steps from the bay, it reaches an elevation of 1,000 feet and flattens out in a rolling tableland richly covered with forest. Snow remains in some crevices the year around.

Among animals there are moose, Virginia deer, black bear red fox, rabbit and such other small fur-bearing quadruplets as mink, muskrat, bobcat, lynx and weasels. There are 77 species of birds, including blue heron, peregrine falcons, black duck, ringneck pheasant and red-tailed hawk.

Salt Water Bathing

When the park opens July 29, it will offer salt water bathing to suit the must rugged or most timid tastes in temperatures. Guests may cavort in a concrete pool, with pre-warmed bay water, or they may dash off to herring cove and the chill bay brine. There are facilities for athletics of various kinds.

Regarding accommodation, there is space for persons of every taste and means—for the tenter, trailerite or the cottage-minded. Fourteen cottages of French chalet design have been built. Camp sites already have been provided and others are planned.

One of the park's main attractions is a huge amphitheatre just inside the entrance. Set in a gorge beside a lake, the natural arena is suitable for the staging of almost any type of entertainment—from simple campfire fun to big theatrical efforts.

Engineers Meet In Toronto At Conference

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

All across the country great projects are under way—factories, skyscrapers, roads, bridges, dams, machinery of all sorts.

None of this takes place without the engineer of one category or another, who speaks in a language all his own.

For three days, today to Friday, about 1,000 of these engineers of the present and future are meeting in Toronto in the 64th annual general and professional meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, which is being held in conjunction with the annual convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

The subjects of only a few of the addresses to be delivered will give an idea of the things which concern these men. Here they are:

Flexible pavement design for airport runways; construction problems in silty soils; crustal movement of the earth's surface in the Great Lake area; placing of concrete in winter weather torsions of I-beams; cold-weather operation of aircraft; and so on for dozens more.

The current president is John E. Armstrong, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, and the president-elect, who will take office Friday night, is James A. Vance of Woodstock, Ont.

Retailers Meeting

The Canadain Retail Federation advises its members that its 1951 conference will be held in Montreal Feb. 5-7. H. A. Smith of Hamilton, the Federation's president, says in a half-year message:

"So important is the distributive function to the Canadian economy that retailers must insist they be consulted in any proposed laws which would raise the cost of distribution or place hurles in the way of efficient fetailing."

Injured In Fall

PORT COLBORNE, July 12 — (CP)—Joseph Stanley, 62-year-old workman, was injured Tuesday when he slipped and fell into an empty hold on the freighter Prindoc, moored at nearby Humberstone. He suffered fractures of the pelvis, wrist, and four vertebrae, and a dislocated shoulder.

AUGUSTA PHELPS MUNRO who is in the city to direct a cast of 100 Peterborough people in the presentation of Sigmund Romberg's famous Broadway musical "Up In Central Park."

Broadway Musical Comedy To Be Presented in City

Augusta Phelps Munro, director, of New York City arrived in Peterborough this week She is here to direct Sigmund Romberg's famous Broadway musical "Up In Central Park," originally booked for presentation August 3, 4, 5 Miss Munro, learning on her arrival that Robertson Davies' new play will have its premier here that week phoned her house office in Kansas City and switched dates so that "Up In Central Park" could be changed to Aug. 10, 11 and 12.

"Up In Central Park" will have a cast of 100 people and will be presented with the original script and musical score and more than 200 colorful costumes of the mid-victorian 1870 period when every lady wore a bustle and the gay young blades were resplendant in fancy suits with velvet collars, flowing cravats and Dundreay whiskers with a musical score by the world famous Sigmund Romberg composer of Blossom Time, Desert Song, May Time and seventy other musical successes, and with script authored by Herb and Dorothy Fields who were equally successful with "Miss Liberty" and Annie Get Your Gun," etc., "Up In Central Park has all the elements of "good theatre" —tuneful music, clever repartee, humorous situations and just a bit of pathos.

"Up In Central Park" opened January, 1945 in New York and achieved a run of more than 500 performances, it engagingly presents the development of Central park and the part it played in the lives of New Yorkers. We are taken behind the intricate politics of the times, via the romance of Rosie Moore, daughter of one of Boss William Marcey Tweed's ward heelers, and John Matthews, a reporter on the "New York Times" newspaper. Matthews is assigned to investigate and then to expose the crooked politics and financial maneuvering of Tweed and his gang in their connection with the building of the park.

Although sponsored by the Peterborough Choral Society, Miss Munro stated today that the huge cast now being assembled will consist of the best talent available in the entire locality

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP) — Creamery butter production was three per cent lower in June and the first scix months of this year than in the corresponding periods of 1949, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday.

The month's output declined to 40,083,000 pounds from 41,136,000 in June last year and in the half year to 118,874,000 pounds from 123,001,000.

Cheddar cheese production was 12 per cent lower in June, amounting to 18,241,000 pounds, compared with 20,615,000 a year earlier. In the six-month period, 38,761,000 pounds were produced, a decline of 10 per cent from last year's corresponding total of 42,902,000 pounds.

Stocks of creamery butter were higher on July 1, amounting to 49,435,000 pounds compared with 32,127,000 at June 1 and 43,827,000 on the corresponding date last year.

Seek $1,800 Minimum For Civil Servants

OTTAWA, July 12—(CP)—A boost in civil service basic rates of pay to a minimum of $1,800 a year was sought Tuesday by the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada.

The request was made by Fred Knowles, national secretary of the organization, in a letter to Finance Minister Abbott.

Basis for the request was the fact the official cost of living index at June 1 reached an all-time high of 165.4, more than five points higher than the figure of Oct. 1, 1948, when civil servants received their last pay increases.

Find Montreal Most Expensive

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP).—Canadians found living in Montreal at June 1 more expensive than in any other city in the country.

The Bureau of Statistics Tuesday reported the cost of living index at June 1 in Montreal was 169.0, an increase of 4.4 over June 1, 1949 and 2.8 above May 1.

Vancouver followed close behind with 167.0, compared with 162.0 at June 1, 1949.

Halifax was the lowest at 156.4, compared with 153.4 on the corresponding date a year ago.

A general increase over the preceding month in the eight regional centres for which indices were given was attributed to the sharp advances in food prices, mostly meats.

Indices follow, with figures for June 1, 1949, in brackets: Saint John, N. B., 161.8 (157.2); Toronto, 162.1 (156.1); Winnipeg, 160.1 (155.4); Saskatoon, 165.0 (162.5); Edmonton, 161.3 (155.8).

Arctic Weather Stations To Get Year's Supplies

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—United States ships will sail from Boston and Halifax in mid-July with a year's supplies for Arctic weather stations operated jointly by Canada and the U.S.

U.S. Navy and Coastguard vessels will carry the supplies into the Canadian Arctic islands, a joint U.S.-Canada announcement said Tuesday, and may make an attempt to reach the most northerly station within 500 miles of the Pole.

The supplies will be unloaded at the central joint weather station at Resolute Bay, Cornwallis Island, and will be flown to the more northerly stations later, possibly next spring.

Ships taking part are the U.S. Navy vessels Edisto, an icebreaker; the Whitley, a cargo ship, the LST-533, another cargo ship, and the coastguard icebreaker Eastwind.

Canadian officials going north will be headed by J. W. Ourton of the Northwest Territories administration. Senior U.S. official will be C. J. Hubbard, chief of Arctic projects in the weather bureau.

Should ice conditions be favorable, it was expected the Edisto and Eastwind would try to reach the station nearest the Pole, which was established only last April by air transport.

The new station is named Alert, after Capt. George Nares' ship which wintered in the vicinity during 1875-76.

Time and ice conditions permitting, the icebreakers may also carry supplies to the joint weather station at Eureka and reconnoitre the south coast of Melville Island, where a weather station might be established later.

Supplies for the expedition now are being assembled in Boston and Halifax, the governments said. U.S. and Canadian university students are engaged in sorting and checking the supplies going north.

Ranch In Foothills of Rockies About Finest Place On Earth

By JACK SCOTT

LONGVIEW, Alta.—We started off brisky this morning from Calgary, full of bacon and eggs and high resolve, headed eastward for the hot plains of Saskatchewan. Tonight we are just about 65 miles from Calgary—and deep in the foothills to the west!

It was those hills that did it. We are camped in them now beside a bubbling little spring-fed stream, Sullivan's Creek, on the Y Cross Ranch and in the next week I expect I'll be throwing a lot of words your way about this western heaven on earth. Right now none of us care if we ever leave. It is that perfect.

From the moment we left Calgary behind there was a kind of war between duty and desire. As I may have mentioned before we're days behind our loose schedule. At our rate of progress so far it looks as if we'll be racing winter into Halifax.

We had a determined talk about it last night. Made up our minds to get some substantial mileage behind us today, Medicine Hat or better. That's what we said. And so we pulled out earlier than usual this morning with a lunch and thermos packed so that we could have our mid-day meal on the run and not waste any time.

The tourist people warned us against the direct, gravel road eastward from Calgary and so we headed south to Macleod on what they call "The Macleod Trail." A very fine highway it is, too. We'd loaded up our tanks with Propane. Bown Eyes had done her shopping, including the purchase of some fine British Columbia crabs. The car was freshly greased and lubricated for a long haul.

But right away those green hills began their subtle seduction.

A New Plan

I suppose we've been instinctively dreading the necessity of crossing the prairies and now, speeding directly southward, all four of us were looking from west to east and back longingly to west.

Out to the east the prairie was flat and shimmering hot and dusty. But when our gaze swung back again to the west we saw the green and gently rolling Alberta foothills with their promise of cool breezes and behind them, like a backdrop, the slate blue Rockies with here and there white triangles of snow. The meadowlarks flew around us. Their liquid whistle was like an invitation to obey that impulse.

I don't know how it began but somehow we started talking about how pleasant it would be to spend a week on a real Alberta cattle ranch. It would certainly be a shame, we all agreed to leave Alberta behind without doing a story about the cow country. Besides, we'd just given Judy a pair of high-heeled cowboy boots with red, tooled uppers for her tenth birthday. She desperately needed a horse to go with them.

By the time we'd reached High River—"The Cowtown Capital of the Foothills"—the western view had worked its magic.

I made for the office of the High River Times and found the editor and publisher, Charlie Clark, a quiet, pipe-smoking man whose father founded the paper in 1905. We've discovered that when you're a stranger in a small town the weekly editor is the man to see. Charlie was no exception.

Could he suggest a ranch where the folks wouldn't mind a large aluminum trailer on the property? Some place that would more or less reflect the life and times of the typical Alberta cattle raiser? Charlie could and did and right after lunch we were on our way to the Y Cross Ranch of Joe Bews, some 30 miles from High River and near the Turner Valley oil town of Longview.

No Return

The drive from the main highway westward into the foothills was the severest test our trailer has had or is likely to have.

At regular intervals there were cattle guards, small bridges of iron pipes spaced eight inches apart and theoretically impassable for cattle. They're just about impassable for a trailer, too, and we squeaked and clattered through them with many a groan.

But nothing could dim the joy of climbing into these enchanted hills, as green and rolling as the English downs, yet wild and rugged and only a day's pony ride from these formidable peaks. The breeze down the Highwood River canyon was suddenly cool to the brown.

We ground up one steep hill—Sullivan's Hill—and stopped at its crest. The grade down the other side was like a straight drop. I knew that if we ever got down safely it would take a tractor to get us up again. It was a moment of indecision.

But at the base of the hill we could see the ranch with its corrals and the white Y Cross brand painted on a red barn in the shade of tall spruce trees. We saw the kitchen door of the ranch open and a big man under a wide-brimmed hat stepped out, looked up our way and waved a signal to come on. Behind him we could see the creek and a piece of flat ground beside it where the trailer would sit right pretty.

I put the car in low gear, we held our breath and let her roll.

U.S. Consul's Daughter Freed

ALBANY, N. Y., July 12 (AP) —New York's highest court on Tuesday freed the beautiful Mrs. Nancy Choremi of a prostitution conviction.

The 4-3 decision Tuesday by the Court of Appeals also dismissed the information against the 28-year-old New York City woman, daughter of G. Paul Fletcher, United States Consul-General at Casablanca.

The majority opinion held that telephone wire-tapping by police had not provided proof of the charge—loitering for the purpose of prostitution.

The minority said it had found no requirement in the law that proof of an act of prostitution be shown to support a conviction.

New York city police said they had obtained evidence by tapping Mrs. Choremi's telephone in her hotel suite.

Mrs. Choremi received a suspended three-month sentence upon conviction two years ago.

Don't Plan Dunkerque For GI's In Korea

WASHINGTON, July 12—U.S. senators who attended a two-hour consultation by the Senate with Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joints Chiefs of Staff, spoke afterward of a Korean campaign lasting into months—and possibly even as long as a year—in an atmosphere of tension elsewhere in the world.

So far as could be learned, there was no suggestion of a Korean Dunkerque, in the sense of a forced and long term evacuation with an accompanying vast loss of material such as the British suffered in Flanders.

About 500 Orangemen, representing half-a-dozen city and district lodges, left today to attend the July 12 walk in Lindsay.

Half the group left on the morning train, and the remainder travelled by chartered bus and car. They took three bands with them—fife and drum bands from Nassau and Lodge 50, and a pipe band from Havelock.

On their return tonight at 8.35 p.m. DST, they will parade from the CNR station east on Charlotte St. to Water St., north to Dublin St., west to George St. and south to Brock St., returning to the Orange Hall.

This morning the band from a city lodge gathered for an hour's concert. The walk started at 1:30 in Lindsay.

City Camp At YM For 75 Boys

City Camp is in full swing at the YMCA and Physical Director Al Clarke reports that 75 boys have signed up for the two weeks activities.

Starting last Monday, each camp day begins at 9 a.m. The boys go home for lunch at noon and return for the afternoon's activities which are from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Each day's program is filled wtih a variety of items that are planned to give the boys a taste of camp life. Crafts are a major item and the boys are instructed in both leather and wood craft.

A general assembly is held every morning, which includes singing and a talent show. The boys then form council rings and competitions are held such as blind man's boxing.

Swimming periods are held in both the morning and afternoon in the "Y" pool. The non-swimmers are given a special swimming class every morning under the direction of Ken Armstrong.

All types of games are played and one of the highlights of the two weeks will be a day set aside for making kites and sailing them. Hikes and treasure hunts are also a favourite part of the camp's agenda.

An overnight hike is being planned for all the boys over 12 years of age. The hike will take the form of a canoe trip starting from Camp Kawartha. For the boys who are too young to go on this hike, an overnight stay at the "Y" will be their compensation.

Other features of the camp will be trips to various industries in the city, archery, canoeing and motion pictures.

Britain To Increase Canadian Purchases

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP) — Britain is planning on jacking up its Canadian purchases of iron ore, softwood and newsprint.

This was indicated by A. B. Bottomley, British Secretary for Overseas Trade, in a luncheon address at London last Friday and made public today by the United Kingdom Information Office here.

Mr Bottomley was quoted as saying the purchase of Canadian iron ore—virtually stopped this year—is going to be resumed while it is hoped to buy additional softwood. In addition, demands from British buyers for the purchase of Canadian newsprint were being stepped up.

Alliance, O., Puffs Centenary With Beards, Amish Hats

If you see a man walking around town with the traditional black Amish hat and sporting a short, curly beard, don't just stare. Walk right up to him, pump his right hand and say "Hi neighbor. What's the idea?" For your trouble you'll get a friendly smile and a five minute spiel from genial Harry M. Groat, of Alliance, Ohio, on Alliance's centennial celebration this year.

The wide-brimmed black hat with the flat crown and the curly beard are a part of a promotion stunt to attract visitors to the Ohio city for Pageant Week (August 27 to September 2). It seems all the men there are required to grow beards or obtain a $1 shaving permit. A city ordinance, dated May 1, makes the whole thing official.

Alliance is a city of about 27,000 and about 800 men there are competing for the $500 in prize money. Awards are for the fullest beard, a unique one, best vandyke, the youngest man with a beard and the oldest.

American Legion members found without either a shave permit or a beard are fined $5. Other Alliance men $1.

And the women don't get off scot free in this promotional stunt, either. After August 1 any woman walking down the street with makeup on will be fined 50 cents.

"We will make it easy for them," observed Mr. Groat.

The whole idea originated with the Alliance branch of the American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce. The hat and beard are not so strange in that part of Ohio because of settlements by the Omisch or Amish (a Dutch Protestant group). Both are traditional garb.

Kawartha Booster, Too

But Mr. Groat, a freight engineman by trade, is a booster of the Kawarthas, too. He has been coming up to Canada for the past four years and last summer landed a 24-pound, 48-inch 'lunge with the assistance of Chief Alfred Crowe, Hiawatha. And he's staying at Hiawatha again this summer.

"I've been over in Canada since June 28 and Tuesday afternoon was the first time anybody has approached me and asked me about the beard and hat," he said.

"You've certainly got to hand it to the Americans when it comes to promotion," commented James Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

Maybe he's toying with the idea of a similar stunt here to advertise Peterborough's centennial. The only safe person then will be the bearded circus lady.

Board Approves Subdivision Plan

A new subdivision was approved by the city planning committee Tuesday night. Owned by Mrs Percy Edwards, the subdivision is located on the east bank of the Otonabee River opposite the filtration plant.

The 12-lot subdivision, which has been approved by Douro township council, was approved by the planning board with the proviso that septic tanks with disposal beds be provided for each lot.

Houses to be built on the lots will be of a minimum value of about $5,500, and will be of frame, stucco or brick construction, or a combination of those. Water will be provided by wells.

Motion for approval was made by James Craig and seconded by Mrs. W. H. Morton.

The World's Longest

NEW DELHI (CP). — Pritam Singh says clean-shaven faces are "just a lot of potato faces — a disgrace to mankind." Singh, a civil servant, boasts the world's longest whiskers. They're two yards long, still growing, and represent 30 years of careful grooming.

AND "STONEY LAKE" leaving the lift lock. This boat was sold to St. Lawrence interests four years ago and had not sailed the Kawarthas for several years before that.

Same Old Series Postcards Being Offered To Tourists

Tourists looking for postcards of attractive views of Peterborough and district are in for a disappointment when they tour city stores. Every store, with one or two exceptions, carries the same series of poorly colored, out-of-date photos which would likely give people receiving them the idea that the Peterborough area was a pretty drab place.

Some stores also carry folders of postcards, but they contain exactly the same pictures as are on the separate postcards.

Although the cards are the same, some stores sell them for one cent each and others, three for five cents.

One photo studio sells cards featuring black and white and color views of the city and surrounding scenery which are much better quality than those found in many of the stores.

One hotel also has a series of black and white photo type, but it features mostly interior views of the hotel itself.

The other collections are unattractive and have been around quite a while. One view shows a car which is a 1938 model.

A picture of the top of the liftlock shows the Stoney Lake sailing out. The Stoney Lake hasn't been through the lock since the early years of the war.

Another card shows a view of the floating bridge at Bridgenorth and the caption under it explains

Ferry Junked

PORT COLBORNE, July 12. —(CP). — The car ferry Ontario No. 1 was towed to nearby Humberstone Tuesday for scrapping after nearly 43 years on the Great Lakes. The 4,146-ton vessel operated for many years between Cobourg and Rochester, N.Y. A sister ship, the Ontario No. 2, is also waiting to be scrapped shortly.

Goat Of Many Colors

Lakefield's Painted Goat—A Gaudy Kid—Confesses All

Soozie, he calls me—Sooz for short. Of course he was only eight then and not much of a speller but seeing as how I'm his goat I suppose he could spell my name any way he wanted. Not that the name means much considering the other things that have happened to me since young Terry Doubt got hold of me four years ago and brought me to Lakefield.

Sort of got off on the wrong foot anyhow as Old Mother Nature must have got mixed up with me, leaving me and my kid sister on that horse farm up near Caesarea in September instead of in the spring when most sensible goats are born. Guess that's why I'm a runt. Maybe that first winter on a bottle didn't help much, but after four years I'm still not much bigger than half size, and just not growing at all.

Terry made an awful fuss getting his dad to whack out three bucks for me and I bet he's going to be one of those guys who paint towns red for he's been practising on me ever since. First winter they left me loose in the barn with a couple of saddle horses and scaring the daylights out of them was lots of fun. Regular little devil I heard some of the folks say, when they caught me in the horses' oat boxes eating their oats while they stood back at the end of their halter shanks bucking around mad as hops.

Family made a mistake—they said—the next summer letting me roam loose outside. Seemed to make one of the girls, Denise, right upset when I ate off all the nice flowers on her petunias and snapdragons as fast as they bloomed.

Bunts and Punts

That partiality to color sort of boomeranged on me as anyone can plainly see today. But before I get around to that I might mention a few other things that happened to me. In my younger days I just loved to play with people—in my own way of course—and had quite a bit of sport with deliver boys. But that's a long story. . . .

Bouncing down the big front stairs whenever the door was left open was real sport, but sleeping on the beds upstairs got me in real bad with Mrs. Doubt and she slapped a rope and collar on me and had me staked out on the lawn. Took a little while but I finally got so I could work on the knots the children tied and could undo most of them at the stake—so now I'm on a chain and it has no knots.

At one time I used to be just a brown and white "little devil" —that's what they call me more often than Soozie—but one day young Terry got hold of a can of orange enamel and lathered it on my horns. What with me bunting around and what not, he got more on himself than my horns, but it was a fair job all around, and that started it.

Could It Be Carrots?

That kid—I get a bang out of calling him 'kid' cause he's more kiddish than I—used to tell some real whoppers. Of course it was the things I'd have done and it all blossomed one day when an old lady asked young Terry what made my horns orange—and he ups and says he feeds me carrots and the color comes out in my horns. She seemed to believe it.

Guess that set him thinking because a few days later out he comes with several jugs of color and some brushes and after about an hour he had the first cousin to a nightmare—blue stripes down my face, mauve circles around my eyes, red legs, blue and yellow stripes on my sides and an orange tail. Even my ears were red, and I mean red—brother was I a sight!

Staked as I was out on the lawn next to the highway it wasn't long before other folks began to think I was a sight too. Got to be, as the summer wore on, that by my own count as many as eight car loads of tourists at a time would be looking me over, taking movies, and holding general pow wows.

Whenever I get a good soaking in a thunderstorm the colors all blend very nicely and turn sort of pastel so that it keeps the visitors guessing whether it just might be possible I was born that way.

One evening Terry and his young sister Judy popped out with a can of luminous paint and proceed to give me an eye-circle and two strips on the horns. Along about ten p.m. a woman visitor spotted me near the driveway—her yelps nearly brought the fire brigade and riot squad.

Needless to say the luminous paint vanished. However now the color technique has become such an achievement with the younger members of the family that I believe there is a movement afoot for a life membership for me in the leading temperance unions as a spur to abstinence. Pink elephants have nothing on me; the painted goat.

JUDY DOUBT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Doubt, Lakefield, holds Susie the goat as owner, brother Terry, gives her a re-dye job.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Request Delayed To Erect Service Station

Permission for the Conger-Lehigh Company to establish a service station at Lansdowne and Sherbourne Sts. was held in abeyance Tuesday night by the city planning committee.

A petition from residents of the district, presented to city council July 3, was on the agenda of the planning board Tuesday night. The petition requested that the city not grant permission for the service station, saying residents of the area did not want their district turned into "another gasoline alley."

The petition listed a number of arguments against establishment of a service station at the corner. Among them were that it would create an accident hazard, cause traffic congestion, create a fire hazard, bring lower property and resale values.

Further, the petition pointed out that already there are five or six gas stations in that district.

The petition was signed by 19 property owners and five tenants from the district, and was presented to city council July 3.

Tito Worried About Bulgaria

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 12 (Reuters)—Borba, Belgrade communist party newspaper, says today that Bulgarian motorized units are heading towards the Yugoslav frontier "completely equipped with guns, medical equipment and supply columns."

Borba denounces "the atmosphere of disquiet and war psychosis which, camouflaged by a press campaign, is being whipped up among the Bulgarians, Hungarians and Romanians."

It says that Hungarian state security organs and police "literally besieged villages in the frontier area between the Danube and the Tisza rivers where they have started extensive purges."

100-Ft. Hydro Towers Rise As $5 Million Lily Lake Transformer Station Builds

The Lily Lake five million dollar Hydro transformer station is taking the look of a giant skeleton, the trade mark of hydro distribution centres everywhere, with 65, 80 and 100-foot steel framework towers reaching into the sky. A 75-ton transformer was moved into place today. About three-quarters of the steel towers are up. The only job many of the towers do is suspend high-powered cables high above the ground. But that is an important job when the cables may be charged with 22,000 volts.

Already some of the giant breakers are set in place and need only to be connected up. Job superintendent Harry G. Bury explained that the breakers, about 15 feet high, are electrical switches enclosed in oil. The oil quenches an arc of electricity which otherwise would jump across the metal contacts of the switch as it was being opened and burn them.

Near the back of the project, one of the 75-ton transformers was moved into place this morning. Another of the same size is on the way and two even larger are yet to come.

Buildings Near Completion

Today as a hot sun blistered down, deeply-tanned men wearing their maroon safety helmets, and stripped to the waist, climbed nonchalantly about the 80-foot high girders. Most of them are local workers and have had no experience at this high-flying work.

Inside the nearly-completed control building all was cool. The building houses a control room, workshop and a men's locker room. The building will be soundproof, air conditioned, and heated with electricity.

In the control room two huge master control panels which will be operated by two men at a time are sitting waiting to be hooked up later. The room will be lit by 150 fluorescent tubes installed above a translucent plastic ceiling which will give a bright, even light.

Another smaller building will house the telephone and communications equipment.

110 Employed

About 110 men are working on the project. Last week the crew consisted of 130 men. Superintendent Bury said he had more men when the Peterborough Lock Co. employees were on strike. When the strike ended, luckily the work he had hired them for was just completed.

Only 35 of the workers are permanent hydro men. The rest have been hired locally.

Mr. Bury said he was quite satisfied with the progress made. The job is on schedule. The only hold-back has been some switches which are promised in time before they would actually hinder the work.

The project should mean a lot for both Peterborough and much of the surrounding district, the superintendent said. It will relieve overloading on the local sources of supply now in use. As the city continues to grow the need for more and more electricity can be met by the new project.

MP Snowed Under By Rotten Eggs

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters)—Gerald Nabarro, a Conservative of parliament who is being bombarded with dozens of rotten eggs through the mail, made a distracted appeal today to the donor housewives — "stop it, please."

One consignment exploded in his face and hit the ceiling, he said.

The housewives are trying to help him prove his charge in parliament last week that their July egg ration is reaching them in "an aged, musty and squiffy condition."

In parliament Nabarro was told by Frederick Wille, ministry of food parliamentary secretary, that he had been "misinformed."

Nabarro sent the minister a parcel of the eggs—and received an acknowledgement of their arrival with a polite request to send no more.

Can Company Facing Strike

TORONTO, July 12 (CP) — Strike action by 400 employees of three plants of the Continental Can Company was threatened today by a union ultimatum to the company's New York headquarters.

The union last week voted to take strike action in the year-old wage dispute. A majority report of a conciliation board recently recommended an increase of 10 cents an hour, five cents of which would be retroactive to June, 1949. So far, the union claims, the company has failed to make any offer on the basis of the report.

A telegram sent to the company's headquarters by C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steel Workers' Union (CIO-CCL) said strike action will be taken unless a company offer is made today.

Sports Centre To Get $32,000

COBOURG, July 12—(ENS)—Approval by the Municipal Board of a bylaw to issue $32,000 debentures will clear off the remainder of the debt on the new recreational centre and will raise the total granted by the corporation to $82,000. A $50,000 grant was made before the rink was built. The $32,000 represents the cost of the artificial ice machine and other expenses.

The bylaw was delayed several times before it received its second reading but at the meeting of the town council this week no more obstacles confronted it and it was given its second reading before being sent on to the Municipal Board. It is expected that the Board will give its approval and the bylaw will then get its third reading.

Specimen Goods Free Of Duty

LONDON — (CP) — British manufacturers in search of new ideas can import "specimen" articles from foreign countries without paying duty.

That is to say, business men here can apply for duty-free imports if they think they can learn new production wrinkles from the imported articles.

This is guaranteed under a special clause introduced in the finance bill by A. G. Bottomley, secretary for overseas trade, and approved by opposition parties.

Bottomley said goods made in foreign lands may be imported without duty "for the purpose of studying new ideas which may be incorporated in such products."

Research had been "discouraged" by tariffs in some cases and it was the government's intention to see "if by use of component parts or pronciples or design manufactured articles can be improved—and to see if an imported article can then be manufactured in this country."

Get Tinned Ham After 10 Years

LONDON — (CP) — Tinned ham, which did a disappearing act shortly after the start of the Second World War, is expected to make a comeback soon on British food counters.

Since 1940, the black market or North America food parcels have been about the only source of ham.

Now the government has announced that it can be freely imported from "sterling areas." This means wholesalers and retailers can buy as much as they want.

Hams from Canada and other dollars countries are still barred.

A food ministry spokesman predicted: "the trade will be after this like a shot. There will soon be plenty in the shops."

Mediation Fails

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP). — A mediation session Tuesday failed to settle the 29-day strike of the American Newspaper Guild (CIO) against the New York World Telegram and Sun. The strike began June 13 over a wage dispute, shutting down the paper.

Allot Billion For Anti-Reds

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—The House of Representatives foreign affairs committee Tuesday approved a $1,222,500,000 program of military aid to non-Communist countries. It also called for creation of a Far Eastern defense pact patterned after the Atlantic Treaty.

The committee voted unanimously to approve the Senate-passed arms aid bill.

A proposal for establishment of a Far Eastern pact among the countries of the Pacific also won the unanimous endorsement of the committee.

The arms aid bill authorizes $16,000,000 to bolster defense of the Philippines and embattled South Korea. Another $75,000,000 is earmarked for the general area of China.

The bulk of the money, $1,000,000,000 would go to North Atlantic pact allies. Greece, Turkey and Iran are down for $131,500,000.

Spurred by the Korean crisis, the Senate passed the bill by a vote of 66 to 0, June 30.

Hundreds Crossing Border Embarrass W. Germany

By ROBERT PETTY

BONN, Germany, July 12. — (Reuters). — West-German guards have redoubled their watch along the zonal border in the hope of checking the stream of people filtering in from the east. But despite this increased vigilance, the guards admit that anyone who determined to cross the border from either side can do so. The iron curtain, they say somewhat ruefully, is far from being a tight fit.

Those who come west for work meet their worst snags after arriving in West Germany.

As they have no identity papers — including the all-important "kennkarte" with its canned biography and two sets of fingerprints — they cannot openly seek work.

Become Respectable

They are known as "black." But somehow or other many of them ultimately contrive to make themselves legally respectable. Of the rest, some stay underground and take to crime. Still others drift back to the east zone.

All this is tied up in a seeming paradox: west Germany has 1,668,000 unemployed and east Germany has virtually none, yet west German unemployed cannot go east to look for work and east Germany keeps sending more unemployed refugees west.

According to Allied leaders here, east Germany does so deliberately to swell the total of unemployed in the west and bring west Germany to economic collapse.

Make It Hard

East-German government officials say there is scarcely any unemployment in their territory as "the result of our two-year plan."

Western observers in Berlin consider the three main reasons to be:

1. Thousands of able-bodied young east Germans have been forced to work in the uranium mines.

2. Many east Germans are serving in the "people's police." Many of them joined to prevent being recruited for the uranium mines. Others were attracted by extra food rations.

3. Millions of east Germans of all ages fled or have been expelled to west Germany in the last few years for political reasons.

Why are there idle persons in a country which will take 30 years to rebuild even if every available worker is roped in? Chiefly because there is a desperate shortage of capital, which is not surprising when so many people fear that west Germany may be overrun by the Russians any minute.

Great Britain Trying To Boost Lagging Herring Sales

LONDON, July 12 (CP)—Britain is rewriting an old Scots folk song to lure more dollars from North America.

Fishermen who once chanted "Wha'll buy my caller (fresh) herrin'?" will be changing their tune to "Who'll buy my dollar herring?" in an effort to boost Britain's lagging herring industry.

Kippering for finicky North American tastes started Tuesday at Stornoway in the Hebrides and Ullapool and Mallaig in the west of Scotland. Trade sources hope that exports will total 5,000 tons this season.

Details of the new drive were disclosed in the 15th annual report of the herring industry board made public this week. At a press conference times to coincide with publication of the report, chairman Sir Frederick Bell said sombrely that even if summer fishing improves, nothing can make the season a profitable one.

"As always in bad times," Sir Frederick said, "the main sufferers are the producers—the boat owners and fishermen—and it is little wonder that it has proved impossible to find crews for many of the less economic steam drifters now lying in east coast ports."

Push Kippers

One hope for the herring industry seemed to be a revival of American markets for Scottish kippers. The board would give every assistance to a new company (British Kipper Exporters Ltd.) and in North America distribution would be handled by "a marketing house of British origin and repute."

The kippers will be made up in pairs in a transparent wrapping, carrying a red, white and blue label.

But whatever happens to the dollar herring, Sir Frederick warned, the only permanent chance of putting the herring industry on its feet rests with the development of the home market. This required better quality, better distribution, and better publicity.

A new product, dry-cured herring, is being developed to sell cheaply. The report said this may find a large market on the African Continent, where the average diet now is lacking in proteins.

Leopold Booed

Switch To RCMP Seen In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, —(CP)— Suggestion that the R.C.M.P. may some day police Vancouver was made in the City Hall by Alderman George C. Miller.

Ald. Miller, Finance Committee Chairman, said he was not sponsoring such a change— the city now has its own police force—but merely pointing out the possibility.

"When the province is converted from the provincials (British Columbia Police) to the mounted we should watch the effect closely," he said. "In four or five years we might well have the mounted take over the city, too."

The R.C.M.P. are scheduled to take over from the provincial force this year. The switch was authorized at the last session of the Legislature.

Deaths, Births Show Rise, Marriages Down

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—Although more persons died in Canada last year than in 1948, there still was a slight drop in the death rate.

A general increase in population was the reason, the bureau of statistics said today.

Deaths in the year totalled 121,115, an increase of 1,731 over 1948, while the mortality rate declined to 9.2 from 9.3.

The same applied to births. The number of live births in 1949 was 353,894, a rate of 26.9 per 1,000 population, compared to 347,307 births and a rate of 27.0 in 1948.

Stillbirths totalled 7,028 as against 6,849, raising the rate to 19.9, compared to 19.7 per 1,000 live births.

Marriages during the year totalled 121,378 as against 123,314 in the previous year, the marriage rate dropping to 9.2 from 9.6.

In the first four months of 1950, there were 23,078 marriages in Canada, 18 more than in the corresponding period a year ago. Births totalled 110,172, compared with 110,536 in 1949. There were 40,553 in the first four months of 1949.

Two Charges Of Careless Driving Fail

Two careless driving charges were dismissed Tuesday afternoon by Magistrate R. B. Baxter, and in the first, the magistrate ticked off a provincial constable for erring in his evidence.

Provincial Constable James Healey was the officer. He testified in a careless driving charge against George H. R. Martin, 775 Monaghan Rd., that he had made measurements concerning the accident from the broken white line marking the centre of the road.

The accident happened about three miles east of Peterborough on Highway 7, and at that point, it was established there is no broken white line on the highway. Later, the officer admitted his error.

Roy Blakely of Peterborough, whose car was involved with Martin's in the accident, testified he saw a car "about 2,000 feet away" with four lights on.

Blakely said the one car, which was west-bound, was on the south side of the road. Martin testified that the car he saw coming (Blakely's) was on the north side of the road.

Constable Healey said he determined the point of impact at a spot south of the centre line of the road, and by skidmarks he believed were from the car driven by Martin and which led to Martin's car.

In dismissing the charge, Magistrate Baxter said "if he (the officer) is not sure of what he is saying, I would suggest that in future he refrain from making statements."

Charge Dismissed

George Robertson, Rice Lake resort operator, had a charge of careless driving against him dismissed by Magistrate Baxter.

Provincial Constable John McKendry testified he went to the scene of an accident on the old Keene road the morning of June 24 and found a panel truck driven by Robertson, and a three-ton dump truck, driven by Ralph Lafonde of Peterborough had collided.

Robertson testified he had swung out to pass some boys hitch hiking on the road, and before he returned to his own side of the road, the larger truck had roared around the curve. He said he could not stop in time.

Both Robertson and Martin were defended by T. J. Carley, KC.

Horners Honor Dana Wilgress

LONDON,— (CP) — London's Worshipful Company of Horners has bestowed an honorary freedon upon Canada's High Commissioner, L. Dana Wilgress.

A court elected him the second freeman in the company's 700-year history at a ceremony in the mansion house. The first was conferred earlier on the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, Sir Basil Brooke.

Freedom of city companies is an ancient privilege once ardently sought by all who wished to prosper there. The Horners Company originally dealt with musical horns and drinking horns. It now manufactures bone products.

Hit By Chimpanzee

DALLAS, Tex., July 12 (AP). —Mrs. Tommie Hamilton, 65, of Dallas, received $600 in damages in court Tuesday for being hit by a tricycle thrown by a chimpanzee. The chimpanzee was a star performer at the Texas State Fair last August when it suddenly dismounted from the tricycle it was riding, picked it up, and hurled it into the audience. Mrs. Hamilton, sitting in the front row, was hit.

"The Sherbrooke Street Association will prevent any breakdown of protective by-laws and ordinances obtained," they said.

"It will foster the elimination of unslightly signs, posters, mechanical window dispalys, mendicants, fake 'closing-out sales', sidewalk photographers and other obnoxious persons and practices."

How will they do it? "Through carefully selected officers in constant contact with city departments."

Millbrook Vacation School Has 81 Pupils Listed

MILLBROOK, July 12 (ENS)—Millbrook Vacation School begins its second week on Monday with an enrolment of 81 children. The school is interdenominational and is directed by Margaret Smith, who graduated in May from the United Church Training School in Toronto.

Assisting Miss Smith is a staff of 12 full-time workers, and seven part-time.

Children are divided into three groups: beginners from 5 to 8 years of age, primary from 8 to 10 and the juniors from 10 to 12.

Mrs. Arnold Fallis is in charge of the beginners, and she has as her helpers Mrs. D. Shepperd, Mrs. H Ouelette, and Beverley Parton.

The primary superintendent is Mrs. Ralph Innis, and assisting her are Mrs. Walter Patterson and Mrs. Raper.

Mrs. Marchett is junior superintendent assisted by Mrs. Edith Clarke, Mrs Bruce Ingha mand Marie-Claire Husser.

Rev. Walter Patterson, Rev. A. A. Chote and Rev. T. G. Husser have conducted worship periods and helped the boys in handicraft.

Sing-songs have been directed by Revs. Husser and Chote and by George Ingham in turn with Beverly Patton at the piano.

Mrs. Greg MacKay is conducting the game periods assisted by Lena-Marie Lowery, Alice Hawkins and Margaret MacKay.

St. Andrew's Sunday schoolrooms are a hive of industry from 9 to 12 each morning. After the opening sing-song which closes at 9.30, the children divide into their various departments for Bible study, stories and handicrafts. The game periods are held on the church lawn.

Theme of the Bible study is "The life of Jesus." The children have made relief maps in coloured plasticine of Palestine, a silhouette of a boat on the sea of Galilee, and a model scene of a section of a Palestinian village. They are also doing scrapbooks of the Life of Jesus and the beginners are doing paper-cutting. The older boys are making lawn oranments of wood.

One of the features of the school enjoyed by the children was the story of Zaccheus told by Mrs. A. A. Chote, for which she used a flannelgraph.

Friday morning, the final session of the school, the parents are asked to attend the regular classes, commencing at 9 a.m. and particularly tao be present for the worship service in St. Andrew's auditorium at 10.45 a.m. The children will conduct this service except for the talk, which will be given by the Rev. Walter Patterson.

Hairdresser Puts Official In Place

TORQUAY, England —(CP)— Mrs. Gordon Peace, a hairdresser, wanted seven pounds of soft green soap for shampooing.

She applied for it. Back came a query from the authorities. Was the basin she would use wet or dry?

Mrs. Peace's husband took a hand. He wrote:

"In reply to your classic query as to whether a basin in a hairdressing parlor used for shampooing is wet or dry, may I explain that when the cold tap is turned on, it gives out dense black soot.

"The hot tap emits a stream of moonbeams.

"If you ask any more silly questions, you will get some more silly answers."

Mrs. Peace got her soap.

DOROTHY DIX

Expensively Dressing Way To Overplay Your Hand

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother gave me a very pretty diamond ring, which I wear with pride and pleasure. My aunts and cousins tell me the reason I have no boy friends is because of this ring and that I am spoiling my chances of marriage by wearing it. They say I frighten the boys off by it, and that no young man would marry a girl who wore such an expensive piece of jewellery. He would think he could never support her. Are they right in their viewpoint? EMMA MAY.

ANSWER: I don't know whether a diamond ring could hoodoo a girl's chances of marriage, but I have known many a girl to lose out on getting a good husband by dressing too well.

In fact, nothing is more common than the pitiful tragedy that we see enacted over and over again in which a girl does the thing to attract a man that drives him farthest from her. She is pretty and she wants to make a hit with some young chap with whom she has fallen in love. She knows that fine feathers make fine birds, and that even a living picture is enhanced in attractiveness by a gorgeous frame. So she goes in debt for the expensive clothes that will add to her beauty and that she feels sure will capture her man.

Wants Thrifty Wife

But it does not. It scares him stiff. He thinks that she is not the kind of woman that he wants for a wife. He wants a helpmeet, a woman who will be willing to work and pinch pennies while he is getting a start in the world. He does not intend to handicap himself by a clothes-mad wife who will run him into debt with her extravagance.

Believe me, my dear, every young man worth having does count the cost of the upkeep of a wife, and many a one is frightened out of marriage by a girl's overdressing the part.

So perhaps it would be just as well to park that diamond ring if you want some poor young chap to put a gold band on your finger.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Can you tell me how a girl feels when she is in love and what are the symptoms? Do you think that a couple going together for five months can be in love with each other at the ages of 18 and 20?

ONE WHO WANTS TO KNOW.

ANSWER: I think at the ages of 18 and 20 you can think you are in love and have many of the indications of it, but it is far more likely to be a false alarm than the real thing. Occasionally a case of calf love lasts, but for the most part it passes in the course of a few weeks or months, and years afterward you can't even remember the name of the girl or boy who was your first sweetheart.

So don't take your fancy for anybody too seriously. Play around with him. Have a good time with him. But wait and see for yourself whether you are really in love for keeps or are just having a passing fancy.

The most authentic indications that you are in love are these: Do you prefer to spend a quiet evening at home with a boy to going out with him to some place of amusement? Would you rather hear him reminisce about himself or go to a night club? Do you like him best alone or in a crowd?

Can you listen to him talk about himself by the hour and still ask for more? Have you begun to look at pots and pans instead of costume jewellery in the shop windows? Does cooking suddenly become interesting and thrilling to you as a pastime? Have you begun to suggest going to cheapp laces of amusement instead of good shows and places where they dance? When a big six-foot man leaves you of an evening, do you worry over whether he has got run over by an automobile going home? Can you spend hours and hours in a boy's cmpany without yawning?

If you can answer "yes" to all these questions, it looks very much as if you are coming down with a chronic heart ailment.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The most terrible thing has happened to me that can happen to a girl. It will kill my parents, who are very prominent people, if they find out. What shall I do?

DESPERATE SEVENTEEN.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Tell your mother this very day. No matter what you have done, your parents will love you and understand. Give them a chance to help you.

Consumers' Assoc. Queries Ottawa On Meat Prices

OTTAWA, July 12.—(CP). — The Canadian Association of Consumers wants Agriculture Minister Gardiner to tell its more than 10,000 members why meat prices are so high.

In a letter to the minister, the president, Mrs. F. E. Wright of Port Credit, said complaints and resolutions about the high price of meats have been reaching the association from all across the country — especially from Vancouver and Montreal.

"Any assistance you can give in coping with the situation created for consumers by these inordinately high prices for meat would be welcome," she said in the letter, released today from association headquarters here.

The president said the association would be most grateful if the minister would explain "the real causes of this condition which is causing much general hardship.

"On the one hand, we have been told that the high price of meat in Canada is due to the competition of the American market. On the other hand, we are informed that the prices of comparable cuts of meat in the American cities are lower than the price in Canada. . ..."

"Doormat Coats" Wrap The Figure In '50 Fall Style

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP).—The humble doormat becomes one of the important fashions of fall, 1950.

New York designers have startled visiting fashion editors with their "Doormat Coats," made of a heavy, fuzzy fabric in dark gray or deep tan neutral colors, worked into greatcoats that should be equal to any Arctic winter.

Omar Kiam of the house of Ben Reig opened his show today with one of the bulky items in a deep charcoal gray, lined in bright plaid taffeta. It is a greatcoat cut full enough to wrap the figure like a cocoon, with big raglan sleeves cuffed at the wrist, flaring collar that can be turned up over the ears, and a general swash-buckling air.

Kiam showed also an almost endless series of "little black dresses," slim, svelte, dramatizing the curves of the figure—the kind that every woman feels she must have in her wardrobe. All are cut on simple sheath lines, with drapery or other accent at bust and hips, and trimly nipped waistlines.

Highlights in the collection also are a series of short formal dresses, ballet length or shorter, with bouffant skirts, can-can ruffles and bare tops.

Sensational Notes From Previews Of Fall Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Writer

NEW YORK, July 12—(AP)—The bustline comes into its own again in the previews of fall fashions being staged this week for the press.

Mae West pockets are the device adopted by Pauline Trigere to accent Hollywood's favorite curves. These are distended pockets placed strategically just above the bustline for added illusion. Soft drapery also is employed for this purpose by practically all designers this season, many of whom use in addition the "illusion" neckline on evening gowns. This is the startling device of a pleated frill which ascends petal fashion from the waistline and apparently is all there is to the bodice. The illusion is that there is an invisible bra-top beneath it, to keep matters decorous.

Miss Trigere shows also the "poodle" coat, a sensation of the season, made of the shaggy "doormat" fabric which a number of designers have imported.

Nettie Rosenstein, noted as the original sponsor of the "little black dress" as the favorite uniform of North American women, goes far afield this season in one of her most exciting and beautiful collections. For dress-up wear she likes gold or silver lames, gold-beaded nets and a general air of all-over glitter.

Her suits have nipped waistlines, rounded curves and an air of trimness softened by dressmaker touches, while her coats sometimes are cut in complete circles.

This designer also employs many slim tiered skirts to break the severity of the ultra-slim lines. Another device is her "strap-hanger" dress, a simple sheath trimmed all over with loop tabs, suggesting its name.

Business Women Favor Testing For Drunkenness

HALIFAX, July 12.—(CP). — A discussion on the evils of drunken driving featured Tuesday's closing sessions of the 16th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Some 400 delegates—the biggest turnout in the organization's history — from the across the country selected Vancouver as the site for the 1952 meetings.

The Federation tabled a resolution that scientific tests of blood and breath, in cases of suspected drunken drivers be made compulsory. The resolution, proposed by the Kingston club, was tabled pending the results of a study now being made by the Federal Justice department.

Other resolutions asked for the appointment to the senate of one woman from every province and requested legislation preventing discrimination against women in rates of pay.

Varied Program At OAC For WI Holiday

GUELPH, July 12—The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario have begun their second annual week-holiday at Ontario Agricultural College. The program arranged for the five days of this week includes musical entertainment and community singing under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kidd.

Miss Kathleen Taggart spoke on Canadian Art for Homemakers, using as illustrative material prints of productions by noted Canadian artists. John Weall followed with a demonstration chalk talk on Beautifying Farm Homes.

Yesterday's program included such subjects as "Home Planning," "What Shall I Wear?", "Treasures in Books" and "Floral Arrangements."

Today, Thursday and Friday the ladies will have an opportunity to see some of the latest work being done on projects concerned with foods and nutrition.

Interspersed are many periods for recreation, including moving pictures in Memorial Hall and opportunity of visiting the different departments of the college and enjoying the campus, now at its best with roses and other shrubs and decorative plants in full bloom. Trips to various interesting points are being arranged.

See No Exceptions In Roundness New Bra Contours

LOS ANGELES, July 12. — (AP).—Natural, rounded contours are supplanting the anachronism in brassieres that confronted the observer with pointed, armored effrontery during the last war, says the stylists.

This is the word from the Corset, Brassiere and Lingerie Association, holding forth here today with a trade clinic for 1,000 buyers. The manufacturers say there will be no return, however, to the flatchested style of the '20's.

"The trend is becoming more and more mature," said a spokesman. "The way falsie sales are booming it seems there will be no exceptions in the break from the stiff, severe brassiere — not even by women who are not endowed by nature to display the prevailing mode to greatest advantage."

Girlish Curves Return In Autumn Fashion Show

By DOROTHY ROE.

NEW YORK. (AP).—Girls will be girls again this fall.

The last hint of the flat-chested silhouette, the boyish bob and the flapper slouch has been removed firmly from the fall fashion picture. The designers vote unanimously for feminine curves.

Fall fashion previews will accentuate the positive, eliminate the negative.

The prevailing daytime silhouette for fall will be slim but svelte with sharply nipped waistline and accented curves above and below. Padded hips are apparent in many of the new fall suits, and skillful draping dramatizes the bustline.

Skirts are almost uniformly slim and straight, slit for walking comfort and cut on peg-top lines. Their length is about the same as current styles or slightly shorter —14 to 16 inches from the floor, depending on the height of the wearer. Designers seem agreed that the most flattering skirt length is mid-calf.

Last season's abortive effort to bring back the unflattering sack silhouette of the 1920s has been killed indefinitely and finally by the roar of protest that went up from Mr. and Mrs. General Public.

Handsome Fabrics

Most dramatic news in the fall fashion lineup is in fabrics, which are handsomer and more varied than in many years. Surface interest and texture are of first importance. Winter coats will appear in a number of new and unusual fabrics such as an imported "doormat" cloth, heavy and shaggy in the manner of its namesake, used by designers in "poodle" coats and ven hats.

British and American tweeds are top favorites for suits, and are shown in new soft, lightweight versions that may be tailored as softly as fine worsteds. In the dressy categories there are heavy, rich ribbed silks, stiff slipper satins, silks that look like wool and wools that look like silk.

Color also has a field day in fall styles. Nosing out black for town wear is the new charcoal or banker's gray, shown in suits, coats and dresses.

All the warm colors are in high favor for fall, ranging from golden yellow, through orange and rust through the tawny autumn leaf colors. Natural Kaska has returned for daytime wear.

Scottish tartans, will be all over the place come September, especially in campus fashions. Scotch kilts, reaching just above the knee, are being introduced for college girls, to be worn with knee-length wool socks, knitted in Argyle patterns to match.

Evening fashions are strictly glamorous, with the short dinner dress gaining ground for all except the most formal occasions. The theatre or dinner suit, consisting of a strapless sheath and cover-up jacket, is slated to become a standard item. With the jacket, the outfit can be worn for any daytime occasion.

A NEW ROMANCE is rumored for movie actress Bette Davis, shown here with the reported object of her affections. He's Gary Merrill, a Hollywood actor. Bette has filed suit for divorce from William Grant Sherry, an artist, in Juarez, Mexico, while Merrill's wife recently sued him for divorce. Bette has had no comment to make about the rumors that she and Merrill will marry.

Wants Grooms See Wives Without Makeup

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., — (CP) — Men should see their fiancees at least once without make-up before marriage, said the Rev. C. L. Horwood, in an address to the Marriage Guidance council here. He held it would be a check to union's based only on a youth's infatuation with the personal beauty of a girl.

New Zealand girls are not very greatly impressed with the idea as a pre-marriage test Of many girls questioned, most declared that their fiances had seen them not once, but dozens of times, without make-up. Some said that if the idea had any value it had better be extended so that men should see their fiancees in a housedress and slippers and hair in a handkerchief, scrubbing the kitchen floor.

Brian Knight, a prominent consulting psychologist, doubted whether the no make-up test would be of any great help. He declared that an engagement based on sound motives was strong beyond lipstick, but equally an engagment based on the wrong motives was usually strong beyond reasor

Mother, Daughter Race 'Hot' Boats

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP).—A couple of women drivers are showing their propellers to plenty of outboard motorboat jockeys in races this season.

Mrs. Claire Perkins. of White Plains, N. Y., and her 16-year-old daughter, Jean, here for Canada's largest regatta this month believe they are the only family team in midget outboard racing.

Jean's mother gave her a tiny "Doodlebug" racer when she was 14 and after watching her daughter racing caught the germ herself and bought a boat.

Since then every race has been a duel.

Jean placed third in last year's midget class Grand National race —her most notable victory to date. But her 39-year-old mother came second—one place ahead of Jean——in the regatta here.

The tiny racers skip over the water at 40 miles an hour and one slip in timing means a dunking.

While the two race, they have no mechanical worries. Mr. Perkins, an industrial machine salesman, looks after that end.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service.

"What is this business about melds meaning something special?" asks a Santa Fe reader. "We had four sixes and a deuce on the table, and my partner added a deuce to that meld when her turn came. She had about eight or nine cards at the time, and I supposed that she did not need that deuce very much. At any rate, I pand no particular attention to her meld.

"Later on, after the hand was over, my partner asked me if I had held a six at the time that she added that deuce. I said that I had no six but that I did hold a wild card.

"Then she said that her play had asked me to complete the canasta for her, and that it was poor co-operation on my part not to honor her request. Now, I'm a co-operator from 'way back, and I told her so. I said I would be glad to help her out if I could only figure out what she wanted me to do.

"She said that in twenty years of married life together (the lady is my wife) I had never figured out what she wanted. So she was not surprised that I was equally blind at canasta. Any married man can imagine the rest of that conversation, I suppose.

"Anyway, the argument is over, she has flowers and two new dresses, and everything is all right again. Only, what is this business she sprang on me? Does a meld of that kind really mean what she said? Or was she just after some new clothes?"

She had you there, my friend. All the best players really use that kind of meld as a signal.

If your partner brings a meld up to the six-card mark, she wants you to contribute a seventh card to make a canasta. This is especially true of the first canasta for your side, although some players even use this signal for later canastas also.

It would be very hard to work out this signal from scratch. Experienced players found it very important to make the first canasta at certain times. Very often, for example, they are ready to meld out (or nearly ready) but need help in making that first and indispensable canasta. Hence these experienced players began to use the signal we have been describing.

It is a very useful convention. as can be seen from the fact that all good players agree on it. If you are playing with a good partner, the use of the signal amounts to a demand. When your partner puts the sixth card of the first canasta down, you don't ask any questions. You complete the canasta and let your partner make the next move.

Q.—If the dealer has the cards cut in surh a way that he uses exactly the right number of cards for the four players — in other words, if the cut gives him exactly 44 cards—does anybody get a bonus?

A.—There is no bonus for this. A bonus is given in some countries of South America, but none is given in this country. It is a little silly to award a bonus for skill in cutting the cards.

Q.—Some players recently told us that you must always have a natural pair to pick up a one-card discard pile. Is this correct?

A.—No. Provided that you have more than one card in your hand, you may pick up a one-card discard pile in the same way that you would pick up a pile of any other size.

❖ ❖ ❖

Q.—I was dealt a red three and wanted to replace it before anybody played. The dealer said I had to wait until my first turn came. Was he right?

A.—Yes. When your first turn comes, you put down your red three and draw from the stock to replace it.

Convict Counterfeiters

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP) — A Federal court jury convicted four men Tuesday in an unsuccessful $3,000,000 international counterfeit plot. They were accused of being members of a ring that planned to switch $3,000,000 in bogus United States currency for genuine money in the treasury of Cuba.

Liftlock Trophy Tournament Has 200 Entries

The sixth annual open doubles tournament for the Liftlock Gold Trophy opened this morning on the Peterborough greens with 200 bowlers representing 25 Ontario clubs entered. One of the largest events of its kind in the province, too many entries were received, and 14 had to be refused. Total aggregate for three games in six draws will declare the winner tonight.

Robert Gamble, tourney chairman, welcome the bowlers, and C. Argue of Belleville, president of the OLBA, paid tribute to the local club and this tournament. M. Leitcher of Port Perry, chairman of District 14, was present, as were R. Hatch and P. Locke of Madoc, winners last year. Among former Peterborough members present were J. Flett of Oshawa, C. Sedgwick of Toronto, H. Dearborn of Ottawa and Dr. C. Brereton of Toronto.

FLOATING SCOOTER—Phil Rizzuto appears to be floating in the air whipping the ball to first base after forcing the Athletics' Sam Chapman at second at Yankee Stadium. This little New York shortstop's throw to Johnny Mize was on time, as usual, Pete Suder also being retired for another Yankee double play.

Mrs. Ernest Brumwell

The funeral of Mrs. Ernest Brumwell, the former Loretta Hoskin, 57 Hilliard St., was held Tuesday at the Kaye Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Frank Ivey, Ainsley Phillips, Alex Butcher, Fred Brown, Albert Wray, and Charles Brumwell. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. James Semple of George St. United Church.

Lumber Boost Curbs Veterans Home Building

LONDON, Ont., July 12—(CP)—Increase in lumber prices is having the biggest effect on veterans home building in the Windsor area, Robert Pawley, district superintendent of the Veterans Land Act, said today after a conference of regional officials from most of southwestern Ontario.

"Reports from the men in the various areas showed that the biggest price rises were in the Windsor area, where some curtailment of construction is noticeable," Mr. Pawley said. "I expect this is due to the higher lumber prices prevailing in the Detroit area."

Eleswhere in southwestern Ontario little effect is evident as yet, Mr. Pawley said, although it may come before the fall.

WMS To Hold Pie Social At Cottesloe

COTTESLOE, July 12—(ENS).—The Cottesloe WMS met on Tuesday afternoon, July 11, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Forsyth. Eighteen were present.

President Miss Helen Tedford was in charge. The theme of the program was "Feed My Sheep."

Minutes of the previous meetings were read by the secretary, Mrs. Dave Barr. It was decided to hold a pie social some time soon.

A letter of acknowledgment for the parcel sent to overseas relief was read. Also a letter of appreciation from the Webster family for sympathy and kindness shown during the late Mrs. Webster's illness.

Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Johnson Blakley. Readings, "A Race and Crown" by Helen Tedford and "A Home Letter" by Mrs. John Gallaher were given.

Mrs. Fred Bolton gave a reading on "An Alcoholic." A discussion of methods of treating alcoholism followed.

Prayers were given by Mrs. A. Tedford and Miss Helen Tedford.

Mrs. Forsyth served lunch and a social time was enjoyed. The August meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Hayden Jones.

Doesn't Get Estate

LOS ANGELES, July 12 (AP)—The first husband of the Duchess of Windsor, Earl Winfield Spencer, Jr., left his entire estate to his widow, Lillian. Filed for probate Tuesday, his will made no mention of the former Wallis Warfield, whom he married in 1923. They were divorced in 1927. Spencer, who died at 61 in Coronado, Calif., May 29, left an estate worth "in excess of $25,000," his lawyer said.

Same Old Series

it has since been replaced by a causeway.

One view which is supposed to show Burleigh Falls looks more like a view of a river with a few ripples on it. But the worst as far as being out-of-date is very poor aerial shot of the CGE plant taken in the 1920s. It shows street cars travelling along Park St. They were taken off in 1929.

A view of the George-Simcoe Sts. corner shows buses which for the most part were replaced two years ago.

In a souvenir booklet, which sells for 25 cents a "municipal tourist camp" in Riverside Park which no longer exists is pictured.

This same booklet shows the floating bridge over Lake Chemong but neglects to say it has been replaced. Two pictures of Victoria Park, both labelled, taken from almost exactly the same spot, are shown in the booklet. One shows the former bandstand and the other shows the park more or less as it looks today except for the changes made in the flower bed and fountain.

An ex-Peterborough resident, Mrs. M. Hudson, of Detroit, complained recently there were no good post cards of Peterborough on sale and said those obtainable were "obsolete and poor advertising."

Apparently, Mrs. Hudson was right.

Testing Breath Reduced Drunken Driving

In 1949, there were 31,500 people killed in motor accidents and about 1,100,000 were injured. Nearly half the drivers involved in such accidents had been drinking. Yet most of the cities are still failing miserably to stop him, points out the July Woman's Home Companion in an article, "The Killer We Don't Catch."

"Any policeman can tell you that most drinking drivers are booked officially under a charge of reckless driving," reports author William A. Swanberg. Why is this?

Proof Needed

"Because a charge of driving while intoxicated is often impossible to prove in court, unless it's backed up by evidence from a chemical test," the author states.

How can the needless waste of life and property be stopped? A chemical test of breath or urine right on the spot of the accident is the only way to trap the drinker who doesn't look or talk drunk, states the Companion. You can't fool a chemical test. Like a fingerprint it gives evidence no one can explain away. If universally used, it could save thousands of lives every years.

Many a person who now drives while under the influence of liquor would think twice if enforcement of the law really had teeth. For it is not the blind-drunk driver who is the worst enemy; he seldom drives.

How It Works

The motorist who is most dangerous—and very numerous—has had just enough liquor to impair his judgment without noticeably affecting him physically, authorities have found.

How does the chemical test work There are several portable analyzers now in use. One of them is the Drunkometer. When a policeman stops a suspect, he asks him to blow up a sterile rubber balloon. The balloon is then fastened to the testing device and the breath passed through a tube containing a purple fluid — potassium permanganate and sulphuric acid.

The breath of a non-drinker causes no change in this fluid, no matter what he's been eating. But if there is alcohol in his breath, the color of the chemical solution will change from purple to amber. By measuring the amount of breath needed to cause this change the investigator can speedily compute the amount of alcohol in the motorist's blood.

Record Drop

In areas where such tests were instituted the arrests and convictions of drunken drivers skyrocketed at first then soon took a deep dip when motorists realized the risk of driving after drinking.

In Detroit, for instance, a drive against drunken motorists was launched in 1945 with Drunkometer tests. The result was a sharp reduction in accidents. In 1948 they hit an all-time low of three fatalities and 120 injuries attributable to drinking drivers. Compare this with 1941 when there were 47 traffic killings and 1774 injuries caused by the drunk.

Unfortunately, points out the Companion article, less than one-fifth of our cities make use of chemical tests and of that fraction many use them only occasionally or in fatal accident cases.

Not Nation-Wide

Only 13 states have passed legislation recognizing the use of the tests, leaving 35 states in which their validity has to be decided by the individual judge or jury. In those 35 states judges and juries can—and often do — refuse to accept chemical evidence.

And so the parade of highway horrors continues.

Greene Sees Both Sides Of Film Row

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 12 (AP) —Richard Greene stepped into Anglo-American actors' tiff today, but admitted he may get slugged from both sides.

The controversy started with British protests against Irene Dunne going over to play Queen Victoria in a U. S.-sponsored film. A week ago, the British Actors Equity Association urged a ban against Americans playing British characters in films made in Britain. The blast arose over an American playing mark and Gene Tierney in a current picture.

Hollywood answered that it has never discriminated against foreigners here and that many British citizens have played Americans in Hollywood films. Most notable example: Vivien Leigh as Scarlet O'Hara.

Viewing the fracas, Greene remarked: "I can see the reasoning of both sides.

Outlook Dismal

"You have to know conditions in the English industry The best production outlook has been dismal. When I was over there last, eight studios closed up entirely. Only a very small percentage of the actors have been working, stars as well as featured players. Naturally they resent it when an American comes over to take a role that an English star might have played.

"I can understand their anger over and American playing Queen Victoria, who is one of our great figures of recent history. I would expect the same resentment if I were cast as Daniel Boone over here. I would look pretty silly talking with my accent and having a coon skin cap dangling from my head.

"Before the war, we were subjected to many 'English' pictures made in Hollywood. They showed the England of hunting prints, an England that didn't exist. We found such pictures ludicrous, if not insulting."

On the other hand he added, "I can understand the reasoning of American companies. They go over to make pictures that will sell at the box office in the U.S. To do that, they need stars.

"I would say that there are only a handful of English stars—perhaps a few more—who mean anything in Topeka or any other American town."

A BEE-WILDERING SITUATION faces postman Donald Ketcham here. The Kalamazoo, Mich., mailman didn't relish the job of emptying his box, not when he saw the swarm of bees who'd found a new home on the post box on Kalamazoo's main downtown street. Ketcham didn't catch 'em.

500 Put Out of Work By Plant Shut-Down

TORONTO, July 12 (CP) — About 500 employees have been thrown out of work by a shutdown in the shoe division of the Gutta Percha Rubber Company plant here, Stan Thornley, president of the plant local of the United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), said Monday night.

Speaking at a meeting of the Toronto and Lakeshore Labor Council, Mr. Thornley said lack of export orders was one of the main factors in the shut-down. He said some restrictions should be placed on importation of rubber goods into Canada.

Despite the Toronto closing, the company is placing orders in low-wage areas, Mr. Thornley said.

PressConference Report Given

LONDON, July 12 (CP)—Reports on deliberations of the seventh Imperial Press Conference, held in Canada last month, were given Tuesday to members of the Empire Press Union Council.

Lord Burnham, presiding in the absence of Col. J. J. Astor, president of the organization who now is en route from the Dominion, said the conference had been a "tremendous success."

Much had been accomplished which he hoped would be of lasting benefit, not only to the Commonwealth, but to the world generally. He said he believed the most important of many resolutions approved was the one endorsing a declaration of policy on the freedom of the press.

Lord Iliffe, honorary treasurer of the union, said the conference was to be congratulated on its hard work and splendid achievements. It would go down in history as one of the "best ever."

Final consideration of resolutions dealt with at the conference was deferred until the next general meeting of the council, which will also consider a conference recommendation that the name "Empire Press Union" be changed to "Commonwealth Press Union.",

Meanwhile copies of pertinent resolutions will be sent to the heads of United Kingdom departments concerned, with recommendations toward their implementation.

He found that cement for an old cistern had been poured onto a newspaper of Oct. 18, 1918. The lettering was clearly defined in the cement and easily read with the held of a mirror.

Weary U.S. Troops Dig In On New Defence Line Under New Commander

50 Superforts Plaster Enemy Rail Centre In Mightiest Air Blow; Lt.-Gen. Walker Veteran Tank Fighter

TOKYO, July 14.—(Friday)—(CP)—American troops, whose stubborn holding tactics are credited by Gen. MacArthur with having prevented South Korea from being "completely overrun," today took advantage of a lull in fighting on the central front to brace themselves for new blows from the invading North Koreans. MacArthur's communique, issued here at 12.15 a.m. (10.15 a.m. EDT), said that American and south Korean forces north of Taejon "continued to withdraw before numerically superior forces to take up defence behind prepared positions. He said the Kum river line was virtually complete, and that ground fighting had subsided, possibly due to Wednesday's air blows which crippled North Korean communication lines. Rain clouds Thursday restricted Allied aerial strikes on the front.

Nearly 50 B-29 Superforts plastered a key North Korean military target with 500 tons of bombs in the mightiest single air blow of the Korean campaign.

Crews trained in the Second World War flew the four-engined bombers from two far eastern bases through rain and mist for the largest mass foray of the campaign. The target was a railroad centre north of the 38th parallel.

Reports of ground fighting were meagre. The Americans north of Taejon, provisional South Korean capital, appeared to be digging in along the Kum river line for an expected all-out assault by three Communist divisions. The Americans now are under command of Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker, veteran tank fighter of the Second World War.

Far to the northeast, the Reds bridged the Han river at Tanyang and sent at least one division,

Will Speed Up Defence Plans, Boost Budget

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP).—The Defence Department, as a result of Korea, is going to speed up and expand its equipment purchasing program this year on a scale that will add substantially to the record defence budget of $425,000,000, it was learned today.

The development—arising from fears that the Korea War is going to last for months and that it may be the start of other Communist aggressions — will see greater orders placed for such key equipment as fighter planes than had been planned.

Equipment purchasing has been mapped out over a period of years. This program will be accelerated. Planes and other things that normally would not have been ordered until next year will be ordered now.

Financially, the development will emerge in Parliament in the form of supplementary estimates. These can be tabled at any time prior to March 31, 1951, the end of the fiscal year.

Two or three new fighter squadrons are expected to be formed by the RCAF within the next 12 months, but otherwise the emphasis in expansion is on equipment rather than manpower.

It is understood that shipment of equipment to those Allies has been under consideration.

Kashmir Estates Seized, Divided

SRINAGAR, Kashmir July 13 (AP)—The government of the Indian-held section of Kashmir began breaking up large estates today.

Prime Minister Sheikh Abdullah announced that all estates larger than 125 acres would be seized and split among the persons working them. The action, he said, is effective immediately.

He said there would be no compensation for the owners, but they would be allowed to keep 20 acres for themselves. He said the move is an important step in his government's program for complete abolition of absentee landlordism.

Observers surmised that it may have been prompted by reported Communist organizing among peasants.

Bolivian Police Crush Revolutionary Plot

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 13 (AP)—Police say they have squelched a plot to overthrow the Bolivian government and have seized a large cache of arms.

Col. Isaac Vencenti, director general of police, told reporters Wednesday that several rebel groups, reported to have been led by members of the National Revolutionary Movement and the Bolivian Socialist Falange, were nabbed in dawn riads. A semi-official source said more than 40 persons were arrested.

Vencenti said the plotters had intended to turn the government over to former Gen. Froilan Calleja, who led an abortive revolt in August and September of last year. Calleja was said to be a fugitive near the Brazilian border.

Police Identify Bound Body Of Young Girl

WINDSOR, July 13 (CP)—Police today identified the body of a young woman, found weighted and bound in the Detroit River Wednesday, as Margaret Jean Smith, 16-year-old Windsor girl. She had been missing since early last Thursday.

Dr. C. V. Mills, corner, who ordered an autopsy Wednesday night, said the girl apparently died after an illegal operation. The examination indicated the victim was dead when placed in the river.

There were marks on her body, but it is thought these might have been caused by the river current battering against submerged rocks and pilings along the Windsor riverfront, where she was found.

The full-clothed body was found with four steel plates bound to her neck and another four plates tied to her ankles. The plates are similar to those used between railway ties.

An older sister, May Smith, notified police last Friday that the girl was missing.

Investigate Friends

Police are making an intensive investigation among friends and acquaintances of the former collegiate student in an effort to locate the person who performed the illegal operation.

Dr. Mills described the illegal operation as "clumsy" and evidently the work of lay person.

British Shipbuilders Vote Against Strike

YORK, England, July 13 (Reuters)—British engineers and shipbuilders, in a country-wide ballot, have voted by a majority of nearly three to one against strike action in support of their £1-a-week wage claim and in favor of arbitration.

Result of the voting, announced at a meeting of the executive council of the Confederation of Engineer and Shipbuilding Unions at York today was: for arbitration 326,233; for strike action 111,048.

A strike would have involved over 2,000,000 workers.

Feudin' Police Shoot It Out

MINEOLA, Tex., July 13 (AP)—Two feuding peace officers shot out their differences on a downtown street Wednesday. One was killed, the other critically hurt.

Killed was Constable Will Whittle. Injured was Wesley Taylor, acting police chief.

Police Chief C. M. Barnett, who had turned his office over to Taylor in order to run for the office of sheriff, said the two officers had aruged over a minor traffic case.

Wouldn't Take $50,000 Go Over Falls In Barrel

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 13 (CP). — Only living person who has gone over Niagara Falls, Jean Lussier, of Niagara Falls, NY, said today he would not take $50,000 to do the stunt in the steel barrel in which Major Lloyd Hill plans to try it Sunday.

Lussier made the descent in a rubber ball in 1928. Inspecting the barrel the 32-year-old Hill plans to use, he gave the Niagara Falls, Ont., riverman only a 15 per cent chance of coming out alive.

Although Lussier said he would not take $50,000 to try the feat in a wooden or steel barrel, he would do it again in a rubber ball for $1,000.

Five persons have made the attempt, two losing their lives. Last attempt was by George Stathakis in 1930. His barrel remained submerged at the foot of the Falls all night. Next morning, when the barrel reappeared, Stathakis was dead, although a pet turtle in the craft was still alive.

Hill—Major is his given name, not a military rank—shrugs off superstition. He has named his stainless steel barrel "Jigs Jinx," painted "No. 13" on it in big letters, with "Cocked Dice" lettered underneath.

No One Hurt As Ship Hits Orleans

Big Vessel Resting Sideways Now Across Rocky Point

QUEBEC, July 13—(CP)—Morning tides and harbor tugs failed today to re-float the 20,000-ton liner bound for Liverpool with 780 passengers when it ran hard aground on the Island of Orleans Wednesday night.

Officials of Cunard Donaldson Line and divers examined the hull of the big ship to see what can be done to lift it off a rocky point at the western extremity of the island with juts into Quebec harbor.

When ocean tides, which reach harbor. When ocean tides which reach all the way up the St. Lawrence to Quebec, were at their highest today there was some 300 yards of water between the liner and the point of Orleans Island.

There was no explanation of the extraordinary mishap which occurred in full view of holidayers on the island shortly before dark Wednesday night.

There were no known injuries among crew or passengers removed by tug and ferry from the Franconia during the night and now lodged in Quebec hotels and rooming houses.

Near Channel

The mishap occurred at a bend in the St. Lawrence River at the east end of Quebec Harbor where outbound shipping normally swings to starboard and into a channel between island and mainland.

The big black liner's bow was within reach of people ashore.

It was reported this morning that powerful tugs from Halifax may be summoned in an attempt to pull the Franconia free, but there was no confirmation of this from the shipping line.

The accident occurred on a calm evening and at a point in the St. Lawrence River where few marine accidents have occurred.

Cunard officials Wednesday night appeared stunned by the event, but made quick debarkation arrangements. The first passengers, wearing lifebelts, were ashore on the island in less than an hour.

Ferry Passengers

Harbor tugs and launches ferried passengers from the tilting ship, its prow resting on a rocky western island point called "Pointe au Taureau (bull's head)."

A harbor excursion boat, the stubby Louis Jolliet also hustled to the side of the Franconia to help with the evacuation.

At 3:30 a.m. EDT Cunard officials said most of the passengers had been taken off and that the Band Welcomes Canadian Ships

ON BOARD H.M.C.S. CAYUGA AT PEARL HARBOR, July 13.—(CP).—Canada's three Korea-bound destroyers arrived here Wednesday to the music of a United States navy band. But missing were the traditional hula dancers, the guitars and leis that have greeted Canadian ships on visits to this big, bustling base in the past.

The tone of the arrival, after a seven day trip from Esquimault, B.C., was the operational tone that will prevail from now on.

There is a serious air of business at Pearl Harbor and everything is being done with an efficiency and dispatch that blend well with the smart bearing of the white-clad Canadian seamen.

Believe Russia Has 800 Ships In Korean Area

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Russia is believed to have about 800 naval craft deployed near the Korean war area—including between 70 and 80 submarines, a third of them the new XX-1 Snorkels.

Although the 800 total estimate is numerically big, there is no evidence that it comprises anything to make up a balanced naval force. Those studying the situation believe that many of these vessels are small craft of various types and that nothing larger than cruisers is in the area.

So far as can be determined, the Russia navy still possesses no aircraft carriers.

One unknown factor seems to be how many of the smaller vessels may be landing craft or types that could be used for an amphibious operation.

Of Grave Concern

The presence in the Far East of any sizeable number of landing craft could be of grave concern to American forces. They could be used to provide an amphibious "lift" for North Korean flanking operations down the South Korean coast lines. Or they might some day be used in an attempted operation against the American defence bastion in Japan, should Russia and the United States fall into a gloves-off war.

However, it is the Russian submarine force that is drawing most U.S. attention.

UK Blockade Runner Returns Unscathed

HONG KONG, July 13—(AP)—The 800-ton British blockade runner Cloverlock returned unscathed today from the Red China port of Amoy.

She had been shelled July 7 by Nationalist shore batteries as she entered Amoy harbor.

The next day, out-bound from Amoy for Kong Kong, the Cloverlock was ordered by two Nationalist warships to halt. She put on full steam. The warships gave chase, but gave up after about two hours, without having scored a hit.

Hear St Lawrence Seaway Will Be Started At Once

TORONTO, July 13.—(CP).—The Toronto Star says today in a copyright story it has learned that construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and Hydro projects will be undertaken "almost immediately." The United States will make the move as a defence measure, the newspaper says. "The Truman administration will sidestep Congressional opposition, which has blocked it for 50 years, by ordering the U.S. half to be built by the U.S. army, which will return it as a completed job to a civil authority."

Canada is reported ready for an immediate start on its half of the $1,000,000,000 scheme.

The decision was reached, the Star says, because of the threat of war, "even before the tension in Korea exploded into outright conflict."

"Korea is said to have accentuated the urgency of an immediate start on the twin project — both said to be desperately needed in case of another world war."

The seaway phase of the project would make all of the Great Lakes accessible to ocean-going ships. The hydro plans call for a 2,200,000-horse-power development near Cornwall. The power would be divided equally between Canada and the United States.

Plane Crashes In Mountains

TUCSON, Ariz., July 13 (AP)—A big military plane crashed and exploded into a mass of flames in the rugged Galuro mountains of southern Arizona early today.

Six hours after the crash, a search plane reported sighting wreckage and three survivors. Parachutes were spread on a ridge.

Davis-Monthan air force base here said the type of military plane had not been established.

Scene of the wreckage is about 40 miles northeast of Tucson in some of Arizona's roughest country.

Clifford Stahl, pilot of the search plane from which the wreckage was sighted, said two of the men were standing on a ridge about two miles from the wreckage. A third survivor was seated beside a parachute. All three men were waving.

The ruggedness of the mountain terrain made it impossible for Stahl to land.

A rancher, Homer Boyd, reported he heard engines thunder over his ranch house, 40 miles northwest of Willcox, after midnight.

Gardener Jailed 8 Years Knifed Palace Employees

LONDON, July 13.—(AP).—A royal gardener was packed off to prison for eight years today for knifing and beating two of Queen Mary's housekeepers in an early morning burglary attempt June 24.

The judge said he could have been given a life sentence.

The man, Gerald O'Brien, 26, pleaded guilty to being armed with a knife, and three other charges concerned with the attack on Mrs. Alice Knight and Mrs. Winifred Ralph, elderly housekeepers who caught him in Marlborough House.

Judge G. B. McClure said he accepted O'Brien's statement that he didn't know whose house he was in.

"Indeed," said the judge, "it does not matter."

He said it was no more serious to break into a palace than into a pre-fabricated house.

"Nobody in their right senses would attempt to break into a guarded palace," said O'Brien's lawyer, pleading for a light sentence because O'Brien had been drinking and was ill.

Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Ralph were in a hospital for several days after the attack. The incident led to a tightening of the guards at all Royal palaces. Trained police dogs are helping to guard Marlborough House now.

40 Injured As U.S. Trains In Collision

Special Train Loaded With Holidayers On Way To Canada

PAYNESVILLE, Minn., July 13.—(AP).—A Soo Line special train carrying 225 eastern vacationists to Canada sideswiped a freight train here today, injuring approximately 40 persons.

Preliminary examination indicated only five or six were injured severely. All were treated aboard the train or in doctors' offices here. Arrangements were made to take the passengers to Minneapolis later in the day.

The 15-Pullman train had left Minneapolis at 1.30 a.m. It carried Ohio and Atlantic Seaboard hardware men and their wives, who were bound for Banff, Alta., en route to the National Retail Hardware Association's convention in Seattle.

C. S. Pope, Soo line vice-president, said an eastbound freight train was backing into a siding near Paynesville to clear the single track line when the vaca-About four feet of the freight tion special arrived about 3 a.m. locomotive had failed to clear the main line.

Couldn't Stop

A flagman signalled the passenger train and engineer John Jaros of Minneapolis, set the brakes but could not stop in time. His train slid about a quarter of a mile and ripped along the side of the freight.

The passenger was travellin' about 45 miles an hour at the time of impact.

Both locomotives were derailed. An empty coach immediately behind the passenger locomotive was telescoped. Three cars of livestock and one of butter were demolished. At least 50 head of cattle, hogs and sheep were destroyed. An equal number were freed from the damaged cars and wandered away.

Dr. Clifford Myre and Dr. Ralph Lindeman both said most of the injured had suffered cuts and bruises. None was sent to hospital.

Safe Crackers Strike 3rd Time

LYNDEN, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Safe crackers, in action for the third time in as many weeks, Wednesday night attempted to crack open the vault in the Royal Bank of Canada branch here, but apparently were frightened away before completing the job.

On July 5, thieves blew the safe in the Lynden Co-operative feed mill, next to the bank, and got away with a small amount of money.

On June 29, the Copetown feed mill was entered and the safe carted out into a field and cracked open. The loot amounted to about $20.

Stealing tools from the Canadian National Railways' tool shed the yeggmen entered the bank by jimmying the back door. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith who live in an apartment across the street, said they thought they heard a blast as a train was passing.

Credit 2 Canadians With Moving Monster

LONDON, July 13 (CP) — A honeymooning Canadian couple was credited today with dredging out that hoary denizen of the deep—the Loch Ness monster.

The story goes that the young bride of Donald Coates of Montreal tossed a discarded ham-bone into the Scottish Loch. Up came a large head that looked like neither fish nor mammal.

Coates, a Rhodes scholar at New College, Oxford, who spent two years on research in the Canadian Arctic, says he thinks it was a land-locked seal of almost extinct species.

The Evening Standard, which related the honeymooners story, said no fresh-water seals exist in Britain.

Canada Fears Russia Trying To Sap Strength

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP)—Canada's government is worrying whether Korea means that Russia has embarked on a policy of sapping western strength in sideline, satellite wars to soften the democracies for a gigantic blow by herself.

The possibility that Korea is part of a crisis-by-crisis buildup for a third world war has Ottawa, London and Washington in close consultation on every scrap of evidence emerging from behind the iron curtain.

This fear, it is understood, underlines their views on the Korean situation itself—generally regarded as alarming in a local sense—on disposition of Canadian forces internally and on further aid to the United Nations in Korea.

At a 2½ hour cabinet meeting yesterday, Canada formally turned three destroyers over to United Nations' command to fight in Korea waters, but only in that specific war.

Keep Hands Off

Both Prime Minister St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Pearson stressed that the destroyers would be available only for U.N. police action against anti-Communist aggression in Korea. Mr. Pearson told a press conference they could not, for instance, be used to support American forces blocking Chinese Communists from an invasion of Formosa, last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists.

Mr. Pearson said no other form of Canadian aid to Korea is contemplated at this time. Parliament would be recalled if steps were needed to send any other military

Sault Police Join Search

THESSALON, Ont., July 13 — (CP)—The search for a red-bearded mystery man who has terrorized this town for six days was stepped up today.

Police reinforcements were to be called from Sault Ste. Marie.

The man, believed a bushman gone berserk, mutilated two calves and a horse—apparently in a mad desire for food. Wednesday he attacked another calf on a farm at nearby Ansonia village. He had stolen scores of chickens and made off with vegetables from farmers' gardens.

Women and children are fearful of leaving their homes at night. Men are keeping all-night vigils in barns and around their houses.

"We keep our door well locked now," said Mrs. Harry Gavin, who lives on a cattle farm with her three children. "The other night I heard a calf bawling in the bush and thought it was just caught in a fence. The next morning we found it mutilated. It just isn't safe around here any longer."

Elderly Drummer Dies In Trenton Walk

TRENTON, July 13.—William Bosbery, bass-drummer in an Orange parade, dropped dead on Wednesday after marching with the parade into Hannah Park.

Bosbery, who is from Picton, was believed to be more than 80 years of age. Coroner Dr. A. E. McQuade said the heat and over-exertion had contributed to his death.

Bosbery received no medical attention for 15 or 20 minutes after dropping in the park and the Coroner said that future parades should have medical supervision.

with artillery, to cut the key rail line from the southeast Korean port of Pusan to Taejon, 13 miles south of the Kum river line.

An advanced headquarters spokesman said several bridges across the winding Kum river, 15 miles north of Taejon, were blown up last night. One was a large railway bridge.

The Reds launched a new drive from newly-won Tanyang, 65 miles northeast of Taejon. Heading southeast, it looked to be a push to cut the vital rail line from the southeast port of Pusan to Taejon, key defence centre 13 miles south of the Kum.

Announces Appointment

Gen. MacArthur announced the appointment last midnight of Walker, chief of the United States Eighth Army in Japan, as commander of ground forces in Korea.

The Eighth Army has taken over the job of U.S. army forces in Korea

Walker commanded the famed armored "Ghost Corps" of Gen. George Patton's Third Army in Europe. He was cited by Britain and praised by the U.S. War Department for his co-ordination of infantry and armored groups.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, conferred here with MacArthur.

Admiral Arthur W. Radford, commander-in-chief for the U.S. navy in the Pacific, was flying from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo to confer with MacArthur.

New Objective

MacArthur's communique said the 15th and 5th North Korean divisions have started a drive to the southwest "in a wide envelopment heading for Hamchang," 45 miles northeast of Taejon and on a line that would take them to the Pusan-Taejon railroad if they were successful.

Tom Lambert, Associated Press correspondent, reported from the front that the drive began when the Reds bridged the Han River at Tanyang, about 20 miles east of fallen Chungju, and sent one division with artillery rolling south.

The American-trained South Korean 8th division was driven out of Tanyang, MacArthur said, and other South Korean troops "were pushed back to a position about 10 miles southeast of Chungju."

Lambert placed the active Red front on a 50-mile arc from Chochiwon, 20 miles north of Taejon, northward and eastward to Tanyang.

He said Red pressure toward the east does not endanger American forces at the moment.

Outflanking Danger

"But a rapid Red drive south from the Chochiwon-Tanyang arc could outflank them again," Lambert wrote. "Military maps show there are fair roads south from Chungju and Tanyang. These roads probably could accommodate the Red armor which has spearheaded successfully the Communist drive southward of about 100 miles in some sectors."

American and Australian planes hit Red columns in "increased strength" Wednesday, a Far Eastern air forces communique reported. They destroyed 38 tanks and damaged three others.

The Allied fighters and bombers have pretty well choked up the roads behind Red lines with the debris of Red tanks and other vehicles.

A senior officer at advanced American headquarters said "it's going to be a job for the Reds to clear their way through it."

But American front-line troops knew painfully that Red tanks and infantry have handled themselves capably.

Asks Asylum In U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) —The State Department said Wednesday night that Jan Kyjovsky, former acting Czechoslovakian consul general in New York, had requested asylum in the United States. The request is being considered.

Let Box Fall It's Dynamite

THESSALON, July 13—(CP)—Two boys from nearby Little Rapids were seriously injured Thursday when a box containing dynamite caps exploded while they were handling it. Ronald Morrissette, 13, is in hospital in Sault Ste. Marie, 50 miles west of here, and his brother, Gerald, aged nine, is in hospital at Thessalon.

The accident occurred as the boys searched for screening in the garage of their home. Gerald found a small box and rattled it, thinking it might contain screening to repair a chicken coop.

He passed the box to his brother and the two went outside. Ronald tossed the box against the icehouse and the dynamite caps exploded. Gerald suffered shock and injuries to his right shoulder, ear and leg. Ronald received the full blast against his stomach.

20 Passengers Die In Crash

BERLIN, July 13—(Reuters)—A workers' train crashed into a freight train near Wildenfels, Saxony, last night, killing at least 20 persons, the East German News Agency reported today.

A signalman was arrested.

More than 50 persons were reported severely injured. The train was carrying home late-shift workers.

Morning Selling Sends Prices Down Sharply

TORONTO, July 13—(CP)—Morning selling sent prices sharply lower for a second successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. In mid-session steadying tendencies appeared. Volume for the first three hours was 1,219,000 shares.

Losses ranged from fractions to two points over a broad list of industrials. The market opened lower, attempted to rally but continued sliding as fresh selling appeared.

Today's declines in senior and junior producing golds again carried the index to a new seven-year low. Seniors were off fractions and juniors showed losses ranging up to 25 cents.

Western oils were in a solid downward movement.

Base metals made the best showing. The group attempted to hold against the selling but was slowly forced lower. News of another increase in the price of lead reduced several early losses.

Wings And Hawks Make Player Deal

TORONTO, July 13 (CP). — Milt Dunnell, Toronto Star sports editor and columnist, said today Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have completed a player deal that will rank probably as "the biggest two-club deal in professional hockey's history." It involves nine players.

Dunnell says Detroit will give goalkeeper Harry Lumley, defenceman Jack Stewart, winger Pete Babando of the Wings and Al Dewsbury of Indianapolis, Red Wing farm club in the American Hockey League. In addition, the Hawks will get either Nels Podolsky, Max McNab, or Don Morrison.

Chicago will send centre Metro Prystai, defenceman Bob Goldham, and winger Gaye Stewart, and either goalkeeper Frankie Brimsek or Sugar Jim Henry to Detroit.

He founded the Canada Steel Goods Company in Leamington, Ont., in 1903, but later transferred the firm to Hamilton where it eventually became the Stanley Works of Canada.

Col. Hatch is survived by two sons, Frederick and Harry, both of Hamilton.

liner was in no danger of rolling over on her side—a rumored danger.

Dawn found the Franconia resting almost sideways across the point, its black hull towering above Pointe au Taureau. The ship listed slightly to starboard—well down at the stern.

Passengers landed by tug at Ste. Petronille, on the island about a quarter-mile from the scene of the grounding, said the Franconia shuddered [illegible] between 9:40 and 9:50 p.m. EDT.

Headed For Channel

The liner had swung into the harbor from Wolfe's Cove dock, headed overseas, at 9 p.m. and was making its way towards the St. Lawrence River channel on the south side of Orleans.

A short distance from the island, the Franconia passed the incoming Canadian National Steamships passenger vessel, Lady Nelson.

Aboard the Franconia, some of the passengers leaned over deck rails, others were busy hanging clothing in wardrobes and still others had settled down to watch the ship's evening movie.

Around Orlean's south point, people in dozens of summer homes looking out on the river and hotel residents chatting on terraces watched the progress of the ship around a harbor bend.

Mrs. Bernard Fortier, relaxing on the rocks at Pointe au Taureau, watched the Franconia head closer to shore. Terrified, she leaped up and fled.

Some islanders rushed to their automobiles and moved them away from parking areas near the water as the ship plowed forward toward the rocks.

Last-Minute Effort

Joseph Gregoir, manager of the Bellevue Hotel, said the Franconia seemed to attempt a last-minute turn to starboard toward the broad channel.

Jean-Paul Verschelden, one of a group of Montrealers making a Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome, said he nudged a companion on the Franconia's deck and remarked:

"Watch us hit those rocks."

Moments later, the Franconia trembled under the first impact and then struck the rocky point with a roar.

C. A. Owens on his way home to St. Helens, England, after a holiday in Calgary, said he saw the ship's movie screen become fuzzy and then heard the noise of grounding. He added:

No Panic

"The loud-speakers announced that we had run aground, that there was no cause for alarm and that everyone should go to their boat stations.

"This was done. There was no panic and everything was orderly."

Three harbor tugs raced to the island and the debarkation of passengers was under way within a half-hour.

Passengers left everything behind but the clothes they wore. The ferry service to Ste. Petronille wharf, within sight of the stricken ship, functioned speedily and soon the wharf and the adjoining Belair Hotel overflowed with the rescued.

Flt. Lt. D. R. Baxter, returning home to England with his wife and two children after a two-year tour of duty with the RCAF, said the grounding was the most surprising marine accident he had ever heard of before.

"Here we are safely ashore, the kiddies are in bed in a rooming house, and there's a hotel cocktail bar right in front of us."

Arrange Transport

Officials of the shipping line arranged for buses to transport passengers from the island the 12 miles to Quebec City where 300 hotel and tourist-home rooms were booked for them.

The first group of buses from the island reached Quebec at 4 a.m., led by a police car.

No official explanation for the accident was available immediately.

The liner probably was under control of river pilots at the time and one unofficial theory was that a steering-system failure occurred.

At the time of the grounding, dark had not fallen, the weather was clear and visibility was good.

The passenger list included holiday and business travellers, a group of pilgrims to Rome and a group of Canadian school boys whose trip abroad was financed by Garfield Weston, British business man born in Canada.

Rain Brings Relief From Hot Spell

Near-black skies opened up at 1:37 p.m. today and poured much-needed rain on the city and district. Office-workers peeked smiling from their windows to see the first heavy rain in the past three weeks.

Temperatures over the past week have averaged 83 for the hottest periods of the days. Highest temperature recorded officially was 85 on Sunday.

Unconcerned children scampered along the streets at the beginning of the storm, welcoming the rain. But they, too, headed for doorways and homes minutes after the rain began to fall.

Conscription In Australia

CANBERRA, July 13 (Reuters) —Australia will introduce national military training as soon as possible, Acting Prime Minister Arthur W. Fadden announced today.

The proportions will be: 75 per cent for the army, 15 per cent for the air force and 10 per cent for the navy.

Fadden is acting prime minister in the absence of Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, en route to London for Commonwealth talks.

As deployed, the Red sub fleet in the Far East seems to have as its main job the potential duty of cutting the Asiatic-Indonesian life-line along which the United States would send help in event of general war in the Orient.

Bases Available

Bases used by the Red sub fleet are believed to include the excellent ports of Darien, in Manchuria, on the Yellow Sea; harbors on Sakhalin Island, directly north of Japan; the big base of Vladivostok; Okhotsk, a port in the northwest corner of the sea of same name; and naval installations along the Kamchatka Peninsula and to the north along the Siberian mainland.

The last two areas face, at easy cruising range, the United States' Aleutian Islands, the outermost of which Japan seized easily at the beginning of the Second World War.

Russia's far eastern submarine fleet is part of a total force estimated to run as high as 350 submersibles of types ranging from old wartime models to the latest Snorkels.

(A Snorkel is capable of running underwater with its Diesel engines swiftly and for long periods by use of an extended "breathing" tube to the surface.)

U.S. Denies Carrier Sunk In Pacific

TOKYO, July 13 — (AP) — A United States navy spokesman said today "the United States navy carrier on duty in the Western Pacific is still very much afloat."

The 27,000-ton Essex class carrier Valley Forge had been rumored sunk.

In Washington, a navy department spokesman also denied the rumor.

(In Hong Kong the rumor touched off a sharp rise in gold prices. The British Crown Colony's tense, war-conscious population queued up by scores at money exchange shops, buying gold. The brisk demand sent the price from $292 (Hong Kong) per tael (about 1⅓ ounces) to $306. The Hong Kong dollar is worth about 19 cents in Canadian funds.

Plan Unity Talks

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) —The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations announced Wednesday that they will start a new series of "unity" talks July 25. In a joint statement, the two big labor organizations that split apart in bitterness during the 1930s, merely gave the date and the place—Washington.

Leading Painter Dies

MIAMI, Fla., July 13 (AP)— Miss Dewing Woodward, 94, one of the leading painters in the United States, died Wednesday after a short illness. She was the daughter of John Vanderbilt Woodward, a cousin of Cornelius Vanderbilt. Her works hang in many leading museums.

Cabinet Shuffle Unlikely Ottawa Says

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP)—Reports of post-parliament cabinet shuffles faded today as Prime Minister St. Laurent prepared to head for Quebec and a summer vacation that is expected to last beyond the end of July.

Sources close to Mr. St. Laurent said he has no intention of making any changes in his cabinet now or in the near future.

There have been reports here that he planned a shuffle once parliament rose and that Finance Minister Abbott, in particular, was anxious to shift jobs. The Korean crisis has also sparked reports of changes. One report has been that Fisheries Minister Mayhew, British Columbia's representative, will be replaced.

Mr. St. Laurent, just back from a four-day western trip, presided at a cabinet meeting Wednesday. He is scheduled to take a train to Quebec late in the day. He will head for his new summer home near Riviere Du Loup to join his wife.

Howe Takes Place

While he is gone, Trade Minister Howe is expected to be acting Prime Minister. A number of members of the cabinet are out of town, including Agriculture Minister Gardiner, Defence Minister Claxton, Resources Minister Winters and Immigration Minister Harris.

Mr. Claxton is due back Monday from Newfoundland.

Cabinet ministers will be able to keep in touch with Mr. St. Laurent by phone but that avenue will be used rarely.

Mr. St. Laurent likes his holidays, his golfing and swimming, to be as much as possible like the quiet, unruffled family affairs he knew before politics interrupted them.

LET'S LOOK AT THE MOON

You look at the full moon and ask yourself questions. How did it get there? [illegible] did it come from. What's on it.

The astronomers have all the answers, learned by using their eyes, and telescopes.

In the first place the moon was torn out of the earth hundreds of millions of years ago—perhaps from the big hollow now filled by the Pacific Ocean.

At that time the earth was a shining globe of gas. It spun so fast that it flattened at the poles. Finally it assumed the shape of a pear. The stalk end of the pear developed a bulb. When the spinning was so fast that the day was only three hours long, centrifugal force tore five thousand cubic miles, the bulb, from the earth and flung it into space. That is how the moon was born.

At first the moon revolved around the earth at grazing distance. About 54,000,000 years ago the moon began to spiral away. Now it is 236,000 miles distant.

Ultimately the moon will retrace its course. After some millions of years exciting events will happen, because of the earth's attraction. Lunar mountains will topple. There will be great avalanches. On the earth, cracks will open and swallow whole cities. Earthquakes will rock the continents. Astronomers will watch the process for centuries. Huge rocks will rain down on the earth, some of them a mile in diameter. The sky will flame with meteorites; forest burn up; oceans boil.

Yes, most of what we know about our universe has come to us through vision.

And in our daily lives, so much of our ability depends on how well we see.

Many of us don't realize this and we stumble along getting little satisfaction out of work, and very little enjoyment from leisure. After a while, we grow so accustomed to seeing poorly that we take our eyesight for granted and wonder what can be wrong.

14 Lodges, 435 Orangemen Parade In Norwood Village

The Orange Order, stands for justice, freedom, opportunity and the decent things of life, George S White, M. P., for Hastings-Peterborough told more than 800 members of the Orange Lodge and townspeople in Norwood, yesterday afternoon.

The first speaker of the afternoon, Mr. White reminded all members of the Order that the ideals, practices and traditions for which the Order stands should be practiced throughout the year and not only on July 12.

The Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh, Havelock, said that the ideals of the Orange Order should be carried into the future in order to better and bless this land.

Gordon K. Fraser, M. P. for Peterborough West, told of the splendid contribution that members of the Orange Order had made in the War of 1812, by fighting to keep Canada within the Britis hEmpire. In the first World War 60,000 L. O. L. members had joined the armed forces and in the last war, 65 per cent of the members had been in the services.

He continued with the statement that Orangemen could play a very important part in stamping out the Communist threat in Canada today.

These three themes were developed by the remaining two speakers of the afternoon, the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, Peterborough and the Rev. E. E. Pugsley, Norwood.

The highlight of this 260th celebration of the Battle of the Boyne was the colorful parade made up of members of 14 lodges. Led by County Master, Chester McCraken and Walter Rogers, County Marshall, mounted on two white horses, the 435 walkers marched from the Orange Hall on Peterborough Street to Gregg's Grove where the speeches were heard

Each lodge had its own band of fife and drums with the Norwood Community Band in the lead.

Rod Webb, taking the place of Reeve Rork Ferguson, who is ill, welcomed the visitors and then handed the mike over to Chester McCraken who acted as master of ceremonies.

After the speeches, the parade was again formed and marched through the principle streets of the town. Some of the bands broke away and spent the remainder of the afternoon serenading shutins members of the Order, so that they too might enjoy the celebration.

Albert Webster, South Dummer believes that he is setting a record for that district. He has attended every walk since he joined the Order more than 50 years ago.

At 5.30 p.m. supper was served in the Town Hall by the members of L. O. B. A., Norwood.

The days celebartion was brought to a close by a dance in the town hall.

Missing 1 Month Body Found In Cobourg Bay

COBOURG, July 13 —(ENS)—The body of Lloyd "Chickie" Henderson was fond late Wednesday afternoon floating in Cobourg harbor just south of the T-pier. The discovery was made by workmen on the dredge who notified police. No inquest will be held.

Chickie Henderson, aged 36, disappeared Sunday afternoon, June 4, leaving no clue behind.

Police sent his description all over the province and newspapers and radio stations co-operated in publicizing the details. He had been in poor health for some time before his disappearance.

On the afternoon that he vanished, he was seen on George St., which leads to Lake Ontario, but nobody saw him at the waterfront.

Many rumours were tracked down by police without success. Earlier this week when an oil tanker picked up a body east of Cobourg and took it in to Kingston, there was some speculation that it might be that of the missing Cobourg man but the description did not tally.

Mr. Henderson was very well known in Cobourg. He was quiet and co-operative and was keenly interested in ball, having umpired in local leagues. He was also coach of the champion Dunham Aces softball team. He was a good sportsman and was well-liked by all his acquaintances. Deceased is survived by his parents and one brother, Charles.

WarmWeatherBooms Cobourg Tourist Trade

COBOURG, July 13 —(ENS)—Arrival of weather more in keeping with July, has brought an increase in tourist business to Cobourg. The tourist camp registrations have increased sharply and motels and cabins are being filled each night.

The Chamber of Commerce tourist office reports a huge volume of tourist enquiries which has built up in the past two weeks that promises to exceed last year.

Four motels have been erected since last year and these are doing a bumper trade. Tourists are showing a marked preference for motels and cabin accommodation and are showing less interest in tourist homes.

Plan Donkey Baseball At Rotary Carnival

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13 —(ENS)—Plans have been laid for the big Rotary carnival to be held in Campbellford on Front St. Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights this week. On the street there will be dancing and other free entertainment, and on Saturday, the big show will wind up with a beauty contest.

Bingo games will be in progress every night, and on Friday evening, there will be a tug-of-war between Seymour east and Seymour west.

The funds realized from this venture will be used in welfare work and for the good of the entire community.

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1950

Russia's Clouded Crystal Ball

Guessing what other nations will do in given circumstances has been a favourite governmental pursuit since the dawn of history. A few exceptional men—Caesar and Napoleon, to name two—have been uncommonly successful at it. Russia has never shown herself especially gifted in this sort of second-sight, and in the instance of the present war in Korea it looks as though Russia had been mistaken in every important aspect of the matter. Certainly the statement on Korea which was issued by Gromyko on July 4 sounds more like an excuse for Russian miscalculation than the protest of a foreign minister.

* * *

What did Russia expect in Korea? It looks as though Russia expected that the circumstances surrounding the Spanish War could be repeated. Russia no doubt expected that when the Communist forces in Korea attacked the southern Koreans, the United Nations would hesitate; Russia then hoped to suggest that the war be localized, and that there be no outside interference. No doubt Russia expected that the United Nations would be relieved to make an arrangement which would excuse it from taking any action. Russia would then have continued to supply the Korean Communists with the means of war, South Korea would have been overrun quickly, and Russia and Communism would have gained a victory which would have impressed all the peoples of Asia, and prepared them to slip under Russia's influence when their time came.

* * *

What happened? Instead of hesitating, U.N. acted at once. The action of U.N. was taken by President Truman as sufficient mandate for ordering U.S. troops to act at once in support of the Council's demand. U.N. endorsed his action and called upon other nations to assist, which they are doing. Everything, in short, happened contrary to what Russians had expected.

* * *

Mr. Gromyko's statement on the matter is a clumsy one. He accuses both U.N. and the U.S. of "illegality." He asserts, in the face of known fact, that it was South Korea which attempted to overrun the north. But the tone in which the statement is cast suggests deep chagrin at the failure of a plan, rather than any real indignation on behalf of Korea.

* * *

It is one of the glories of mankind that men do not always act predictably; it is one of the charms of history that it does not repeat itself with monotonous regularity. We do, in fact, occasionally learn a lesson that history spreads before us. And the events of Spain are near enough in time for most of us to remember them with clarity. Non-intervention there was a powerful encouragement to Germany and Italy; non-intervention in Korea would have cost U.N. much in prestige and would have greatly strengthened Russia's hand in the East. But bold and rapid action has embarrassed Russia and has taught her leaders that they are no better at mind-reading than anyone else.

The Slain Are Replaced

We have been reading some population statistics from France. The birth rate in that country is being maintained at a high level: 865,000 live births in 1949 compared with 612 births in 1938. The death rate since the war, 568,000 in 1949, has been consistently less than the pre-war level; for instance there were 647,000 deaths in 1938. Since the beginning of 1946 the excess of births over deaths in France has been about 1,300,000. This more than compensates for the population losses suffered by France due to the war. France is now more heavily populated than ever before.

France's story has the same tenor as other war-torn countries—Britain, Germany, Italy, Holland, even, we suspect, Russia, despite that nation's colossal losses, have all made up for their wartime casualties. Canada and the United States, whose losses were comparatively small, have far surpassed their 1939 population levels. In the Far East, of course, the populations continue to increase fantastically despite wars, plague and famine.

It used to be a complacent principle of scientific historians that population problems, more specifically the problems of feeding people, were periodically adjusted by wars, disease, or famine, or all three of them in series. The neat adjustment trick seems no longer to work — for the time being. Five years after the largest war in history, all countries have made up their population losses, or surpassed them. Medical and social sciences have reduced the loss through disease, and human benevolence and technical skills are making mass deaths from starvation next to impossible. Will the world become over-populated and under-fed, so that some catastrophic war for the means of sustenance will end it all? So ingenious is man that by the time present known means of production are exhausted others may have been discovered. Already atomic physicists have harnessed immense forces which may be diverted to running the machines and homes of mankind, and scientists are experimenting with stimulating growth in water by chemical means. Will a hundred acres of the plumpest kernels of wheat be grown in a cubic yard of water? So remarkable have some of the fulfilments of science and engineering been in the last hundred years that it would be a dull-witted person who believed that the improbable cannot be made possible.

Not For Children

Our esteemed contemporary, the Brantford Expositor, calls attention to a curious contest recently sponsored by the Columbia University Press. Tiring of questionnaires to decide "the ten best books," the Press has asked a lot of people to name "the ten most boring classics". The results have been interesting.

Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress is an easy winner, it appears. Following it, in order of boredom are Melville's Moby Dick, Milton's Paradise Lost, Spenser's Faerie Queene, Boswell's Life of Johnson, Richardson's Pamela, Eliot's Silas Mariner, Scott's Ivanhoe, Cervantes' Don Quixote, and Goethe's Faust.

The curious thing about this list is that every book on it is a classic of high reputation and a classic is, by definition, a book which holds the attention of many generations of readers by its qualities of interest, or style, or wisdom, or all three. A book cannot be both a classic and a universal bore.

We admit that we are bored by some of the books on this list. Pamela, for instance, holds no charm for us. But—and perhaps this is the root of the matter—we feel that the fault is more likely to lie in us than in Pamela. If the book bored everybody it would have disappeared from sight long ago.

The Expositor mentions that every book on the list is often encountered on reading courses in schools and universities, and that books read under compulsion are often boring for that reason. This seems to us to add weight to an opinion we have held for years, i.e., that good books should not be given to young readers who are incapable of enjoying them. Children cannot get much out of a book written by an adult to be read by other adults. And university students who are just learning to think are not the best judges of books written by men to whom thinking has long been second nature.

Great books demand great readers. They do not reveal their secrets to those who say, 'Come on; show me!" They demand the friendly co-operation of readers who are not too far removed in intellect from the authors themselves. And classics become classic because of undoubted merit, not because of the industrious boosting of leagues of teachers and professors.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Telephone rates are up. The hum on the dial phone now is undoubtedly the Bell company purring its satisfaction.

The graduate of a university wears a cap and gown: the graduate from the university of experience wears a coffin.

New York fashion reports speak of something new—dresses with "muscles." Just the thing for those underdeveloped girls.

A Washington designer complains that the average man doesn't know how to tie a tie. Is he suggesting a return to the "hook-on"?

It is being said now that Russia will never return to United Nations. Ah, well, their unity with the rest was of the type which would be better defined as proximity.

Outlook In France

by Peter Whitney

FRANCE is being charged with irresponsibility for having a Government crisis while the West is facing grave anxieties in Korea. The charge is unjust, yet the French Conservative Press is making it, with exaggerated gloom. M. Gabriel-Robinet, the editorial writer of the "Figaro," confessed on Wednesday, after M. Queuille's four-day-old Cabinet had been sunk without trace by the Assembly, that he felt himself in a waking dream, asking himself "whether our Parliament has not become the image of some modern Byzantium, and whether it is not time to rouse all who remain solid and healthy against the stupid and shocking manoeuvres of those who are stirring up, a year in advance, a veritable election hysteria."

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS is the way General de Gaulle has been talking about the French parliamentary system for a long time. Doubtless it is true that last week's events will help the Gaullists. Not for many months have they had such conspicuous evidence of parliamentary failure.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT second thoughts suggest that the crisis is only an ordinary one, after all. France is still being governed. Prices are still coming down. Gold and the dollar have risen only slightly in the black market; evidently the peasants are not yet frightened of the future.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS crisis, like all the recent ones, has been precipitated by the Socialists in the effort to stop the drift towards the Right of the Centre Coalition of which they are, willy nilly, a part. They must do this, they argue, not only for their own narrow party interest, but in order to prevent the Communists from dominating the working class and the trade unions.

◇ ◇ ◇

NO sensible man can deny the force of this argument. Both the M.R.P. and the Radicals, their partners in the coalition, have Left Wings which remind them of the same necessity; but, unlike the Socialists, they have Right Wings which hold them immobile.

◇ ◇ ◇

LAST winter the Socialists went out of the Government on the issue of wages in industry; now they have defeated Bidault and Queuille over the pay of the civil service. Political peace will not be in sight even if this present difficulty is composed. Next come veteran pensions, a Communist speciality.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Socialists carry the onus of constantly bringing Cabinets down, but they have had, it is only fair to say, heavy provocation. If one turns one's attention from the scapegoats to the M.R.P. and the Radicals, one sees in actual fact that glissement a droit which the Socialists complain about. The M.R.P. is perhaps the clearest illustration of it. The Movement Republicaine Populaire of the heady post-liberation days was a proudly Left-wing party. But because it was less so than the Socialists and Communists it got all the Right-wing votes. At the elections of June, 1946, the M.R.P. was the largest party in France. Now there are several parties to the Right of it, above all the Gaullists.

◇ ◇ ◇

NOBODY knows how many deputies the Gaullists would now take from the M.R.P. at the polls, but it seems safe to say that an election today, even on the basis of the present electoral system, which is favourable to the M.R.P., would reduce the party of Bidault and Schuman to a minor buffer group, identified with special Catholic intellectual and trade union viewpoints.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE dominating factor in French political life is still the Communist hold on between a fifth and a quarter of the electorate. It is this which precipitated the growth of Communism's irreconcilable opposite, Gaullism; from this rivalry comes the absolute necessity for a Centre Coalition as the only safeguard against a disastrous conflict which would split the country into two.

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE is every prospect, therefore, that in one way or another the present Government crisis will be solved. Somehow, the uneasy Centre Coalition will be given a further lease of precarious life. It has still one essential task to perform: to carry out an electoral reform which will prevent France from becoming really ungovernable after the next elections, due in a year's time.

◇ ◇ ◇

IF an election were held at once, under the present system of proportional representation, it is not likely that General de Gaulle would gain an absolute majority. He has lost a good deal of the popularity which he enjoyed two years ago. The danger is that the Centre would lose its slender majority in the Assembly, and that no one else would get a majority at all.

◇ ◇ ◇

ELECTORAL reform is thus essential within the next twelve months. But in this vital matter the views and interests of the Centre parties are by no means at one. If they were, the Centre could pass a reform measure which the Communists and Gaullists would be unable to amend or stop. As it is, no fewer than ten reform proposals, commanding varying degrees of support, are in the air.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE single-member constituency, as in Britain, would suit the anti-Communist cause very well. This is what the Radicals would prefer, but there is little chance of its being adopted, for it would strike even more cruelly at the M.R.P. The "second ballot" system of pre-war France, which permits party combinations, would make possible the exclusion of Communists from many constituencies where the anti-Communist parties hold the largest proportion block of votes, the M.R.P. (like the Communists), prefer the present system of proportion representation.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHAT will presumably be adopted in the end is a compromise which combines features of both the majority and the proportional systems. Indeed, one suggestion is that proportional representation should be maintained, in a modified form, in the thickly populated departments and in Paris, while in the countryside the majority principle would be reinstated. Some such compromise, however cynical it may seem, may well be necessary to save the Centre upon which France depends.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

Letter To The Editor

REPLIES TO "TAX POOR"

Sir: It is with interest I read in your column letters to the editor dated July 6, 1950, that at least one ratepayer of S.S. 6, Smith, is alarmed at the cost of education in the Lakefield high school area.

I would like to point out to "Tax Poor", that his alarm, like charity, should begin at home. On June 19, 1950, the ratepayers of S.S. 6 were invited to attend a meeting in the schoolhouse, to vote on two questions: (1) The building of a new two-room school on a new site. (2) The addition of one room to the old school. A reputable firm of architects, Craig and Blackwell, had submitted plans and costs on both questions.

Let us examine question (1) first. A new two-room school at a cost of $27,000. What would the taxpayers receive for this price; first, a new two-room modern school; second, they would have a third room in the old school house, and third, they would have the acreage for future generations to expand onto, for the new school required a new site.

The cost of the addition was quoted by the architect at $26,500, $500 less than the new. Now for a saving of $500 what would the ratepayer receive.

The added expense of raising the level of the existing site by two feet; this has to be done to ensure proper septic action, but no guarantee was given as to what would happen to the water supply due to the fact that a short distance beneath the surface of this soil there are layers of shale rock.

The most alarming feature of all is that some other place will have to be found in which to educate the children while the addition is being constructed, and possibly transportation found for the pupils to and from said place, and the cost of this education and transportation to be found by the ratepayers.

The school board of S.S. 6 informed the meeting that the architect figures on the addition were faulty, that it could be built for six or seven thousand less, and that the children could remain at the present school while the addition was being built.

What will the compensation board have to say about the latter, and what will the ratepayers have to say when they are asked for $30,000 instead of $20,000.

The present school population is fifty; this September it will be up to seventy odd, and the V.L.A. have recently purchased more property, which means another 25 or 30 familes.

Mr. Tax Payer, in the face of all this, I think we would be advised to be alarmed about our own school section first.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER OF S.S. 6.

LADY NOVELIST

Most of the time he was proud of his wife's ability to turn out an endless stream of best-selling romances; but when he'd wake up in the middle of the night and find her still pounding her typewriter his patience would occasionally wear a bit thin. He turned on the bedside light early one morning, saw the time: 3 a.m.

"Jean!" he yelled, "come to bed!"

"Can't darling," she called back. "I've got my heroine out with a wolf, and I've got to get her safely home."

"How old is she?"

"Oh, twenty-five or so."

"Sure's old enough to figure it out for herself! Come to bed!"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it.... And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives....

Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder. And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy....And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt. And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter, what, could ye not watch with me one hour?....

He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done. And he came and found them asleep again :for their eyes were heavy. And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. (Matt. 26: 26, 27, 30, 36, 37-39, 40, 42-45.)

Ecclesiastical Humour

(Ottawa Journal)

The Archbishop of Canterbury has a nice sense of humour. He was talking to a group of churchmen about his clerical associate the "Red Dean" of Canterbury, and he said:

"I never know whether the Dean of Canterbury is at home or overseas. Dare I say when he is home I wish he were overseas? And still more profoundly when he is overseas I wish he were at home."

The Archbishop needs a sense of humour to enable him to put up with a colleague whose principles we may agree, are exemplary, but who goes about the world preaching communism, glorifying the Soviet Union and denouncing the democracies. When he is in Britain he is a nuisance to the Archbishop, who never can know what the Red Dean will say next. And when he is in another country the poor Archbishop every day must read the papers with concern for what new indiscretion the Dean has committed, what new way he has taken to embarrass his church and his superiors.

There is, in fact, no more striking tribute to British freedom than the case of the Dean of Canterbury. He can neither be dismissed nor silenced. A Russian prelate who denounced communism would have gone to the salt mines long ago.

People Principle Export Of Republic of Ireland

By JOHN E. CARLOVA

DUBLIN, July 13 (Reuters)—The Republic of Ireland's principle export is people.

Emigration during the last 100 years has drained the Irish population from 6,000,000 to the present 2,950,000.

Set in motion by the terrible famine of 1849, the great exodus overseas still continues, mainly to the United States and Britain, despite the intervention of the war, a net total of 143,000 people left Ireland during the 10 years up to 1942.

This official figure—disclosed by Liam Cosgrave, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister John Costello—has undoubtedly stepped up since the war. The gauge is the steady increase in immigrants remittances—totalling $37,800,000 a year—the republic's greatest source of overseas revenue.

Blame Two Factors

Two factors are blamed for the heavy emigration — the inability of the island to properly support even the present diminished population, and the loyalty of Irishmen overseas in helping friends and relatives to follow them.

Although half of Ireland's employable population work on the land, many of the smaller farms are unable to support even the people who live on them.

Even industry — mainly meat curing, linen making, distilling, brewing and other occupations connected with agriculture—can absorb only 15 per cent of the employable population.

The average wage for men is only $10 a week, $5 for women. This compares with a 1938 wage of $7.50 for men and $4.25 for women.

Yet, over the same period, the cost of living has leaped by 70 per cent.

UK Newspaper Headline Sets Off Churchill Anger

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, July 13.—(CP).—A newspaper headline—"Tories Bay for War"—drew Winston Churchill's wrath during a parliamentary debate on Korea. Churchill said the headline appeared over an article written by Tom Driberg, Labor—Member of Parliament for Maldon, Essex. The article appeared in Reynolds News, a Sunday newspaper, and read in part:

"There is quite a substantial number of back-bench Tories who, true to their jungle philosophy cannot help baying their delight at the smell of blood in the air."

Driberg, 43-year-old member of the Labor Party national executive and a veteran Fleet Street journalist, referred to a scene which occurred in the House of Commons following Prime Minister Attlee's announcement that the United States had decided to intervene in Korea.

Churchill spoke in the Korean debate which followed a week after Attlee's announcement. The Conservative Leader said the reason which led to the Conservative cheers was not lust for blood but support for the Premier's declaration — a support which contrasted with a "curious" silence from some parts of the Labor bench.

Stands By Text

Churchill said he understood that Driberg was not responsible for the headline, "Tories bay for war," but only for the text. At this point the Conservative Leader gave way to Driberg who made a short personal statement.

"May I just say here and now," the Labor member said, "that I consider that (text) a perfectly correct description of a scene in the House last week, and I only wish the right honorable gentleman could have seen it before the editor toned it down and modified it."

This caused an uproar on the Conservative benches. Cries of "Shame, shame" were heard from the massed ranks behind Churchill, with one voice shouting "Judas!"

Pieces of Silver

C. Osborne, Conservative member for Louth, Lincolnshire, shouted across the floor to Driberg: "Did you get 30 pieces of silver for it?"

Only newspaper to comment editorially on the incident was the Liberal Chronicle, which said Driberg's reference was "shallow-pated nonsense and years out of date."

"The traditional jingoism has gone out of the Tory Party," the News Chronicle said. ".... They are as reluctant to go to war as the rest of us."

Petes Edge Out Dovers, 2-1 In Speedy Senior Ball Fray

It was a tight fit but the Petes staved off a ninth-inning drive by Toronto Dovers here last night to squeeze out a 2-1 Viaduct Baseball League win. A fair-sized twilight crowd saw a fast, tight tilt, over in 1.35, with neither pitcher giving away much and runs hard to get. The Petes had more errors and but one more bingle than the losers. Bill Edger pitched 2-hit ball till the ninth, when he was nicked for two more, as he fanned six in a good showing. Bill Leuty of Dovers was tough enough, also, giving up but five blows in the seven heats he toiled. But he did not whiff any and he issued three free tickets. Replaced for a pinch-hitter, he gave way to Henderson who hurled the final frame in good style.

A Late Start

The game was almost 25 minutes late starting, some of the Toronto players not having arrived. But the teams made up for tha in a speedy snuggle. Only two men reached second and none third for Dovers till the ninth when Cornack walker, moved up on Bolton's single and tore home on a hit by Balsky. Runners were on second and third with one out, but Edger fanned the next one and Dalton threw out the last man in a nifty finish.

The Petes threatened in the first and second, Brown being out at the plate in the second chukker, but they didn't tally till they got their pair in he fifth. Baumgardner dre wa walk and he was safe when Sewart's grounder to third was fumbled briefly. He moved up on a wild pitch and Stewart then stole second. Bill Edger came through with a single to score both and win the game right there, as the Petes didn't do much after that.

Danny Leads

Danny Brown led the local batters with two for three, Johnny Baumgardner getting one in two tries, Edger one for three and Howie Dalton one for four. None of the Dovers got more than one safe blow, Cornack, Bolton, Balsky and Kochburg having singles. Downs was chased in the eighth for arguing over a third called strike. Feature defensive plays were a double play, Stewart to Baumgardner, and a running catch by Joe Lowrey in left centre. Stewart went well on second, an unaccustomed spot for him, and Fred Garvey did fine back of the plate, replacing the injured Al Menzies.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

From a New York town comes a July copy of the American Legion Magazine, sent by Stan McBride, who is sweltering off some weight as he holidays over there. The mag has a tale of Casey—remember the might Casey who struck out?—getting another chance on a heavenly diamond. He came through and the tale endeth thusly: "Somewhere in this favored land the clouds begin to form, somewhere winds are howling and somewhere there's a storm; but there's a diamond far above, just within a golden gate, where the shining lights of baseball take their turns up at the plate; and standing up there now, brushing star dust from his suit, is a happy smiling figure—Casey, the new recruit!"

* * * * * *

Shiner Johnston (the late Shiner) would no doubt be there for the "do". Knotty Lee is still very much alive, and we doubt if he'd make that heavenly diamond, anyway, the way he used to cuss Joe Daley and his Kingston squad in old COBL battles around here. Hated softball, too, figuring it hurt good baseballers. Eddie Murphy, never a fond lover of the softballic game, is the most disinterested person in the world today when that subject is brought up. On account of his star catcher, Al Menzies, is out of action with a chipped ankle bone after playing softball. The Petes, by the way, have Staffords here on Saturday aft for a Viaduct Major League game in Riverside.

A Bit About Bowling

Let's interrupt here for a moment with a mention of another sport—ere returning to those more familiar to us. Lawn bowling. Yesterday for a space we sat on the big clubhouse verandah and watched some of the 200 bowlers from various parts of the province doing their stuff in search of the Liftlock Gold Trophy. A cup put up six years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Chris Graham. It was an imposing sight on a swell summery day, and Bob Gamble and his committee rate orchids for putting on such a show. What we don't know of lawn bowling would fill a library, but we know fun when we see it. Results are in elsewhere.

Hamilton Tigers are the next OLA senior "A" opponents for the Petes, and this dish will be served up piping hot at Miller Bowl comes Friday eve at 8.45. The Mann Cup champs are coming along fast again, but will be meeting an up-and-coming local squad which bumps with the best of them and scores a lot of goals, as well. Given good weather on the morrow, we rather look for the biggest gutted-stick crowd of the semester, as this one promises to be a warmish scrap. Other OLA teams are now admitting that the Petes will be definite playoff contenders if they don't slip badly the last part of the schedule. And Coach Red Creighton will supply the sand to keep them from slipping.

* * * * * *

Fatten Those Averages

That 21-10 OLA senior "A" triumph for the Petes over Toronto here last e'en should put the Creighton crew alone in second place, though the official standing ought to be released again shortly. A goodly gallery for the fray which was okay till the Petes ran wild in the late stages to fatten their batting averages. Starring for the local lacrossers—it was Toronto's "home" game—were Jerry Fitzgerald with eight scoring points, Bob Thorpe with six, veteran Mick Magee, Jim Kinna, Arn Dugan, Bob Breakspear and the Vitarelli brothers. In fact, the whole club clicked well as they continued along Victory Blvd. Play was clean and generally fast. Following their Friday fixture here, they go to Weston next Tuesday. Schedule has more than a month to go yet.

* * * * * *

Bill Edger continues to pitch mighty nice ball for the Petes, throwing a four-hitter here last twilight as the men o' Murphy copped a 2-1 win o'er Toronto Dovers of the Viaduct Loop. The homesters only got five hits, but one of them was a timely two-run single by Edger himself after a walk and an error. The Dovers, who were late arriving, came on strongly near the finish to score a run in the ninth and leave the two stranded in an exciting finish. Danny Brown led at bat and Joe Lowrey pulled off a fine running catch to relieve things a bit in that hot ninth. Downs got the heave-ho for calling Pat Calladine names. Weather was threatening early in the eve and the crowd was just so-so.

Historic Club Plays Host To Canadian Open

MONTREAL—(CP)—When the big-time United States and Canadian professionals converge Aug. 24-27 on the Royal Montreal Golf Club for the Canadian open championship they will be playing at the home of the oldest golf club in North America.

It was back in 1873 that the famous club came into being. Seven Montreal gentlemen got together and resolved "that those present should form themselves into a golf club to be called the Montreal Golf Club."

The founders laid out an 11-hole course on Fletcher's Field—now well in the city of Montreal—on the slopes of Mount Royal. There they played each Wednesday and Saturday.

Golfing costs then were a far cry from what they are today. Clubs cost $1.10 each, balls were eight cents and a member's annual dues amounted to $2.50.

The prefix "Royal" was added to the club's name in 1884 on authority from Queen Victoria.

Moved To Dixie

Popularity of the game grew steadily as the years went by. The Fletcher's Field links became more and more crowded.

In 1896 the club directors observed that "it requires much room to perform this game with propriety" and began to look around for suitable land on which to build a new course. They found the land at Dixie, a suburb 10 miles from the centre of the city.

Today Royal Montreal has a clubhouse built to accommodate a membership of more than 1,000. The members play over two championship courses, each 6,500 yards long and each with a par of 72.

For its convenience and variety, the south course has been selected for this year's open.

Three times before—in 1908, 1913 and 1926—Royal Montreal has played host to the Canadian open. It has also been the scene of six Canadian amateur championships the last in 1931.

Marines Win Over Woollens

Outboard Marines took an 8-5 girls' softball victory over Woollens at the Bowl last night in a neat tussle. They played heads-up ball, fielded well and outhit the losers, while Woollens were fine in spots but also booted some costly ones. The game went just an hour and 10 minutes, with both sides hustling. P. Williams fanned six for the winning side, as L. Derry struck out three on the other mound.

B Ayotte and E. Mantle, of Marines, stood out defensively, with D. Dunk and R. Naylor going well in the field for the junior crew. L. Rowan hit a triple and double, M. Hill two singles, B. Ayotte a homer and P. Williams a three-bagger for Outboards. L. Derry and R. McInroy each had two safe blows for the Woollens

Lacrossers Paste Toronto To Stay In Second Place

By FRED MAYBEE

The Petes continued their winning ways in senior "A" lacrosse last evening at Miller Bowl, as they handed Toronto Riverdales at 21-10 defeat before a large mid-week crowd of 1,500 fans. The win strengthened their position in second place in the league standing.

The game originally scheduled for Toronto was transferred Tuesday to Peterborough through lack of a home field and was Toronto's home game.

Play opened fast with Riverdales holding an edge and Johnson brilliant on many close ones. Speck was busy too and held his rivals even as the period ended at 2-2.

Two Quickies

Red Creighton's boys began the second in flying style and two quick ones by Kinna and Nolan put them in the van to stay. E. Creighton, Fitzgerald, Bob Breakspear and Lou Vitarelli quickly tallied in that order as against two by the homesters and led at half-time, 8-4.

Though Toronto tried hard and showed good style and fight, Peterborough really made life miserable for Johnson in the final 30 minutes, potting four in the third and no less than nine in the final session.

In On Eight

Jerry Fitzgerald, possibly the individual star of a game that saw many shine, led his team with eight scoring points, three goals and five assists, in a fine all-round display. Tricky Bob Thorpe topped Fitzgerald in goals with four and passed for a pair, all in the last half as he turned in one of his better games. Kinna and Bob Breakspear (who is now hitting his old stride) potted three apiece, the former adding an assist while Arn Dugan, always good, added five points to his big total, with two and three.

Mick Magee, the evergreen veteran of a thousand games, put up a whale of an effort and passed for four markers while Dootch Vitarelli garnered four points also. Lou Vitarelli was in again with another solid game studded with a goal and two assists as was Em Creighton with two and one. Once Em took to the air, flew for awhile and made a safe two-point landing. Horton, Ashbee, Nolan and Jack Breakspear notched single points to complete the role with not a dud in the pack. All save Speck were in on the score sheet in a great show of teamwork.

For the losers, Frank King, Jack Howes, Boog Webster and Steve Kapasky were good and every man tried hard all the way.

The teams:

Toronto Riverdales: Goal, Johnson; defence, Farley, King; centre, Campbell; wings, Timpson, Kapasky; rover, Howse; alt., Edge, Booth, Facto, Deppipo, Webster, King.

Peterborough: Goal, Speck; defence, Fitzgerald, Nolan; centre, L. Vitarelli; wings, Kinna, R. Breakspear; rover, Magee; alt., D. Vitarelli, E. Creighton, Thorpe, J. Breakspear, Dugan, Ashbee, Horton.

Southenders Nip East City 5-4

Southenders edged out East City 5-4 last night in a fine bantam baseball game. Their three runs in the seventh, after one each in the first and sixth did the trick, walks and errors figuring in most of them. East City also used free tickets and miscues for three of their runs, getting one each in the second, third, fifth and seventh frames. There were few hits on either side while Frizzelle fanned 14 on the southend slab in a fine showing as six of his mates went down on strikes. Teams:

East City: Board, Galvin, Hickey, Pollard, Starr, Roberts, Ryan, Cullen, Drury.

Southend: Turner, Pagett, Frizzelle, Leach, Strickland, Byrnes, Hunt, Ball, Corbett.

Costner Licks Ike Williams In Biggest Fight Upset Of Year

PHILADELPHIA, July 13 (AP) —Ike Williams was expected to use George (Sugar) Costner as a stepping stone to a welterweight title fight with Ray (Sugar) Robinson. Instead, the lanky Costner thrashed lightweight champ Williams and emerged himself as a top contender for Robinson's crown.

Costner turned in the fistic upset of the year Wednesday night when he handed Williams one of the worst lickings the 135-pound titleholder ever received. The Camden, N. J., Negro smashed Ike into submission in a 10-round non-title scrap at Shibe Park.

So Superior was Costner that one of the judges, Frank Knarsborough, gave the winner all 10 rounds. The other judge, Lou Tress, and referee Dave Beloff were not much kinder. Both scored it 8-2 for Costner. The Associated Press score card voted Costner 8-1-1.

A crowd of 9,809 paid a net gate of $30,543 to see Sugar George clip Williams with a vicious left hook in the third round and then go on to record a thumping triumph. Williams never was the same after that third round punch. He fought the final seven rounds on his fighting instinct and courage.

Lacked Stamina

Like the champion he is, Williams rallied briefly in the seventh round and looked for a minute as if he would do the impossible and kayo Costner. He rocked George with a left hook—but he hadn't the stamina to follo wup his opening and Costner regained the offensive.

Costner, 3-to-1 underdog in the betting, weighed 148, five more than Williams. He used his edge on the scales to good advantage.

Everything was against Sugar George but the outcome. Pre-fight reports listed him as an easy target for Williams' usually sharp punching. The question wasn't, would Williams win, but rather could he better Robinson's performance against Costner? Robinson kayoed George recently in less than 50 seconds of the first round.

Apparently Costner hadn't read the papers. He pummelled Williams from beginning to end and there never was much doubt but that Ike was going to lose his first fight in 13 starts. The last man to beat Williams was Kid Gavilan, another welterweight. Gavilan later lost to Costner. It seems obvious that Williams can't cope with the better welters.

SAFE COUNTRY — Enos (Country) Slaughter of the St. Louis Cardinals slides safely into third base on his second-inning triple in the All-Star game at Comiskey Park, Chicago. Lacrosse Backer D. McKenzie Dies

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., July 13 (CP)—Dan McKenzie, one of the founders of lacrosse in Canada, died at his home here Wednesday night. He was a former president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

McKenzie, 65, was born in Pictou, N. S., and moved to Vancouver in 1905.

He brought lacrosse indoors after the outdoor version failed to attract the public.

He helped to organize five Dominion championship teams and went to the Olympics twice. He managed New Westminster Salmonbellies at Amsterdam in 1928 and headed an all-Canadian team at Los Angeles in 1932.

In his late years, he was forbidden by his doctor from attending hockey and lacrosse games. But he used to be spotted at games peeking from behind a post.

"I can't stay away," he said on one occasion. "I'll tell the doctor tomorrow I worked a little too hard in the garden."

He had had heart trouble for the last six years and he died of a heart attack.

Royals Dump Rochester 8-0 At Montreal

By The Associated Press.

Carl Erskine, who began the baseball season with Brooklyn Dodgers but later was shipped to the Montreal farm club in the International League, might prove useful to the parent team in his present form.

Burt Shotton's Brooklyn pitching staff has not been going too well lately and Erskine showed Wednesday night that he doesn't mean to stay in the minors. He pitched Montreal's fourth place Royals to an 8-0 victory over the league leading Rochester Red Wings at Montreal.

Had it been one of those seven-inning affairs, the 165-pound hurler would have had a no-hitter. But it happened to be a full nine-inning contest and Carl gave up three hits in the last two innings. He struck out six and gave as many walks.

It was the Royals' second straight triumph over the Wings and cut Rochester's lead over second-place Baltimore to 1½ games.

Baltimore, at home to Springfield Cubs, had only to hold the visitors scoreless for a half-inning to score a 7-5 victory in completing a game halted the previous night by the curfew law. But the Orioles then bowed in a regulation contest, 7-3. Bob Thurman's three-run homer was the big blow for Springfield. Ransom Jackson, also powered a round-tripper for the victors.

Split Twin Bill

Jersey City's third place Giants and Syracuse Chiefs split a twi-light doubleheader at Jersey City. Syracuse swamped the Jerseyites in the opener 12-3, only to lose the second game 3-1. Stan Jok, the Giants' third baseman, slugged his eighth and ninth homers to decide the night skirmish.

The tail-end Buffalo Bisons and seventh place Toronto Maple Leafs wound up all even in an abbreviated twin bill at Toronto. They first played a three inning continuation of a curfew-halted game of June 4 which had lasted four innings. Play was resumed with Toronto leading 14-6. Buffalo got one run to make the final score 14-7.

In the regular game, Buffalo eked out a 5-4 victory. Bob Wellman's two-run homer in the fifth inning was the big blow for Toronto.

Chips Down In Ball Game As Phillies, Cards Clash

By The Associated Press.

The chips will be down tonight when the first place Philadelphia Phillies open a three-game series against the runner-up Cardinals at St. Louis. The Phils hold a one-game edge over the Cards in the tight National League pennant race.

This is the big game of the day as the majors return to family feuding after the all-star clash, although another important series opens tonight at Yankee Stadium.

Cleveland Indians, 1½ games back of the second-place New York Yankees in the American circuit, have a three-game set at the Stadium. The injury-riddled Yanks who are three games back of the league-leading Detroit Tigers, who meet the Senators at Washington in another night tussle.

But the Phillies-Cardinals affair dominates the scene, and upon the outcome rests temporary leadership in the National loop. The Phillies are expected to shoot Curt Simmons (10-5) against Howie Pollet (9-5) in a battle of southpaws.

Watching Braves

Both the Phils and Cards have to take into consideration the fast-stepping Boston Braves, coming along in third place only two games out of the lead.

Billy Southworth's boys are in Cincinnati for a night game with the Reds.

Brooklyn Dodgers, in fourth place 4½ games back of Philadelphia, meet the ever-troublesome Cubs in Chicago.

For Brooklyn, it brings up a major mid-season question. Can the Bums bounce back after sticking up near the top for most of the first half of the season?

New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates, neither going any place in particular, have an afternoon game at Pittsburgh.

Bad Hospital List

In the American League, the hospital list has become an important factor in the chances of the top contenders.

The loss of Ted Williams, who may be out for the season because of a left elbow fractured in Tuesday's all-star game, is a stiff blow to Boston Red Sox. They meet Chicago in Boston tonight.

Like Brooklyn in the National, the Sox were picked to win the American League pennant by most observers. And, like the Dodgers, Boston is asked to make a mid-season comeback. The Red Sox are in fourth place eight games back of Detroit, and without Williams' potent bat it will be a tough road ahead.

The Yankees also are consulting the physicians, with Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra and Hank Bauer doubtful starters against Cleveland.

St. Louis Browns meet the A's at Philadelphia in another night engagement.

Sub-Miniature Radio

LONDON—(CP)—A one-ounce radio set, designed to control flight of modern aircraft, has been perfected by a Norfolk man. In trials with a large model plane, the craft reacted perfectly to controls at the transmitter during a 15-minute flight.

NATURE UNSPOILED

YOURS TO PROTECT

The GOLDFINCH is the common "canary" we see all-year round. The male is solid yellow, with black cap, wings and tail. The yellow warbler is all yellow. In winter he's much duller in color. He lives on seeds, beetles and insects, and should be protected.

Liftlock Gold Trophy Won By Peterborough Bowlers

By HERB MARTIN.

The Liftlock Gold Trophy was captured last evening at the local lawn bowling greens by a Peterborough pair, H. Coleman and R. Payne. W. Jewes and R. Hood, Ottawa, were runners-up, and two Toronto doubles teams came third and fourth. Only three prizes of the 21 stayed in town.

The sixth annual doubles tournament was one of the most successful with 200 bowlers representing 25 clubs in the province competing and 14 entries refused.

The Liftlock Gold Trophy, put up by Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham, was presented by Mrs. Graham, with chairman Robert Gamble aiding. The latter had on his committee: W. Jeffries, J. Fitzpatrick, H. Freeman, R. Knox, A. Black and W. Moorehead.

Large crowds witnessed the competition throughout the day as the bowlers went in six draws for highest aggregate for three games.

Many of last year's winners were eliminated Wednesday in the first round.

Lamotta Has Mitri Fight All His Way

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP) — Another Jake Lamotta-Ray Robinson fight was in the making today following the middleweight champion's easy conquest of Italy's Tiberio Mitri.

Lamotta was due to step into the offices of the International Boxing Club some time today to pick up a fat cheque of around $33,700 and to discuss plans for a sixth scrap with the welterweight king.

The Bronx Bull paved the way for that encounter by belting out a 15-round unanimous decision over Mitri in Madison Square Garden last night.

Like Old Times

It was like old times in the palace of sock as a surprisingly large turnout of 16,369 paid $99,841 and rocked the roof with cheers. It was the biggest Garden fight gate in a couple of years. There was no radio or television broadcast and that may have had a lot to do with the big box office count.

Abe Green, commissioner of the National Boxing Association, said Lamotta agree! in writing months ago to defend his crown against Robinson within 90 days.

"Of course Robinson has his own title fight with Charlie Fusari in Jersey City Aug. 9 but if he gets by that, Lamotta and Robinson should be able to get together by September," said Greene.

The NBA has threatened to strip Jake of his title unless he meets Robinson, recently crowned 160-pound champ of Pennsylvania.

Has It His Way

There was no doubt about Wednesday night's decision. You could almost see Lamotta, a shrewd businessman, counting the house as he started after Mitri. He hasn't been that good here in years. Making 159 pounds (Mitri weighed the same) didn't bother the champ.

He won just about as he pleased over the previously-unbeaten invader. He made the handsome 24-year-old Italian fight the Lamotta way and the end result was a pair of unhandsome shiners for Mitri and hardly a scratch for the Bull.

"They trained Mitri to look out for a right to the side followed by a left hook to the chin," said the 29-year-old champ. "And so I crossed them up with those left jabs."

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The Red Sox' pennant chances, already snackled with an eight-game deficit, suffered a bruising jolt Wednesday as X-rays disclosed that Ted Williams has a fracture in the left elbow.

The bugaboo jinx of exhibition games sneaked up on the slugger Tuesday in the first inning of the all-star game in Comiskey Park, Chicago. Ted crashed into the wall after hauling down a drive off the bat of Ralph Kiner, National League home-run king.

Surgeons will operate today to remove a bone fragment. The pessimistic pronouncement of the club physician, Dr. Ralph McCarthy, is that he hopes Ted will be back in the line-up before the season ends.

Williams is the second outstanding player to suffer a major injury in the all-star games, which started in Chicago in 1933.

Dizzy Dean, great right-handed pitcher of St. Louis Cardinals, suffered a broken toe when hit by a smash off the bat of Cleveland's Earl Averill in the 1937 game.

On Secret Mission

SAN DIEGO, July 13 (AP)—The United States air force's XC-99, world's largest land-based military transport, flew here from San Antonio, Tex., Wednesday but its mission was kept secret.

Steve Lembo, 23-year-old catcher owned by Brooklyn Dodgers, Wednesday was sent on option to the St. Paul Saints of the American Association.

Lembo, who trained with the Dodgers, was shipped to Montreal at the start of the season. Later he was optioned to Pueblo of the Western League where he injured his leg in his first game. The injury now has healed.

Royal Copeland, former whiz kid of the Toronto Argo backfield will leave Toronto Thursday to begin practices with his new club, Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The blonde halfback, signed recently to a Calgary contract, said Wednesday night he will make the trip by automobile, and will probably miss the first workout, Monday.

Looking in fine shape, Copeland said he had been working out in recent weeks with Pete Thodos and Rod Pantages, two former Stampeders now employed in Toronto.

He said in an interview he had not quit Argos because of any argument with the club.

"I have no beefs with them. I was always treated fine, but when the chance came to get more money I naturally took it. I wanted a change anyway."

McNaughton Accepts Invitation To Speak

HAMILTON, July 13 (CP) — Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton has accepted an invitation to address employees of the Canadian Westinghouse Company here Friday.

But his acceptance promptly brought charges from the executive of Local 54 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America that he was being used "as a tool of well-known union disrupters."

Gen. McNaughton, Canadian chairman of the joint Canada-U.S. Defence Board, was invited to speak by Alderman Donald Ellis of Hamilton. Mr. Ellis claimed that Communist-line propaganda on the Korean war is being circulated by the union leaders. He said he hopes the General will answer the propaganda.

Haphazardness In Concrete Construction Still Exists On North American Continent

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Something was said at the present annual meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada in Toronto that struck such a chord of memory in this writer's mind that he has to tell about it.

The words were by A. J. Taunton, deputy city engineer of Winnipeg, and what he said was this:

"Haphazardness in concrete construction still exists in North America."

That was a great relief to me because I had thought I was the only haphazardness that had ever happened to concrete.

All these years while I have watched tensely news of great events coming in from over the world, my fellow-workers, presumably, have thought I was trying to be a good newspaperman. Not at all—I was just worrying that there might come a bulletin saying that the Halifax ocean terminals had slipped into the sea. For I had had a tiny part in their building and have never known whether, one day, I did right or wrong.

Knew Nothing

It was this way: I was a concrete inspector who knew nothing about concrete. All I had was a slip of paper which, as I recall, said this particular mix should contain so much cement, so much gravel, so much rock.

I could count, and according to my count and my slip of paper, not enough cement was going in. So I said to the foreman (in effect): "How about it?"

And he, serving another interest than mine, said (in effect): "If you don't put enough rock into it, it won't hold."

But I was the man with the piece of paper and so he stepped up the cement content.

I often think of those big terminals and am thankful that they still are there, but occasionally comes a disturbing thought: "What if the foreman was right?"

About that time I was also a dredge inspector and, I think, a diving inspector, but I had no slips of paper to guide me on these and I neither helped nor disrupted

Too Complicated

It was my first lesson that nobody knows much about anything. It was all so complicated that I went into newspaper work and learned how complicated things can really be.

But to come back to Mr. Taunton, who knows concrete about as well as anyone added this:

"Great strides have been made in the development of the theory of the design of concrete mixes, but the record in respect to practice is not so good. Although more is known about concrete now than a generation or more ago, there still is much to learn."

He was speaking particularly about Winnipeg's bridges which, with three exceptions, were built at least 30 or 40 years ago. He said:

"The art of mixing and placing concrete was decidedly haphazard then. The water-cement theory had not been developed, and there were still those who maintained that concrete was not seriously damaged by freezing—it would set all right when it thawed."

Apparently there has been some trouble because of this.

Warn Franco Government Won't Come Begging To UN

MADRID, July 13 — (AP) — When the United Nations again raises the question of Spain next autumn, don't expect to see Generalissimo Franco's government acting like a penitent schoolboy.

The U.N. declaration of 1946 calling upon member states to withdraw ambassadors from Spain and urging the Spanish people to rise against the dictatorship was a deep and deadly insult to Franco's government.

Franco will welcome action of the UN to cancel such actions, but none of its leaders favors a begging attitude. Instead of giving an indication he might institute economic and political reforms in return for an invitation to join the UN family, Franco has complained loudly of "external enemies."

Sometimes he makes it plain he considers those enemies to include British and French Socialists, actively fighting against easing the UN stand, and Labor and other groups in the United States who frequently jab at his regime

Put Foot In It

There were times in recent months when Franco was known to be considering internal reforms urged by the United States, including amnesty for political prisoners and liberalization of the controlled economy. But each time it appeared Franco was edging toward such action, a bolt of criticism from abroad—the blast of a British government figure or the published statements of Americans — complicated the situation, each time Franco retreated to his policy of running Spain without interference or help from the outside.

All the assembly is expected to do this fall is revoke the resolution concerning the withdrawal of ambassadors. This still will leave on the books the resolution adopted at the first assembly in London barring Franco Spain from any UN bodies.

Diplomatic observers say that a favorable action by the UN might lead Spain to make its government Liberal. But there will be no gesture in that direction before the UN meeting, the observers say.

Channel Bore Plan Revived, Aid To Stability

During the last 70 years a succession of enthusiasts have championed the cause of the Channel Tunnel, between France and England, in Parliament, writes Sir Herbert Walker, chairman, Channel Tunnel Co. Ltd. So far, the attempts have been defeated by the prejudices of military experts who believed that the tunnel involved a "threat to national security."

Special Committee

During the present century three separate attempts have been made in Parliament to revive the project: in 1906, 1913, and 1929. On each occasion the question was referred to a special committee. Each of the committees reported in favor of the tunnel, but in each case the government of the day decided against.

In the past the arguments for the tunnel have been almost exclusively economic. Today it is not so much the economic as the political factor that gives it its special significance; the desire to do something concrete to cement Western Union. It is doubtful if anything would contribute more to Anglo-French co-operation than the establishment of land communications between the two countries.

It is sometimes suggested that air travel has made the tunnel obsolete. The truth is that owing to weather and other reasons, cross-Channel traffic can never rely solely on the air.

Various Plans

There have been various plans for the tunnel. The latest is the work of a French engineer, M. Basdevant, who proposes to combine road and rail traffic in a single tunnel. As far as Great Britain is concerned, however, the only mature project in existence is that of the Channel Tunnel Company. This company, which was formed in 1881, was originally known as the Submarine Continental Railway Company. In 1887 it changed to its present name. The company owns sombe land between Folkestone and Dover, where shafts were sunk toward the end of the last century and an experimental tunnel cut for some distance under the sea. When last inspected before being sealed up, this tunnel was in good condition and still comparatively dry.

In the plan of the Channel Company a new railway would be built joining the existing main line from London to Dover three miles on the London side of Folkestone. It would proceed from here to the hills just east of Folkestone, where the two lines would enter separate tunnels constructed in the Lower Chalk Stratum which outcrops at this point. These tunnels would follow a falling gradient parallel to the coast until they reach a point near Dover, where they reach a point near Dover, where they would turn right and pass under the sea on a series of easy gradients until they began to rise again as they approached the French coast near Sangatte. Five miles beyond Sangatte the lines would emerge from the two tunnels and run together across open country until they connected up with the main Calais-Paris railway near Boulogne.

Three Tunnels

The total length of the new railway would be 44 miles, of which eight would be in the open country and 36 inside the tunnels, including 24 under the sea.

Before the two main tunnels were started a pilot tunnel, 12 feet in diameter, would be built across the Channel. This would show whether the lower chalk stratum is continuous and whether there are any serious faults or fissures where water might be encountered. If this test proved satisfactory the pilot tunnel would ultimately be merged with one of the two main tunnels. The latter would be 17 feet in diameter — 1½ feet less than was originally planned — and would be lined throughout with ferro-concrete segments. They would run at a depth under the bed of the sea varying from 90 to 170 feet, the maximum depth of water being 165 feet.

In addition to the main tunnels there would be a drainage tunnel from 7 to 10 feet in diameter running from a point east of Dover to Sangatte, 20 miles away.

Costs Examined

As regards the cost of the scheme, the 1930 estimates have been revised. It was then thought that the tunnel—or rather tunnels (there would be three) — could be built for about $84,000,000. One more probable figure today is between $140,000,000 and $168,000,000. Spread over five years this would entail an initial expenditure of $4,600,000 annually to be divided equally between Britain and France.

As to revenue, on the assumption that the traffic using the tunnel in 1960 would be no heavier than the cross-channel traffic in 1938—the last "normal" year—the total gross revenue should be about $16,800,000.

Give Minister Purse Of Money

OMEMEE, July 13 (ENS) — Rev. and Mrs. L. S. Haverstock, who are retiring from their Reaboro and Gilmore charges were honored by the Reaboro congregation at a gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Burke, R.R. 3 Omemee. Mr. W. C. Veals was chairman.

Mr. Haverstock was presented with a purse of money from the church and congregation. The address was read by Mr. Ralph Burke and the presentation made by Mr. George Skuce. From the Young Married Couples' S.S. Class of which Mrs. Haverstock was teacher, and the Woman's Mission Circle, Mrs. Haverstock received a beautiful leather handbag containing a gift of money. A corsage of roses was pinned on Mrs. Haverstock's shoulder by Mrs. F. Morden. Mrs. J. Robinson read the address and the presentation was made by Mrs. Lottie Calvert.

Both Mr. and Mrs Haverstock made suitable replies speaking of the joy they had experienced in the fellowship of the Reaboro congregation. Other speakers were deacons J. Reeds, H. G. Burke and A. H. Veals. Mrs. Burke spoke on behalf of the Mission Circle. Entertainment was provided by a mixed quartet consisting of Miss E. Skuce, Mrs. and Mr. Gordon Burke and Mr. Keith Morden. Mr. Gordon Burke also sang a solo "The Holy City."

Mr. Haverstock is retiring because of ill health, after 38 years of service in the Baptist ministry. He graduated in theology from McMaster University, Toronto, in 1912, and in the same year from the same university Mrs. Haverstock, nee Mildred Adam, graduated in Arts. They will live in Hamilton where they rssided before coming to Reaboro and Gilmore five years ago and where their family—two daughters and a son—now reside.

THIS TYPICAL KOREAN soldier, decked out in camouflaged helmet and wearing ammunition, found part of his equipment too burdensome to wear. He seemed to find marching more bearable without the footgear.

IF BABY IS CROSS FIND OUT WHY

HEALTHY BABIES are not cross. Your baby should not be cross. If he is, then something in his little system is "out of order." Probably Baby's Own Tablets can promptly "put it right." Mrs. H——, of Fenelon Falls, had the experience. She writes: "My little girl was irritable, feverish and sometimes sick at her stomach — what a relief it was, after giving her Baby's Own Tablets, to see how much better she was."

Sweet-tasting — easily crushed to a powder, if desired. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Promptly effective in simple fevers, constipation, teething troubles, upset stomach and other minor ills.

Never be without a full box of Baby's Own Tablets. Sickness so often strikes in the night. 29 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

Moderns Shown In Exhibition Of Water Colors

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP)—The moderns as well as followers of the old school are represented in an exhibition by the Canadian Water-Color Society now at the National Gallery.

The exhibit contains paintings by some 70 artists from across the country, most of them well known in the Canadian field.

Among them is J. L. Shadbolt, of Vancouver, one of Canada's war artists. His "Death Is An Untimely Frost" is a thought-provoking piece of symbolism in which the rich brown of autumn leaves, flecked with yellow, are grimly bat-like in shape.

Bertram Brooker, of Toronto, has entered "Petals," a delicate confection in pink and pale green reminiscent of woods in spring and wildflowers.

Looks Like Tapestry

"Design for Living" by the Toronto artist, W. J. B. Newcombe, is done in a curious brush-stroke which gives the painting the appearance of tapestry.

For those who are partial to the ultra-moderns, there are paintings of Roloff Beny, of Lethbridge, Alta., and Michael Mitchell, of Toronto.

Mitchell's "Portrait of a Fisherman" is outstanding in color and design. Beny has interpreted in his fashion an Italian scene, "Rosengarten, Cortina d'Ampezzo."

Gordon Webber, of Montreal, has entered "Design No. 1," in which planets and the paths of planets are used in geometrical design.

Provincial Meet Date Set Late In August

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP) — A definite date for the general Dominion - Provincial conference this fall may not be fixed until late next month, it was learned Wednesday.

A source close to the government said the date for the conference, now tentatively scheduled for September or October, probably will be fixed after the committee of attorneys-general meets Aug. 21.

That committee will study proposals for transferring from the United Kingdom to Canada the power to make all amendments to the Canadian constitution.

The length of the committee's meetings and the progress made may have a bearing on the date of the general conference.

All To Attend

All provinces have indicated they will attend the fall conference, although Premier Duplessis of Quebec has not indicated definitely that his government will be represented.

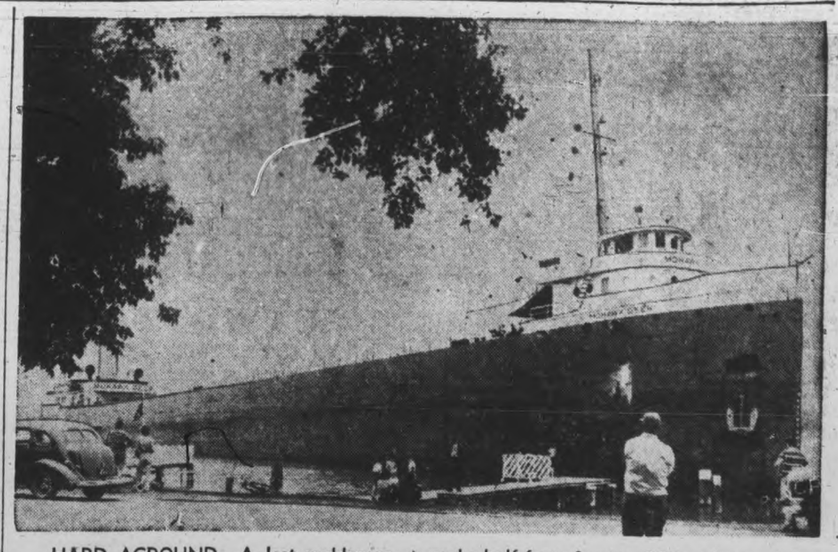
He has indicated he would like to see the constitutional conference complete its work before a gentral conference is called to discuss financial and associate matters.

Other provinces have indicated they are prepared to go ahead regardless of the status of discussions on the procedure for making constitutional amendments.

Three provinces—British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island—have replied to a federal invitation to submit problems they would like to see placed on the agenda of the fall conference.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland has said that his government has nothing in particular to suggest for the agenda

"We will govern ourselves largely by the suggestions which our sister provinces will submit to you," said Mr. Smallwood.



HARD AGROUND—A lost rudder resulted in the 452-foot freighter Mohawk Deer running aground in the Canadian side of St. Clair River just below Port Lambton, Tuesday. The vessel came to rest in three and a half feet of water, 15 feet from a private dock. Owned by Beaconsfield Steamship Company of Montreal, the Mohawk Deer was upbound light when the rudder was lost. She was freed later in the day and towed to Collingwood for repairs.

force beyond a bit more naval aid. Canada will have to supply and maintain her destroyers in the Korean area and for this may have to send reserves into the area.

The question of further aid to South Korea is seen here as a two-stage affair. The next two or three weeks may decide whether the United States forces are going to be able to work some sort of stability in the battle front. If they do, then will come a build-up stage to throw the Communists back where they belong. This could go on for months. It might take six months even to launch the offensive.

Examine Resources

The Canadian government is examining its resources to see what it can do if and when the long-term build-up phase develops.

Underlining that examination is the fear that Russia is attempting to drain western strength on satellites like North Korea so she can better deliver her own knock-out blow.

That is believed to be one reason the navy has not moved its Atlantic fleet into the Pacific and why there is no sign yet that Canada is even thinking of sending ground forces. It also underlies the quiet bolstering of the anti-aircraft defences around the Sault locks.

C of C Steam Up To Provide Better Local Postcards

An attempt to get better postcards into city stores for sale to tourists is being made today by Chamber of Commerce manager, James Fraser. Mr. Fraser said it was late in the summer to have a better series printed, but he has some ideas to make some other postcards available temporarily.

"Whether or not store managers will handle them is another thing," he commented. He said he would contact them probably today to see what could be done.

He pointed out that many resort owners in the district have postcards featuring their own lodges and nearby scenes which they sell at their lodges.

Mr. Fraser said probably many of these would be suitable for general sale as a temporary measure.

Asked if he thought postcards which could be sold for five cents each would be bought by tourists, Mr. Fraser said, "Certainly, if they are good quality."

Matter of Costs

He pointed out the initial cost of making plates for color printing was high and the printing process itself was expensive. But he thought it should be possible to work out some arrangement to have good quality, attractive postcards available for tourists.

A plate which would produce a good quality postcard would cost about $150. But local experts say the process used in printing the majority of the postcards on sale in stores now is a much cheaper gelatine process.

A plate for printing black and white pictures on postcards costs about $8.

Christmas Card?

Mr. Fraser said the Chamber of Commerce was trying to have printed a Christmas card which would feature a typical view of the Kawartha district.

There was no reason, he said, why the Christmas card plate could not be used to print postcards as well.

He said he was going to contact Parks' Studio about providing pictures for postcards. He said Lewis Parks had many good shots of the city and the district which he had had printed on postcards for sale in his own store.

$3,025,645

Bank clearings in Peterborough for the week ending today, as reported by the chartered banks, were $3,025,645. Figures for last week were $3,743,790. The function of the clearing house is to transfer cheques and chartered bank currency accepted by one bank but drawn on another. Cheques are cleared each week-day morning, at a small office above the Bank of Montreal, which is staffed in rotation from the various local branches.

All Light Poles At Riverside, Lay-out Begins

Peterborough Utilities men started work today on placing the towering 100-foot poles for floodlighting Riverside Park. All the equipment for the lighting is at hand, and the last five poles arrived from Montreal Tuesday evening.

Baseball and Recreation Commission officials have encountered unexpected delays which they feared might put the kibosh on night ball this summer.

Five of the dozen Douglas Fir poles which arrived last month were found by the Utilities inspectors to be defective. They were sent back to Montreal. Then the Montreal firm reported that none others were to be had for many weeks, they would have to be got from the West Coast.

Red Cedars Poles

However, they did have good western Red Cedar poles, already creosoted. The Utilities Commission were loath to accept these, because Douglas Fir is reputed to be stronger.

The cedar poles in Montreal were inspected by outside engineers, pole experts, who reported that they were sound, and of larger diameter than the Douglas Fir had been. Therefore they would be capable of taking greater stresses.

The Recreation Commission, at a special meeting Monday, gave tentative approval to getting the five red cedar poles, and after conference with Mr. R. L. Dobbin of the Utilities Commission, the poles were ordered.

They have arrived, and work is going ahead with all possible speed. Equipment weighing 1,100 pounds is first assembled on the poles, then the poles will be raised by special derrick brought from Toronto. The poles themselves weigh about 4,200 pounds each. They are to be embedded in concrete bases.

This morning all poles were hauled around the field in position for erection. Next comes the assembly of the material on top of them, and laying out the light pattern. It may be necessary to close off the park next week while this work is in progress.

George Martin, of R.R. 3, Havelock, is in Civic Hospital with injuries sustained in a car accident Wednesday night on Highway 7, about three miles east of Peterborough.

He is not believed seriously hurt but he has cuts on his head and face and he was severely shaken up.

Martin was a passenger in a car driven by Fred McMillan, 69, Havelock. McMillan was travelling east on the highway when he swung out to avoid the parked car of Roger Begin, Levis, Que.

Before he could get back into his own line of traffic he collided head on with a westbound car driven by William May, 51, Antrim St. Martin was the only one injured.

Both cars were badly damaged, each to the extent of about $700.

Provincial Constable Ed Milligan and Tom Fitzpatrick investigated.

Dailey Bros Circus Coming July 24

The clamor of the raspy-voiced barker and the smell of the sawdust ring are in the air. It's circus time again.

Dailey. Brothers five-ring circus will be in Peterborough for one day—Monday, July 24. It will be at the exhibition grounds.

The big show is reportedly greatly enlarged and streamlined, and with five rings all in action at the same time there should be no lack of variety.

One of the stars in the two-hour program is Hugo Zachimi, the human cannonball, who will be shot from the mouth of a huge cannon "the entire length of the world's longest big top."

Other features are Norman Davenport, directing the 25 elephant ballet; Romaro and Castle, mid-air wizards; Senor Valero, tight wire performer; Rosita Yres trapeze; Flying Nor's, aerial gymnasts; the Riding Martini's; Jinx Adams and her 16-horse hitch; Capt. Edward James with his 10 polar bears, billed as the only polar bear act in America; and Capt. Joe Horwath and his lion and tiger performance.

Twenty-five elephants, 150 thorough-bred horses and other domestic animals will all appear during the performance.

Premier Frost Pledges 2,500 Orangemen Full Support of St. Laurent's Korea Stand

Some 2,500 Orangemen from six counties Wednesday afternoon paraded in Lindsay to celebrate the 260th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. Five hundred of the marchers were from Peterborough and district lodges. Officials said it was one of the best turnouts in years. Speakers exhorted the Orangemen to be steadfast in the Protestant faith and ensure that Canada remains in the British Commonwealth of Nations. Keynote of the numerous addresses was the determination of the Orange Order to combat Communism, an ideology which threatens Christian civilization. Premier Leslie Frost described Communist as "an all-destroying menace" and he called for national solidarity now that war is raging in Korea.

Premier Frost pledged Ontario's support of the federal government "to the full limit of our power and capacity."

"In 1950 we are faced with a peril which would destroy our Christian faith, our way of life, our country," the premier said. "There can be no quarter on our part with the godless cult of Communism. If we are to pursue our democratic way of life we must as a nation be prepared to accept not only our responsibility but more than our responsibility."

As a Canadian, the premier continued, he commended the statement made Friday in Saskatoon by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

"With both the desire and confidence that peace can be preserved, Canada accepts her obligations to help the United Nations in its action against aggression."

Said Mr. Frost: "He can count on the united support of the people of Ontario and their government."

Loud Cheering

Thousands jammed into Victoria Park on the hot, sultry afternoon and loudly cheered such significant declaration of the speakers.

Lindsay streets were decked with flags and the whole town wore a festive air. Mayor Charles Lamb assured Orangemen that Lindsay was theirs for the day.

"But give it back when you're finished," he said. "We'll need it tomorrow."

Parade 3 Miles Long

The 2,500 marchers represented some 88 lodges from Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton, Durham, Ontario, and Northumberland. Nearly three miles long, the parade took two hours to pass.

Thousands of Lindsay residents, augmented by visitors and some United States tourists, crammed all available sidewalk space to see the famous July 12 march. Window spaces along Kent St. were at a premium and some of the younger element sat on top of buildings, nonchalantly dangling their legs over the sides.

The parade was headed by the marshall, Robert Spence, LOL 32, Lindsay, and the traditional white horses were ridden by Alex Robertson, Victoria county master, and Charles Kennedy, Victoria county marshall.

One of the biggest cheers of the day was for the fife and drum band of LOL 80, Peterborough, neatly turned out in white suits, orange and royal blue sashes and Orange ribbons. And roars of approval greeted the Havelock Pipe Band which preceded LOL 50, also of Peterborough.

White Shorts

Not only cheers but whistles greeted a Cameron lodge. The girls wore white shorts, apparently a novelty to some of the older generation.

"Did you ever see the like?" enquired one buxom matron. "It shouldn't be allowed."

From the murmurs of approval in a predominantly male section

KAWARTHA TOLLGATE? TSK!

In the teeth of annoyed tuttuts from Peterborough civic fathers Lindsayites continue to preempt the slogan "gateway to the Kawarthas." Wednesday afternoon Mayor Charles Lamb welcomed to Lindsay the Orangemen of five counties and then dragged in the "gateway" routine. The Lindsayites have the last word in the argument, too. Peterborough's parking meters have caused several of them financial grief and so this city has been dubbed the "Tollgate of the Kawarthas."—D.W.

Police Seize Junior Arsenal

City police seized a veritable arsenal of weapons today in a one-officer raid on an alleyway east of Aylmer St.

PC Andre Dalton, summoned by a telephone call, found half-a-dozen children shooting at a target set up in the alley. They were using slingshots, one bow and two arrows, and a BB gun.

The officer seized the lot, and the weapons will be impounded. Police Chief John Thompson renewed his warning to citizens that BB guns and other possibly dangerous weapons must not be used within city limits. Some people apparently have the idea that BB guns and the like may be used on their own property. This is not the case.

Port Hope Gets New Solicitor

PORT HOPE, July 13—Council appointed a new solicitor here this week to fill the shoes of H. R. S. Ryan, K.C., who resigned suddenly last fortnight. Mr. Ryan had been solicitor for over four years.

The new solicitor is Russell J. Honey, a recent law-school graduate. He is a local man and will take over the legal reins immediately.

Mr. Ryan handed in his resignation two weeks ago when council squabbled over a building-lot by-law.

Later, Mr. Ryan explained in a letter that he had resigned because council took it upon themselves to reduce the size of building lots from 5,000 square feet to 3,000 square feet without consulting the newly-instituted Town Planning Board.

Ironically enough, one of the Town Planning Board's members, Councillor John Whetstone who wants building lots slashed to 3,000 square feet, was the one who started the wheels churning to accept Mr. Ryan's resignation.

He told fellow members that "If I were hiring someone to work for me—to work in the same store or some place—he'd do it my way or I'd soon find someone who would."

Smith Pumper Arrives At Bridgenorth

Siren screaming, the new Bridgenorth fire truck, Wednesday evening speeded out the Chemong road to the flag-decked fire hall in Bridgenorth completed just the night before.

On hand to welcome the fire engine were Al Crowe, village fire chief and all his 20-man crew, township clerk A. I. Edmison and a large crowd of village people.

The fire hall had been built almost entirely by the voluntary labor of the men who were out to see the pumper installed in large cement block building.

Smith township's second fire pumper which will cover the southern half of the township also arrived Wednesday and is temporarily housed in Peterborough's Fire Hall.

Money for the material and labor that went into the building was raised by a series of dances, card parties, a raffle and one big dance.

The three-ton pumper is equipped with 1,500 feet of hose, an extra 150 feet of 1¼" hose, and four sets of extension ladders.

To demonstrate the pumper's ability, the firefighters connected up three 50-foot lengths of hose and, with two men at the nozzle, shot water from Chemong lake about 200 feet up the hill.

Members of Chief Crowe's fire brigade are: E. Chamberlain, T. White, E. McConkey, drivers; J. Smith, B. Forsythe, J. Pettersone, F. Ray, D. Robinson, H. Robinson, J. Forsythe, E. Blewett, C. The funeral service of the late Noah Smoke was held in Alderville United Church with full military honours Wednesday with members of Cobourg Canadian Legion No. 133 attending in a body.

Alderville choir with Mrs. James Bigwin, Jr., at the organ sang.

The flag-draped casket was born to its last resting place in Alderville Cemetery by members of the Legion: Comrades Harrington, Brocanier, Burnett, Hicks, Baker and Greer of Cobourg.

Comrade Cedric Smith assisted with the committal service, representing the Legion.

Ford Motor Factory Slowing Production

DETROIT, July 13 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company Wednesday said it is slowing down its rapid production pace of recent months.

A spokesman said the company had counted on getting a larger steel supply if the high demand for cars continued, but has been unable to do so.

Saturday work is being eliminated. All Ford lines except those at neighboring Highland Park and Long Beach, Calif., will operate nine hours a day, five days a week. The other two will run five eight-hour days.

Mercury plants at Metuchen, N.J. and St. Louis will operate only four days a week for the remainder of this month.

Three Seamen Plead Guilty To Beating

MONTREAL, July 13 (CP) — Three seamen Wednesday pleaded guilty to beating up a McGill University student who had taken a summer job as a deckhand on an oil tanker. Sentence was deferred until Friday.

Francis Vautrin, 21, and David Crain, 20, both of Kingston, and William Parker, 25, Ottawa, admitted assaulting the student, Harold Slobob, 20, Montreal, aboard the Norwegian tanker Bergechief while it was in the Persian Gulf June 10.

Suffers Haemorrhage

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP)—Theo Lanctot, president of the Ottawa Nationals Baseball Club, was stricken with a cerebral haemorrhage while watching his team win a 4-3 victory over a Border League all-star team in an exhibition game Wednesday night. He was taken to hospital where doctors found that he was paralyzed in one arm.

Ask Religious Freedom For Protestant Minority

TORONTO, July 13 (CP) — Controller Leslie Saunders of Toronto said Wednesday that the Roman Catholic majorities in Quebec and Spain should give the same freedom to Protestant minorities that they received for themselves in predominately Protestant countries.

Mr. Saunders was the principal speaker at a rally following the July 12 parade of some 7,000 members of the Loyal Orange Lodge through Toronto streets, marking the 260th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

Veterans on Smallholdings Have Development Contest

Veterans' Land Act smallholders in the Peterborough area are competing with other veterans on one and two acres of land across Canada in a land development contest.

A few veterans in the district are showing interest in the competition and sprucing up their places by landscaping and gardening. But many of the others have not been on their plots very long and are still chiefly concerned with the interiors of their houses, Archie Wilson, settlement supervisor said today. Mr. Wilson, a former native of Peterborough, returned to the city in this position just three weeks ago.

The idea of the competition, dubbed "Operation Good Earth," is to encourage smallholders to improve their lots and add to their incomes by growing vegetables and fruit.

About $9,000 in prize money is being offered to the 20,000 veterans on smallholdings across Canada. The competition is divided into two groups, one for veterans settled on holdings of one acre or less and one for veterans with more than one acre.

Top prizes are $20 and graduate down from there. A contest for the youngsters offers top money of $7.

Mr. Wilson will do preliminary judging by about the end of the month. A three-man specially appointed committee will make final selections.

5,000-Acre Cattle Ranch Spoken of 'Our Little Place'

BY JACK SCOTT

Y-CROSS RANCH, High River, Alta—We are spending the next three or four days inhaling the atmosphere of the old west and I'd like to give you an idea of its taste.

People who live as we normally do, so close to the neighbors that gossip may be exchanged from one kitchen window to another, are bound to have a little trouble getting used to a spread like Joe Bews' Y-Cross Ranch.

Joe has five thousand acres here across the rolling green foothills of the Rockies, a perfect wedding of mountain and prairie. It's beautiful country. I now go on record that if I had to live away from the ocean this would be the choice.

Whenever Joe speaks of the ranch he invariably calls it "our little place." We dudes from town can't forget that it's the size of a substantial city suburb, a good afternoon's hike from one fence border to the other.

The "yard" includes a river, a creek and several small mountains including Whisky Ridge, named for the early distiller who used to brew his particular poison in a small cabin there and haul it by oxen team to the thirsty pioneers of Calgary.

Joe's ranch is built in a hollow ("build low down," the ranchers say, "and walk up for the view") and in the triangle where the Highwood River boiling down from the mountains through steep-walled canyons, is joined by Sullivan's Creek.

The smaller stream is named for John Sullivan who started ranching here some hundred years ago and was killed in 1905 when his horse fell on him. In a tiny graveyard on the hill across the way lie three of John's children who died one tragic winter day of diptheria.

Rancher's View

About 330 head of fine white-faced Hereford cattle — 100-odd cows, 90 calves, 70 yearlings and 70 two-year-olds—graze in the short grass over this scalloped landscape. To Joe Bews' eyes they're always a sight that brings pleasure.

Yesterday Joe took us for a drive in his '47 Chev., turning off the dirt road and bouncing across the open terrain as casually as it were a four-lane superhighway.

We came to the crest of a hill and he brought the care to a halt .A long slope of grass fell away, bright with the bloom of Indian paint brush and flame-colored tiger lilies, into a copse of cool green poplars. To the south and north there were neat squares of Bromes grass and Timothy, a darker, richer green than the natural landscape. Over the Rockies navy blue storm clouds were piling up in the high summer sky.

Joe's eyes were not on this spectacular and strangely restful vista. He was looking down into a clearing where some of his Herefords stood gazing up at us with that bland, arrogant stare that seems peculiar to range cattle.

Joe is not a man who speaks easily of inner thoughts. Indeed, earlier,I'd sensed that he was a little embarrassed at our breathless reaction to the view. But now I was surprised to hear him putting his reflections into words.

"I'd rather look at a cow than anything else I know," Joe said. "A nice bunch of cattle like that, short coupled and nice and thick, or a fine bunch of fat steers—it's .. it's lovely!"

We sat looking at all these tenderloin steaks on the hoof, moving slowly now into the poplars, anticipating the storm.

I noticed that the Y - Cross brand was raw over the ribs on the new calves and Joe said they'd been branded only a few days ago.

At branding time each ranch plays host to the neibhbors ("neighbors" meaning anyone who lives three to 30 miles away) and after the work is done there's beer or a barbecue.

The night before our arrival, in fact, there was a branding bee at Bert Sheppard's adjoining TL Ranch. The men branded, dehorned and vaccinated 90 bawling calves in a a little over half an hour. Then everyone square-danced in Sheppard's new barn until all hours.

One man, who lives across the Highwood found the stream too high for his horse, tied his clothes on his head and swam across.

All Complete

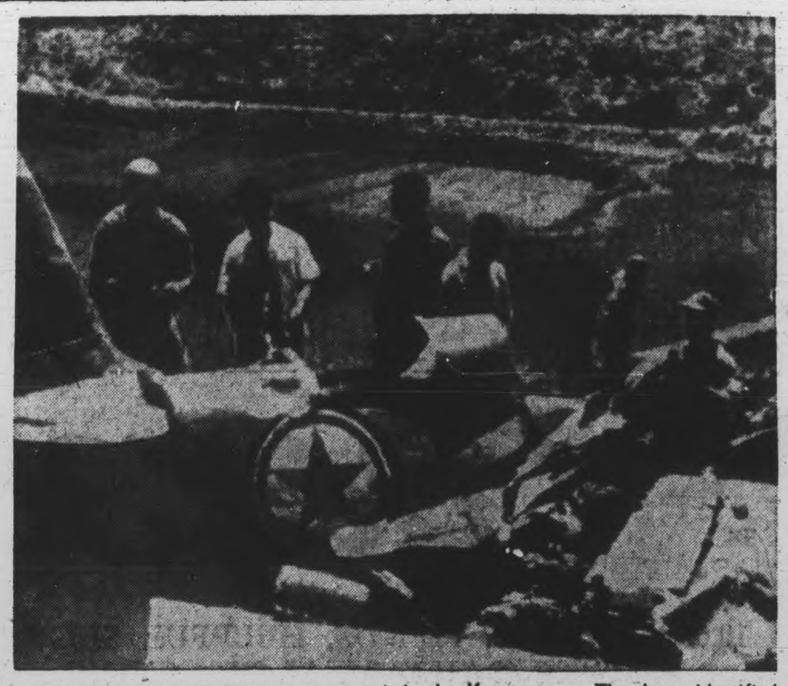
Not all of tis land is owned outright by the Y-Cross. More than 3,500 acres of it is grazing land leased from the government, for which Joe pays $510 a year. Even so, his two sections of 1280 acres, at present prices, are worth more than $100,000.

The ranch house itself is a modest building built around what was, originally, a spruce log cabin. Step out from the kitchen through a banging screen door and you can look across the bridge creek gully to the red barn and corral where the horses stand nodding their heads to keep away the flies.

There are 32 ponies and work horses, sheep and chickens and turkeys, two dairy cows, two goats and a pair of pigs. In the machine shed is a new Caterpillar tractor, a truck for hauling horses and hay, a binder and all manner of farm machinery.

Superficially, all this looks like a set for a western romance (as it was in "Northwest Stampede" filmed in the area) or an idealized oil painting (it is exactly that in a canvas by the Dutch painter, Edward Schintiz, who lives on a pleasant plateau across the Highwood).

But the finest discovery you can make at the Y-Cross is that it represents a true Canadian tradition and a reflection of many good men like Joe Bews. It's about Joe Bews I'd like to write in my next column.



AN AMERICAN OFFICER, left, and South Korean soldiers inspect a North Korean plane which was shot down near Seoul in the Korean war. The Army identified the plane, bearing a Russian red star insignia, as one of the first "Yak" fighters shot down in the war.

Farm Prices Up

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP)—Farm prices of agricultural products in Canada — excluding Newfoundland—climbed again during May, but were slightly below the corresponding period last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported on Wednesday. Increased prices in Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia outweighed declines in the other five provinces.

Officials In Tizzy

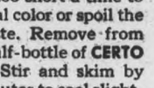
MONCTON, N. B., July 13 (CP) —A head-strong motorist threw city officials—the police, too—into a tizzy Wednesday after his car bogged down in a hole on a paved street. The motorist refused to have his car moved from the 18-inch depression in the pavement, caused by an underground leak, until the city settled all damages on the spot. The motorist finally agreed to have his car towed to the nearest garage for an appraisal of the damage.

Acts As Valet

EDMONTON, July 13 (CP) — Among his many official duties at the opening of the annual Calgary Stampede, Prime Minister St. Laurent found time to act as a valet for Edmonton Alderman William Hawrelak. When the Calgarians insisted on decking Ald. Hawrelak out in a 10-gallon hat and mounting him on a horse for the big parade, Edmonton's official representative found his top coat surplus. He accepted the Prime Minister's offer to carry the coat in his horse-drawn carriage.

Drowns In Basin

HAMILTON, June 13 (CP) — Seven-year-old Edward Prowse of Hamilton was drowned Wednesday night when he slipped into an old waterworks filtering basin. The boy fell into deep water while playing tag with his brother Leslie, 9, and Roy Gill. His companions summoned help, and Edward's body was recovered 15 minutes later. Efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.



SHARPSHOOTER — CSM Norman L. Beckett, of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, Hamilton, Ont., is one of the leading scorers in this year's Bisley matches now being held in England. A member of the Canadian team, he was winner of the Governor-General's Gold Medal in 1939 and 1947. He served overseas with the army in the second world war. This photo is by Kingscourt Studios.

It's So Easy ...Make Raspberry Jam the Short-Boil Way

THIS RECIPE GIVES YOU 50% MORE JAM FROM SAME AMOUNT OF FRUIT

BOIL HARD ONE MINUTE ONLY SAVE TWO-THIRDS OF YOUR TIME

First crush 2 quarts of fully ripe berries (Yes! RIPE fruit — not the under-ripe fruit called for in old-fashioned recipes). Measure 4 cups of prepared fruit and 6½ cups of sugar into large saucepan. Mix well. Bring to full, rolling boil over high heat. Stir constantly before and while boiling.

Yes! Boil one minute only by the clock . . . too short a time to dull the natural color or spoil the fresh-fruit taste. Remove from heat. Stir in half-bottle of CERTO Fruit Pectin. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle into glasses and paraffin quickly.

10 GLASSES OF SPARKLING JAM WITH FRESH-FRUIT TASTE, COLOR

CERTO RECIPES GIVE SURE RESULTS IF SIMPLE DIRECTIONS FOLLOWED

In the short one-minute boil practically no juice wastes away in steam. So you get about 10 glasses instead of the 6 you'd expect from old-fashioned, long boiling. CERTO helps all fruits to jell perfectly . . . gives an average yield of 50% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

With CERTO you get 78 kitchen-tested recipes — a separate one for each fruit because different fruits need different handling. Investment Control Is Dangerous

TORONTO, July 13 (CP) —Alfred P. Haake of Chicago said Wednesday night that government control over investment, which would come with a complete government pension scheme could easily mean the establishment of totalitarianism in the United States.

Mr. Haake, consulting economist for the General Motors Corporation ,told the joint convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Engineering Institute of Canada:

"Security is a legitimate goal, but security can be attained only through strong character and adequate productivity."

Other additions in the store are a 40-foot self-serve meat case, a 36-foot dairy case, four rear checking facilities, and a new coffee department. The interior has been painted light green and white and new wire push-carts called nesting buggies have been provided for the customers' convenience. The staff has been increased from 57 to 68. Church Has Secret Talks On Korea

TORONTO, July 13 — (CP) — The World Council of Churches largest international body of Protestant and Orthodox Christians, may issue a statement today on the political aspects of the Korean war.

The question already has been discussed behind closed doors by the Council's Central Committee meeting here. The discussion came after the Council's Commission of the churches on the international affairs requested a statement on the situation.

Some 44 countries are represented in membership of the Council. There are no delegates from the communist-led countries attending the meeting although one Czech and two Hungarian churchmen are members of the committee which meets annually to conduct the afafirs of the Council.

Wednesday, a German Evangelical Bishop who has led church resistance to Communist pressure on church schools likened the political situation in Germany to that in Korea before the fighting.

Bad Business

Bishop K. F. Otto Dibelius, 69-year-old head of the largest Protestant denomination in Germany, told the Council: "It is impossible to divide a nation by an unnatural frontier, an Iron Curtain."

Bishop Dibelius declared the duty of the United Nations is "to find the solution os that the Korean people can come together."

He said, too, that the church was making progress in Communist-dominated East Germany despite the fact that children "are subjected to materialism 25 hours a week and to christianity for only two."

Dr. W. A. Visser 'T Hooft, General Secretary of the Council, said that because of some existing uncertainty as to what the Council actually is, it was important to find agreement on basic issues of common belief.

Hear Brief

Delegates were presented with a brief on the subject prepared by a special committee. Full discussion of the brief was deferred. It said that the council was not designed to negotiate unions between churches and membership in the council did not imply acceptance of any specific doctrine on church unity.

The brief suggested that operation between churches must be based on the recognition that Christ is the divine head of the church and that membership in the church of Christ is more inclusive than membersip in a single denomination.

It added that membership in the council implied a willingness for each church to help other churches in times of need and to refrain from actions incompatible with brotherly relationships.

Judge Frees Man Reluctantly

MONTREAL, July 13 (CP) — Judge Irenee Lagarde freed Alexandre Pilon Wednesday on a charge of failing to provide for his crippled 17-year-old daughter but the judge indicated he didn't like his own decision.

The judge said such an action, taken under the criminal code, could only be successful when the child concerned was under 16.

"I'm sorry, Pilon, that I have to acquit you," said Judge Lagarde. "How does it feel to have no heart? It seems to me that a father should do everything in his power to provide the best care possible for one of his children who suffers from a serious illness."

The girl, who walks with a steel brace because of a tubercular spine, said her father wanted her to pay board "out of my $17 a week after I'd become ill and had to pay for treatments."

Army Anxious To Reduce Married Men In Ranks

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP) — It's a touchy subject they're not anxious to talk about but the regular armed forces are trying to reduce the heavy percentage of married men in their ranks.

The army, for instance, has only 15 per cent single men among its officers and 40 per cent among its other ranks. It is believed that the other forces are roughly comparable.

Officials say the emphasis on single men in recruiting is not a new policy but administrative action aimed at "bringing about a better balance" between single and married men. Married men are not barred but the single man is getting preference in new enlistments.

A recent advertisement for army radio switchboard and artillery control operators listed single status as one of the necessary qualifications.

Some of the reasons for preferring single men as permanent force servicemen are obvious. One is that they cost the country less. They don't need allowances for their families. Another is that the single man is a more flexible person. He has no family complications.

Better Fighter

A third is that, on balance, the single man is more likely to be a hell-for-leather fighter. A fourth is that he can be sent to remote places without fretting about the folks back home.

The dangers of war aside, the services offer a security that is attractive in the married man. There is an allowance for the family, a pension after 20 years and other advantages.

The preference for single men does not, however, extend to the reserve forces. The recruiting offices are taking everyone they can get for the reserves.

Officials said Korea has boosted slightly the number of applications for enlistment, but that the rate of intake hasn't increased. That is because the high qualifications are too big a barrier for many would-be servicemen.

"CHIEF WISE LEADER"—Prime Minister St. Laurent, right, got a new name from the Plains Indians at Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., when he addressed a picnic crowd of 8,000 last Saturday. The prime minister, wearing his new ceremonial headdress, was named Chief O-Tee-Ensiew-Doneka-Niew or Wise Leader. The headdress was the gift of Orchanhugahe (Dan Kennedy), leader of the Assiniboines, shown with the prime minister.

Canada Wants No Part In Formosa

By DOUGLAS HOW.

OTTAWA, July 13— (CP). — The government Wednesday fitted the last link into an unusually elaborate chain of diplomatic caution that led to Canada's armed intervention in Korea.

The transfer of three Canadian destroyers to United Nations command surprised no one. But as an exercise in diplomatic and political calculation, its background deserves recording.

The historic step by Cabinet at a 2½-hour meeting Wednesday climaxed deliberations that were underlined by two basic desires.

One was to make it clear that whatever Canada did was done as part of general UN police action against aggression. The other was to make sure that there is no doubt that the destroyers are for use only in Korea.

The second factor arose from President Truman's annonucement that United States forces would intervene in Korea. He also said that American naval units will bar the Chinese Communists from Formosa, the last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists.

Formosa Out

Ottawa wanted no part of Formosa.

Officials are satisfied that by going slowly they have achieved their two purposes. When Korea first blew up a couple of weeks ago there were some members of the Cabinet who wanted immediate armed Canadian intervention; others—a small minority—wanted none.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, it is believed, led the go-slow attitude.

This, following the UN Security Council's call for aid, led to Mr St. Laurent's annonucement two weeks ago tomorrow that Canada was sending the three destroyers into the Pacific in case they were needed by UN. It was known here when they left that they would be used in Korea.

But each public diplomatic move must wait its turn. Canada now was interested in guaranteeing the UN character of the force they would join.

Not In Hurry

Finally on Friday the UN Security Council met and asked the Americans to command UN show. The resolution had been elaborately prepared in the background.

Somewhere along in there the formal notice came that the UN would welcome the destroyers.

Still Canada did not rush. Mr. St. Laurent was out West. External Affairs Minister Pearson talked with him by telephone. They withheld action until yesterday at the regular Wednesday Cabinet meeting.

Farm Delegation Asks 1950 Wheat Price Set

LONDON, Ont., July 13 (CP)— To prevent a recurrence of last years' slump in winter wheat prices, a delegation from Western Ontario will go to Ottawa Friday to seek a price stablization program for the 1950 crop.

They will suggest that the federal government purchase and hold 1,000,000 bushels of Ontario winter wheat—grown almost exclusively in four southwestern Ontario counties—thereby setting in effect, a floor price. The proposal will be laid before Minister of Trade and Commerce C. D. Howe, in an interview on Friday, July 14. Federation of Agriculture representatives from Essex, Lambton, Kent and Middlesex, along with spokesmen from district elevator operators, will be in the delegation

A Dangerous Age

TORONTO, July 13 (CP) — Only five per cent of the driving public is under 25 years of age—but the under 25* group causes one third of all the accidents, an insurance executive said Wednesday. Ralph M. Sketch, a member of the executive committee of the All-Canada Insurance Federation, spoke to a group of high school teachers here.

DETECTIVE ARRAIGNED—Detective Lt. Marcel Patenaude, chief of the Quebec Provincial Police holdup squad, has been charged with plotting bank holdups in the province. Lt. Patenaude was charged along with a detective sergeant and a former provincial constable in connection with bank robberies last December at St Hughes and Rougement, Que. Charges were laid by L. J. Leclerc, an insurance adjuster, whose company is responsible for the losses, totalling $13,000.

Russians Jam UK Broadcasts

GENEVA, July 13 (Reuters)— There is "incontestable scientific proof" that Soviet wireless stations systematically jam all Russian-language broadcasts from Britain, J. T. Fearnley, British delegate, Wednesday told the Social Commission of the United Nations Economic and Social Council here.

He was speaking in a debate on a resolution naming Russia as "deliberately interfering with the reception by the people of the USSR of certain radio signals originating beyond the territory of the USSR."

"The British Broadcasting Corporation has noticed irregular interference in Polish, Hungarian, Czech and Bulgarian broadcasts from London. It is possible that these are tests made for future jamming operations against all these languages on the scale of that applied to Russian language transmissions," he said.

Judge Opens N.S. Carnival

PICTOU, N.S., July 13—(CP)— An Ontario Supreme Court judge and winsome Scottish dancers featured the annual Pictou county lobster carnival Wednesday.

The crowd also was introduced to King Neptune and a 12-pound lobster, which, fishermen said, was not the biggest they caught, although it was the biggest they could keep alive.

Mr. Justice Keillor Mackay, Ontario Supreme Court judge and a native of Pictou county, opened the carnival and urged that the dauntless courage and unremitting toil of the Scottish pioneers be remembered.

Pearson Urges U.S. To Speed Niagara Pact

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday the Canadian government will be "most disappointed" if the United States Senate at its present session fails to ratify the Canada-U.S. treaty for the production of more hydro power from Niagara Falls.

Mr. Pearson old a press conference the government had advised the U.S. administration it "would be most disappointed and would find it hard to understand if favorable action on the treaty" were not taken by Congress.

"We have been pressing them as hard as we can," he said. He added the mater had been taken up with U.S. authorities two or three times in the last few weeks.

The treaty had been signed by both administrations and ratified by the Canadian parliament at its session this year. It requires ratification from Congress to become operative.

Runs 50 Years

The treaty, which would run for 50 years, will permit permanent regulation of the diversion of Niagara waters for electric power and allow a substantial increase in power production from the falls. Development on the Canadian side would be left to the provincial government of Ontario.

Signed at Washington last February, the pact would replace one signed 41 years ago and a subsequent wartime arrangement for increase in power output in Ontario and New York State.

Specific provisions include:

1. Increase in the amount of water available for power by fixing a minimum flow required for a scenic falls. Amounts in addition to the minimum — which fluctuates between 50,000 and 100,000 cubic feet a second—would be divided equally between Ontario and New York State.

2. Basis for construction of larger power plants at Queenston, Ont. These now have a combined capacity of about 1,100,000 horsepower. This would be increased by 500,000.

3. Arrangements for preserving the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls and rapids. This work includes plans for filling in the bare spots in the crestline of the Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side.

Arranging Funeral Smoke Family Robbed

ROSENEATH, July 13—(ENS)—While Mrs. Noah Smoke and her sons were in Toronto making funeral arrangements following the death of her husband, her Oakville home was broken into and about $20 stolen.

At the same time, Iva Smoke, youngest daughter, had pneumonia and was unable to attend her father's funeral.

The Smoke family lived in Alderville until they moved to Oakville about three years ago. Mr. Smoke, a veteran of World War I, died in Sunnybrook Hospital this week.

3,000 In Madoc Parade To Celebrate 260th July 12

MARMORA, July 13 (ENS) — Twenty-eight lodges and about 3,000 people participated in the Centre Hastings County Orange commemoration of the Battle of the Boyne in Madoc Wednesday.

The event was held under the auspices of Alien Settlement LOL 253 and Cooper United Church.

It was held at the grounds of Madoc Agricultural Society where cafeteria lunches were served in the exhibit building.

Under grand shade trees old timers and young people collected to exchange the news.

Veteran Orangemen

Many old veterans of the Order were on hand. There was Henry Shaw, 87, of the Eldorado lodge who has been a member more than 50 years. From outside the county was Richard York of Foxboro LOL 3 who is 89 years of age. He never filled the Master's chair but has held the offices of secreary and treasurer. His membership extends back about 70 years and he well recalls attending a celebration at Enterprise as a boy of five.

William Courtney, formerly of Tanner LOL 509 and now of Stirling LOL 110 has 58 years membership.

Thomas E. Potts of Marmora LOL 319 has completed 54 years in the Order and John Geen of LOL 435 ivanhoe, has not counted the years since he served the Order for half a century. Mr. Geen is a Past County Master.

Veterans Aged 89

Two more veterans, both 89 years, Robert McGee of Madoc joined Hazzards Corners Lodge 73 years ago, and later on transferred to LOL 160, Madoc; and sixty years ago he walked the ten miles each way from Madoc to Harold to attend sessions of the Royal Black Preceptory which drew its membership largely from Tanner LOL 509. The other brother of the Order, William Long of Nickle Lodge 285, Malone, has been a member 72 years, being initiated in the Allen Settlement Lodge and transferring to the Nickle Lodge about forty years ago.

And there were others to whom attendance at the 12th had been the event of each year since boyhood days.

The parade through Madoc streets started about 1:45 p.m. The two horsemen at its head were Wilfred Phillips, county director of ceremonies and Stanley Moorcroft, No. 2 district director of ceremonies. Members of the host lodge were too busy to march in the parade.

The lodges marched in the following order: Wellman's Corners; Pride of Marmora girls; Harmony LOBA, Marmora; Marmora LOL boys; Marmora LOL; Ruth LOBA; Millbridge LOL; Hazzards Corners LOL; Star of East LOBA, Madoc; Madoc LOL; Nickle LOL, Malone; Eldorado LOBA; Queensboro LOL; Flinton LOL; Eldorado LOL; West Huntingdon LOL; Halloway LOL; Halloway LOBA; Beulah LOL, Ivanhoe; Stirling LOBA; Stirling LOL; Downey LOL; Springbrook LOL; Sulphide LOBA; Tanner LOL; Bogart LOL, Sulphide; Elliott LOL; Carleton LOL, Moneymore.

Shortly after the return to the grounds, James Diamond, master of LOL 253 and immediate past county master, occupied the chair for a series of speeches. He thanked those who attended.

He spoke of the place of the church and lodge in every community. He said that although the centenary of his lodge, LOL 253, was being observed this year, it really was started 113 years ago, but no charter was given at the time.

George S. White, MP

George S. White, MP for Hastings-Peterborough, said it was well to pause once a year at least to remember what the order and the flag called for. He drew attention to the fact that when Sir Basil Brooke, prime minister of Northern Ireland, visited Ottawa this year, he alone of all the premiers and noted leaders of other countries was not asked to speak in the House of Commons, a matter of deep significance.

Mr. White also referred to the well organized campaign for a new flag and National Anthem whereby links would be severed with the British Commonwealth of Nations. He did not support any movement for a flag where the Union Jack was not predominant. It was the flag under which our soldiers had so long fought and died for the preservation of our Empire.

County Master John B. Hagerman congratulated Cooper Lodge. He pointed out that the freedom gained 260 years ago was not for Orangemen alone, but for Protestants in general. He advised the gathering that the Sulphide LOBA was organized on March 17th of this year with 22 members, and each member was out on parade.

Fred Bateman Speaks

Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East Right Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman added that the order should not be judged by the actions of a few who might be remiss.

County Secretary Arthur Wilson also spoke.

Rev. M. W. Heslip agreed that the Orange Order had made a great difference in the lives of people, and went on to stress the significance of the reformation This, he said, had exalted the individual.

"We get our democracy when men are allowed to speak as individuals," he said.

County Chaplain Archie Sinclair spoke on the theme, "Is Orangeism Dying?" The day's parade gave the real answer to that, he said. He felt that the church is starting to be revived in Canada, and with it Orangeism is going to take on new life also.

"We still stand for the Union Jack and its principles," declared the speaker.

Significant Trends

Rev. W. W. Patterson of Dover Centre, former pastor of Cooper United Church, said there were three significant trends in Protestant Church life today. He said there was a renewed interest in home religion, a renewed interest in the open Bible and a considerable movement of co-operative fellowship and work among Protestant churches.

Rev. T. H. Good asked members of the gathering, "What are you doing towards making the world a better world a hundred years hence? Our forefathers have labored and, in some cases, given their lives for the privileges we enjoy today. Life is a serious responsibility. It is our duty to stick together on Christian principles and to bring up our children correctly. To this end we should set our trust in God."

Rev. Porter Bennett, on a visit from the United States, in a brief speech said the day meant something that should always be kept in mind for the benefits which it brought to the Christian world.

A softball game was aranged in the late afternoon between Madoc Juniors and a picked team. In the evening a dance was held in the exhibit building.

See Nipped Waists Arched Hipline Skirts at 14 Ins.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP).—The New Wave Length evening gown is Adele Simpson's solution for women who can't make up their minds about skirt lengths.

This is the gown that is short in front, dips to the floor in back. It has all the elegance and formality of a floor-length gown, yet allows freedom for dancing by means of its shorter front. An outstanding example is done in gold and black brocade with strapless top, cuffed in black velvet.

Mrs. Simpson dramatizes color in her fall collection, previewed today for visiting fashion editors. Her favorites are Madrid red, a vibrant flame color; sorrento blue a lapis tone; mink beige, Morocco brown and silvery grey.

She uses velvet collars and binding on suits of tweed or yarn dyed flannel, most of which feature the nipped waist and arched hipline, achieved by padding and stiffening the peplum. Skirts are slim and peg-topped, the average length 14 inches from the floor.

Slated for fall importance is her position suit with removable fur-collared shoulder capelet, and a similar pelerine suit consisting of dress and jacket with separate fur-trimmed capelet.

Herbert Sondheim also accents the feminine dressmaker suit with nipped waist and extended hipline, one version of which is done in natural kasha with a leopard bib and flame red jersey blouse. He shows also a youthful cocktail or dinner outfit consisting of Royal Stuart tartan wool loose coat and taffeta dress woven to match the wool exactly.

Trigere retains the full coat silhouette this season but the sleeves are set in at a definite slant and moulded high under the arms. Collars are growing larger and sometimes hug the ears below tiny flat berets or toques, also Trigere-designed. Many coats have the short sleeves the designer introduced last season.

Third of Workers Are Women Britain Reports

LONDON, July 13.—(CP)P.—One of every three paid workers in Britain is a woman.

The same goes for factory workers. In the case of agricultural workers, the woman-to-man ratio is 7 to 1.

Nine of every 10 single, and one of every five married, women do paid work.

Of these, nine out of 20 are unskilled workers, four are skilled, two or three do routine clerical work and four fill higher clerical, technical or professional positions.

These and other facts are contained in a first report on women prepared by the Economic Information Unit of the treasury.

Mrs. L. S. Horton of the Economic Information Unit told the Canadian Press the report had been issued in response to an increasing demand by women's organizations throughout the country.

Wanted Facts

More and more women were clamoring for facts and figures on export, productivity, employment, building and all economic factors with direct bearing on home life.

Created to explain economic problems in clear and understandable language, the unit has worked in close co-operation with the women's organizations, providing much lecture material.

The report explains the part women play in the earning and saving of dollars. It shows that women form a main artery of industry, productivity, export and, as a natural cycle, the economy of the nation.

In reference to dollar exports, and imports, Canada is mentioned on three pages of the four-page report. Page one says: "The quantity of exports to Canada and the United States has been larger than a year ago, and is stil increasing

The report was well received by the British press. Commented A. J. Cummings of the Liberal News Chronicle: "It makes far more entertaining reading than most of the stuff churned out by Government departments."

Say Accessories Lend Summer Color Interest

NEW YORK (CP).—For the little accessory touches to add interest and variety to the summer wardrobe here are some suggestions from the New York shops:

With the season's popular sheath dress, wear a circlet of flowers high on the arm.

Real butterflies, plastic-treated for durability are being featured by one designer. They come clustered on velvet-covered clips to wear about the head, or mounted on combs, pins or nosegays.

A rope of pearls, finished at either end with a kerchief-square of chiffon may be wound about the neck and fastened according to the wearer's whim, or worn as a belt. Other necklet ideas include multiple strands of pearls twined about chiffon, or velvet cord with touches of pearls or crystal.

Among handbags, wicket basket and hamper shapes are popular. Other novelties include pique with insets of heavy lace and straw with velvet touches.

Flower-sprigged organdy fashions evening scarves and stoles. Crisp capelets appear in wide variety, or organdy, tucked or appliqued with Swiss embroidery of shantung or pique.

Silly Questions; Silly Answers!

TORQUAY, England (CP). — Mrs. Gordon Peace, a hair-dresser, wanted seven pounds of soft green soap for shampooing.

She applied for it. Back came a query from the authorities. Was the basin she would use wet or dry?

Mrs. Peace's husband took a hand. He wrote:

"In reply to your classic query as to whether a basin in a hair dressing parlor used for shampooing is wet or dry, may I explain that when the cold tap is turned on, it gives out dense black soot.

"The hot tap emits a stream of moonbeams.

"If you ask any more silly questions, you will get some more silly answers."

Mrs. Peace got her soap.

Fath Shows Group Slim, Trim Career Girl Style

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP).—Necklines on next fall's fashions will be either extremely high or extremely low. There is no middle ground.

Some are collars which extend to the ears, and others are cut both low and wide, to reveal vast expanses of feminine chest and shoulders.

An exponent of the high neckline is the French Jacques Fath, now turning out mass production dresses, suits, coats and even hats for American consumption, while continuing his couture business in Paris.

He shows a suave group of slim, trim, understated dresses and suits, in which the theme is strictly puritan. His tailleurs, mostly in the newly popular charcoal gray, are high of neck, slim of skirt, trim of waistline and generally cut to the specifications of the career girl.

Definitely on the other side of the fence is designer Mark Mooring, a Texas boy who has been turning out upper-bracket custom gowns for customers of a famous New York shop and who recently joined the wholesale house of Capri. In his first wholesale showing, Mooring goes in for necklines that reveal rather than conceal, using various devices, such as the extended V, the keyhole and the wide suffed boat neckline to dramatize the chest and shoulders.

In one case mooring produces a startling effect in a black crepe cocktail frock with neckline so low-cut that it looks impossible for it to stay in place. A closer look reveals that the bodice top is made of flesh-colored net, sprinkled with rhinestones, so that it looks as if the tiny gems are engraved upon the skin.

Both designers, howevr, agree on the return of feminine curves, and there is not a flat-chested gown in either's collection. Waistlines are nicely nipped, and curves are rampant.

Style Magazines Shoo The Blues Of Charmion King

Miss Charmion King, who is in high favor with Peterborough Summer Theatre audiences this week, is a Toronto girl—an only child who has been spoiled nicely.

At the age of nine her ambition was to be an opera singer, but at 12 she realized her voice was "so bad" so she coasted along in routine pattern for five years—then decided definitely to try a stage career. The decision was entirely her own, though her mother had done some dramatic work before her marriage.

On finishing at Bishop Strachan School, Miss King entered the University of Toronto and took an arts course, then a post-graduate course in English, working throughout this time in amateur dramatics.

Her first professional job role was as heroine in "The Drunkard," going on a cross-Canada tour for eight months. This past season she toured with a musical revue "There goes yesterday." Last summer she was with the Straw Hat players at Gravenhurst and the previous summer at the Play House in Woodstock, N. Y. where stars of the American screen and stage were playing.

In active sports, Miss King fills the role of "observer" and is strong for "her side". She does like bridge and canasta.

When depressed she turns to her fashion magazines, though she has never thought of designing and hasn't sewn a stitch. New methods of making-up fascinate her and she spends spare time trying them out.

Woman 96 Flies To England, Visits Sister

COLYTON, Devon, England, (CP).—"Oldest traveller ever to fly from Canada to England," said newspaper headlines when 96-year-old Mrs. Harriet Richardson of Toronto arrived in Britain.

Fashionably gowned, with roses in her hat and a brand-new permanent wave, Mrs. Richardson impressed airport officials at London and Prestwick with her erect carriage, her youthful manner and her nylon-clad legs.

"Everybody seems to think that life stops at 90, but for me there's a lot of adventure left to be found," she told reporters at Prestwick.

Mrs. Richardson made the trans-Atlantic trip to visit her youngest sister—"she's only 84"—and intends to return to Canada by air Sept. 9.

"Next time I come," she said with a laugh, "I'll pop over a bit earlier in the year to see the daffodils."

Mrs. Richardson was born in Dalwood, near Colyton. Recently her desire has been "to see dear old England again."

"She loves the sea, the honeysuckle, roses and daffodils of England," her daughter, Mrs. Olive Corley, told The Canadian Press. "She is very disappointed to have missed the daffodils."

Eldest of eight children, Mrs. Richardson's emigrated to Canada in 1883 and went straight to Toronto. Her sister, Mrs. Anning, is the only other remaining member of the family.

The holiday will be spent motoring, seeing friends and relations and enjoying the English scenery.

Mrs. Richardson return to an active life in Toronto.

She helps with the housework, prepares and cooks all meals, enjoys tea parties and plays bridge," says Mrs. Corley.

Of Interest to Women

How She Caught Husband Secret No Woman Will Tell

It is the general belief that women cannot keep a secret. This is an error. There are, at least, two secrets that even wild horses couldn't drag out of the greatest feminine babbler and these are her age, and how she caught her husband. There are points at which even the most garrulous of the conversational sex stop short, and so far as her friends and acquaintances know from her, every woman stays a perpetual 39 or 40, and her husband used cave-man stuff in dragging her to the alter. If she had a few extra birthdays thrown in she doesn't mention them, nor does she reveal the arts and wiles by which she convinced some unsuspecting man he had been seeking all his life that she was the ideal for which and that it would break his heart if he didn't get her.

Dorothy Dix

Oh, yes, women can keep a secret. No doubt about that. The trouble with them is not that they tell too much, but that they tell the wrong things. They tell the things that make their tongues double-edged swords that slay them.

No wife, for instance, should ever tell how she manages her husband. That is a secret that the rack and thumb screws should not force from her unwilling lips. To tell it is to reveal her technique and make it worthless. Every woman knows that whether her marriage is a perpetual scrap or a peace conference, and whether she gets what she wants or not, depends not upon her husband's virtues but upon the skill with which she handles his faults and weaknesses.

Learns How To Be Boss

So if a wife finds out that the way to be boss is to make a parade of husband being the head of the house; if she discovers that the safe time to tell bad news and ask for money is after husband is replete with a good meal and at peace with the world, and that the painless way of extracting a new gown is by telling him that people expect his wife to be well dressed, why, that is her own trade secret and she is a fool to give it away.

The only person a wife should ever tell about her husband's faults is her divorce lawyer. As long as she lives with a man and eats his bread she is bound by every consideration of decency and good taste and common sense to keep silent about his weaknesses. Yet for innumerable women their chief indoor sport is tearing their husband's characters to ribbons for the delectation of their friends.

They reveal all of their husband's little peculiarities, their prejudices, their ignorances, their stupidities. They turn the spotlight on all of their husbands' blunders and mistakes and strip from them all the garments of respect in which they were clothed in their neighbors' eyes.

Many a wife who bewails her husband's lack of success in his business or profession has only herself to blame for it. She has talked about his taking an occasional glass of beer until she has made people think he was a drunkard. Or she has told about his being gruffy and surly at home and hard to get along with until she has given him the reputation of being a boor. Or she has complained of his lack of energy an business sense until she has effectually blocked his chance of getting a job.

Tell Children's Faults

Worse still, women will tell any stranger of the faults of their children. Half of the scandals that blight young people are started by their mothers, whose chief topic of conversation is the trouble they are having with Mary, who is running with a wild crowd and doesn't come home until Heaven knows when and won't tell where she has been, and who confide to all of their friends that John is drinking too much and has lost his job. Many a mother who adores her children blasts their characters by talking about them.

Another mistake, and a fatal one, that many a wife makes is in telling her husband the history of all of her own family skeletons, for in every time of strife he is certain to drag the bones out of the closet and belabor her with them. She is simply putting a weapon in his hand when she tells him all about grandpa's peccadilloes, and that Aunt Sally was no better than she should have been, and that brother had to be paid out of trouble.

No should any wife tell her husband about her family's criticisms of him and that Mother says he should do this and Father says he should do that. The reason that most husbands hate their in-laws is because their wives are always relaying all the unpleasant things their families say about them.

Nor should any woman ever tell her husband of her mistakes. If she makes a bad bargain, let her forever hold her peace about it. If she bakes a cake that is heavy, let her chuck it in the garbage can and say nothing about it. Thereby shall she save a family row over the waste of money and sugar and eggs. Husbands take their wives at their own valuation and, if a woman only blows her trumpet loudly enough, her husband will be convinced that he has married a paragon of her sex.

All of which boils down into saying that the secret that every woman should keep is the thing she should not tell.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a middle-aged woman and I don't know whether I am just a victim of self-pity or am plain "touchy" about my friends. I have tried to play square and have never failed to help them in every emergency. I am worried when they are in trouble and put myself out to help them. But am I popular? No! Although I want to be in the swim of things I am just another woman who fills in at a luncheon or a card game. I don't click. Is it because I don't brag, shout, scream, say complimentary things to people's faces and catty things behind their backs? Tell me does it pay to be a hypocrite or be true to one's ideals. I'd love to be popular but although I have a few friends who are true to me I am never singled out or fussed over. Why is this? K. M. C.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: If you have only one friend whose faithfulness and affection you can depend, you are fortunate. If you have two or three whose hands you can reach out and touch in the dark, you are rich beyond the dreams of avarice. All of us have many pleasant acquaintances, men and women who are intelligent and agreeable and whose society we enjoy.

Can't Depend on Them

But these are fair-weather friends, not the real friends who ride out the storm with us and on whose faith and loyalty we can depend, no matter what befalls us. Nor is this as unfair as it sounds. Probably these people give us as much in real liking as we give them, they would do as much for us as we would for them and we are quits when we mutually make life pleasanter and gayer for each other. Think it over and you will realize that you get a lot of fun and entertainment in going to the luncheons and the bridge parties of women even if you know that they have no profound affection for you, and that while they might send flowers to your funeral, they would never break a date to attend it.

You ask if it pays to be a hypocrite. Certainly not if you mean taking advantage of kissing a sister to stab her in the back, but I have found that so often women make the charge of hypocrisy a blanket indictment to cover all of the amenities of life. Perhaps in trying not to be hypocritical you lean over backward and antagonize people by telling them truths which they resent hearing and to which it is none of your business to call their attention, anyway.

But the secret of popularity is a mystery that none can explain. Some fortunate individuals are born with the magic that draws every one they meet to them. Every eye brightens at their coming and very hand gives them a glad welcome. They may not be half so good and kind and unselfish as those who are passed over. They may not be half so good friends. But somehow they get the affection that is denied their superiors and the attentions they do not deserve. They just click, and that's all there is to it.

DEAR MISS DIX: What are children's duty to their parents? MRS. T. G. E.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: I think that children's duty to their parents depends on how well the parents have done their duty to their children. If a father and mother have given their children a happy and peaceful home, no matter how humble it may have been, if they have been tender, loving, understanding and have done their best to give them an education and a right start in the world; if they have taught them courage, self-reliance, thrift, industry and the principles by which they must stand or fall, their children owe them a debt of affection and gratitude that they can never repay.

And my experience and observation is that the people who have been the right kind of parents never have to consider their children's obligations to them. The children do all they can for their father and mother through love, and not because of a sense of duty.

But when parents have been neglectful of their children; when parents have been so harsh and strict and tyrannical that they robbed their children of every pleasure and indulgence; when weak parents spoil and indulge children until they unfit them for life, then I do not see that the children owe them any duty whatsoever.

I hear many parents talk about it being their children's duty to love them and respect them, but this is impossible unless the parents have won their children's respect by their conduct and their love by their tenderness.

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister is 20 years old and lost most of her front teeth in an accident. She is a very pretty girl, but she is so unhappy about having false teeth that she has become morbid and refuses to go out parties and dances. In reality she is just as lovely as ever. WORRIED

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Tell your sister to brace up and take it on the chin. These days false teeth are made so artistically that they are often a great improvement upon the ones which nature bestower upon one. I know many people who are far better-looking with their perfect store teeth than they were with their own mis-shapen and off-colored ones.

A girl should have more courage than to let herself be downed by a little physical affliction.

What's Right?

Your date calls for you at your home for the first time.

WRONG: Have your parents out of the way so that he won't have to meet them before taking you out.

RIGHT: See that he meets your parents.

◇ ◇ ◇

You are a teen-ager and a friend of your mother's comes to call.

WRONG: Stay sprawled out in a chair in the living room when she enters.

RIGHT: Stand up to greet her and see that she is seated before sitting down again yourself.

6—In Memoriams

DINGMAN—In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Harold Russell Dingman, who was killed in action July 13, 1944.
Many a lonely heartache,
Often a silent tear.
Always a beautiful memory
Of the one we loved so dear.
—Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, Alvin and Irene.

LUCANO—In loving memory of Mrs. Lucy Lucano, who passed away July 13, 1939.
A loving smile, a heart of gold,
Dearest mother this world could hold,
'Tis said but true,
I wonder why,
The best are always first to die.
She never failed to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender.
She toiled too hard for those she loved
Then left them to remember.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

NICHOLS—In loving memory of our dear father, Peter Nichols, who passed away July 13, 1944:
Till memory fades and life departs,
You will live forever in our hearts.
—Ever remembered by his family.

7—Cards of Thanks

TITO—TARGET FOR TOMORROW?—Many western military men feel that the Korean invasion may be a diversion to involve the US in Asia while Russia makes a major move in Europe. Moscow's No. 1 target is Yugoslav's mutinous Marshal Josip Tito. Map shows current military moves in adjoining satellite nations that observers think may presage a Russian-planned invasion of Yugoslavia. Tito has some 250,000 troops at his command. Albania has 50,000; Bulgaria, 90,000; Romania, 200,000, and Hungary 70,000. In addition there are 90,000 Russian troops in Austria, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, giving Stalin a total of 450,000 men to throw at his arch-foe.

Lift Suspension On Filchock

PHILADELPHIA, July 13 (AP) —Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League today lifted the indefinite suspension he placed on Frank Filchock three years ago.

Filchock, a former backfield star for New York Giants, was suspended by the league in 1947 for failing to report a bribe offer.

So was Merle Hapes, a teammate of Filchock's. Filchock's application for reinstatement was received last spring. Hapes' application for reinstatement was received by Bell today. The commissioner said he had not yet had time to study it. Hapes played for Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Rugby Union last year.

Filchock played with Montreal Alouettes in the Big Four last season and Bell said that he "has made a real contribution to the promotion and development of clean sports in Canada."

Bill Durnan Decides Quit Hockey For Good

MONTREAL, July 13—(CP)—Big Bill Durnan, six times winner of the Vezina Trophy as the National Hockey League's top goalie, has finally decided to quit hockey for good.

Durnan told Frank Selke, Montreal Canadiens' general manager, yesterday that he is through. Said Durnan, "I could never stand another season. My nerves are all shot and I know it."

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH the alkaline (no-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store

Boy 16, Charged Theft Sweaters

Whether a 16-year-old should be charged as a juvenile for acts allegedly committed before he was 16, was the question that arose before Magistrate W. R. Philp today.

The boy, John Ferren, 511 Cross St., faces three charges of theft and three of fraud. Charges were adjourned without plea to July 17.

Ferren is said to have stolen three sweaters from Grafton's on separate dates in January and February, and to have brought the sweaters in for refunds, saying they had been bought in the store. The boy was not 16 until April.

Magistrate Philp said he would have to study the Juvenile Delinquents Act to discover whether Ferren should be charged as a juvenile for acts committed before his 16th birthday.

Boat Swamped Three Persons Ducked In Lake

Three people received a ducking and one woman almost drowned in Lake Chemong on Sunday afternoon when the boat in which they were riding was swamped by the wash of a speedboat.

Mr. George Sills and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Caccavella, all of Peterborough were riding in a rowboat equipped with an outboard motor near the causeway in Lake Chemong about 4 p.m. when a thoughtless speedboat enthusiast steered his craft too near their boat. The three in the boat were thrown in the water and Mrs. Caccavella almost drowned.

The speedboat didn't stop to offer aid to the struggling people in the water.

According to Jim Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, complaints were received from Chemong Lake last year about speedboats making it hazardous for smaller boats on the lake. When these speed enthusiasts were on the lake, the smaller crafts had to go in to shore to avoid being swamped.

Unfortunately no federal ruling can stop this hazard. Only townships that border on the lakes have the authority to stop this menace.

3,000 Feet Film Swimming Club

Jean Marie-Couture and Julien St. George, National Film Board photographers, took 3,000 feet of film Wednesday of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club at the Lions Community Pool.

T. Farley, assistant director of the National Film Board, was also on hand to get the story behind the scenes.

Part of these films will be given to the International News Release and will be shown in news reels in Canada and the United States within a month.

The shots will also be used in the Canada "Eye Witness Series." Later the films will be sent to all the National Film Libraries in the country.

His First Lunge Weighs 25 Lbs.

HASTINGS, July 13 (ENS) — Ross Dieckbrader of Toronto arrived in Hastings on Saturday at 2 o'clock to visit his friend Irvin Chenevey of Rittman, Ohio.

They went fishing around 5 o'clock, and a half mile below Hastings hooked a muskie He finally reeled the fish up to the side of the boat, but having no net with which to bring him in, a fisherman in another boat came to the rescue, lending them a net, and they finally landed the prize. It was a half-hour job. The maskinonge weighed 25 lbs. Mr. Dieckbrader has been fishing for many years, but this was his first lunge.

LOL 1153, Hartley, is only a small lodge but its marchers were more than enthusiastic. Once when the parade was broken to let traffic through a pikeman entertained with a tap dance to the accompaniment of an equally enthusiastic drummer and a flute player.

Many Lodges

Included in the parade were lodges from Kinmount, Cobourg, Lindsay, Peterborough, Oshawa, Coldsprings Bethany, Cavan, Fraserville, Millbrook, Carmel, Bailieboro, Garden Hill, Port Hope, Janetville, Pontypool, Blackstock, Cartwright, Purple Hill, Tyrone, Manvers Station, Kendal, Douro, Otonabee, North Smith, Lakefield, Havelock, Whitby, Victoria, Emily, Omemee, Kirkfield, Little Britain, Glenarm, Hartley, Oakwood, Dalrymple, Woodville, Cambray, Cameron, Burnt River, Fenelon Falls, Gull River, Coboconk, Reaboro, North Emily, Dunsford, Bobcaygeon and North Verulam.

Parade In Peterborough

Their ranks swelled by lodges from East Druham and Victoria, the Peterborough Orangemen paraded about 600 strong through Peterborough Wednesday after returning from the main celebration in Lindsay.

Many of the older marchers who did not feel up to the main "walk" joined the local parade. A large crowd was on hand to see them.

Leading the parade were Gordon Trennum, County Master of West Peterborough, Morgan Brown and Ralph Langley, deputy county master.

The fife and drum bands drew rounds of applause but once again it was the Havelock Pipe Band that raised the biggest cheer.

Victoria was represented by LOL 41, and East Durham by Fraserville, LOL 46.

Virginia Mayo Revolts Against Fashion

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (AP)—Virginia Mayo, leading a one-girl revolt against the "fashion dictators" says women dress better in St. Louis, Dallas and Chicago than in the so-called style centres of New York and California.

It's all her own idea and there was no press agent to push her along.

"I think women are foolish to follow blindly what they are told to wear by a small group of designers and manufacturers. I am going to wear what I want, even if I become known as 'Miss Dowdy of 1950.'"

She observed that women in New York are inclined to overdress.

"They think that real style means a display of extravagance—bright and heavy jewelry, expensive fur coats, large and unusual hats. But that isn't style They merely look, as my husband says, like well-kept graves."

Underdressed

On the other side of the continent California women are underdressed, she declared.

"Don't mind informality, but California women carry it too far."

Virginia recently returned from making a film in Britain and she said that European women dress better than the style followers of the U.S.

Virginia says she suspects the style makers put out some extreme fashions, but make most of their money from women who stick to saner styles.

"It's just like Hollywood," she philosophized. "We make a few different pictures every year, but most of our money comes from the old standbys—westerns, musicals and boy-meets-girl."

HARROW, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Provincial police have begun a drive against persons who combine drinking on Lake Erie beaches in this area. Seven persons, three of them minors, face charges of having liquor in a place other than their home as a result of arrests during the last three days.

Police said the seven were arrested at Colchester beach after complaints had been received of drinking parties on the sand. They said they found the three minors walking down a street with open liquor bottles in their hands.

The seven will appear in court at Windsor July 21.

Garbage Collectors Get Higher Status

TORQUAY, England, (CP). —"In my young days," said Glasgow councillor Mrs. Jean Craig, "if a girl courted a garbage man she was cast out like a prodigal daughter."

Mrs. Craig sought a higher status for garbage men at a conference here.

"Then the men took pride in their work," he said, " and output went up.

Haven't Seen Pay Boost Yet

TORONTO, July 13 (CP)—Don G. McMaster, executive secretary of the Ontario Civil Service Association, said Wednesday night that if more than 8,000 Ontario civil servants have been granted salary increases this year, a lot of them haven't heard about it yet.

Premier Leslie Frost said Tuesday the Provincial Government had granted increases to more than 8,000 of its 13,000 employees. He said the government is considering the case of lower-salaried employees.

Mr. McMaster said the association office has received letters from employees who haven't had increases in years. Although the average salary in the service might be $45.75—the figure quoted by Mr. Frost—80 per cent are getting $38 a week or less.

In addition to salaries, the association wants to discuss the "failure" in the last year of the joint government-association advisory council, which met only once in the last eight months. The association wants regular and more frequent meetings, McMaster said.

Canadian Jets Fast Flying Off Map

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP) — Canadian jet planes are so fast they are virtually flying off the map

Defence officials said Wednesday the jets are so speedy that maps currently in use, drawn to a scale of about eight miles to the inch, are little use to them. They contain too much detail.

One difficulty with existing maps is that a jet pilot travels at such high altitudes and high speeds that he virtually runs off the map before he can fix on a landmark.

Also Had Poor Appetite, Got Bad Headaches, Did Not Sleep Well. "Found Great Relief by Taking Syntona."

Many people in this city and vicinity who suffer from stomach disorders, constipation, nervous irritability, rundown feeling or aches and pains throughout the body will be interested in the following experience of Mr. Dennis S. Lifely, 95 Bay Street South, Hamilton, Ontario. It is typical of the hundreds of men and women who have found relief by taking Syntona Herbal Compound. Here is Mr. Lifely's own story.

"I suffered from backache and pains in my legs. Also I had a very poor appetite my nerves were all on edge, and I was subject to bad headaches which nothing would seem to relieve I would become easily tired at my work and many nights when I got home I felt that I had no energy left.

"Seeing Syntona advertised, I decided to try it and I have found great relief by taking this medicine. Backache is relieved, I do not get the headaches now, and my appetite is greatly improved. Also, my nerves are calmed down and I do not get tired as I did before. Whereas I used to have trouble getting to sleep at night, I now sleep soundly and awaken feeling rested and refreshed."

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

Half the joy of having a garden is having a comfortable chair in a shady nook where you can lounge and enjoy the changing beauty of your surroundings. What's the use of having a garden if you can't take time to sit down and enjoy it? These are the days when the home owner should be able to recline comfortably on a lawn seat in the dense shade of a towering maple . . . not one task to be done . . . not a care in the world . . . sounds like Utopia!

Garden Seats

My own siestas take place in a secluded corner of the garden, well hidden from the surrounding neighbourhood. One of my prize possessions is a garden bench I made last year. True, it isn't the most comfortable piece of furniture in the world, but it is sturdy and wasn't too hard to make—as you can see from the sketch. My pride and joy is the wide bench I built around the trunk of the maple that stands to one side of the patio. It took a bit of fitting to give an attractive natural finish but it has attracted more favourable comment than any other piece of garden furniture I have made.

Garden Pools

If you are like me, you'll have a bird bath and a small pool in clear view to help you relax. Nothing is quite as restful and cooling as the sound of running water and the reflection of blue sky in a still pool. The size of the pool doesn't matter—you'll get the same effect from a small binder wheel set in concrete (mentioned last month), a washtub sunk in the ground or an extensive cement job. When properly planned and planted so that it fits naturally into its surroundings, the size or expense of the pool is immaterial.

Bird Baths

I could watch my bird bath for hours if work would permit. On a warm afternoon there is a steady procession of bluebirds, chipping sparrows, wrens, song sparrows and robins. The birds do not care how expensive the bath was. As long as the water is fresh, clean and not too deep, they will use it regularly. Between the two extremes illustrated are a host of styles and designs

7 Children Die In Beds As Flames Trap Them In Quebec Farmhouse Fire

Father Rescues Child As Fire Licks Ladder But Girl Not Expected To Live, Blaze Spreads Too Rapidly To Help Others

ROUYN, Que., July 14.—(CP)—Seve small children, trapped in second-storey bedrooms, died Thursday night when fire engulfed a farmhouse at McWatters, eight miles east of here. Three other children of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Degagne escaped with their parents. But one, 15-year-old Eva, is not expected to live. The victims: Rosa, 14; Claudette, 9; Carmen, 8; Jean Roch, 6; Gisele, 4; Lucien, 3, and Maurice, 2. The house collapsed seconds after Mr. Degagne rescued Eva from a flame-swept upper window. Fire licked at the ladder he climbed to snatch her from the inferno.

Cause of the blaze was not learned immediately. The family had been baking bread during the evening.

The two-storey clapboard dwelling was destroyed in "a matter of minutes," neighbors said.

Trapped In Beds

The seven children who died were trapped in their beds on the second floor. So was the badly-burned survivor, Eva, and another son, Jean Claude, 12.

Jean Claude first noticed the fire. He shouted an alarm and ran downstairs.

His father and mother and 17-year-old Raymond, all sleeping downstairs, managed to get out with him.

Mr. Degagne put a ladder to a second-storey window and rescued Eva but the fire-weakened house crashed to the ground before the rest could be saved.

Mrs. Degagne is expecting another child.

"It happened so fast—so very fast," said Mr. Degagne as, dazed and stricken, he slumped in a hospital chair as doctors fought to save Eva's life.

"I didn't have a chance to put anything on. All I could think of was my children, screaming and dying up there.

"I woke up choking, with Jean Claude screaming 'fire' and ev-

A tangled mass of steel is all that is left of the fatal car in which one man was killed and three others seriously injured Thursday night. Stanley Compte, 26 (LOWER RIGHT), was instantly killed; his brother, Pierre, 23, owner and driver of the car, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, and at noon today he had not yet been told of his brother's death. Both are Montreal residents, but have been doing sub-contracting work in the city for Reynold's Construction Co. Two Peterborough youths are still unconscious in hospital—David Adam, 18, (UPPER LEFT INSET), a Bell Telephone Co. lineman, and Allen Baldwin, 18, (LOWER LEFT), who works at Winslow Motors.

Three Others Badly Hurt Rushed To Hospital, Report 2 Still Unconscious

Car and Truck Collide At Intersection Of Highways 28 and 7A, Onlookers Say It's Miracle Any Escape

A Montreal man was instantly killed Thursday night and his three companions seriously injured when a ton-and-a-half truck smashed into the right side of their vehicle at the intersection of Highways 7A and 28. In police court today Charles P. Murphy, 26, Steenburg, driver of the truck, was charged with dangerous driving and remanded to Monday without plea on $1,000 mail. The truck, carrying 200 gallons of fuel oil, sheared off the side of the car and its front wheel rammed into the car's right rear seat, instantly killing Stanley Compte, 26, Montreal.

Three others—two of them Peterborough residents—are in St. Joseph's hospital.

Pierre E. Compte, 23, brother of the dead man and a partner in the aluminum siding and asbestos shingle business, is the least seriously hurt. He sustained facial cuts, body bruises, shock and other as yet undetermined injuries.

Badly Injured

Allen Baldwin, 18, Stewart St., is still unconscious and in a critical condition with two broken legs, two fractured hip bones, a broken ankle and serious head injuries.

Also still unconscious and in a very critical condition is David Adam, 18, Stewart st. He has severe internal injuries.

All four men board at the home of Earl Turner, 417 Stewart St. Mr. Turner has been working with the two French-Canadian brothers since they came to the city from Montreal several months ago.

The Comptes were sub-contractors in the aluminum siding and asbestos shingle business and had a contract with the Reynolds Construction Co. building houses in the south end of the city.

The accident occurred shortly before 9 p. m. Thursday at the intersection of Highways 7A and 28 on the western outskirts of Peterborough. Murphy was driving his truck west on Highway 28 when he saw the eastbound car, driven by Pierre Compte, approach the fork in the highway.

Slows Down

Murphy said later: "I slowed down at the intersection and I thought they were going straight through (i.e. into Peterborough by way of Lansdowne St.).

Phone Rates Boosted On July 22

MONTREAL, July 14—(CP)—The Bell Telephone Company of Canada announced today that increased rates for telephone service, authorized by the Transport Board last weekend, will become effective July 22. The increases affect only Quebec and Ontario where the company has facilities.

The increases range from 30 cents a month for two-party residence telephones in such small exchange areas as Beaverton, Ont. and Gatineau and Shawbridge, Que., to $3.15 for individual business telephones in Quebec city.

The Company, which made public a list of typical monthly rates under new and old tariffs, said it has filed its tariff schedules with the Transport Board in Ottawa and they have been approved.

The company said its new rates are "temporary" and "will remain in effect until the Board makes its final decision on the company's main application for increased rates."

In its decision, the Board granted the company authority to make certain increases on an interim basis until a final decision is given on the Bell application for an overall revenue increase of 2.6 per cent.

In its list of typical rates, the Company showed the new monthly rate for a two-party residence

Fail To Refloat Grounded Liner

QUEBEC, July 14 — (CP) — Refloating of the 20,000-ton liner Franconia may be a lengthy operation, it appeared today as the big ship lay in the grip of St. Lawrence River rocks on the shores of the island of Orleans.

The Cunard Donaldson liner ran on the stony shore at Pointe Au Taureau Wednesday night shortly after leaving Quebec for Liverpool.

Hope of dislodging the ship from its stony bed rested in the Foundation Maritime vessel Traverse which left Grindstone, Magdalen Islands, Thursday with seven powerful pumps.

Capt. Robert Featherstone, in charge of Foundation salvage operations at Halifax, flew from that city to survey the situation.

An attempt Thursday by Quebec tugs to budge the Franconia failed. No other tries were made and last night, as low tide again exposed the tall prow of the vessel on shore rocks and accentuated its listing to starboard, a scheduled second attempt was called off.

Crash In Bad Storm Two People Killed

ERIE, Pa., July 14 (AP)—Coast guardsmen dragged Lake Erie today for the body of two persons who died in a plane crash near North-east, Pa.

The body of R. G. Cobb, Cleveland manufacturer, was recovered last night from the wrecked cabin of his small plane.

Dr. Elsie Hartman, 34, of Chicago, a cousin of Cobb's, was reported to have been with him. Her luggage was found floating in the cabin alongside Cobb's body.

The plane crashed into the lake yesterday during an electrical storm.

Boat Owners Angry At RCMP Check-ups

CHATHAM, July 14. (CP) — Proprietors of boat liveries, and anglers in Kent county's fishing grounds are up in arms over action started this week by the RCMP to enforce safety regulations and prevent accidents.

The areas affected have been Rondeau Bay, Mitchell's Bay, Lake Erie, St. Clair River and Detroit River, the Sydenham River and Snye River.

It is estimated that the campaign already has affected more than 1,000 craft in Mitchell's Bay and Rondeau Lake alone. These waters yesterday, usually one of the big fishing days, was deserted.

The RCMP have told boat owners they must register all inboard or outboard motor boats, must paint registration numbers on the bow, buy fire extinguishers and jacket type life preservers for every person aboard. Boats over 20 feet long must carry fire buckets and pails of sand.

Hang Ducharme For Killing Woman In B.C.

VANCOUVER, July 14—(CP)—Fred (Red) Ducharme, 37-year-old millworker, was hanged for murdering a woman he picked up on a rain-swept November night.

His face chalk-white but his step firm, Ducharme dropped through an abandoned elevator shaft at Oakalla prison farm and was pronounced dead 13 minutes later.

Ducharme, whose tangled testimony resulted in one of the longest trials in Vancouver criminal court history, was convicted of the sex-slaying of Blanche Ferne Fisher last Nov. 8.

Roman Catholic priest Rev. Gerald Hayes, spent the night comforting Ducharme in his barren death cell.

Ducharme didn't sleep, Father Hayes said, but "stood up very well all night long".

Ducharme, prison officials said, was refused his request for a narcotic but was given two ounces of cognac shortly before the hanging.

He ate no breakfast. His last supper—a big one—included a breast of turkey, French fried potatoes, cucumbers, tomatoes, ice cream and celery stuffed with cheese.

Reds Advance In US Uniforms

ADVANCED AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS, Korea, July 15.—(Saturday)—(AP).—Intense fighting flared on the Kum river front late last night after a small Communist force crossed the river despite U.S. artillery and plane attacks. A headquarters spokesman said Communist guerrillas hit an American artillery unit in force while Red artillery hammered American lines. The Communist guerrillas wore green twill fatigue uniforms such as the Americans wear, the spokesman said. Presumably the uniforms were taken from American dead or prisoners, the spokesman reported.

"They don't operate according to any rules of uniformed warfare," he added.

The infiltration behind American lines has been building up for the last several days, and the attack on American artillery positions disclosed the guerrilla mustering of strength, the spokesman said.

The Communist Kum River crossing was reported made west of Kongju by a force of little more than 100 men.

Full-Scale Attack

The guerrilla attack in the rear, plus intensive night fighting with an artillery barrage showed the Communists had launched their full-scale attack to breach the Kum River line which guards Taejon, vital rail and highway centre.

The headquarters spokesman said the Reds have two or three divisions facing the Americans on the river line.

South Korean police ordered an alert and midnight curfew in Taejon, 20 miles southeast of Kongju.

The small band of North Koreans waded the low, gravel-bottomed river.

Artillery fire from both side of the Kum was active but a heavy United States counter battery barrage silenced the Red guns in late afternoon.

Haliburton Man Escapes Criminal Insane Hospital

PENETANGUISHENE, July 14.—(CP) — Two inmates—each of them sent to the Ontario Hospital for the Criminally Insane when juries found them unfit to stand trial on murder charges—escaped from the hospital Thursday. Ontario Provincial police hunted them through the district.

It was the fifth escape for Melville Wilkie, 40, who was sent to the hospital 18 years ago after his wife and child burned to death in their home in Owen Sound.

With him was George Herman Woodcox, a Haliburton lumberjack. Woodcox was ruled insane last year and found unable to stand trial for the murder of Al Gill who was shot on Hallowe'en night in 1948 in the Haliburton county hamlet of Tory Hill.

Wilkie escaped from the hospital twice in 1946 and once bid within the hospital grounds for 12 days. He reached Winnipeg before being captured on his second escape that year. He escaped over a fence in August 1947 and was at large for three days and broke loose again in March 1948.

Working In Field

Dr. W. A. Cardwell, Superintendent of the Hospital, said the two men were working under supervision in a hay field when they made a break for the bush around the hospital, 85 miles north of Toronto.

"There is no cause for alarm," he said. Neither of these men is dangerous."

Police said the men would probably head east since Penetanguishene lay directly to the west. Wilkie had been caught there once before.

Wilkie was described as weighing about 160 pounds and five feet seven inches tall. He was wearing a khaki shirt and dark grey trousers.

Woodcox is said to weigh 124 pounds, five feet four and one-half inches tall. He was also wearing dark grey trousers, blue work shirt and straw hat.

Wilkie was reported to have been a model inmate at the institution who had been allowed a considerable amount of freedom recently.

Hole 18 Ft. Deep In Bomber Blast

LEBANON, O., July 14 (AP)—Only a gaping hole in a field and shattered pieces of metal today show where a United States Air Force B-50 bomber crashed, carrying at least 11 men to their death.

The plane was on a routine practice mission and was carrying practice bombs. The plane plunged into the ground on a farm near Lebanon, O., and exploded. The impact and the blast tore a hole in the ground that was about 18 feet deep and at least 75 feet wide.

The big plane was blown to pieces. Bodies and parts of the bodies of the victims were scattered over a wide area.

Meanwhile, at Tucson, Ariz., survivors of another B-50 bomber crash said today an explosion occurred just moments before the plane plunged out of control, carrying at least one crew member to death. Six men parachuted to safety. Three others are reported missing.

Lie Urgently Appeals For Soldiers

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 14 (AP)—Secretary-General Trygve Lie urgently appealed today to 52 United Nations members for ground forces and other assistance for the U.N. Korean war effort.

Lie told a press conference the united command under the United States is in urgent need of additional effective assistance.

He dispatched telegrams to all U.N. countries backing the Security Council actions against Communist North Korea, telling them he would be grateful for them to consider the possibility of such assistance, "including combat forces, particularly ground forces."

Lie said these forces should be "effective forces" and not "token."

He expressed hope it will not take more than three to six months to end the war in Korea, but said the full effort of all concerned is necessary.

Has No Comment

Lie made no comment when asked for the U.N. attitude on possible use of atomic bombs.

There are 59 U.N. members. Those not receiving the telegram were the United States, which is carrying the burden of fighting, the Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia. The Russian bloc and Yugoslavia opposed the Security Council action.

Smashes 2 Cars Thief Escapes

HAMILTON, July 14 (CP) — A man, believed from Toronto, cracked up two stolen cars and successfully eluded a cordon of police early today after a wild 90 mile an hour chase in which police fired several shots.

The man crashed his first car into a guard rail during a chase and then ran across the field. He got away from police who later stopped another stolen car, driven by the same man. Trapped at a road block, he attempted to run down constable Frank Wain. Two shots were fired at his car but he got away. His car went out of control on a sideroad, climbed an embankment, uprooted a tree and turned on its side.

The driver staggered out and got into an oat field. Police say they think he made a getaway on a slow-moving freight train passing at the time.

Third Time Unlucky For Greedy Pickpocket

TORONTO, July 14—(CP) — A pickpocket who posed as the drunk's best friend picked the wrong "third man" Thursday night.

Police Sergt. Ernest Gill, in plain clothes, watched two men frisk a drunk and shove him on to a street car. The same thing happened to another imbiber.

So Gill played drunk.

"You feeling sick?" asked on man, patting Gill on the back, lifting his wallet and reaching into a side pocket for the loose change.

"That's when I whipped around and grabbed his arm," said Gill.

The suspect was identified as Fred Osborne, 37.

Russian Neighbors Worried At US Showing In Korea

LONDON, July 14 (AP)—Non-Communist Western Europeans reacted with the same phrase today to American setbacks in Korea: "Give them time."

Outside those circles obedient to Moscow, the feeling among both press and public was that, despite heavy odds, the United States troops would pull out of the hole.

There were, however, some doubts and some criticisms.

In Norway and Finland, both neighbors of Russia, the man in the street wondered out loud whether the needed reinforcements of men and material would be too little and too late. Some Finns found the state of U.S. preparedness in the Pacific a chilling eye-opener. They were impressed with the apparent military ability of the North Koreans.

Almost the only sharp non-Communist criticism of the U.S. Korean effort came from Rome's moderate, pro-government Il Momento.

"The fact alone that America has to half mobilize to oppose a semi-barbarian state, a country that is the last (least powerful) of the Soviet satellites, will mean for America a loss of prestige which a late and painfully-secured victory will not be able to regain," it wrote.

The London Daily Express warned that the news from Korea might continue bad for another 90 days but predicted eventual victory.

"Korea is no Dunkerque," it declared. "It is a pitched battle between a handful of ill-equipped American troops, some of them battle-green, and a well-trained numerically superior aggressor."

Plan To Build New Civic Centre

EDMONTON, July 14 (CP) — Edmonton city council Thursday night officially approved a plan for construction of a $25,000,000 civic centre in the heart of the business area.

The project—dubbed the "miracle mile"—is backed mainly by the first New Amsterdam Corporation of New York.

It calls for construction of a shopping, professional and business area to occupy four city blocks. It would contain an auditorium and parking space for 1,800 automobiles.

Business space in the civic centre, now largely occupied by small buildings, would be rented

Russia and United States Receive Notes From Nehru

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) Both the United States and Russia received notes yesterday from Prime Minister Nehru of India.

There was no announcement of the contents but there was speculation here that they might include a proposal for attaining peace in Korea.

The New York Times in a dispatch from Washington quoted diplomatic circles as saying that India was not offering to mediate in the Korean war but was merely urging the United States and Russia to keep the Korean war from spreading.

Nehru recently expressed his willingness to serve as a mediator in the conflict between North and South Koreans, the latter backed by the United Nations.

In New Delhi, India a government source indicated that Nehru has told Moscow and Washington India is ready to mediate in the Korean war, but "only if requested by the parties concerned."

Asked what were the contents of Nehru's note to the two capitals yesterday, the source replied:

"Whatever Prime Minister Nehru told Mr. Stalin and Mr. Acheson does not fall outside the policy of the government of India as enunciated in his addresses to press conferences."

The informant said he had no information on how Nehru's suggestions had been received.

Jeep, Guns Missing Seek 2 Picton Soldiers

PICTON, July 14 (CP) — Provincial Police and Mounties are investigating the escape of two soldiers from the Army camp here Thursday. A number of guns and a jeep were reported missing from the base, 20 miles southeast of Belleville.

The soldiers, Joseph T. Bennett of Winnipeg and John L. Nelmes of Port Arthur, were under open arrest on a charge of infraction of military discipline. They did not report for morning parade.

Authorities at the Army artillery school said four Sten guns, four 9 mm. revolvers and ammunition were missing from camp stores. Later a jeep bearing Quebec licence plates was reported missing.

RCAF To Rush Expansion Plans In '51

Say Radar Screens Other Equipment To Be Stepped Up

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP).—Next year is earmarked as the biggest since the Second War for development of Canadian air combat strength, the R.C.A.F. said today.

By the end of 1951, the air force aims to have five regular fighter squadrons formed and largely equipped with the new American-designed, Canadian-built F86 jet fighters. They will be based in Eastern Canada.

Accelerated production of jet fighters—orders are in for F86's and Canada's long-range CF-100—is expected to be one result of Defence Department preparations to boost equipment orders this year as a result of Korea and all it can mean.

Development of radar screens around vital targets is also expected to be speeded.

Adds to Budget

The acceleration and expansion of production of planes, radar and other war equipment is expected to add substantially to the peacetime record $425,000,000 defence budget approved by Parliament for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1951. This would be done through supplementary estimates seeking possibly up to $50,000,000 more.

The Cabinet is keeping an eye on Washington for signs that the Korean situation may finally bring about the North American war production integration that Canada has sought. An important meeting of Canadian and American officials is scheduled for Ottawa August 8 and the subject probably will come up then.

Meanwhile, as the Canadian destroyers Cayuga, Athabaska, and Sioux prepared to sail from Pearl Harbor with US task force "Yoke" for action in Korean wa-

Plan To Start Work On Atomic Sub Engine

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP).—Senator Brien McMahon (Dem. Conn.) said today that construction work will be started at Arco, Idaho, next month on a land-based model for an atomic-powered submarine engine.

McMahon, chairman of the Senate-House of Representatives Atomic Committee, predicted that a "tremendous improvement in submarine performance is in the offing."

The Arco prototype, or original from which other engines are to be copied, is one of two experimental projects for atomic ship propulsion on which the Atomic Energy Commission has been working since early 1947. The project is being carried on jointly for the AEC by the Argonne National Laboratories near Chicago, and the Westinghouse Corporation.

Truman Has No Plans For Rushing Seaway Work

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP).—President Truman said Thursday he has no intention of asking army engineers to go ahead with construction of the St. Lawrence seaway as a defense measure. A reporter asked the president about a copyright story in the Toronto Star saying he would sidestep congressional opposition and order the army to go to work on the seaway and hydro-electric projects on the St. Lawrence river. Truman replied that he has no such intention.

State Department officials earlier had said they had heard nothing about plans for the army engineers to do the job. They pointed out that the president could not bypass Congress since Congress must provide funds for any such project.

Had To Drop Her

"This was only moments after it started but I could hardly get near the window. Just inside I saw a figure—I didn't know who—but I pulled it out and it was Eva. I don't like to think about that."

Mr. Degagne said he managed to carry the girl a few feet down the ladder but her weight was too much for him and he had to drop her.

"I couldn't do anything about it. I tried to hold on but my arms just let go themselves. She felt about 10 feet and as she struck the ground the building crashed down. I had to jump quickly for the ladder went with it."

The Degagnes have farmed at McWatter's for nine years. Mr. Degagne also works in Rouyn as a carpenter.

Political Comics Help UK Tories

LONDON, (CP).—The Conservative party claims that its first venture into popular political propaganda is a smashing success.

Party headquarters have decided to print 1,000,000 copies of its new four-page newspaper, called "Popular Pictorial."

Highlight of the newspaper, which sells for one penny and will be issued monthly, is a full-page comic strip depicting the woes of a married couple about to break up because of the housing shortage.

Through the influence of a member of the family—a Conservative—the couple is reunited and appears in the last strip determined to "take our next chance to get a Conservative government that will look after people like us."

Political quarters believe this is the first time the comic strip—called the "strip cartoon" here—has been used for political propaganda.

Violent Storms Sweep Ontario

TORONTO, July 14 — (CP) — A series of violent rain and electrical storms swept through Ontario Thursday and caused slight damage and a few casualties. No one was reported killed.

The storm struck Toronto shortly after noon and left a trail of flooded basements, torn trees and fallen wires.

Heavy rain and some damage were reported in London, Hamilton, North Bay and in the Muskoka district. The weather office in Hamilton registered 9.18 inches of rainfall during the storm's short duration.

Near Woodbridge, 15 miles northwest of Toronto, Dr. G. B. M. Fuller and his wife, Helen, from Loudonville, Ohio, were injured when their automobile plunged off No. 7 Highway in the blinding rain and overturned. Dr. Fuller, suffering from a heart condition, was taken to hospital in Toronto with severe chest injuries. Mrs. Fuller escaped with minor cuts and shock.

Home Burns

The nine-room home of Almon Madden, Napanee district farmer, was gutted by fire when it was struck by lightning. Mr. Madden suffered cuts to his hand when he smashed his fist through a pane of glass while fighting the fire. H. J. Knuth, a member of Napanee's volunteer fire department, also was cut.

In suburban Weston, lightning struck a jewellry store and a house causing slight damage. Lightning also struck the post office in Richmond Hill, 15 miles north of Toronto, and blew out the lights.

A bolt struck the chimney of Hamilton's Delta United Church, toppling a section to the ground.

Reds Advance

The Communists had moved their tanks down the highway from Chochiwon and used the tank guns as artillery weapons.

American artillery fire was credited with knocking out seven of 12 tanks.

Front-line officers said the small crossing attempt was made upstream and eastward of the Chochiwon highway bridge. The Reds were also reported to have used small boats.

The Northerners in their Kum River crossing appeared to be pushing their successful strategy of flanking and encircling the Americans. They have used this plan brilliantly in their 45-mile advance since U.S. troops first went into action July 5 at Osan, 10 miles of Suwon.

Knock Out 1st Div.

When the big push across the river comes, the Communists will have to attempt it without their 1st Division, which headed the long drive of more than 150 miles from the North Korean border to the Kum.

Gen. MacArthur's communique said the 1st Division, described as North Korea's finest, was so badly mauled by U.S. group troops and air blows that it has been replaced by the 6th Division.

The communique still showed concern over the sweeping eastward movement by two Red divisions. They threaten to cut off the Kum and Taejob from supplies coming up from Pusan, southeast port.

It said the Reds still were driving toward Hamchong and Andong. These cities are 44 and 75 miles east of Taejon and about 60 miles north of Taegu on the highway from Pusan to the front. Hamchong is only 32 miles north of Kumchon, another road point.

A spokesman at advanced U.S. headquarters said, however, that the South Korean army had generally stabilized this eastern sector of the front. It apparently was based on information later than that in the communique.

Heavy Air Attack

Allied planes kept up their ceaseless hammering of invader ground forces back of the front Thursday. A Far East air force communique listed nine enemy tanks destroyed, 12 damaged, 45 trucks destroyed and 58 damaged.

The North Korean radio broadcast that Thursday's mass B-29 strike hit Wonsan, eastern seaport 80 miles north of the 38th Parallel. Nearly 50 Superforts bombed the target by radar. The broadcast charged that "indiscriminate bombing" had caused many casualties in schools and hospitals.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, U.S. air force chief of staff, said the speed with which the United States mounted its big Superfort strike "should give food for thought to those in the world who would violate by military aggression the peace and independence of others."

Build Bomb Shelters

OSLO, Norway, July 14.—(Reuters).—Oslo will soon start building four air raid shelters which civil defence chiefs claim will afford protection against atom bombs.

Three Others

Instead the car turned to enter the city through Highway 28 (i.e. Charlotte St.) and the two vehicles collided.

Side Ripped Off

The impact was so great that the right side of the car was almost completely ripped out by the right front wheel and engine of the truck. When the two vehicles spun to a stop on the north side of the highway the metal body of the car was piled on top of the truck's hood like so much junk.

Nearby residents heard the crash and rushed out to lend assistance. Only one of the four was conscious when they got there.

"I just saw a leg sticking out of the back door of the car," said an elderly man who declined to give his name. "They were all twisted up and we had to pull out the seats and cushions to get at them. Only one of them was conscious and he seemed dazed."

Truck Driver Unhurt

Murphy, the truck driver, was uninjured. He was alone in the cab when the accident occurred.

The smashup attracted the attention of hundreds of motorists and cars were lined along both sides of the highway for several hundred yards. Passing transport drivers assisted provincial police in setting up flares to warn oncoming traffic of the danger.

Typical comment of the throng of spectators was: "I don't see how anybody got out of that car alive." Drivers of many years' experience said it was one of the worst smashes they had ever seen.

Several trips had to be made by ambulance to get the injured to St. Joseph's Hospital. The body of Stanley Compte was taken to Nisbett's Funeral Home.

The Comptes and Adam had gone out to the farm of Ed Baldwin, Ida, to pick up Allen Baldwin.

Mr. Baldwin father of the injured youth today explained that the four had to borrow some gas from the tractor before they could make the return trip to the city, shortly after 8:30 p.m.

Prices Edge Up On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, July 14. (CP) — Prices edged slowly higher on the Toronto Stock Exchange today in an attempted recovery of two successive sessions of losses. Market leaders showed the best gains in the comparatively dull dealings. Golds, heavy losers in recent markets, jumped sharply. Volume for the first three hours was 804,000 shares.

Senior and junior gold producers jumped ahead at the opening and rose steadily as the session progressed. Yesterday the list dipped to the lowest average price level in seven years. Juniors showed gains today ranging up to 25 cents. McIntyre paced a strong senior list.

Industrials brightened on gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. Papers, refining oils and liquors were higher while utilities and steels were mixed.

Invite Others To Send Troops

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) —The United States is quietly informing other interested members of the United Nations that it would welcome participation of their ground forces in the fighting in Korea.

There is no expectation among top officials here, however, that the main burden of battle can or will be borne by other than American troops.

There have been reports that the government of Pakistan is considering offering troops to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the UN Commander for Korea, and that some other governments, so far undisclosed, are also thinking about making offers.

The only foreign proposal to date came from the Chinese Nationalist regime on Formosa and is reported to have been discouraged by MacArthur on two grounds: (1) That the Nationalist troops are needed for the defence of Formosa against the Communists, and (2) their use in Korea might bring the Chinese Reds in on the side of the North Koreans.

Jewelry Seized

FORT ERIE, July 14—(CP)—Seizure of jewelry valued at $5,000 was reported in evidence yesterday at the trial of Albert Farber, 42-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., jewelry salesman. He pleaded innocent to a charge of having goods on which duty was not paid and was remanded a week on $8,000 bail. Diamonds, sapphires and a platinum wrist watch were seized at a tourist cabin at nearby Dunville by the RCMP.

50 Years A Fifer Never Misses July 12 Band

MARMORA, July 14—(ENS)—Fifty years as a fifer has been completed by Albert Bartlett of Marmora. The first occasion for him to appear in public with his fife was at the celebration held in Tweed in 1900 when he played for the home lodge. The next year he was living at Cordova Mines and the LOL ther engaged him as snare drummer.

Soon, however, he was established as fifer for the neighboring Blairton lodge. Later he moved to Marmora to be engaged first by the now dormant True Blue Lodge for several successive celebrations and after that by Marmora LOL 319 and Golden Star 748 Royal Black Preceptory. He will play for the latter at the celebration at Frankford on August 12.

The only time Mr. Bartlett has missed playing on July 12th during his half century as a fifer was when he was an infantryman overseas, 1915-1919. Now in his 73rd year he still handles the fife with the ability of many a younger man. Possessing a strong voice he has also been a singer of sentimental and comic songs over a large period.

The Examiner's New Heading

Today we use for the first time a new heading which has been designed for this newspaper; we felt that the appearance of our Centennial Edition was a suitable moment to introduce it to our readers. It is the creation of a Canadian designer, Clair Stewart, whose work is considered by capable critics to be the best in this field that Canada affords; his work as a typographical designer is familiar in Europe and Latin America as well as here, and has been the subject of high praise in Graphis, the Swiss journal of design which is considered a leading authority on such matters. We are proud to carry an example of distinguished Canadian design at our masthead.

* * *

People who are unfamiliar with such matters may be surprised that a designer is needed at all in order to give a newspaper a new heading. If they are curious about the problem, let them sit down with a piece of paper and try to design a well-balanced heading themselves. They will find that there are problems of proportion involved in laying out twenty letters (and even more if the article "The" is prefixed to "Peterborough") which they had not anticipated. And a satisfactory result cannot be achieved by using existing type; the heading must be lettered by hand, and then cast in indestructible steel, so that no accident can alter its appearance.

* * *

The ornament which appears beneath the words "Peterborough Examiner" is a part of the heading and it, too, had to be designed in relation to the whole and with proper consideration for the special problems of newspaper printing. Upon the scroll which is a part of this ornament is the motto of the newspaper—Humani nihil a me alienum puto. This is a quotation from a play by the Roman playwright Terence, and it means I am interested in everything human. A fussy Latinist might prefer the translation "I count nothing human indifferent to me," but we think our simpler translation gives the sense in an easy and accurate form. This motto, we feel, expresses the attitude of this newspaper as well as anything could.

* * *

Why a motto in Latin, someone may ask. Well, why not? Newspaper mottoes in English can become boring, and even funny, with the passage of time. Not to choose an example from Canada, consider the motto of the New York Times — "All the news that's fit to print." A good motto, but repetition has worn much of the gloss from it, and it always raises the question of precisely what and how much is fit to print. We have chosen the decent obscurity of a dead language in order that the statement of conviction which we print at our masthead every day, year in and year out, may be constantly before our own eyes, but will not intrude too glaringly upon the eyes of our readers.

* * *

One word more. It will be seen that we have departed from the Gothic lettering which is usual for newspaper headings, and have used a Roman letter. The Gothic type which is familiar in this position came into fashion in the middle of the nineteenth century, supposedly through the influence of Albert, the Prince Consort. Although we yield to nobody in our admiration for Prince Albert's fine qualities, we have never heard that a flair for typography was among them, and we have returned to the cleaner, clearer letter in token that the Victorian Era, so far as The Examiner is concerned, is irrevocably a part of the honoured past, and we do not feel obliged to retain either its point of view or its taste in printing.

Fines For Speeding

We agree with the Port Hope Guide in some editorial remarks which it made recently on the subject of fines for speeding. There must be few motorists who have not at some time received a form which says that they were exceeding the speed limit in a certain area on a certain day; attached is a note which says that they need not appear in court to contest the case if they will send a specified sum to the magistrate in the area where the offence is alleged to have been committed. Most motorists pay up, and the coffers of the supposedly offended area are thereby enriched without anybody having been put to too much trouble.

* * *

Nevertheless, if a motorist is proceeding at a speed which is considered to be contrary to public safety, is it not the duty of the police to stop him and tell him to go more slowly? And should he not receive some warning at that time that he will be charged with speeding? It is a little too easy for the police to sit by the roadside, clocking cars which are going at anything from five to thirty miles above the speed limit, and to send out the notices later. If such driving is dangerous it is the job of the police to stop it, not merely to enable the municipality to collect.

* * *

There are small settlements on all the provincial highways which depend on fines for such offences to provide some portion of their revenue. If they are serious about their speed limits they should do their best to see that those speed limits are enforced on the spot. A policeman who watches a traffic offence while it is being committed, and who does nothing to stop it, ceases to be a policeman and becomes a spy, or common informer, and adds nothing to the dignity of the law.

* * *

Similarly municipalities which permit their police to behave in this way, in the expectation of reaping fines from motorists who are too busy to defend their cases, are running a petty racket under the wing of the law.

Our Centennial Edition

Today, in addition to our usual paper, we publish a Centennial Supplement of forty pages in which we try to give an account of some of the happenings which have contributed toward the making of Peterborough during the past century. If some of our readers feel that important aspects of local life have been neglected we can only reply that our space was limited, and that we thought it better to do a few things well than to present skimped accounts of a wider variety of subjects. We remind our readers, also, that for some months we have been publishing a completely new local history in weekly instalments, and that we shall continue to do so until well into 1951.

* * *

We are fortunate in being able to print, for the first time, a large part of a study of the writers of the Kawartha district by Sister Patricia, principal emeritus of St. Peter's High School. We are grateful to Sister Patricia for permission to use this matter, which brings home the sometimes neglected fact that this part of Ontario has been unusually rich in literary associations. We are happy, also to present an excellent article on music in this district by Richard F. Choate, whose family connections enable him to write with authority on the subject. Nor would we wish our readers to think that, because we have mentioned these articles especially, we undervalue the work done by our staff writers for this issue.

* * *

The pictures in our Centennial Supplement are, we believe, unfamiliar to most of our readers. We have taken pains to get the best pictures of the city in past years that are available, and we believe that some of those we have unearthed are of lasting historical interest. In addition we must mention the series of "Little Known Events in Local History," drawn by George Cobb, our staff artist.

* * *

The Centennial Supplement is The Examiner's principal contribution to the observance of our municipal centenary. We hope that our readers will find it interesting, and that perhaps, when they have read it, they will wish to send it to Peterborough friends who live elsewhere, and who will be glad to have this backward glance over the past of Peterborough.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A strike is reported in a Toronto rubber plant. It could, of course, stretch out indefinitely.

A headline in a contemporary reads: "Turkey Likes Democracy." Making it permissible, presumably, to refer to democracy as Turkish Delight.

We read of a courtroom which was recently invaded by bats. Blind bats and blind justice in the same room must have caused some confusion.

A town in Alberta reports that a bear entered a beverage room. Well, if the provincial laws don't permit a bear to have a social beer in his own hollow tree, what do they expect?

Cymbeline's City

by Jacquetta Hawkes

CAPITAL cities rise and fall; when they fall they may be buried under desert sand or they may decline to pleasant, provincial places—famous, perhaps, for their oysters. Colchester, which has been celebrating the nineteen-hundredth anniversary of its foundation as a Roman town, was for many crucial years the recognized capital of Britain. In these days of mushroom anniversaries, when cynical journalists and officials comb lists of bicentenaries, centenaries, and mere jubilees in quest of opportunities for public celebration, a history of ninteen-hundred years can still retain its dignity.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVEN this span is not large enough to include the whole of Colchester's metropolitan history. In the half century before the Roman conquest the prince of a successfully aggressive tribe in the south-east had welded the whole of that quarter of our island into a single kingdom, and as its ruler became the first individual to be spoken of as "King of Britain." This great man was Cunobelin, or Cymbeline, who in about A.D. 10 established his capital not, as Shakespeare would have us think, in "Lud's town," but at Camulodunum, on a pleasant hill slope beside the Colne just outside modern Colchester.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT was in many ways a squalid enough place, with a scatter of wattle huts protected by the massive earth ramparts still to be seen in Lexden Park. It may have been a little dignified, however, by the rough wooden building of "Cymbeline's Palace" and the nearby mint, where coins were struck, proudly inscribed with the initial letters of the new city, CAMV. There was, too, a trickle of civilization from without. Galleys came up the Colne to disembark luxury products from the Roman Empire: fine pottery from Gaul and Italy, bronzes, oil, and above all the huge, high-handled amphorae that carried Mediterranean wine. From this overseas traffic the local population picked up some Latin, and even the art of writing it—words scratched on potsherds found near the harbour provide our earliest known specimens of handwriting.

✧ ✧ ✧

SO south-east Britain was gently Romanized, "softened up" in the language of our more civilized time, and in this process Camulodunum is known to have taken a leading part. It was still the capital when, after Cunobelin's death, the anti-Roman policy of his son Caratacus helped to provoke the Roman invasion. The events of A.D. 43 are familiar. The defeat of Caratacus on the Medway, and the arrival in person of the Emperor Claudius with his cohort of elephants to claim the glory of a victory already won. The ramparts of Camulodunum were never defended, the elephants trampled an alien countryside, and Claudius made a triumphal entry into the British capital before giving orders that it should be levelled to the ground.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR their own city the Romans took a virgin site on a neighbouring slope—the site, in fact, of modern Colchester. There, nineteen-hundred years ago, they began the building of a colonia, a place where army veterans could live out comfortably the days of their retirement. True to their usual policy of engaging native tribal loyalties, the Imperial authorities seem to have chosen the old British capital as the capital of their new Province. Among its public and private buildings there went up a fine classical temple, the centre of the official cult where the clever old Emperor was to be worshipped as the Divine Claudius. One can imagine the mutual congratulations, the heavy after-dinner jokes, bandied throughout a civil service notoriously addicted to oysters.

✧ ✧ ✧

COLCHESTER'S short existence as the capital of a Roman Province ended disastrously. Victory in the lowlands had been so easy, and appeared to be so complete, that the authorities showed foolhardiness; the colonia had no walls, few people possessed arms, and the nearest troops were fighting over a hundred miles away. When Queen Boudicca raised her revolt in A.D. 61, Camulodunum was her first sacrifice; the city was set on fire, and although some citizens tried to hold out in the Temple of Claudius, within a few days they, too, had to give in, and all were either massacred or burnt. This famous rebellion, a last licking flame of the dark fires of prehistoric Britain, was stamped out with a brutality equal to its own, and the work of reconstruction began.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE renewed colonia was prosperous, but probably no longer a capital city. The extraordinary advantages of a certain Thames-side settlement close by the River Fleet had been recognized; Londinium seemingly usurped, and held, the ancient privileges of Camuledunum.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

The Shooting Starts At Bisley

(Ottawa Citizen))

July would not be the same if Canadians could not follow the fortunes of their team on the rifle ranges at Bisley, 40 miles from London. The two-week competitions started this week. Canada has sent over a team of 18 marksmen, in addition to a commandant and adjutant. The finest rifle-shots of the Commonwealth are gathered there. Governments lend encouragement to the meeting, for in the last analysis the man with a rifle is one of the most important cogs in any army. The entry list is about 1,400 and every last marksman will be hoping to win the King's Prize—the most important match in the meet.

The competitions are conducted by the 90-year-old National Rifle Association, which has formed the pattern for the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association and similar organizations throughout the Commonwealth. Canada has been sending teams, except during the years of the two Great Wars, since 1871. With 18 marksmen, the Canadian commandant can pick different entries for the various team matches, the most important of which is the MacKinnon, when each country of the Commonwealth is represented by 12 men.

Canadians have won the King's Prize, and before that the Queen's Prize, on five occasions. This places Canadian marksmen about on a par with those of other parts of the Commonwealth. The people in this country will be hoping this will be Canada's year again to win the coveted prize.

Right Out Of Hitler's Book

Ontario Is A State Of Mind

(Alberta Civil Service Bulletin)

A FEW years ago my wife and I were given a heaven-sent opportunity to visit the homes of my paternal progenitors in Ontario. Specifically, we were escorts for a number of Alberta children who were on their way to the Brantford School for the Blind, but that is beside the point. Anyway, ours was the opportunity to visit assorted cousins, uncles, aunts, and other relatives last seen some 30 years before.

Through the years frequent invitations had flowed East, the general tenor of which was that at least some of these collateral connections come West to repay the visit we had made in 1917. But such overtures had always been met with unanswerable logic: "Oh, we couldn't do that; it's so far. But you come and pay us a visit; we'd love to have you."

Although the argument is irrefutable, it took us some years to see it. At first we thought it an evasion to conceal a reluctance to spend money on travelling. But that inference was incorrect, even if these collateral connections are inclined to be careful of their money. Each of my cousins still has the first dollar he ever earned. In fact, he still has every dollar he ever made.

But don't think they are parsimonious; just prudent. Thus when Cousin Maggie was married, the wedding date was set for the day her bridegroom was to take a load of hogs to Listowell, in order to minimize honeymoon expenses. A couple of years ago she sent us a photo of her first-born. A fine looking lad he is, too, as the picture plainly shows, even if it is a photographer's proof. I'd like to show it to my friends, but Maggie wanted it back to send to some of her folks in the States.

But I digress. The simple truth of the matter was that these relations of ours really believe it is much farther from Toronto to Edmonton than from Edmonton to Toronto. They proved it by reference to E.S.T. and M.S.T., but I have forgotten how the proof goes. Besides, they couldn't come because they aren't quite sure where Edmonton is—out West somewhere. But everyone knows where Toronto is. Maggie even knows firsthand; she was there for a two-day Youth Endeavour conference when she was 16.

WELL, finally we reached Cousin Maggie and Aunt Lizzie's home. After supper we were entertained. Maggie got down the family album to show us pictures of all direct and indirect ancestors and ancestresses since Great-Grandfather William settled in Bruce County in 1841. The commentary was even more informative than the photos.

"This is your Grandfather John, he's the one you were named for. He didn't have a middle name, so finally took the initial W., from his mother's maiden name. You see, there were so many John Chalmers. There was Big John—that's his picture there—and Little John, and Bill's John, and John's John—he stuttered. And here's your grandfather's Uncle Adam—he'd be your great-great-uncle. (He was the one who chased after women.)

"This is your Great-Aunt Janet—she had red hair and a temper to match. She was married three times and lived to be 95. Killed in a car accident. This was your dad's cousin Alan. His was a short-lived branch of the family—he was only 74 when he died. This is his mother. She was a Forsythe. She was the one who drank, but we never used to let on. Her brother went Out West and homesteaded. I don't know which province it was, maybe Assiniboia. Another boy went to the States and made money. This is his picture here."

✧ ✧ ✧

FINALLY we returned to the Twenty Century, but not to stay. The next afternoon another cousin—his name is John, naturally—drove us around the countryside. Then indeed we realized the value of the previous night's briefing. First we went by Uncle James' old place, called the Stone House, for obvious reasons. "That's the field where you had the trouble with the ram in '17. 1917, that is." "And here's the New Place where Mother lived before she was married. It wasn't built until '79." (Which century? I wondered.) "That's where your Great-Uncle David was born; the Amish have it now."

The conducted tour ended at the Homestead, so named because it was home-steaded by Grandfather John W. in 1867, "the year of Confederation, you know." There have been some changes since; the beneficent Ontari Hydro has seen to that. But the old log walls stand as firm as in the year when they were cut from the maple grove on the South Forty. The house is shaded by both maple and apple tree. Well it might be. Before supper we had a few apples, washed down with apple cider. For the meal itself we had apple sauce, apple pie, and apple butter. And maple sugar and maple syrup. There must have been some other dishes, but they are lost to memory.

Our visit was to last three days, and two were now gone. What was tomorrow's program? I wondered. But such cogitation showed I was merely obtuse; the final day's entertainment was the logical climax of what had gone before. We visited the cemetery and the graves of all those fine old forefathers and foremothers. We also learned where the extant relatives would someday rest.

Perhaps there are other types in Ontario. If so, I'm not related to them. But from the evidence at hand, it seems a true Ontarian must believe three things:

(1) It's a long way to Winnipeg, but no farther to Edmonton. (2) A penny saved is a penny saved. (3) Ancestors are V.I.P. No wonder my father went to Manitoba in 1890. Why did he wait so long?

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Man that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not.... For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will sprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not cease....

But man dieth, and wasteth away: yea, man given up the ghost, and where is he? (Job 14: 1, 2, 7, 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light. (Ps. 36: 7-9.)

Letter To The Editor

"PRIVATE LAKES" A SORE SUBJECT

Sir: Have just finished reading your editorial re "Our Private Lakes" and I wish to congratulate you on touching on a subject that hits right at the core.

I have been living in Peterborough for the past two years; moving from London, Ont., where I was born and raised. Living there I was in the fortunate position to go to at least a dozen public beaches on both Lake Erie and Lake Huron, all within a radius of from 28-50 miles. You no doubt can realize my disappointment when I came here and saw all your beautiful lakes and found that to be able to swim in them I either had to buy a lot or sneak in on someone's property hoping I wouldn't be seen; numerous times I have been told politely to move on as I was trespassing on private property.

Until the government takes more drastic steps to alleviate this situation, people from Peterborough, like myself, will have to be content to sit on their back porch on a Sunday, or go to one of the public pools or parks in the city.

Thanking you for the space in your paper, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
A STAY-AT-HOME.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Digging through dusty files for this centennial edition, we tried to recapture some of the color of sports events here in grandpa's day. The accounts of various sports are necessarily incomplete, and many are missed, but anyway one fact emerges—they had fun in the old days in their games. And some great athletes played in the town of Peterborough many years ago. It was a time of dirt roads all over town, lots of wooden sidewalks, long-skirted ladies and moustached men, bar rooms on every corner, livery stables, and no talking pictures, cars or radios. But plenty of other entertainment, including sports. And our rugged forebears had their fun as they contributed to this city's history in sports.

* * * * * *

Lacrosse was one of the original sports and it is as popular here today, though the boxla variety replaced the field game. Some 2,000 fans will be on deck at Miller Bowl tonight at 8.45 when Hamilton Tigers, in third place, meet the second-place Petes. A rugged senior "A" scrap assured. Barney Welch of St. Kitts, a speedy forward, has obtained his release from the A's—he didn't get along with the coach —and has signed for Red Creighton. May be in action this eve. Welch previously played two seasons for Hamilton Tigers and is a good scorer. This is a "key" game and, if Petes win, they feel they won't finish lower than second place in the standing from here on in.

* * * * * *

Staffs Playing Petes

Baseball was another oldtime sport in this borough and it, too, has undergone changes. But it still has its following here and many fans should be at Riverside Park at three Saturday aft when Toronto Staffords play Peterborough. The Murphyites are making a determined bid to get back up around the top and they're playing fine senior ball lately. Either Doug Plunkett or Johnny Baumgardner is expected to hurl for the homesters and, if it's anything like that 2-1 game in 1.35 here the other night, fans will really enjoy this joust. It's a tough loop and every game now is a battle right down to the last out.

* * * * * *

Prexy Bill Flint of the Girls' Softball League informs us that Westclox have 14 wins in as many starts, Ashby's being next with 10 verdicts and six negatives. CGE have eight and eight, Marines five and 10, as the junior Woollens—who go into their own PWSU playdown series—have won two of 17. The semi-finals are best of five games, opening Monday with Marines vs. Ashby's, and CGE vs. Westclox. Wednesday' it's Westclox vs. CGE, and Ashby's vs. Marines. And so on till finalists are declared. The finals are four out of seven. Winners are senior city champs and go into playdowns. Later, the survivors have a round-robin series for the intermediate city title.

* * * * * *

Oh, Heed Ye, Heed Ye

A final warning to the men softballers—OASA certificates must be signed by July 15 (Saturday) and in the hands of the OASA secretary by July 20. Eligible players must reside in their town by March 15, except for servicemen, bankers or scholars. Those moving after March 15 require transfers. Senior "B" winners must be declared by Aug. 29, those lower by Aug. 15. Executive OASA committee meets July 22 to draw up playoff lists. Umps need a 1950 association card, the fee being $1.00, the local league making the recommendation. City League here requires every player to be in three league games ere the playoffs commence.

* * * * * *

Scribe Jack Park of London figures that the average Intercounty Baseball League—supposedly an amateur circuit team will pay about $4,000 this season to the government for that hospital tax. And, if the eight teams pay more than $30,000, then the players will be tapped for nearly as much in income taxes. Not a bad "take" for the government at all, and that's just one league. Of course, it also hits pro sports hard and gets a generous slice off the top from the various race tracks at all meets. Government officials firmly decline to go into the sports business, but they do profit handsomely—and they don't turn too much of the mazuma back to promote or aid athletics.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The biggest trade in the history of the National Hockey League was disclosed Thursday with word that Detroit Red Wings had swapped five of their players for four from Chicago Black Hawks.

Detroit, champions of the NHL and winners of the Stanley Cup last season, turned over to the Hawks goalie Harry Lumley, defenceman Jack Stewart and Al Dewsbury, left winger Pete Babando and centre Don Morrison.

In exchange they got centre Metro Prystai, left winger Gaye Stewart, defenceman Bob Goldham and goalie Jim Henry.

The deal should strengthen Detroit's offensive power and improve Chicago's defence.

In Lumley the Hawks obtain one of the best goalies in the business. He gave up an average of only 2.35 goals a game last season, making him runner-up to Toronto's Turk Broda for the Vezina Trophy. He was born in Owen Sound 23 years ago, and is a veteran of 5½ NHL seasons.

Third Scorer

Gaye Stewart of Fort William, has scored 151 goals in six seasons of big league play. Last year he got 24 to place third among Chicago's scorers. Goldham will be competing with several outstanding wing defencemen for a regular job. He is from Georgetown, and played in his amateur days with Toronto Marlboroughs.

Dewsbury, a native of Goderich, Ont., and a member of Detroit's minor league organization, will be given an opportunity to step into major league competition.

Until Thursday nine-player swap, the deal made Nov. 3, 1947, between Chicago and Toronto which involved seven players was the biggest NHL history.

Two members of Belgium's Davis Cup team and Canada's four-man squad will play a five-match exhibition tournament in Toronto Aug. 24-26, J. M. McAvity, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, announced.

Brazil took a commanding lead in the final series of the world soccer cup tournament by beating Spain 6-1 before a crowd estimated at 155,000.

Uruguay nosed out Sweden 3-2 at Sao Paulo.

An unruly crowd stormed the Rio Municipal Stadium, and several thousand fans broke through police lines and got free seats. An undetermined number was injured in the melee with police.

Orioles Whip Springfield In 8-6 Triumph

By The Associated Press

International League batters are wondering where Lefty Bill Kennedy of Baltimore Orioles got the tag "Wild Man."

Kennedy, since his arrival from the parent St. Louis Browns, has been one of the best pitchers in the league and his control is tops.

The big lefty Thursday night picked up his ninth victory against only three defeats with a neat relief job as the Orioles came from behind to beat Springfield Cubs 8-6.

Held Hitless

Kennedy entered the game in the seventh inning with the Orioles trailing 6-4 and held the Cubs hitless the rest of the way, fanning two and walking none.

The Orioles won the game in the eighth inning with a four-run rally. Anse Moore tied the score with a two-run homer. Shortstop Jack Wallaesa's error admitted the tie-breaking runs.

Rochester's pace-setting Red Wings remained 1½ games in front of the Orioles by edging the last-place Buffalo Bisons 5-4.

The Wings won the game in the ninth, scoring once to break a 4-4 tie. Lou Ortiz singled, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Dick Cole's one bagger. Rookie Ken Wild was the winner and Harry Byrd the loser.

Scheduled games between Syracuse and Jersey City and Montreal and Toronto were rained out.

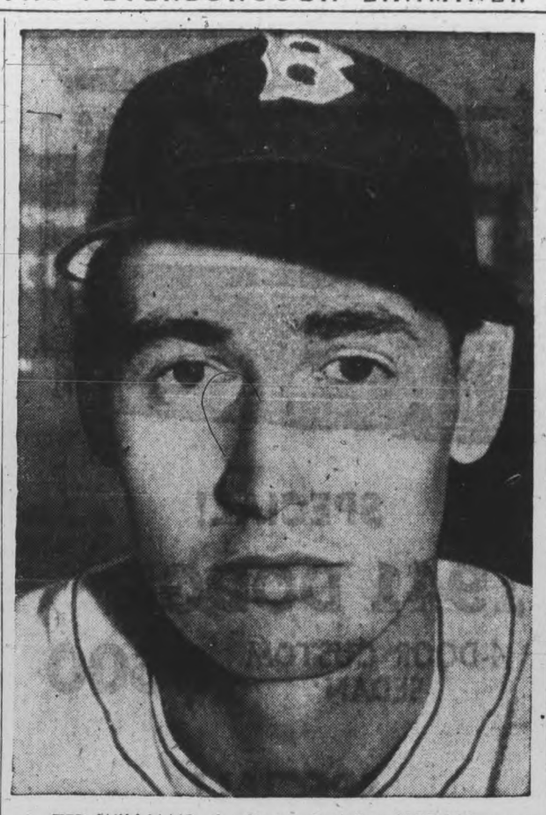
LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

"Congratulations, Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, on the success of this tournament. Any club that can draw together 96 pairs for a one-day tournament, from all parts of Ontario, deserves all the credit in the world."

Thus spoke Dr. C. Brereton of Toronto at the presentation of prizes on Wednesday night, and that was the sentiment expressed by all the visitors. Then Thursday all day we heard nothing but praise for the tournament from local members—they left no one out: The men behind the scenes, the ones who did the spade work, the club in general, the committees, the ladies who played a mighty big part, the greenkeeper, the photographers, and last but by no means least, the weatherman; he held back those thunderstorms until Thursday afternoon. Thanks a lot—it was nice to hear all these fine remarks, and we are going to add our five cents worth: "That when and if there are bigger and better tournaments, it will be the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club that will stage them."

Tonight, men's rinks, off the board, 7:30 o'clock.



TED WILLIAMS, the Boston Red Sox $125,000-a-year outfielder, who underwent an operation recently for a fracture of the left elbow. "There is a good possibility Williams will be out for the rest of the season," surgeon Joseph Shortnell said, as he prepared to perform the operation. Williams suffered his injury after hauling down Ralph Kineer's long smash in the first inning at the all-star classic at Chicago Tuesday.

Says Williams' Arm Will Heal

BOSTON, July 14 (AP)—Encouraged by the immediate medical reports of Ted Williams' splintered elbow surgery, general manager Joe Cronin today said the Boston Red Sox' $125,000 a year salaried slugger will continue on the club's active player list.

"I don't want to put Ted on the sidelines officially until such action appears absolutely necessary," Cronin said.

If Williams was declared disabled by his club, it could obtain a replacement for him and still remain inside the major league's 25-player limit.

During a 75 minute operation Thursday in a nearby Cambridge hospital, seven bone fragments, the largest the size of a shape of a dime were removed from his left elbow.

The attending surgeons, Drs. Joseph Shortell and Ralph McCarthy, agreed that the surgery was "very successful."

Both were certain that Williams would regain full use of his left arm and would be able to play again. Neither would predict when.

Batting—Clyde Vollmer, Red Sox—broke into line-up as Ted Williams' replacement and hit homer and two doubles in 8-7 victory over Chicago.

Pitching—Curt Simmons, Phils —tamed Cardinals with four hits, 3-2 as Phils upped National League lead to two games.

Going To France

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 14 — (AP) — Whirlaway, Calumet Farm's great triple crown champion of 1941 and for five years the top horse on the list of the world's leading money-winners, will be sent to France for three seasons at stud, the farm announced today. Owner Warren Wright has completed negotiations for the 12-year-old stallion to be under lease for three seasons in the stud at Marcel Boussac's thoroughbred establishment near Paris.

Even The Pros Have Trouble With Par In Tilt

TORONTO, July 14 (CP) — Even the pros have trouble with par.

Seventy-one of them set out to smash it Thursday over the par 73 Islington Golf Club in the first day of the Millar Trophy pro tournament. Only nine broke par and six more equalled it.

With a sudden cloudburst drenching the course, favorite after favorite was eliminated in the qualifying round and the afternoon round of match play.

The sixteen survivors set out today for two more rounds of match play with the final scheduled for Saturday.

Veteran Willie Lamb of Toronto Lambton was one of the four who led the qualifiers with 70s. But he fell 2 and 1 in match play to Alf Balding, an assistant pro from Burlington. Another assistant, Bob Deans of Toronto Club, upset Damien Gauthier of Montreal Municipal 5 and 3.

Defending champion Bob Gray of Scarboro, bowed 2 and 1 to Joe Noble of Toronto Thornhill and another favorite, Gordie Brydson of Mississauga, failed to qualify.

With Lamb at the top of the qualifying round were Bob Cunningham of St. Georges, former champion Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield, and Murray Tucker of London Sunningdale. All survived the first round of match play.

Cunningham eliminated Rodolphe Huot of Royal Quebec 2 and 1 in match play, Tucker defeated Bill Thompson of Weston 4 and 3 and Kerr beat Eddie Rennick of Scarboro 6 and 5.

Friends Honor Havelock Couple On Honeymoon

HAVELOCK, July 14 (ENS) — Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Ross Southward, whose marriage took place in Melita, Manitoba, in June friends and neighbors gathered Wednesday evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Southward, where the couple are honeymooning and presented them with a kitchen shower.

The gifts were arranged in a large decorated basket and presented by Mrs. Gordon Southward, a recent bride and sister-in-law of the guests of honor.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. F. R. Vanderburgh and Mrs. R. J. McCutcheon as accompanists.

Contest winners were: Mrs. H. Gerow, Mrs. H. Buchanan and Mrs. R. Brown. Refreshments were served.

Others present were: Mesdames C. Toms, H. Hoard, R. Green, Jas Watson, R. Campney, James Scott, Ray Patterson, A. Holland, A. Robinson, R. Dooley, O. Parcels, H. Hubble, F. Oliver, F. Chase.

Those who were unable to attend but sent gifts were: Mesdames W. H. Peters, J. Adams, W. White, H. Revoy, J. Hunter, and J. Davidson.

The groom is a member of the armed forces and is stationed at Camp Shilo, Manitoba.

The bride was formerly Edith Eileen Paton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Paton of Tilston, Manitoba. Their marriage took place on June 24th after being postponed several weeks owing to the groom being called for service at the Winnipeg flood.

Hustling Phils Trample Cards In 3-2 Victory

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Phils' whiz kids ride high today with a $65,000 bonus baby and a St. Louis castoff taking the bows.

Curt Simmons, 21year-old lefty from Egypt, Pa., is the bonus prize whose four-hitter Thursday night boosted the hustling Phils into a two-game lead in the National League.

Dick Sisler is the Cardinal hand-me-down with the home run punch that converted Simmons' effort into a 3-2 victory over second-place St. Louis.

Whipping the Cards is old stuff for both. Simmons holds three decisions over Eddie Dyer's club. Against St. Louis, ex-Card Sisler is slugging .447.

Simmons, a whiz since he found control, walked only two men and struck out six. The Cards had trouble lifting the ball out of the infield as Curt zipped home with his 11th victory.

Tie-Breaking Homer

Sisler came along with a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning. Homers by Granny Hamner and Andy Seminick in the first two innings accounted for the Phils' other runs.

Boston skidded three full games behind the Phils, losing to Cincinnati 7-3, as the Reds won their fifth straight. Since June 20 the Reds have swept 15 of 21, hottest pace in the league.

The awakened Reds hopped on Johnny Sain for four runs in the eighth, ruining his bid for win No. 13. An error by Buddy Kerr, singles by Ted Kluszewski, Connie Ryan and Joe Adcock and a fly ball scored the runs. In all Sain gave up 10 hits, including homers by Kluszewski and Grady Hatton.

Games Postponed

Rain washed out the scheduled day game between New York Giants and Pittsburgh. Bad weather also postponed two night games in the American—Cleveland at New York and St. Louis at Philadelphia.

Detroit boosted its American League lead over the idle New York Yankees to 3½ games as Hal Newhouser set down a ninth-inning Washington rally for a 5-2 decision.

The Tiger victory at Griffith Stadium continued the crazy quilt pattern of Washington-Detroit relations this season. At Detroit, the Senators have beaten the Tigers five of six, including a series sweep. But at Washington, Detroit has smothered Bucky Harris' gang six in a row.

The road-loving Bengals boast an amazing 28-9 record away from home. At Briggs Stadium they're only a fair 22-17.

Clyde Vollmer, Ted Williams' replacement, smashed a homer and two doubles in Boston Red Sox' 8-7 "squeaker" over Chicago. Rain cut the game to 7½ innings. Vollmer, playing left field with Williams out of action because of a broken elbow, drove home two runs. Vern Stephens also homered, his 19th, in a five-run first-inning attack that routed Boston's old Nemesis, Ray Scarborough.

Footballers Practice

By The Canadian Press.

About 20 potential members of Hamilton's Tiger-Cat entry in the Interprovincial Football Union, each with his own idea of getting into trim, turned out Thursday night to toss the ball around.

Doug Smith, Tiger kicker last year, arrived at the Hamilton Amateur Athletic Association grounds on his new racing bicycle. Jack Carpenter, 245-pound lineman who played with Buffalo Bills for the past three seasons, swung a golf club. Several settled for a slow job around the field before calling it a night.

Both Carpenter and Vince Mazza, another ex-Bill, had words of praise for special delivery Jones, newly acquired quarterback and assistant coach, who arrives in Hamilton today for the official practices which begin on Monday.

Louis Planning Fight Charles To Square Debt

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Joe Louis is coming back to fight Ezzard Charles in September if he can settle his income tax problems.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, gave out the news Thursday when he revealed plans for a Louis-Charles bout at Yankee Stadium probably Thursday, Sept. 28.

"Joe owes the government a considerable sum of money," said Norris. "The only way he can pay it and get straightened out is to fight again.

"He has asked the government to accept whatever his purse would be for a Charles fight in full settlement of the government's claim. That would hold whether his purse amounted to more than what he owed or less."

Investments Poor

Norris said Louis got into tax difficulties a few years ago because the government disallowed certain deductions he had taken on advice of his auditors and counsel. He explained that the champ's investments hadn't turned out too well.

He placed Louis' debt at "considerably more" than a reported $58,000.

A bout between Louis, the retired undefeated champ, and Charles, recognized by the National Boxing Association as heavyweight king, should be a big financial success.

Put Censorship On Movement Of U.S. Soldiers

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—The United States Defence Department Thursday clamped a censorship on the release of information about troop movements to the Korean war theatre.

Military officers were instructed not to tell when a unit is transferring, its sailing date, its strength or its equipment.

Its destination will be told only in a general way, such as the Far Eastern Command.

Nothing less than a division will be described by its name.

In laying down this "security guidance" for the army, navy and air force, Defence Secretary Louis Johnson tacked on as a reminder the Far East restriction laid down by Gen. MacArthur concerning names of units, sizes, destinations and the like.

The new rules apply only to the military in giving out information. The government has no control over publication of news. There is no federal censorship law except that governing certain phases of atomic energy.

In the second world war, American newspapers observed voluntary censorship which ended when Japan surrendered. War correspondents in the field were subject to military censorship.

Need 39 Bridges

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.— (CP). — Rocky Newfoundland will need the time extension granted by the Federal Government for completion of her portion of the Trans-Canada Highway. Construction of the highway will involve the building of 39 large bridges, the longest being across the Exploits River, 600 feet.

2,500 Delegates

TORONTO, July 14 (CP) — Some 2,500 delegates are expected here during the weekend for the second assembly of the Baptist Federation of Canada. The Federation, made up of the Maritimes, Ontario-Quebec and Western Canada Baptist conventions, was organized in 1944. The first of its triennial assembles was held in 1947.

WORKING AS A LAB TECHNICIAN for the summer at the Queen's University biological station at Lake Opinicon, 45 miles northeast of Kingston, Anne Boyle, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Boyle, 572 Charlotte St., and the late Harry J. In Lake Opinicon is a bass and pike sanctuary.

Surprise Presentation Made To Newlyweds

MILLBROOK, July 14 (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jeffrey, whose marriage took place last month in Oshawa, were guests of honor at a surprise presentation held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Thomas Ingram, recently.

The staff of Millbrook creamery of which Mr. Jeffrey is the owner and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Campbell joined in presenting the newlyweds with a cabinet of silver. The groom thanked those present for the gift. Refreshments were served.

Canadian Crops Better Than '49

OTTAWA, July 14 (CP)—The condition of Canadian crops at June 30 was better than last year but it doesn't necessarily follow that yields will be bigger at harvest time.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, reporting the improved crop conditions warned that anything from weather to insects and disease could change the picture before the crops fully mature.

The bureau said any deviations from normal in respect to weather, plant diseases or insect infestations between June 30 and harvest time may change the yield picture entirely.

Crops in the Maritimes, almost without exception, displayed condition ratings lower than those for last year. But conditions were almost the reverse in Ontario and Quebec where ratings for nearly all crops were higher.

Doing Big Business

TORONTO, July 14 — (CP) — Toronto is getting so much money from over-parking fines that it has to hire six extra clerks to cope with the business. City council voted Thursday to hire the clerks after being told that receipts from summonses, most of them from parking offenses, for the first six months of 1950 were $135,000 higher than last year.

Finds Real Contentment In Life On Western Ranch

By JACK SCOTT.

Y-Cross Ranch, High River, Alta.—Several times in the last couple of days, talking with Joe Bews, I found myself thinking of business friends of mine in the city whose badge of success is the duodenal ulcer.

Joe seems to have found both success and a deep contentment, rarely wedded in the city, and found it in the company of cattle. Sort of makes you wonder if the titanic brain work of the big town, and its path to a milk-and-crackers diet, is worth it all.

Joe is a powerfully built man of 44 with sloping shoulders, a long torso and a big-featured face darkened by sun and wind.

But the outstanding feature of Joe Bews is a gentleness that you find only in strong men. A rancher friend of his said to me, "Joe is the nicest doggone guy you will ever meet" and he was a hundred percent right.

He speaks in a voice as modulated as any I heard in the Welsh Rhondda Valley, where everyone has his head slightly cocked to hear the other fellow. If there were more Joe Bews in the world we'd need fewer guns.

I suspect that such a serene character comes in part from environment. The rancher's life demands a good deal of patience, long hours alone on a pony amid scenery that just naturally make any man a little better man. Whatever it is, its a shame to use it exclusively on cattle.

With Cattle

The story of Joe's life is all roped up with cattle.

In his younger days when he was sowing some moderately wild oats (he was best dressed cowboy three years in a row at the High River stampede) he met his vivacious wife, Josephine, and cattle played cupid. The farmhouse where Josephine lived was on the route when he drove his beef from the foothills into town. The procedure was to stop at the farm for coffee and that was how the romance began.

His most ambitious holiday was a 10-day trip to Chicago, an expedition on which he was accompanied by a train load of heifers and steers.

The other day, discussing a man with certain shortcomings, Joe observed sadly, "He just doesn't seem to know one cow from another." It was about as harsh a criticism as Joe Bews ever voiced.

His respect for cattle is partly aesthetic, partly economic. He has an abiding faith in his Herefords good times or bad. "Hang on to a cow's tail," he says, "and she'll pull you through every time."

From the time he was able to walk Joe has been at home in the saddle. He's proud that his sons are following in his path. The oldest boy, Billy, who is 12, not only rides as if he were a part of his pony, but can handle Joe's big truck like an expert. Ten-year-old Nora and five-year-old Tommy both have ponies of their own and ride over the range in much the same way as suburban city kids pedal bicycles down the block.

He could sell now at from $25 to $30 an acre (Joe's father, Jimmy, paid $3 an acre in 1909), but, he asks, why sell?

"I can't think of any other life I'd enjoy as much as this," he says "or any that would be better for the children. I guess I'll retire some day and Billy will take over from me, like I took over from my Dad. I've always loved cattle and horses. Be lost without 'em."

On Your Own

Ranching is anything but an easy life and Joe's days and years follow a firm pattern. The part of the cycle he enjoys best is the spring.

"That's like the start of things" he says. "The snow is gone, the grass is starting to get tall and the little calves are coming. Everything seems right then."

The days begin at dawn and a whopping breakfast of porridge, bacon and eggs, toast and coffee. Joe's first job most mornings is to bring in the horses. A "jingle pony" is kept in the corral and used to round up the others grazing outside. If the day calls for some herding of cattle, he'll use his favorite, "Dandy," an educated bay horse with what Joe calls "cow sense."

In describing his work Joe may mention some unusual event such as the Cesarean operation he performed recently, saving the calf, but not the mother.

"You have to rely on your own rescurces most of the time," Joe says, "and I reckon that's a good thing for a man. It's really why I want my kids to grow up on the ranch. There's a lot to be said for city life, I guess, but out here you learn to live by yourself and to take care of yourself and that's good for a man."

I'm inclined to think that's an understatement. Meeting Joe Bews and some of the other cattle men in these parts, my wife and I agree, has been like discovering a lost tribe of well-adjusted men.

Britons Show Enthusiasm For Barbara Ann's Show

LONDON, July 14 — (CP) — Britain gave an enthusiastic reception Thursday night to "Rose Marie On Ice," an operetta with Quebec and Alberta as a background and starring two of Canada's greatest skaters.

Six thousand fans at Harringay Arena cheered as Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott and Michael Kirby of Toronto and North Bay, skated the principle [illegible] the opening performance of a show that will run for two months.

Barbara Ann was graceful and decorative in the title role. Kirby, skating with Barbara Ann for the first time in public, was an assured and flawless partner.

The audience also gave a big hand to Britain's own Pat Gregory who injected life and spirit into the part of the half-breed Wanda.

Barbara Ann showed no trace of opening-night nerves. In her dressing room just before the opening she said she wasn't worried at all—"not yet, anyway."

The girl who as an amateur won five world championships is to draw £2,500 ($7,750 a week for Rose Marie—about £3 a minute every time she hits the ice against backdrops representing the Canadian Rockies and the backwoods of Quebec.

The 25-year-old Kirby, who has been skating professionally for the last three years with the Swedish-born skater, Sonja Henie, portrays the handsome hero who woos the winsome Rose Marie. Offstage an orchestra plays music by Charles Rudolf Friml and Herbert Stothart—including the famous "Indian Love Call" and "Rose Marie, I Love You." The libretto is by Oscar Hammerstein II and Otto Harback.

The new plant was built and equipped expressly for the manufacture of Diesel-electric locomotives, production of which will begin on that day.

PRESIDENTS AND GENERAL MANAGERS of some of Canada's leading industries are going to "school" for a two-day session at McGill University to hear Lieut.-Col. L. Photographed just before the opening of "school" in Chancellor Day Hall are, left to right: Prof. H. D. Woods, director of the Industrial Relations Centre at McGill; Colonel Urwick, and C. A. Peachey, chairman of the Canadian Management Council, which is Canada's member body on the International Committee for Scientific Management.

Have Biggest Crop

SIMCOE, July 14—(CP)—The largest crop of strawberries in the history of the organization has been handled this year by the Norfolk Berry Growers' Association, Manager Bruce M. Wallace said Thursday. This year's crop totalled nearly 2,000,000 quarts. The previous record, established in 1940 and equalled in 1948, was 1,081,000 quarts.

Misleading Reports

TORONTO, July 14 (C — A British travel association [illegible]sman Thursday described as "entirely misleading" reports that the Korean war has prompted steamship companies to put war-risk clauses on passenger tickets. Col. W. G. Abel said in a statement "a war clause placed on all steamships when the Second World War started has never been taken off, on the technical grounds that no peace treaties have been signed."

European Doctor Able To Forecast Sex Of Babies

By ERIC KENNEDY

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 14—(Reuters)—Dr. Pierre Rosa, 35-year-old junior gyneacologist at Brussels University Hospital, claims to be the first doctor in the world to be able to forecast the sex of an unborn child with complete accuracy.

His success climaxes 10 years of intensive research.

Although convinced his method is infallible, Dr. Rosa does not intend to commercialize his discovery.

His colleague and assistant, 40-year-old Dr. Joseph Finard, told the story of Dr. Rosa's discovery six months ago:

"Dr. Rosa lifted his eyes from a microscope. 'It is a boy,' he told me.

"That is just the way it happened. One day we were floundering, producing no results. The next day, we had done it.

"But it was Dr. Rosa who really discovered the secret."

Working On Solution

Dr. Rosa took up the story. In 1940, soon after he obtained his degree, he began working to solve the age-old secret.

First they tried special X-rays; then blood tests; finally, a Swedish method of examining the pupils of the mother's eyes.

A few of the systems were good, but none was perfect.

"As usual in these cases," Dr. Rosa continued, "we had an amazing stroke of good luck. Overnight we hit upon a new method.

"Details to the layman are rather difficult to explain and very technical."

Roughly the method is this—four months before the normal scheduled date of the birth of the child, a needle is inserted into the mother's womb and a quantiy of fluid is drawn off. This fluid is mixed with a series of chemicals.

If the mixture turns blue it's a boy. If the resulting concoction is red, then it's a girl.

Dr. Rosa said that, to date, he had carried out 52 tests. His forecast has been right in every case.

"But," he added, "there are several factors to be taken into account. First, I do not recommend the method, for there is always an element of danger both for the mother and the unborn child.

"Personally, I have never experienced any complications, but there is always a possibility of infection and even of a miscarriage."

Killed By Truck

The Goldbergs Take Fling At Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, July 15 (AP). —"The Goldbergs"—Jake, Molly and all the gang — have left their Bronx home for a fling at Hollywood. And for television's biggest invasion of the movie market.

Late this month, seven cast members of the topnotch TV show will begin enacting a full-length film version of "The Goldbergs" at Paramount Studios. Their director, Walter Hart, will also direct the picture. The whole deal marks Hollywood's strongest acknowledgment of the power of the "upstart" in the entertainment family.

Gertrude Berg, creator of the hilarious show, is already here to work on the script. In a chat, I suggested that the movie deal puts the Goldbergs in virtually every medium of entertainment.

"Everything but a musical," she replied, and she sounded as though she might be mulling that idea.

But she indicated that the chore of writing the show and acting in it is a wearing one. "After all, I have been doing it since we started on the air on November 20, 1929, and I wasn't exactly six when I began," she remarked.

Started in Radio

The program began as a nighttime show and then became a daytime serial. After 10 years of sponsorship, a soap concern cancelled the show in 1946.

"I was heartsick," recalled Mrs. Berg. "I was probably the saddest woman in America. I decided to give up radio and write a play."

The result was "Me and Molly" which had a nine-month run on Broadway and helped revive Mrs. Berg's morale. After the play closed, she dipped into television.

PRETTY GIRLS and funny clowns are a must in every circus and plenty of both will be found with the Dailey Bros. Circus when it comes to Peterborough on Monday, July 24. Norma Davenport, famed aerialist, receives help ABOVE in lacing shoes by Tom Huttle.

WMS Hears History Of Koreans Missions

ROSENEATH, July 14—(ENS) — Members of the Roseneath WMS Tuesday were told the 25-year histories of four missionary fields ,one of them Korea, now focus of the world's attention.

The history sketches, given by members of the group, also included Angola in Portuguese West Africa, Central India and Trinidad.

President Mrs. J. N. Lovelace was hostess and presided over the devotional and business period.

Several articles were donated to the annual bazaar collection. The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Brown.

In the program period, a musical number was given by Mrs. Douglas Coyle. Mr. A. J. Campbell, temperance secretary, gave a reading. The benediction was pronounced by Mrs. T. S. Coyle. Mrs. Lovelace served lunch.

Fly Rod Fishermen Catch Hungry Cod

HOLYROOD, Nfld.—(CP)—The latest in sport at this settlement on Conception Bay is fishing for cod with a fly rod.

It all started recently when schools of codfish started chasing caplin in to the beach. Caplin are more scarce this year than normally, so the hungry cod were susceptible to any kind of bait offered.

Using a fly rod with a live caplin as bait, a taxi operator here landed more than a dozen cod, some weighing seven and eight pound. American airmen stationed in the area joined in the fun, some of them using surf casting rods with spinners.

While the fishermen landed cod by the dozens on the beach, 2,000 spectators watched as the codfish schools came within 15 feet of the beach.

British Scientists Soon To Use Machine In Treatment Of Cancer Cases

LONDON, July 14 (Reuters).—British scientists are shortly to use a 30,000,000-volt synchroton, which produces gamma and X-rays of high energy and penetrating power, in the treatment of cancer cases.

Announcement was made Wednesday in the annual report of the British Empire cancer campaign, central body co-ordinating cancer research throughout the Commonwealth. It said research into the use of radio-active material against cancer is growing apace.

The report added that at the University of Saskatchewan during the last year, 23 cancer patients, considered beyond normal surgical radiation methods, had been treated experimentally with the 25,000,000-volt betatron — an improvement on the atom-smashing cyclotron which fires off radioactive particles at tremendous speeds.

Conclusions on the treatment were not yet available.

Working For Year

The synchroton, only machine of its kind devoted exclusively to cancer work, had been "running very satisfactorily" for the last year at the Royal Cancer Hospital in London on experimental work. It had given research workers an idea of its capabilities and would shortly be used clinically.

Using X-rays of more than 17,000,000 volts, researchers at the hospital had succeeded in making animal tissue radio-active. But the induced radiation was too small to be of significance in the conditions studied.

The report said that samples of the atmosphere of nine British cities and towns is being tested at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, to find if smoke has any bearing on the cause of lung cancer.

Agree To Surrender Part Of Sovereignty

PARIS, July 14 (AP)—Prodded by the war in Korea, delegates from six western European countries have agreed to surrender a fraction of their sovereignty to an authority over their coal and steel production, a spokesman for the six countries said Thursday.

Surveying the progress thus far made by French, Western German, Belgian, Dutch, Luxembourg and Italian representatives in the Schuman plan talks, the spokesman said:

"The necessity for a supranational authority realizing for coal and steel a fusion of national sovereignties . . . is recognized by all."

The spokesman also said:

"The feeling of urgency which animated all the delegations has been augmented by international events (since the opening of the talks)."

Approves UN Move In Korea

TORONTO, July 14 (CP)—The largest international body of Protestant and Orthodox Christians has approved United Nations intervention in the Korean war.

The Central Committee of the World Council of Churches, in a policy statement Thursday called the communist invasion of South Korea an "act of aggression."

It included in the statement a condemnation of the use of atomic and bacteriological weapons in modern war.

It also condemned government-imposed curbs on religious freedom and discrimination by or against any faith.

The committee is the policy-making body of the world council which includes 156 member churches—with a total membership of some 160,000,000—in 44 countries. No delegation from communist-led countries are attending the meeting. Russian churches have boycotted the council.

The statement was prepared by a sub-committee headed by Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, O.

Commend U.N.

The statement said: "Armed attack as an instrument of national policy is wrong. We therefore commend the United Nations, an instrument of world order, for its prompt decision to meet this aggression and for authorizing a police measure which every member nation should support.

"At the same time, governments must press individually and through the United Nations for a just settlement by negotiation and conciliation."

The committee also said "the use of atomic and bacteriological weapons and obliteration bombing involve employment of force and a destruction of life on so terrible a scale as to imperil the very basis on which law and civilization can exist.

"It is imperative that they be banned by international agreement and we welcome every sincere proposal to this end."

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CI. No. 11 FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1950

Board Requests $550,000 For New School

The Board of Education is asking the city council to issue debentures for $550,000 to cover the cost of building the new collegiate.

(Once the city council has given its tentative approval the architect can be called in to prepare preliminary plans. The usual procedure is for two readings of a civic by-law. Then the question of whether or not the ratepayers are agreeable to this expenditure can be decided by a referendum, though this step is not obligatory.)

There will be 15 classrooms, gymnasium, cafeteria, general shop and home economics room. It will be a junior high school (grades IX and X), accommodating 550 students.

Additions May Be Added

The collegiate will be designed so additions can be made to it as the need for accommodation arises. Eventually 1,000 students will attend and classes will be extended to Grade XIII.

"This board can be assured that the figure of $550,000 will be kept to," said G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the accommodation committee. "If not then we will have to reduce our plans accordingly."

Mr. Craw said that the figure asked for was somewhat higher than had originally been planned but still $110,000 less than the approved expenditure of the Department of Education.

The department asked for certain modifications in the plans before giving their approval but a compromise was reached.

Architect Named

John B. Parkin and associates will be the architects. It is expected Mr. Parkin will meet with the board sometime next week to start preliminary work.

Dr. Russell Morgan intimated that he had no objection to Mr. Parkin but wanted to know if any other architect had been considered.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said he was sure there were other architects as good as Mr. Parkin but none to his knowledge, better. All Mr Parkin's local work was satisfactory and he was always co-operative with the board.

A SAFE WAS RIFLED IN LAKEFIELD early today in the office of the W. J. Charlton Feed and Fuel Company. Village Constable Garnet Samis (cigar in mouth) discovered the incident about 6 a.m., as well as the pilfered railway tool shed, one block south of the office. The tools were used to force a way into the building and pry open the safe. He is shown (above) itemizing the damage with company manager Kenneth Morris. — (Examiner Staff Photo)

Parents Worried About Hazard Lock-Lansdowne

Parents south of Lansdowne whose children have been transferred to King Edward School are worried about the traffic hazard.

At Thursday night's meeting of the Board of Education a letter and petition were received from the parents. They asked that stoplights be installed at Lansdowne and Locke Sts.

The upshot of their request was that the Supervision committee will ask the council to put in stop lights by September 1. If not, the Board will have to make some arrangement of its own. Probably they will hire a man to shepherd the children across safely.

60 Transferred

K.S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said that 60 children had been transferred from Confederation to King Edward school. And in the next few years their number of transfers would increase.

The rapid expansion of the south end of the city has made public school accommodation there a serious problem.

"I don't know how we can avoid it," said Mr. Wightman referring to the forced transfers.

IUE Locals At CGE Back Canada's Stand On Korea

Two I.U.E. locals, 524, consisting of CGE production workers and local 599, CGE office workers, at separate meetings Thursday backed Canada's stand with the United Nations in Korea against northern armies. Both locals passed resolutions supporting an earlier resolution of the Peterborough District Labor Council which approved Canada's stepping in to support the action of the United Nations.

Jack Morton, president of Local 524 IUE-CIO and president Robert Tripp of Local 599, IUE-CIO, blasted C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president, and the stand of the UE against Canada's action.

"I cannot see why the public is surprised at the UE supporting the Russians in their invasion of South Korea," said Morton.

President Tripp told a meeting of the local executive: "Our position is crystal clear. We must support the government and the United Nations and place the blame for aggression where it really belongs, on the shoulders of Russia. We must not allow ourselves to be confused by the Communist fifth column in Canada which is trying to hide behind a phoney organization called the Canada Peace Congress.

Launching his attack on Jackson, Mr. Morton said, "Every day we see the papers full of events pertaining to Russian Imperialistic expansion, especially in Korea, but many of us do not realize what is taking place here at home.

Keep People Informed

"The people of Peterborough should be kept informed of the subversive element that is active here in our own city. I wonder how many of the citizens of Peterborough realize that the UE boss, C. S. Jackson, speaking at the plant gate of the CGE less than one week ago, shouted over the public address system that Russia was right in Korea and that workers in the CGE company should support the North Korean government.

"Jackson also stated that the people of South Korea and the Western Democracies were the aggressors in Korea and that Canada should keep out of that country and let the Koreans settle their own problems."

Morton also said the UE had followed the Communist Party line without a hitch through all the events leading up to world war II and through the Stalin-Hitler agreement and final split.

"And they are still doing it," Morton added.

The IUE local president also quoted Jackson as saying, while speaking at the CGE plant gate, that in the event of war, he expected to be in a concentration camp.

"That will be no new experi-

188 Receiving Aid From City

There were 188 persons on relief during June as compared with the 190 for June 1949, according to the welfare expenditures report given by A. G. Metheral, City Welfare Administrator, at the Welfare committee meeting Thursday afternoon.

Despite the decrease of two in the number on relief, the welfare issued during June this year totalled $2,954.09 as compared with the outlay in June 1949 of $2,743.70. This increase in the total expenditure is due to the increase per capita from $14.44 to $15.71.

From January 1 to June 30, a total of $23,526.56 in welfare was issued. Administration costs brought the total expediture to $27,811.10. Of this total $10,313.20 is paid by the province, leaving $17,497.90 to be paid by the city.

The appropriation for welfare expenditures for 1950 was $37,800.

This leaves $20,302.10 to be used for welfare expenditures during the remaining six months of the year.

New Taxi Bylaw Requires Fingerprinting

Peterborough's new taxi bylaw will go into effect September 30 with only one change asked for by taxi drivers following a motion made by Judge S. L. Smoke and seconded by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., at a meeting of the Police Commission Thursday.

A clause leaving it to the discretion of Chief Constable John Thompson which taxi drivers should be fingerprinted and which should not was struck out.

"I don't think there should be any discretion on the part of the chief or anyone else in this matter," commented Judge Smoke. "Every taxi driver should be fingerprinted."

Licence fees for taxi drivers were raised from $1 to $1.50 to cover cost of providing drivers with a metal badge drivers must carry.

Another clause in the act some taxi drivers didn't like, demanding every taxi carry insurance covering passengers was let stand in the bylaw.

"If they can't afford to carry insurance, they shouldn't be in business," the judge said, and added, "I've said that more than once before."

On the matter of demanding that taxi firms provide 24-hour service, members of the commission were just as unyielding. They suggested that some of the smaller taxi operators band together in some sort of partnership Magistrate Philp observed that they seemed to be too individualistic for that.

"Then let them get out," Judge Smoke said.

When the bylaw goes into effect at the end of September taxi drivers will be given credit for the unexpired part of the licence fee they have paid.

Two Constables Get Promotions

Two police constables were given a promotion and the salary increase that goes with it by the police commission Thursday.

On recommendation of Chief Constable John Thompson, Constable Grant Gillespie, who is completing two years on the police force, was made a second class constable and John Conlin who joined the force a year ago, was made a third class constable.

The commission also received a report of the results of examinations of Constable E. E. McDonald who completed a course at the Ontario Provincial Police School at Ajax. Constable McDonald achieved 100 per cent in both the Highway Traffic Act and the Liquor Control Act examinations and 94 per cent in the Criminal Code test. He also passed a first aid examination. Like other members of other forces at the school, Constable McDonald didn't do very well handling a revolver.

This record prompted Judge S. L. Smoke to suggest that the Chief give his men revolver practice. Chief Thompson said he would try to arrange to have the use of the old rifle range while the men could get outside during the summer.

Violent Wind, Lightning Bolt Blow Man, Fire Barn, Little Else

Thursday afternoon's storm and driving wind, hitting city and district in spasms, caused little urban damage, but had some alarming rural consequences. One tree blew down in town, a hydro pole on the outskirts was toppled, a barn was set on fire at Fraserville, and a 72-year-old Alnwick township farmer was blown off a load of hay, sustaining injuries which are being treated in Cobourg Hospital.

Damage in City

Peterborough utilities and telephone service got off lightly as far as damage from the early afternoon electrical storm was concerned, according to a survey today. Repair foreman C. C. Carson of Bell Telephone said that "nothing happened of a major nature." A tree which was blown down at the corner of Brock and Reid Sts, by the sudden wind, pulled down the street telephone cable but did not break it. There was no trouble whatsoever on country toll lines, Mr. Carson said, and thought the district very fortunate, considering the violence of the storm.

Only damage reported by the Hydro Commission was one service pole toppled over on Barnardo St., by the high gales. Down on 288 King George St., home owner Edward Pool reported that lightning struck a steel clothes line at his house and travelled along to the wooden porch, splitting the structure as it ripped into the ground.

Barn Razed

Struck by lightning about 1.30 p.m. Thursday, the barn of Walter Moncrief, northeast Fraserville burst into flames and quickly burned to the stone foundations.

Farmers from the neighborhood and people from Fraserville rushed to the farm to try to form a bucket brigade and save the barn, but were unsuccessful.

Whipped by a strong wind, flames from the barn threatened the Moncrief home for a time, but a shift in the wind ended the danger.

No cattle or other livestock were in the barn at the time and Mr. Moncrief did not have any hay in the mow. The barn was partly covered by insurance.

Blown Off Hayload

Blown from a load of hay on Thursday afternoon, 78-year-old Albert Halstead, Alnwick township farmer, is in Cobourg hospital today with several broken ribs.

Mr. Halstead and his son William, whose farm is about one mile north of Roseneath, were trying to finish off the load before the storm broke. Violent winds that preceded the rain threw Mr. Halstead to the ground.

Taken to hospital Thursday night, Mr. Halstead was found to be suffering from broken ribs, exposure and shock. Until the doctor arrived, he had been forced to lie in the field through the rainstorm.

Nippy, Wot!

Get out the red underwear mother!

The temperature in Peterborough skidded almost 30 degrees in 12 hours from Thursday noon when it was 77 degrees to midnight when it hit 48.

American tourists who come to Canada expecting the worst from "ice-bound" Canada, very nearly got it. One part of southern Ontario had frost.

Despite a bright sun today, the temperature climbed no higher than 59 degrees by noon today. At 99 a.m. this morning, it was a chilly 54 and there wasn't a shirt sleeve to be seen downtown.

But everyone can relax; the weather man promises it will be sunny and warmer tomorrow.

Police Arrest Hugh Imming In Toronto

Hugh F. Imming, 30, wanted as an accessory after the fact in the $100,000 swindle of a Toronto finance company, was arrested Thursday night in Toronto.

He will be brought to Peterborough today. Imming was also sought by Toronto police in connection with the minor fraud of a Toronto auto dealer.

Imming has been living in Toronto under an alias since last October when the Colonial Finance Company's Peterborough office was hoodwinked by two persons posing as used car dealers.

Complete Roundup

Early in March, Aubrey S. Hancock was picked up in Vancouver and was sentenced in May to three years after he pleaded guilty to 25 charges involving forgery and false pretences.

In June, Paul Imming, 26, brother of Hugh, was arrested, and his case has not come to trial yet.

Police said Imming and Hancock forged agreements for sale and fictitious loan applications which were sent to the finance company. Loans were sent out, and monthly payments kept up for some time, but suddenly stopped.

Fined $25 On Charge Of Dangerous Driving

Pleading guilty to a charge of dangerous driving, Thomas H. Rowe of Apsley, was today fined $25 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope.

A charge of careless driving against Rowe was withdrawn when the crown offered no evidence.

Provincial Constable Bert Howden testified on July 2, he found a dump truck in a ditch near Apsley, and a car not far from it. He said the car had been parked on the east side of the road, off the travelled part of the highway.

The car was knocked 60 feet by the impact into the ditch. "Accused had been drinking," the officer said.

Rowe offered no defence. The officer said about $500 damage was done to the two vehicles.

Seek Traffic Lights At 3 Intersections

Acting on the advice of Chief Constable John Thompson, the police commission Thursday passed a motion to ask the city council to put up traffic lights at three intersections in the city.

The corner affected are Hunter and Aylmer streets, Monaghan Road and Charlotte St., and Park and Romaine streets.

It was pointed out that a traffic survey had advised putting blinker lights at some of these corners, but Mayor Max J. Swanston said "We've found blinkers don't do any good".

"Drivers seem to go faster when they see a blinker", the mayor said "They figure the other fellow is going to stop".

Tools To Open Safe Stolen From CNR Shed; Sledge Hammer Cracks Door

A rumour around the village of Lakefield early today that the C.N.R. tool shed had been broken into and equipment taken, sent Constable Garnet Samis looking for trouble. He found it at 6 a.m. in the office of the W. J. Charlton Feed and Fuel Company. Forcing entry into the building and cutting the telephone cable, burglars moved a large safe eight feet from the wall to the centre of the floor, threw it on its back and broke through the doors with sledge hammers.

Manager Kenneth Morris was advised and upon preliminary examination with Constable Samis, estimated that about $1,100 in cheques and $600 in cash was taken. Petty cash silver in a separate cash box was also stolen, besides a .32 automatic pistol.

Another box containing a small amount of money, service club collections, was overlooked as well as an electric razor.

The burglars' technique, according to Investigation Officer Sgt. William Aggis of Peterborough Police force who searched the premises for fingerprints, was the same as that used in two or three recent burglaries in Peterborough. A corner of the safe door was pounded until the metal curved to allow a pinch bar an opening to pry rivets from the outer and inner doors.

Drunk Goes Back Home To Jail

Home is where the heart is—and John Cahill's heart must hang around the county jail.

On Wednesday, he was released from county jail after three months spent there after a third offence drunk conviction.

On Thursday, John went somewhere and bought a bottle of wine, got orry-eyed and went to sit on the courthouse steps. He was arrested.

Today, John appeared in police court, charged with being drunk, and being a third offender. He admitted the previous convictions before Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope, and was sentenced to three months in county jail.

John was back home.

Wounded Collins Charged With Mischief

A charge of public mischief has been laid against George (Bud) Collins, who lives on Highway 28 north of the city.

Collins told police June 16 that about 25 or 30 shots had been fired at him by persons unknown. He had a .22 calibre bullet in his left forearm.

Collins flagged a passing motorist the night of June 15 and told him "they fired about 25 or 30 shots at me in the bush."

Police are now inclined to believe the 25 or 30 shots were not fired. Collins, who has a small gold deposit near Apsley, had his case adjourned to September 14 by Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

Pair, Aged 100, 10 In House On Fire

HASTINGS, July 14—(ENS)—Fire broke out shortly before 10 this morning at the home of Patrick Fitzpatrick on the Campbellford road outskirts of Hastings. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick had gone to Peterborough, and the only occupants of the house at the time were a 100-year-old aunt, Mrs. Kitty Todd, and the young Fitzpatrick son, Pat, aged 10.

Hastings fire chief responded quickly to the alarm, and the fire was brought under control within 20 minutes. There was little damage other than heavy water damage.

Wool Season Described As Remarkable

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The wool marketing season which ended June 30 is described as "one of the most memorable in living memory."

The description is from the Wool Bureau, Inc. Says the Bureau:

The 1949-50 season will be remembered as one in which—contrary to expectations in some quarters—the world continued to use wool at a rate substantially in excess of the rate of current production.

This resulted in a further depletion of world stocks; an increased demand for crossbred wools—partly in substitution for merinos which proved none too plentiful—and an all-round increase in the wool price level. Some medium crossbred wools doubled in price compared with a year earlier, while merino qualities showed advanced ranging from 50 and 60 per cent.

The incidence of demand showed that a decline in call for Dominion wool by some countries was balanced by increased calls from other quarters; Germany and Japan being notable in the latter category, while the United States showed greatly revived interest in imported wool.

Normal Carryovers

The result of a well-sustained demand was that the Dominions (Australia, South Africa, New Zealand) were left with no more than normal carryovers, while the Joint Organization for orderly liquidation of the Dominion wartime wool surplus disposed of a further 1,200,000 bales, which reduced the total remaining stock of the organization to less than 500,000 bales. (It once amounted to some 10,000,000 bales.)

In the coming season, it is expected that the aggregate wool production of the three Dominions will be larger than last season to the extent of about 45,000,000 pounds (greasy basis), but this will be more than off-set by decreases in available supplies in other directions, and a recent official analysis estimated that the world's available supplies of apparel wool in the coming season will be 12½ per cent smaller than in the season just ended...

The statistical inference from a review of available data is that the world must use less wool in the year ahead than in the wool year just ended, if only visible supplies do not appear to be large enough to maintain—much longer—the recent heavy rate of world consumption.

South Koreans Kill Suspects

MacARTHUR'S ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, July 14 (Reuters)—Twelve hundred Communists and suspected Communists have been executed by South Korean police since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, Kim Taisoon, chief of the National South Korean police, said today.

Those executed were considered "bad security risks," he said.

Kim said the executions were carried out on his orders "in Seoul and other towns in the battle area."

The Communists, he said, had placed a price on his head and sent several assassins to "get" him. He said he had been advised that there was widespread slaughter among the families of police and government officials and South Korean army officers when the North Koreans occupied Seoul.

"But we shall return to Seoul within a month," he predicted.

Never Perform As Stooge For Hypnotist UK Advises

LONDON, July 14 (CP). — Next time somebody asks you to stooge for a hypnotist, don't do it.

That was the word in Britain today. Two separate organizations united in protests against feats of hypnosis performed at vaudeville theatres.

In Sheffield, an accident-prevention group said that stage performances sometimes have strange sequels.

One clerk who volunteered was told he would fall asleep on the stage when the orchestra played So Tired.

He did, but the catch was, Sheffield experts said, that next day one of his colleagues whistled the same tune. Presto—the clerk was off in another trance.

In London, the British Society of Medical Hypnotists presented a document to the Health Ministry. In it the society argued that persons hynotized in theatres have suffered "severe mental harm."

The society, whose members are all qualified doctors, warned of a double danger—persons in the audience may be affected as well as those on the stage.

Two cases of persons who had to take treatment after attending performances are described in the current issue of the British Journal of Medical Hypnotism.

In one case, a girl who was made to cry on the stage subsequently suffered long bouts of deep depression and weeping. The second case described a girl who suffered nervous trouble two weeks after attending but not actively participating in, a hypnotic performance.

A Ministry of Health spokesman, without placing the ministry's views on record, said the matter didn't seem of sufficient importance to warrant an act of parliament.

Toronto Centre Of Bill Racket

TORONTO, July 14 — (CP) — A Toronto paper says today that counterfeit United States money is being sold on Jarvis Street, regarded as one of the city's wickedest streets.

In a newspage story, the paper says that $100 in bogus U.S. money can be bought for $70 Canadian. The story adds the bogus bills are easy to recognize. "... Almost every panhandler, beggar, prostitute or drunk knows where sums of the phony money are available," the paper says, "and they will sell it to you for a price."

Biggest buyers, it went on, were persons planning on visiting the U.S. "who would rather risk passing bogus money than pay the regular rate of exchange. For that reason few of the phony bills are found in Toronto."

Leopold's Relative Faces Prison Term

GHENT, Belgium, July 14 (AP) —The state Thursday demanded a prison sentence of one year for Walter Baels, 40, brother-in-law of exiled King Leopold, for failure to join the Belgian free armed forces during the Second World War.

Baels, arrested last week when he returned to Belgium for the funeral of his mother, was sentenced in absentia in 1946 to three years for fleeing from the army call-up.

Thursday the court waived that sentence and deferred until today the question of a further sentence.

A 'Hot' Spot

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., July 14 (CP)—Ever hear of the Hellfire Pass and Whizbang Railroad? That's what troops at Wainwright's big summer army camp call Canada's newest—and most dangerous—railroad. The railroad is smack in the middle of the Wainwright tank-firing range. The sole piece of rolling stock carries a tank-shaped target which will be hammered to pieces by 75-millimeter Sherman tank guns.

Have Hard Luck

VICTORIA, B. C., July 14 (CP) —Troubles come in bunches for Mr. and Mrs. C. A. M. Hunter of Victoria. Their home was entered early Wednesday and a fire, believed caused by a cigaret left by the intruder, caused $1,500 damage. The Hunters were not at home, however. Within a few hours of the fire, they were aboard the liner Franconia—hard aground in the St. Lawrence river.

Summer Theatre Next Week Stars Kate Reid

The Peterborough Summer Theatre next week will run For Love or Money, a comedy by F. Hugh Herbert, the playwright who scored his best-known success in Kiss and Tell.

Starring in For Love or Money will be Dream Girl Kate Reid who chalked up a personal triumph last week. She will play a naive pretty 20-year-old who turns up on stormy night in the apartment of Preston Mitchell played by Don Glenn.

Mitchell is a broadway star in his early forties who has just become a widower. The star chooses an honorable course in his relations with the girl, but not so his unscrupulous young neighbour played by Richard Neilson.

The plot is further complicated by the actor's leading lady, (Anna Cameron) and the members of the young neighbour's family (Clarine Jackman and Michael Sadlier.

Miss Cameron is by now well known to Peterborough audiences and in For Love or Money she will be playing a part similar to her success in The Voice of the Turtle.

The presentation is being directed by Mr. Sadlier, the company's producer-director.

Truman Raps Food Hoarding; No Rationing

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) —President Truman Thursday called for calm on the home front, saying food rationing will not be necessary and hoarding is foolish.

He told his press conference price jumps can be blamed at least partly on profiteering.

The President was asked whether he plans shortly to send to Congress a request for authority to mobilize industry for war production and invoke controls over prices, wages, materials and manpower, as in the Second World War.

Everything that relates to the emergency is under consideration, the President replied.

Delinquents Try Citizenship Essay

MONTREAL (CP) — Juvenile delinquents have some definite ideas on citizenship, much to the satisfaction of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The Mounties' youth and police branch here sponsored an essay contest on citizenship. Here's what the prize-winner, a youth at the Shawbridge, Que., Boys' Farm and Training Institution had to say:

"The true citizen is the guy you can count on to help you if you are in a jam. The man will say 'sure, son, you come to me for help and I'll do my best for you."

". . . The juvenile court judge who will talk to you, not as a criminal, but as a son or nephew. He makes you feel like someone.

"You go home feeling like starting all over again.

"The hoodlums of today can be some of the best citizens of tomorrow . . . us young people will have to pave the way for the generations to come."

This attitude, police said, comes from long hours of friendship-winning efforts with concentration on crime prevention and direction of youth.

MacArthur Accepts United Nations Flag

TOKYO, July 14. — (AP).— Gen. MacArthur today accepted the flag of the United Nations and said his command would "do all in its power to uphold this noble ideal."

The flag—a white globe surrounded by laurel branches on a blue field—is the "symbol of one of the greatest efforts man has made to free himself," MacArthur said. He is U.N. commander for the Korean war as well as U.S. commander-in-chief of the Allied occupation of Japan.

The flag was presented by Gen. Joseph Lawton Collins, United States army chief of staff, in a brief ceremony at supreme Allied headquarters.

The three-by-five-foot standard is the same one that flew over the Palestine headquarters of the late Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator in the Holy Land dispute, a U.N. official said.

Crowds Flock To Home Of Shakespeare

By CHARLES E. WHITING

STRATFORD ON AVON, England —(AP)— Shakespeare's home town is bustling again with pilgrims and players.

The bard's birthplace is enjoying its biggest year ever as the premier shrine of the theatre.

By train and plane, bus and car, thousands of visitors arrive weekly at this ancient, sun-drenched town on the banks of the gently-flowing Avon.

They walk reverently and softly throught Shakespeare's early home and sign their names in the visitors' book. They inspect the Shakespeare museum and gaze at other mementoes of the poet's life here. Then they head for the memorial theatre.

This large, graceful, red brick building with balconies overhanging the river appears incongruous at first in its setting of deliberately-preserved antiquity.

But once inside the visitors sink into roomy, comfortable seats and forget their surroundings in worship of the magic of Shakespeare's stagecraft.

Tasty Menu

The menu is a tasty one for Shakespeare lovers.

Four favorites are in production by the Memorial Theatre Company — "Measure for Measure," "King Henry VIII," "Julius Caesar", and "Much ado About Nothing.' A fifth, "King Lear," opened early in July

These are presented more or less in rotation so that a visitor usually can manage to see them all within a week's stay.

The cast is studded with famous names of the modern-day theatre.

John Gielgud in his first season at Stratford has won lavish critical praise for his production of "Much Ado," in which he plays Benedict t lovely Peggy Ashcroft's Beatrice.

He told an interviewer it represents "the high water mark of my career."

The 46-year-old actor, who won international acclaim in the title role of Hamlet, and his co-players have been hailed by British critics as "our finest Shakespearians."

Deer Trample Crops On Farm Near Marmora Half-a-Dozen Seen Cavorting At One Time

MARMORA, July 14 (ENS) — Five or more deer have been showing a partiality for the farm fields of Harry Neal, south of the village. In the early part of this week he saw two does, two fawns and a buck at one time On a closer inspection of the field, he saw much trampled hay, suggesting that the deer had spent considerable time there. In one place, the hay was almost completely flattened down as though two buck in staging a fight had rolled over a number of times.

An area south of No. 7 highway in which Mr. Neal's farm is situated has been set aside as a sanctuary for deer. They may not be hunted or shot there at any time of the year. It would appear that the deer are becoming safety-conscious and gradually drifting into protected areas. While it is generally pleasing to have deer in a locality, farmers are not excitingly happy to have their crops trampled.

Scottish Streams Robbed of Salmon, Trout Frequently

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Organized commercial gangs, employing commando tactics in raiding the famed salmon and trout rivers of Scotland, have aroused the government to action.

Charges in the House of Lords that poachers were using explosives, poison and electrical devices to extract rich catches from well-stocked streams, brought prompt assurance from T. Fraser, under-secretary of state for Scotland, that new legislation would be introduced to meet the situation.

Under the existing law, poachers are liable to a maximum fine of £10 ($31) or the equivalent of the price they get for a couple of good-size salmon.

Mr. Fraser told a questioner in the House of Commons, that the government would base its new legislation on recommendations made by a special committee of inquiry. Its major proposals call for a sharp increase in penalties, confiscation of motor vehicles and nets, widened rights of search and a provision compelling dealers in salmon and trout to keep records of their purchases.

Attacking the new type of poaching as a "disgraceful, growing evil," Lord Strabolgi, a Labor peer, told the upper house that the technique had developed since the war. It was being practiced, he said, by gangs of "unscrupulous, well-to-do people without morals." They came in their cars from the big cities to denude whole stretches of water.

Must Stop Racket

Lord Balfour of Inchrye said the entire brotherhood of anglers was agreed somethirg should be done immediately to stop the racket.

"What we are up against is nothing less than commando raids on the rivers of Britain," he said.

The method followed by the modern type of poacher was to send a confederate on an early morning reconnaisance, fishing legitimately with a rod. His job was to find where the fish were running. Then a raid was staged under the cover of darkness, when men came out in fast cars —pretty desperate at times— carrying explosives and chemicals. For the small risk taken, the profits were enormous, Lord Balfour said.

He told of one experience where the poachers took £953 worth of fish in one night. The poachers, he said, were caught but got off wit a fine of £15. The regrettable fact was that the damage had not been confined to the fish taken. All fish live in the river had been destroyed for five or six years by the indiscriminate poisoning of the water.

Children's Eyes Reflect Terror of Malayan War

By LIONEL HUDSON.

SINGAPORE, (Reuters).—Two and a quarter million bewildered Chinese, Indian and Malay children are in the thick of the shooting war being fought in Malaya between British forces and Communist guerrillas.

Few have been hurt; but their bright eyes often show just how much they are aware of the terror that is in the air.

I saw thousands of these youngsters working in the slushy rice fields, standing in the doorways of trim huts in the jungle-fringed villages, and playing in the market towns in Pahang, Selangor, Negri, Sembilan and Kedah.

The convoy of armored cars and trucks with which I rode created little interest among them. They have seen armed men and women come and go through Malay States' towns for as long as they can remember.

They know the difference between bombs and thunder, automatic fire and the back-firing of a motorcycle.

They did not wave as we sped past. They did not ask for cigarets when we stopped.

Ignore Events

In Malaya these days, Asian parents teach their offspring to close their eyes to what is going on around them. It is safer not to know.

British intelligence sources say many schoolboys know more about the movements of guerrilla gangs in their districts than the police themselves. They are allowed to keep their secrets because British authorities prefer not to deal with children.

Held In Custody

However, some youngsters actively aiding the guerrilias have been held in custody. Schoolboys have been caught acting as couriers and food suppliers for terrorist bands. On some occasions, satchels carried by Chinese youngsters headed for school have been found stuffed wit Communist pamphlets.

Emergency regulations recently were amended to provide that boys and girls of less than 17 may be detained in custody at advanced approved schools instead of in detention camps.

One intelligence officer said a number of children of Malayan Communists attend government and private Chinese schools in the hinterland and the towns.

Family Ties Strong

The parents of some have taken to the jungle. Others only see their fathers at night when it is comparatively safe for them to leave jungle fastnesses. Family ties are strong among the Chinese, one officer said and the government social welfare centres are only occasionally told of children abandoned by their terrorist fathers.

Children have been killed in terrorist hand-grenade attacks; but the killers usually spare the younger members of the families even if they deprive them of both parents with one burst of fire.

One instance was reported to British authorities of terrorists throwing several children into a burning house. A number of Sakai aboriginal children were strangeld, too by one guerrilla band which was responsible for a massacre some months ago.

Severe Manpower Shortage Facing Britain's Coal Mines

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON — (CP) — Britain's coal-mining industry which 20 years ago tottered on the brink of collapse, with thousands of miners unemployed and on the dole, is confronted with a new problem. This time it is a manpower shortage particularly in the newly-developed areas, with a possible threat to long-range domestic and export production targets.

Since nationalization in 1947, the industry has recovered sharply from the depression depths of the '30s. Technical improvements at the collieries and introduction of high-powered, modern mechanical equipment in the pits combined to boost per manshift output in 1949. But production has not risen at the rate expected and is still only a fraction above the output of 1936.

Latest statistics show the country's stockpile at slightly above 10,500,000 tons, or about 5,000,000 tons below the estimated safety margin. Meanwhile, production figures have reflected a recurring decline within recent weeks.

Other Lures

The lure of other industries, where working conditions are more congenial and the pay higher, is held mainly responsible for the manpower drift. By the end of June this year the total number of working miners had declined to 699,000. This compares with a weekly average of 736,900 in March last year, the peak strength attained following the fuel crisis of 1947.

The most serious drain has occurred in the Scottish mining areas where an average monthly loss of 1,000 men has been reported since the beginning of the year.

But the story is much the same in South Wales, the West Midlands, Manchester and Yorkshire.

Young Men Quit

What is causing the gravest concern, however, to officials of the National Coal Board—the controlling authority—is the persistent defection of young men between the ages of 18 and 26, the men most needed to further the long-range program of reorganization.

In 1931 the younger age group represented about 31 per cent of the total force laboring in the country's mines. Today they have dwindled to around 18.6 per cent.

Furthermore, many of the older, more experienced workers have joined the migration to other industries.

As one miner put it: "With me its been years of grovelling in dust-laden pits, groping through the dark and stifling heat. I feel I've done enough down there. I want a rest. Anyway, the missus earns as much as me in the mill and she starts clean and comes home clean."

Major Handicap

The wages question has been a major handicap. At present the national minimum rate is £5 ($15.50) a week for surface workers and £5 15s. for those employed underground. But an increase of 15 shillings a week is being sought for the lower paid categories.

At a recent miners' rally, P. J. Noel-Baker, Minister of Fuel and Power, said "If we could get another 10 per cent output per manshift, it would give us 10,000,000 more tons of coal this year. The men who won it would render an immense service to themselves, to the nation, to Europe and the world."

Co-Operative Leader 40 Years Keen Sees Great Opportunities

BRANTFORD (CP) — George Keen, for 40 years a leading figure in the Canadian Co-operative movement, is confident that further opportunities lie ahead of this country's co-operative groups.

"The rapidly-growing co-operative movement across Canada is destined to become an important factor in the national economy," says the silvery-haired man with white mustache and pointed beard, who retired as editor of the Canadian Co-operator in January, 1947.

In a recently-published phamphlet, "The Birth of a Movement," Mr. Keen, now 81, traces the development of the Co-operative Union of Canada from its founding at a meeting in Hamilton in March, 1909, and the start of publication, a few months later, of the Canadian Co-operator as the group's organ of expression. From the east, the Consumers' Co-operative movement spread to Western Canada where, Mr. Keen says, it has made its greatest progress.

Mr. Keen, for 37 years general secretary and treasurer of the Co-operative Union of Canada, sees in the co-operative idea the possible solution to the problem of achieving international peace.

Fosters Understandings

"The only possible philosophy which can develop world confidence and dispose all peoples to solve their problems by mutual understanding and mutual effort, with an equality of right, is that of co-operation," he writes. "It is a condition precedent to the establishment permanently of world peace and understanding that co-operative shall replace competitive habits of mind."

As an official of the Co-operative Union of Canada, Mr. Keen extended help and encouragement to the co-operative movement centred on St. Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, N.S.

In a tribute at the time of Mr. Keen's retirement as editor of the Canadian Co-operator, the Rt. Rev. M. M. Coady, director of the university's extension department, wrote:

"The name of George Keen will loom large in the future history that records the social evolution of Canada. He came to us as a stranger; he brought us a new technique and gave us a new philosophy of life. He spread it solidly from coast to coast. We in Eastern Canada know what he did. He was the guide and inspiration of the British Canadian Co-operative Society (at Sydney Mines, N.S.), the persistent success of which has inspired all co-operators on this continent. He was an active participator in the Antigonish movement and one of the great teachers in the old days when we needed friends."

Separates Make "As You Like It" Fall Wardrobe

By DOROTHY ROE.

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP).—The Carnegie look for fall will be "as you like it."

Designer Hattie Carnegie, previewing her wholesale collection for the benefit of visiting fashion editors, accents separates for every hours of the day, advising quick changes through switching blouses, skirts, belts and boleros, and calls the whole idea "as you like it."

Notable in the group are evening separates, such as a black lace, hip-hugging skirt ankle length in front and dipping to the floor in back. With it is worn a sleeveless blouse of black lace and pale-blue satin, which may be exchanged for a variety of more or less formal tops.

Another in the series has a black faille skirt and pink faille top, for afternoon wear. The idea is practically limitless, explains the dynamic Miss Carnegie—and there's no reason at all why the idea of separate skirts and blouses has to be confined to peasant cottons.

Other versatile ideas are Miss Carnegie's "day-and-night" suits such as a smooth, softly-tailored model in grey wool, its double peplum buttoned all the way round with rhinestone buttons — that's for wear after five. For street and business wear, the jeweled buttons are unbuttoned and disappear beneath the buttonholes, making the suit just the kind of sleek, tailored outfit the well-dressed girl wears to the office.

The disappearing button trick also is used on a black Russian broadtail coat which looks trim and unadorned for daytime, converts to an evening coat by buttoning the big sleeves back to the shoulder with jeweled buttons which up to now have nestled invisibly in small slots.

The Carnegie suit silhouette stresses the nipped waist and rounded hipline, accents the natural curves of the figure.

Advice To Parents Re "Sitters" Get Older Women

MONTREAL, July 14 (CP).—The Canadian Home Economics Association, which has been studying the baby-sitting situation across Canada, today called for less sitting time and more training for the teen-agers who look after children.

The association, holding its annual convention here, also had a word for parents. It told them to seek older women through community organizations, leave written instructions with sitters and don't let girl sitters go home alone after dark.

The association based its recommendations on results of questionnaires sent parents in 60 cities and to 6,000 students in Grades 5, to 13 in nine provinces.

Some of the facts the association gleaned:

1. The age range of sitters is 11-19 years.
2. Students spend one to 40 hours weekly sitting.
3. From 22 to 50 per cent of girl sitters are allowed to go home alone after dark.
4. Only one-third of parents leave instructions with sitter.
5. An average of 40 per cent leave only a phone number.
6. Some parents turn off the heat and the house gets cold.
7. Some parents do not lock the doors when they leave.

The association decided that children under 14 year should not be employed as sitters and one night a week is enough for the student.

The last recommendation was that courses in child development which include guidance for the baby sitter, should be given in all schools and colleges of home economics.

Newest "Look" By Dior Is Like Guitar

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP).—Next fall it will be the "guitar look."

So says Christian Dior, Parisian designer who invented the "new look" a few years ago, and has been trying to live it down ever since.

It was Dior, also, who is credited with starting a short-lived trend toward the flat-chested sack silhouette of the flapper era. But this season he has changed his mind.

His new American collection, previewed for the benefit of visiting fashion editors from all over the continent, has no hint of the boyish flapper look. Instead, it's the "guitar look"—small in the middle, bulging above and below.

Both bosoms and hips are accentuated in the current Dior collection, with waistlines squeezed into as small a circumference as possible. Hiplines once more are padded and bodices are cut with curving finesse. Skirts, of course, are pencil slim, like the handle of the guitar, but are deeply slit both front and back in order to make it possible for the wearer to walk.

Lapel interest, intricate drapery, pockets and darts are employed to dramatize the bustline, while padded and stiffened peplums do the same service for the hipline.

Dior also achieves high drama with huge muffs, some as big as a sofa pillow, shown with all cloth coats, which usually are lined in a brilliant contrasting color taffeta.

Another coat trick is the half-belt at the hipline in the back of a straight, loose greatcoat in charcoal grey, worn with a beaver stole and muff.

Peterborough has changed a great deal in the last 66 years, but it is a very beautiful city," remarked Mrs. Jennie Steindorf, who now lives in Pasadena, California.

Mrs. Steindorf, who is 75, was born in this city and lived here until she was nine years of age. She and her three daughters, Dr. Elinor Steindorf, Pasadena, California; Margaret Steindorf, Dayton, Ohio and Mrs. R. R. Renner, Cleveland, Ohio, spent Thursday and Friday in Peterborough.

Mrs. Steindorf, the former Jenny Trout lived on Murray St., in the house east of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. She attended the old West Ward School on Park St. Her father, William H. Trout was a draftsman at the William Hamilton foundry.

McNevan-Wood

A quiet wedding solemnized in the parsonage of Keene United Church Saturday by the Rev. H. B. Herington was of Thelma Arleto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wood, and Douglas James, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McNevan, all of Keene.

Gowned in white slipper satin and wearing a fingertip veil of embroidered net caught to a tiara of pearls carrying red roses and carnations, the bride was attended by Mrs. Clifford Wood who wore pale mauve taffeta with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of sweet peas and roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Glenn McNevan.

A reception followed at the bride's home. When leaving on a motor trip the bride wore a pale pink sheer dress with white accessories. The couple will live on a farm near Keene.

British Women Don't Want To Follow American Trend

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON (CP).—A report portraying the American woman as "pace-maker" in family life landed on British ears with all the impact of a powder puff on a soft, feminine cheek.

Nobody batted an eyelid. Women here, it seems, don't want to emulate the high-pressure antics of their trans-Atlantic sisters. The English lass is a tamer bird than her fine feathered friend in the United States, and she likes it that way.

The comparison arose out of a productivity report by a British engineering team. Eleven engineers, all men, toured American industrial plants and came back with a breathless picture of "ruthless" efficiency.

One reason for soaring American production, the Britons told in effect, is the glossy, gadget-loving American wife. Modern, thrusting and aggressive, she goads her husband into working harder to produce more goods, so he can earn more money, so she can buy more gadgets.

Silent On Report

British newspapers received the report in stolid silence. The only reaction came from the Daily Mirror, which said the general idea is that the American woman wants to work as little as possible while her husband works as hard as possible.

Columnist James Carter, a bachelor, noted that there are only 2,000,000 widowers in the United States, compared with 6,000,000 women in widow's weeds. He blamed the husband's shorter life expectancy on such things as instalment buying and ulcers. "Thanks," he said "but I'll stay single."

The British View

Research by The Canadian Press indicated Britons generally agree that the American male is a henpecked husband who puts his little woman on a pedestal, whereas the English gentleman is less gentle; that the English wife usually thinks first of her husband and then of herself; and that if being less acquisitive means a little less industrial, well, that's too bad.

Persons interviewed echoed North American columnists like Leland Stowe and Toronto's Morley Callaghan, who have written magazine articles assailing the American woman as restless, selfish and generally inferior to her British and continental counterpart.

The Italian woman, for instance calls her man "Mio Ombro," implying that she lives in his shadow.

Edith McKenna, London fashion editor, summed up the difference in the species this way:

"The English woman likes her man because he is her man; the American woman likes her man for what he can get for her."

Emily Hahn, American writer who now lives in Britain, agreed that the keeping up with the Japanese seems less pronounced here than at home.

Thrifty English

"I'm afraid we American women use too many things once and then throw them away," she said. "The English women are more thrifty, less spoiled, work harder and I admire them for it."

These were some other comments:

Joseph Brayshaw, general secretary of Britain's marriage guidance council: "Ten years of rationing have made us think

Trial Separation Advised When Tired of Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young married man 25 years of age. Have been married only two years and find that I have made the mistake of my life, for I am not in love with my wife and she is not in love with me, but we lack the courage to tell each other. She married me to get out an unpleasant home. Although my wife does not care for me, she is one of the possessive women who deprive their husbands of all liberty. She will not leave me alone long enough to go from one room to another. She has no friends of her own and doesn't like for mine to come to see us. Every time I put on my hat to walk downtown she tags along behind me. She doesn't realize that a man wants to be to himself sometimes or to be with some of his men friends.

Dorothy Dix

I am bored to death. I am so worn out looking at her every minute of the day and night that I feel as if I could scream. When we go home from work we have nothing to do but stare at each other, night after night, week after week, month after month, and I am so tired of it and not seeing any of my friends that I sometimes think I will go crazy. What can I do?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The obvious thing for you to do is just to have a showdown with your wife. Tell her frankly how you feel about it and suggest an amicable separation. If she does not love you she may be as glad to part from you as you will be to leave her. Certainly I can see no morality in two persons living together in an enforced companionship in which they are both miserable and which brings out all that is worst in their natures.

Don't Get Divorce

But don't get a divorce until you have tried at least a year's separation, because very often a couple who think that they have fallen out of love with each other are merely fed up with too much of each other. Many couples who cannot get along together find out when they are separated that they cannot get along without each other. If every disgruntled husband and wife had to go through a year's separation before they applied for a divorce, there would be mighty few wrecked homes. As soon as the estranged husband and wife had had time to really miss each other they would kiss and make up.

But any wife who keeps her husband tied to her apron strings and who cuts him off from his old friends and amusements is simply asking for trouble. She hasn't the intelligence that God promised a fishing worm, or else she would know that no man can stand overdoses of his wife's society any more than he could eat thirty quail in thirty days.

The wise wife varies the menu by bringing in his friends and surrounding him with interesting people and making home gay and cheerful. And she never tags him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We recently had a discussion on the meaning of the word "lady." Must a lady be born a lady? Who are ladies? What is the difference between being a woman and a lady? What is the generally accepted meaning of lady? AN INQUIRER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Officialy the word "lady" is a title applied to certain members of the British aristocracy. But you mean it in a different sense, and I think the best definition of an American lady that I have ever heard was that given by Charles Dana Gibson, who said of an elderly woman: "She never had her face lifted nor lowered her standards." By which, of course, he meant that she was never carried away by the fads of the moment, nor unduly concerned by what people thought of her.

My idea of a lady is a woman who has all of the standard virtues and then some extra graces thrown in for good measure. She is never loud, nor coarse, nor vulgar in manners or speech. She can discuss things without getting angry. She doesn't use profanity nor tell smutty stories. She is a little more polite to her inferiors than she is to her equals, for they cannot talk back to her.

I have known many women in high places and worth millions who were not ladies and I have known many washwomen and women in almhouses who were ladies.

DEAR MISS DIX: What is meant by calling a woman a "clinging vine"? DAVID

ANSWER: A clinging-vine woman is one of the helpless sort who can't stand on her own feet and who has no stamina nor backbone. She is the kind of woman who is too shiftless and lazy to work and who makes some man support her. She is often pretty and attractive and appeals to a chivalrous man by her helplessness, but she generally ends, as the vine does, by chocking him to death.

Coats Run the Gamut

Their Trend for Fall: Variety

THE COAT STORY FOR FALL is told in terms of great style variety. The all-important great coat is done by Philip Mangone in smoky yellow and gray wool plaid. Collar and cuffs are highlighted by self-fringe. The coat has sweeping lines, huge patch pockets. A fitted town coat from Brigance is curry yellow deep-piled duvetyn, double-breasted, with shawl collar and very full skirt.

Style Variety In Fall Coats

By GAILE DUGAS.

NEW YORK — (NEA). — This fall, women will find truly new fashion and great style variety in coats. They are fitted, wrapped, or flared. They are narrow, full, or semi-full. They are short, medium and long, or so short as to be mere jackets.

They are, furthermore, tailored in tweed, in plaid, in cheviot, in fake fur, in fleece, in almost any wool fabric you can name. They come with and without fur trim. Their color is bright and it is also subdued.

Typifying the handsome fitted town coat is one by Brigance in curry yellow deep-piled duvetyn. This coat is double-breasted with a fairly deep shawl collar and a very full skirt which falls into unpressed pleats. The waist is shaped in exactly the same hourglass silhouette used for suits. The lining is crisp black taffeta.

Representing the important great coat, shown in all fall collections, is a virgin wool plaid in smoky yellow and grey by Philip Mangone. The lines are sweeping and details few but dramatic. The large cuffs are given six rows of self-fringe and the collar has three. The only other details are huge patch pockets and a single large button.

Suggest Small Sand Box To Keep Children Amused

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP)— If junior has enough to play with, mother should have no trouble keeping him in his own backyard—and safely off the street.

Nor by playthings do we mean expensive toys.

Any child psychologist will tell you a youngster can get more fun out of a few boxes and board or two than the most glamorous toy on the market.

The Canadian Welfare Council's Recreation Division has collected some ideas about playthings which should catch a young child's fancy.

And it doesn't take a building expert to make them.

A sand-box provides the child with most of his small play. Four boards do the trick, solidly nailed together, with two more seats at either end.

Watch For Slivers

The box should be at least three by four feet in size and the builder should make certain that the wood is smooth and that no nails or slivers are exposed.

There should be more than just sand in it. Mother could very well donate a few of her plastic kitchen utensils to the cause. Funnels, moulds or scoops will do. Wooden spoon also are good because they have no sharp edges or corners.

Swings also have a high rating among members of the teddy-bear brigade.

Council officials say there are several kinds which can be built with little or no expense.

For Small Children

A three-rope swing is recommended for small children.

The council experts describe this as like the seat of a kiddie-car, handlebar and all, suspended from two ropes in front and one behind. The child can sit on it and make it go with his feet on the ground.

The difficulty with this kind of swing is finding suitable attachments for the ropes at the top. They must be just the same distance apart at he top as they are at the bottom and the supports must be secure.

The simplest swing is made by attaching a stout rope to a tree-limb and tying an inflated inner tube to the other end—just missing ground when the child is on it.

Watch Disease

The health department warns summer swimmers to take special care to avoid disease—particularly those who can't dive.

Water forced into the nostrils during a "feet first" jump not only stings unpleasantly but may carry dirt and germs to the tender surfaces of the nose, throat and sinuses.

Diving is a far smoother and more graceful way of entering the water. But if you can't dive at least hold your nose while taking the plunge.

FIRST WOMAN MP

Viscountess Astor was the first woman to take a seat in the British House of Commons as a result of a by-election Nov. 15, 1919.

SUGAR-CURED

Canadian meat packers use nearly 2,000 tons of sugar annually to cure meats.

BEST MAHOGANY

The export of mahogany has been the principal industry of British Honduras for more than two centuries.

Canadian Skater Charms Critics

LONDON, July 14 — (CP) — British newspapers today called Barbara Ann Scott a "sugar-plum fairy" and "the best rose of summer."

Critics ranged from wildly approving to lyrically enthusiastic in their reviews of the opening performance of "Rose Marie on Ice," starring Ottawa's Barbara Ann and Toronto's Michael Kirby.

Some sample comments:

Daily Graphic: 'Barbara Ann skates like an angel but does not do nearly enough."

Yorkshire Post: "A skating spectacle which would be hard to equal.."

News Chronicle: " . . . Skates like a snowflake."

Daily Herald: "A prodigal productiton of movement, lighting, color and skill."

Daily Express: "Resembles a sugar-plum fairy . . . (in) this first musical on ice."

Daily Mail: "Barbara Ann won everybody's heart . . . the best rose of summer."

The show may our Canada and the United States after a two-month run here.

Author Says Mind Never Fully Used

VANCOUVER (CP). — Petite Sheila Mackay Russell, author of "A Lamp is Heavy," thinks people don't use the mind to a fraction of its capacity.

Interviewed here, where she attended the Canadian Nurses Association annual convention, the dark-eyed Edmonton author said she had found "training your mind is like training a muscle—the more you use it, the more you can do with it."

Once a nurse, Mrs. Russell was forced to give up her career because of illness. Her first book "A Lamp is Heavy," an account of a nurse's student days, was sold out six weeks after the first printing. But she said her best thrill was to discover that other nurses liked it.

Mrs. Russell wrote her first book in the evenings after putting in full days in the double role of assistant director of public health nursing and assistant director of health education for Alberta.

She hopes to finish her second book "The Living Earth," now in its first draft, later in the year.

Her advice to budding authors: "Live, think and write — but chiefly think."

PMs Wife Shocked By Her Position

PONTYPOOL, England, July 14 (AP)—Mrs. Clement Attlee says one of the worst shocks she ever suffered was when her husband became Britain's Prime Minister.

She told a girls' school meeting yesterday:

"You never know what you will get and it is better perhaps. I am sure I would not have liked it if I had been told I would be the wife of the Prime Minister. In fact, it is one of the worst shocks I have had in my life."

Grocer Held In Brutal Detroit Slaying

DETROIT, July 14. (AP)—The brutal slaying of a comely matron of Detroit's west side sent police on a search for clues in a deepening mystery today.

Mrs. Vivian Stanley, 37, clad only in a nightgown and a housecoat, was found dead shortly before noon Thursday in a weed patch two miles from her home.

The victim, wife of a scientist and mother of two children, had been garroted—with a rope or a chain, police said — and her neck was broken.

More Fantastic

Police headquarters put its top men to work on a case that had grown more fantastic by the hour in night-long inquiries.

A neighbor was held for questioning and the investigation turned in part to $5,000 which police said Mrs. Stanley had loaned him.

Homicide Inspector George Kimball identified the neighbor as Sam B. Sampson, 42, who he said also had borrowed $5,000 from a second woman to finance a grocery store. Sampson, held without charge, denied any knowledge of Mrs. Stanley's death. He said he was in the company of the other woman, Mrs. Ruth Rankin, at the time of the slaying. Police said Mrs. Rankin supported Sampson's statement.

Found Body

Mrs. Stanley, wife of Crawford T. Stanley, a Detroit metallurgist, was killed about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday. A chance passerby in an alley came upon her body Thursday.

in Canada with a son, 14, hast-

Her husband, on a fishing trip ened home overnight. There is one other child, a daughter, 7.

Police tried to get at the reason for Mrs. Stanley's departure from her Pinehurst Avenue home wearing only her blue nylon nightgown and light blue coat.

As the inquiry was pursued, police said, it developed also that Mrs. Stanley had hired private detectives to shadow Sampson, the grocer, subsequent to her loan to him of the $5,000.

Inspector Kimball said that Sampson appeared perturbed over this. Sampson said he long had been an acquaintance of the Stanleys and that he had given Mrs. Stanley small sums from time to time in repayment of his loan. He said he had paid back about $1,000.

ence for Jackson," Morton commented. "That is where he landed in the last war."

Morton then swung his attack on UE local heads.

"It is also time that the local leaders of the UE, began to assume their responsibilities, Tommy Davies, the president, George Wallace, the vice-president and others must no longer be allowed to hide behind their plea that they don't know what is going on.

Funds Aid Reds

"They are allowing the funds of General Electric workers to be used for Communist propoganda. They are supporting the Communist party by their support of Jackson and the UE.

"A man cannot serve two masters and members of the UE cannot support the Canadian government and the Communist party. If the local leaders of the UE are not supporting Russia, let them declare themselves. Let them broadcast over the weekly radio program whether they support the stand of the United Nations or the stand of Russia.

"The members of the UE must demand that their local leaders declare themselves. Wishy-washy excuses are not good enough. They are either Canadian or they are not."

Speaking to the CGE office workers executive, Tripp concentrated his attack on the Peace Congress which he charged was a "Communist from organization dedicated to prevent unity of the western democracies."

"I know what these peace fronts of the Commies really are," Tripp declared. "While I was in the navy, the same UE was active creating a peace organization solely for the purpose of preventing the Americans enter the war against Fascism. This was at a time when Hitler and Stalin were buddies."

Nipissing Area Iron Leases

TORONTO, July 14 (CP) — A large area of Lake Nipissing has been leased to Robert A. Jowsey of Toronto for exploration of iron mining prospects, an official of the Mines Department said today.

The area, leased for five years, includes islands in the centre of the lake, about twenty miles west of North Bay, where hematite boulders are similar to boulders found along the shore of Steep Rock Lake in Western Ontario.

Original discovery of the iron ore was made in 1854 when Alexander Murray, geologist, was sent by the geological survey of Canada to Iron Island.

Mines department officials said Jowsey's lease is renewable after five years. It covers an area four by six miles, or approximately 15,000 acres. Under the terms, the lessee must spend $24,000 each year on geological, geophysical or diamond-drilling work.

Mrs. Hilary Marquand, wife of Britain's pensions minister: "I lived several years in America and I found American women astonishingly alive and vital. Sometimes, though, I found myself thinking what mad, pleasure-seeking creatures they were."

Mrs. Katharine Cowan National Council of Women: "The standard of homemaking is much higher in the United States Canadians and Americans laugh at us when they see us down on our knees scrubbing floors, and it's true that we are a bit behind the times."

New Union Signs With Fannings First Contract

Local 1112, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL) has signed its first contract with Fanning's Launderers and Dry Cleaners after about two and a half months of negotiations.

The contract will terminate July 2, 1951.

Chief gains for the 46 union members are security and wages.

The hourly base rate has been boosted by five cents, effective July 3, for the eligible workers. Not included are foremen, those above the rank of foremen and office workers.

Union security is based on the Rand formula. That is, all employees in the bargaining unit must pay union dues but need not join the union.

(The compromise on the union shop was worked out by Mr. Justice I. C. Rand, arbitrator in the 1945 Ford strike at Windsor.)

The workers will be paid for four statutory holidays.

Agreement was also reached on vacations: one week's vacation after a year's service and two weeks after five years. The dry cleaning department will continue vacations with pay as in previous years.

Both parties to the agreement felt they have taken a forward step in keeping good relations by the setting up of a labor-management production commitee. The agreement calls for three members from both parties to form the commitee. Stanley J. Walton, industrial relations officer with the federal department of labor will assist in its formation.

The committee is scheduled to meet monthly to obtain maximum efficiency and production in the plant and the best possible working conditions.
